UNRAVEL WALL STREET BLAST MYSTERY NOW?

MAN HELD AT SCRANTON IDENTIFIED BY SEVERAL AS DRIVER OF THE "DEATH WAGON."

OFFICIALS IN DUOBT

WASHINGTON, April 21—(Canadian Press.)—A thorough investigation into the case of Tito Luigio, held at Scranton, Pa., on suspicion of complicity in the Wall street bomb explosion is being made by the Department of Justice, William J. Flynn, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation, said to-day. Luigio has been identified by several persons, Chief Flynn said, as the driver of the wagon on which the explosives were supposed to have been carried into Wall street, but the identification is not regarded as entirely satisfactory and a careful investigation is to be made.

A DANCE, AN UNINVITED GUEST, A BOTTLE—HEREBY HANGS A TALE WHICH LED INTO POLICE COURT

William Stevenson Havelock blacksmith, was tried by Magistrate O. A. Langley in Havelock on Tuesday afternoon on the charge of having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling-house.

Recently at a surprise party to a departing family in Asphodel Township, Stevenson, it is said, was the biggest surprise of the evening. The village blacksmith came without invitation, but it is said was plentifully laden with spirituous liquor. A boon companion came with him. A square dance was in progress, and the master of ceremonies was warming up to his work. Stevenson began to call off as well, and when efforts were made to stop him he resisted.

Stevenson's intervention threatened to end the happy gathering, and the company were prepared to leave when the blacksmith became quiet.

The dance proceeded without interruption for a time, but it is said that a man named O'Brien produced a bottle, and before the amazed onlookers, the care-free Stevenson drank the contents of the bottle, standing in the centre of the floor.

The combined strength of two or three men was required to eject Stevenson from the house.

The farmer and his brother testified in the Police Court yesterday that Stevenson had the liquor in the house, but a legal point arose between J. Wearing, representing License Inspector Stewart and J. O'Brien, defending Stevenson, as to whether another house was an unlawful place.

After the case had lasted four hours, Magistrate Langley reserved judgment for a week.

DRYS WAIT ON THE MINISTRY

CONSIDERED APPEALS

TORONTO, April 21. (Canadian Press.) A deputation of members of the Board of Control of the Ontario Referendum Committee, headed by Rev. Dr. Grant, are holding a conference with Premier Drury and members of the Cabinet at the Parliament buildings this morning.

It is stated that the deputation waited on the premier and his colleagues to discuss the legislation now before the Legislature regarding the appeal from a police magistrate for offences under the O. T. A. to a county judge. The deputation had a meeting prior to the Cabinet session and it is understood that the temperance forces are a little doubtful about the proposed changes.

TORONTO, April 21 (Canadian Press).—Later.—Premier Drury today promised the deputation of the Ontario Referendum Committee, he hit his way to first base and com- Ontario Government would do all in its power to secure immediate action and enforcement of the law against the importation which was decided by the people of Ontario at the polls on Monday last.

U.S. PREPARES FOR EMERGENCY

WAR STAFF, HEADED BY PERSHING, ORGANIZED AS PROTECTIVE MEASURE.

TO STUDY WAR PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, April 21. (Canadian Press.) The organization of a war staff, headed by General Pershing to take charge of the field operations of the arms of the United Staes in time of war, was announced to-day by Secretary of War Weeks.

"Instant preparation in time of peace for active miliary operation" was given by the secretary as the reason for the new organization.

The organization headed by General Pershing, will be entirely separate from the ofice of the chief of staff, Mr. Weeks said, which will continue to direct the administration of military establishment in time of peace.

General Pershing will have a skeletonized staff which will correspond to that at Chaumont during the war and which will concern itself entirely with the problems of strategy, tactics and war organization.

CONTRACTS OF $273,137 LET BY UTILITIES

LOWEST IN EACH CASE

The contracts for the construction of the water filtration plant, the 2,000,000 gallon filtered water reservoir and the installation of the powerful pumps have been let by the Utilities Commission after some delay in the negotiations.

The W. H. Yates Construction Company of Hamilton, have been given the contract for the construction of the mechanical gravity sand filtration plant at their tender price of $198,378.00. This was the lowest tender received after the qualifying clauses in the other tenders had all been eliminated.

The $65,800 tender of Ramsay and Wilde, of Sault Ste Marie for the construction of the large filtered water reservoir has been accepted, and that of the Escher-Wyss Company of Montreal ,at $8,950, plus sales tax for the pumps. The tenders accepted were in every case the lowest received.

The Three Ttnders.

The three tenders accepted total $273,137.00. The Utilities Commission will themselves lay the pipe lines. Tenders were called for the laying of the pipes, but it was decided that a saving could be effected by the commission doing the work.

The Tenders.

W. H. Yates Construction Company of Hamilton, $198,387, or on alternative plan $9,000 less.

J. A. Grant and Co., Montreal, $135,500, plus the price of Jewel filter equipment.

W. M. Sutherland Company, Toronto, $131,652, plus price of Jewel filter equipment, plus 7 per cent..

Russell Construction Company, Toronto, $243,343.

Tenders for the 2,000,000 gallon reservoir were as follows:

W. H. Yates Construction Company of Montreal, $100,237.

McAuslan and Anderson, North Bay, $101,000.

F. F. Fry Ltd., Dundas, $119,846.

John Carroll, Peterborough, $115,000.

J. H. Tromanhouser, Toronto, $86,000.

Ramsay and Wilde, Sault Ste. Marie, $65,800.

Atlas Construction Company, $98,110.

Ephgrave and Barrett, of Peterborough, $77,700.

J. A. Grant and Company, $95,100.

W. M. Sutherland Company, $69,713.

Anglin-Norcross Ltd., $98,000.

Archambault and Leclair, Ltd., $98,000.

Russell Construction Company, $97,779 (less $3,500 if awarded the filter plant contract as well.)

The Pumps.

The following tenders were received for the pumps:

Fraser and Chambers, Montreal, $12,180.

Bawden Machine Company, Toronto, $13,250.

Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Ltd., Toronto, $12,595.

Goldie and McCullough Company, Galt, $10,663, plus erection, freight and sales tax. (No deposit cheque enclosed.)

John Inglis Company, Toronto, $13,800.

Escher-Wyss Company, Montreal, $8,950, plus sales tax.

Arthur S. Leich Company, Toronto, $10,990.

John T. Farmer, Montreal, $13,700.

Turbine Equipment Company, Toronto, $11,650.

Laurie and Lamb, Montreal, $10,550.

Engineering Equipment Company, of Montreal, $9,000, plus $10 for each

Still Not Convinced Mystery Man Not the Missing Millionaire

MANY POINTS VAGUE

KINGSTON, Ont., April 21. — (Exclusive to The Examiner.) — Constable E. A. Tallon, of Verona, who arrested the man of mystery on Friday last, has yet to be convinced that the man is not Ambrose Small, the Toronto millionaire, who has been missing for about eighteen months.

This morning the Verona constable left for Toronto with the man and he thinks that if the authorities in Toronto look him over they will decide that he is Ambrose J. Small. The constable made the trip to Toronto with his son-in-law, George Brown, cheese maker, at Godfrey. The party left at an early hour in a large McLaughlin car and hope to reach their destination shortly after two o'clock.

When the constable was in Toronto last week ,the police authorities endeavored to convince him that the man he was holding at Verona was not Ambrose J. Small.

This morning it was learned that certain things which have happened since Sunday make the people who live in Verona think that the man who is in custody is really Mr. Small.

It is stated that the man has started to talk. When he looked at his arm and noticed it was tatooed, he denied that he had ever been tattooed and said that he must have been put under dope when it was done. He said that he wanted to go to Toronto as he had been in that city for some time and had a number of men working under him. A sample of his handwriting which was taken compares favorably to that of Ambrose Small. During the early part of the week the man of mystery was taken to Bell Rock, where he met the cheese maker, who is a Toronto man and who for years knew Ambrose Small. The cheese-maker stated positively that the man of mystery was Small.

SUGAR TAKES NEW DROP ON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Further reductions in the price of refined sugar were announced by the leading New York refiners yesterday. In all, the Warner Sugar Refining Company announced three reductions in prices, the extreme decline being from 8 cents a pound for hard grades, quoted on Monday, to 7.50 cents a pound at the close last night. Soft sugar is quoted at 7.40 cents by this firm. The American Sugar Refining Company and the Federal Sugar Refining Company also are quoting 7.50 cents per pound. Arbuckle Brothers are quoting 7.40 cents.

It is reported that, after a few days of inactivity, the sugar market has taken on new life and trading is more active, the activity being confined mainly to the uncontrolled market.

DRY MAJORITY CLIMBING YET

REACHED 146,037 AT NOON WITH 22 DISTRICTS TO REPORT.

DR. GRANT HOPEFUL

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Ontario Referendum Committee reports from fifty-nine electoral district, out of a total of eighty-one, made the "dry" majority at noon to-day 146,037, according to the compilations. Rev. Dr. Grant still maintains that the "yes" majority, when all returns are in, will read 200,000.

POLICE COURT FINES HIGHER

FIFTY DOLLARS FOR SPEEDING IN CITY LIMITS

The way of the speedster is hard. This morning Magistrate Dumble made a local young man, who on 15th April tried to emulate Barney Oldfield pay $50.00, and costs of $3.10.

This is the heaviest assessment made for speeding in the local Police Court annals. In future, the Magistrate declared, the $50.00 fine would be the antidote for "speederitis."

As a warning to bicyclists who prefer the city's sidewalks to the roadway, 20 summons have been made by the police, and one youth paid $5.00, and $3.10 costs, yesterday for riding on the sidewalk. The policemen have been given special instructions to take the names of every offender. The men are also, on Chief Newhall's instructions, keeping unusual watch for infringements of the Motor Vehicles Act, such as leaving cars on the street, having number plates obstructed so that they are not clearly visible, so on and so forth.

A LOCOMOTIVE EXPLODES AND THREE KILLED

SECOND ENGINE OF LEHIGH VALLEY FREIGHT BLOWS UP, KILLING ENGINE CREW AND BRAKEMAN.

FOURTH MAN BURNED

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y., April 21 (Canadian Press).—Three men were blown to pieces and a fourth injured in an explesion on a Lehigh Valley locomotive a mile west of Victor to-day.

The dead are: Edward Sweeney, 40, engineer, of Shortville; Neil Smith, 47, fireman, of Shortville; Robert Berry, 30, brakeman, of Manchester.

The second of two locomotives drawing an eastbound freight was the one which blew up.

MEETING HELD LAST EVENING

At a meeting of the Peterboro County Hunters' Game and Fish Protective Association last night many delegates were appointed to attend the meeting of the Province of Ontario Hunter's Game and Fish Protective Association in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on April 27. Some of those who will represent Peterboro are Chris. Graham, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, T. Brightman, C. McClellan, James Scott and R. J. Soden.

The meeting in Toronto is called to adopt a constitution and discuss more fully the future of the organiztion, which in a few months has made unusually rapid strides and has established associations in all parts of the province in which the support of every hunter and fisherman has been readily enlisted. In Peterboro there are now about 80 members although the neighboring villages and country is as yet unopened.

NO LACK OF INTEREST IN EFFORT TO MAKE FRESH START TO HELP AND DEVELOP AMATEUR SPORT

HOLD ANOTHER MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT OF ALL SPORTING ORGANIZATIONS IN THE CITY

The public meeting called by Mayor McIntyre in the City Council Chamber last night, for the purpose of getting expressions of opinion as to the best means of conducting and developing sports in this city, was attended by a large number of sportsmen. The Mayor opened the meeting, and on His Worship's suggestion that a chairman be appointed, Dr. A. W. McPherson was chosen and he presided.

From the standpoint of attendance and representation, the meeting was a splendid success That the meeting did not accomplish more than arrive at a decision to hold another meeting, was due to the presence of two groups. One group took the position that the Peterboro Athletic Association with some improvemens made, would meet all requirements. The other group took the view that the present association would not do, and that in order to get results it was necessary to form an entirely new organization.

Not Related.

The statement was again made that there was no relationship between the Board of Trade and the Peterboro Amateur Athletic Association.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner offered a resolution that a meeting be held next Wednesday night for the purpose of electing a new set of officers for the existing Association, holders of a membership card with the P.A.A.A. being eligible to vote Mr. J. A. Sharpe seconded the resolution.

A long discussion followed. Mr. G. A. Macdonald moved, seconded by Dr. N. H. Sutton that the meeting appoint a committee to take the necessary steps to bring about a meeting of representatives of the sporting organizations of the city, with a view to forming an athletic association, and report the results of the meeting at a general meeting to be called by the chairman.

Mr. H A. Cranfield favored a fresh start being made with a new organization.

Sportsmen's Association.

Ald. N. E. Phelan suggested the formation of a Sportsmen's Association, such as is found in Toronto and other cities.

Mr. Macdonald's resolution was carried.

Representatives present from sporting clubs were requested to meet after the general meeting had been adjourned. At this committee meeting it was decided to bring about a gathering made up of a representative from every sporting organization in the city ,the meeting to be held in the City Council Chamber next Monday night at eight o'clock. This should be taken as an invitation to every sporting club to be represented at the meeting.

It is hoped that this meeting will evolve a plan that will lead to the formation of an organization such as will gain the full confidence and support of the citizens generally.

SCHOOL NINES OPEN SEASON

At the Queen Mary School grounds yesterday afternoon, King Edward and South Central School nines opened the senior series of the Public School Baseball League.

King Edwards, with Charlie Bradley pitching, won the game by the score of 5 to 4, the King Edward pitcher getting what proved to be the winning run in the sixth, when SERVED SEATS 50c. MONTREAL NOW FLOODED WITH BOOZE ORDERS

DEALER SAYS ONTARIO WOULD ORDER $20,000,000 WORTH IF IT WERE TO BE OBTAINED.

$100,000 IN ONE DAY

MONTREAL, April 21.— Montreal is flooded with orders for all kinds of liquor to-day. The wave is from Ontario, which on Monday voted to go bone-dry 60 days hence. Never in the history of the local dealers was there such a heavy mail. It is impossible to get figures from all the dealers, but three of the larger ones estimated the day's totals about as follows:

No. 1 .. .. $50,000
No. 2 .. .. $30,000
No. 3 .. .. $25,000

All of them admitted that they had not commenced to get to the bottom of the mail at noon hour. They had not prepared for such a rush and their staffs were inadequate to handle the deluge. It is not too much to predict that the orders received by all the firms will total half a million dollars. Instead of the wave subsiding, however, it is expected to grow.

"Were the liquor available Ontario would order about $20,000,000 worth of all kinds of stuff," one of the dealers stated. "There isn't half that quantity in the province, however, and there are orders enough on hand now to use it all up. One can easily see, therefore, that the Ontario people who neglected to provide prior to Monday's voting will go dry a lot sooner than they expected."

COST ONE VOTE WAS ABOUT $16

ONE VOTE POLLED AT STURGEON FALLS; IT WAS WET

LINDSAY, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Only one vote was polled at the booth at Sturgeon Point, and it registered a wet answer. This booth probably cost $16. It was a costly vote.

TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, April 21. — Everyone here is delighted with results of Referendum vote. The polling place here was held at Mr. A. Wights. The committee in charge of conveying voters to and from the poll worked hard making it possible for nearly everyone to be out.

Mr. Edward McCann of Toronto arrived here Tuesday and will live in "Laf-a-Lot" for the summer. Mr. McCann has been in poor health for some time but feel sure, like many of our tourists that "Trent River' 'will do a whole lot to help recuperate.

Mr. Jack Townsend left for Toronto Monday but will return in a few days again.

Mrs. Hallowell is having some house furnishings shipped this week from Toronto to her cottage here which was erected last fall. Mrs. Hallowell and children will occupy her summer home in the near future.

Mr. Fred Scott and family are returning to their farm 1st of May to remain indefinite.

WOMEN GOVERN KANSAS VILLAGE

THAYER, Kan., April 21. — Seven women took the oath last night to administer the affairs of this village to the best of their ability. The inauguration took puace in the combined City Hall, Fire Department and Masonic Lodge building.

Nominated without their knowledge and elected by overwhelming majorities, every woman from Mrs. A. H. Forrest, the Mayor, down has resolved to give the town the very best of her ability.

Since the election the new "City Mothers'" mail has been heavy. Some one back East mailed a box of nerve tablets. Another from Ohio sent a bottle of liniment. The Auditor of Long Beach, Cal., sent his annual report to show the women how it is done on the Pacific Coast.

TITLED GERMAN EXILE KILLED

CLERK FOUND DEAD MEMBER OF NOTED VON BUELOW FAMILY

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 21.—The apparently obscure victim of a traumatic death here last Thursday, at first believed to have been an accident, now seems to have been a member of the Von Buelow family of Germany and to have been the prey in a deliberate murder plot.

Working on this theory, E. C. Gaskill, County Prosecutor, last night assigned his whole staff to the case after the police had finished working back over a trail that grew cold in the days when there was no hint of a criminal element in the affair. The Prosecutor has announced his belief that the man either was decoyed to the lonely edge of this resort, where his skull was smashed, or that he was murdered indoors and carried in an automobile to a point far from the scene of the crime, where it would appear he had been struck by a vehicle.

The immediate, though tentative, motive which furnishes a hypothesis for the official theory of murder is robbery. It is based upon the fact that hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars that the man is believed to have carried in a secret inside vest pocket, are missing. Of at least collateral importance, however, are strange revelations regarding the man's history, which in the end may serve to illuminate the circumstances of his death from a new angle.

Exiled by Powerful Relatives.

It has been learned that the victim—best known here as Henry Buehler—was driven out of Germany by some distant relative, understood by his friends to have been one of the war-like von Buelows, because a clubfoot prevented him from playing such a part in the military life of the Fatherland as befitted a member of the family which included such members as Prince Bernhard von Buelow, former Imperial Chancellor and Ambassador to Italy, and Field Marshal von Buelow, commander of the Second Germany Army during the war.

Shamed and humiliated when he was cast off, the man, whether he was Henry Buehler or "Count Heinrich von Buelow" or "Henry von Tickler," all of which names have been mentioned by his friends here, came to this country perhaps twenty-six years ago and earned a living in various hotels. Until the entrance of the country into the war he was a remittance man, getting a check periodically from the old country through the German Ambassador at Washington.

He was known as a lavish spender and a man of inoffensive, almost shrinking habits, confiding only to a few intimates the history of the pain inflicted upon him of his physical deformity. So, when last Thursday morning the first crew to take a trolley from Atlantic City to Ocean City found a body twenty feet from the track at the north end of Tennessee avenue, it was identified as that of Henry Buelow, supply clerk of the St. Charles Hotel, no one doubted that an accident had put an end to an unhappy life.

BONUS PASSES WITH BUT ONE PROTEST MADE

ASKED MORE PRESENT

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)—A number of the members of the Farmers' side of the House last session objected to the proposed increase in the sessional indemnity which was the subject of the round robin. However, the government concession of a $600 bonus, placed in the further supplementary estimates of this sesion, went through in the House last night without a single protest except from Dr. Stevenson, Labor member for London, Ont., who suggested that the matter should stand until there were more members present.

CUBICAL CONTENTS ASSESSMENT PLAN

WILL BE INVESTIGATED BY BRANTFORD CITY COUNCIL

BRANTFORD, April 21. — The City Council of Brantford has instructed its assessment department to submit a report not later than 15th November on what is known as the cubical contents system of assessment.

Letters read by Ald. Billo showed that in St. Catharines the cubical contents system was favoured as the only equitable system of taxation; in Toronto, the superficial area system was in force, although the cubical contents system was often used; in Windsor the cubical contents system was not in force, but the assessment commissioner had requested the City Council to pass a by-law adopting it.

Ald. John Robertson characterised the present system as a fraudulent conspiracy by which a house 10x10x10 was credited with 400 cubic feet instead of 1,000, and which as a result was only assessed for 40 per cent. of its value. Such a system, he declared, destroyed the whole basis of assessment.

Ald. J. H. Minshall said that the number of appeals against assessment had been very small, and that it had decreased gradually up until the time when the Brantford assessment was increased by four and one-half millions of dollars. He declared that he was not in favour of disrupting a system that had given such satisfaction.

Ald. Stedman cited Toronto as a city that had discarded the cubical contents system after one year's trial. He declared that there was no assessment without its inequalities, and that the City Council should have some definite proof that the cubical contents system had worked out to advantage before inaugurating it in the city. None of the aldermen, he stated, were assessors, and he did not think that they were competent to pronounce opinions as to what was the best system of assessment.

Assessor Ludlow said that seven years ago he had prepared to introduce the cubical contents system into the Brantford department, but owing to the fact that it was not regarded favourably his original plans were discarded. In the meantime his books had been prepared, and a column had been set aside for the cubical contents of a building. Since that time this column had been used for the result obtained from the multiplication of the perimeter by the height of the walls and accordingly, it appeared in the books as cubical contents of the building. He declared that no fixed value could ever be set on real estate in view of the fluctuations which were continually aecting the market.

PLAN TO EXTEND TOBACCO WORK.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Immediate action to bring down the cost of living is recommended by the Federal Trade Commission in a report submitted to President Harding, made public recently at the White House. The commission contends that retail prices have not yet reached the level warranted by the drop in prices of basic materials and blames it in part on an effort by business men to make the consuming public bear the losses which inevitably followed the period of inflated values.

Such a policy, the commission holds, is built on a false premise and can only result in a continuation of present conditions of industrial depression. Reduction in retail prices, it contends, would increase the buying power of the people and stimulate industry.

The report now made public was submitted to President Harding just before he read his first message to the special session of Congress and the President referred to some of its recommendations briefly in that address, suggesting that a Congressional investigation might help in bringing out facts which would aid in lowering living costs. Such an investigation, at which the question of legislation would be considered, probably will be held.

RUM CASES BUSY COURTS TWO YEARS

NEW YORK, April 21.—The days of police activity in enforcement of the new State prohibition laws have resulted in more than 600 arrests in Manhattan, or enough, if each prisoner is indicted and given trial by jury, to occupy the Court of General Sessions for two years, Chief Assistant District Attorney J. H. Banton declared to-day.

The Court of General Sessions, before which, under the State prohibition law, all indicted persons must be given trial, normally handles only 300 jury cases a year, Mr. Banton said.

The City Manager

"The City Manager—a New Profession," is the title of one of the several books that has come out dealing with the new municipal order. The men who are making this thing go in a professional spirit, measure their achievement by the services they have rendered the city.

When after two years' service, Charles Nagle, city manager of Wheeling, W. Va., died in office, his fellow city-managers in the bulletin of their association, significently wrote of him under the caption: "An Obituary of Achievement."

What was it these city managers were proud to say of their colleague?

He had faced an empty treasury and unpaid accounts of nearly $36,000. City owned utilities were in bad shape, and equipment impaired. Under Mr. Nagle's administration, the wages of all city employes were raised, yet, with a saving (through combination of offices) of $12,000. The city was provided with a complete new motor fire apparatus. The red-light district was wiped out and gambling stopped.

New gas and electric contracts were entered into, saving the city $30,000 yearly. The local traction company was persuaded to pay one-half the cost of two new bridges.

The garbage problem was settled by the establishment of a "piggery," saving $50,000 (the cost of an incinerator) and several thousand dollars of yearly expense.

From the county $125,000 which had been held against court decision was recovered.

Action was taken which secured from the Telephone Co. $28,5000 cash, 50 free telephones and use of the company's poles—net gain: about $110,000.

Thousands of dollars in carfares were saved to the residents of Wheeling and surrounding towns by proving to the Public Service Commission that the traction companies had overvalued their properties.

A thorough investigation was made of the water supply, which resulted in plans for a mechanical filtration system.

Finally, the manager saved the Government itself to the city by fighting a political "ripper bill" to combine the office of mayor and city manager and make the chief of police elective.

Mr. Nogle was more or less typical of his adopted profession.

His record in Wheeling would soon have made him a marked man and other cities would have been bidding for his services. Or else such cities might have advertised in the engineering journals (as many of them have been doing) for a man of his qualifications and he would have had something very substantial to point to as evidence of his fitness for advancement to the managership of a bigger city.

The rapid spread of the city manager plan will make new opportunities for hundreds of men of Mr. Nagle's type in the next few years.

30,000 CASES OF RAISINS GONE FOR AMERICAN "HOOTCH"

RESHIPPED FROM CANADA TO REPLENISH MARKET STRIPPED FOR HOME-BREW.

Wholesale grocers are looking forward to an increased demand for raisins as a result of Monday's majority for prohibition, according to a traveler, who expressed the belief that recent experiences in the United States would likely be duplicated in this Province. The bone-dry law across the border has been followed by such a widespread domestic manufacture of "hootch," "raisin jack" and other home-brewed alcoholic concoctions that the American market has been cleaned of its raisin stocks. Two weeks ago 30,000 cases of raisins were re-shipped from Canada to the United States to meet the deficiency created by the abnormal demand that is ascribed to the effects of the Volstead Act. And having copied the "bone-dry" idea, its consequences are expected to materialize here to the same extent as in the United States. From this expectation springs the belief that Ontario's consumption of raisins and prunes, both credited with alcoholic potency, is shortly going to trace an upward curve in the stock sheet.

Several Declines.

The grocery market also reports a drop of two dollars a box in the price of soap during the last two weeks, and since the first of the year rice has declined $11 a bag.

BODIES NOT RECOVERED

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF DROWNING ACCIDEAT NEAR CAMPBELLFORD—DISTRICT NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21.—A very sad drowning accident occurred yesterday forenoon when Charles Ibey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ibey, and Kenneth Blakely, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Blakely, both of Meyersburg, met their death. The two young men were engaged in dislodging a boat which had become fast on the dam on the Trent river, about five miles below Campbellford, when in some way they fell into the water. The current is very strong at this point and the water deep and the unfortunate boys were carried down stream. A third young man, Raymond Ritghmeyer, also had a narrow escape and was unable to save his friends. Searching parties have been searching the river in an endeavor to locate the bodies, but up the present their efforts have been in vain. Much sympathy is extended to the sorrowing families in their hour of bereavement.

Held Entertainment.

The ladies of the Methodist church with surnames beginning with N to Z, held a successful entertainment and tea on Tuesday evening in the Sunday school room. The opening number was an instrumental solo, beautifully rendered by Little Miss Cherrie Turner. This was followed by a solo by Miss Ruth Taylor, entitled "Sweet Bunch of Daisies," rendered in a very pleasing voice, which was much appreciated. Miss McConnell, a budding elocutionist of ability, gave two excellent readings and was heartily encored. Miss Kathleen Dolman and Miss Georgie Hay gave an instrumental duet which was much appreciated. Mrs. (Dr.) Richardson, who is always a favorite soloist, delighted the audience with a solo. The readings, "Cook of the Period" and "Calling the Boy in the Morning" were most humorously rendered by Mr. S. A. Maguire. Mrs. Turner and Miss Cherrie sang very sweetly, "Whispering Hope." After the programme the ladies served an excellent tea, which was especially enjoyed by the men, to whom a special invitation was given to be present. This was one of the most successful teas of the year, the proceeds amounting to over $45.00.

Personal Mention.

Miss Mae Dunk, who lately removed to town with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Dunk, from Seymour East, has accepted a position in Mr. John I. Adams' store.

Miss Helen Keller and the Misses Mabel and Myrtle Forde attended the miscellaneous shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Begg, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Petherick, near Healey Falls.

Mr. Daniel Black returned from Montreal yesterday.

Mr. John F. Maynard is spending a few days' holidays in Toronto this week.

Mrs. Frank Mason of Ottawa, is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. David Mason, Front street.

Miss C. Kerr, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Kerr, left this morning for Saginaw, where her marriage to Mr. Hazen R. Hamather will take place at high noon Saturday. Miss Kerr has the best wishes of her many friends.

Mr. L. Hill was in town Wednesday renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. I. T. Fredrich held an afternoon tea on Wednesday afternoon.

Lodge Will Parade.

The Campbellford lodge, No. 248, I.O.O.F., will parade to divine service at the Anglican church on Sunday, April 29th. They will be addressed by Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto.

ANOTHER OFFERS SELF FOR MOTHER

PITTSBURGH, April 21.—Following the example of the New Jersey girl who recently offered to marry any man who would provide $1,000 necessary to save her mother's life, Miss Louise Burke, of Pittsburgh, has offered to wed any man sufficiently rich to take her mother away for the rest that will save her life.

"Wanted—Young lady, just past 21 years, refined, educated, loves music, dancing, very good looking, wishes to marry young man or bachelor who is wealthy, in order to secure funds to send mother away for health; this is very necessary. Write to Miss Louise Burke, Box 147, Pittsburgh, Pa."

Miss Burke received six applicants, but when she saw her suitors she abandoned her attempt, "until the right man comes along."

BEWDLEY SEAT TO COALITION

STANLEY BALDWIN RE-ELECTED OVER HENRY MILLS, LABORITE, BY 2875.

LONDON, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)—The by-election in the Bewdley division of Worcestershire by the appointment of Stanley Baldwin, coalition Unionist, as President of the Board of Trade, resulted in Mr. Baldwin's re-election to the House of Commons, it was announced yesterday. He received 14,537 votes as against 11,680 for Henry Mills, Laborite.

DOUBTS THAT COX MIGHT BE SMALL

DETECTIVE MITCHELL WON'T EVEN SEE KINGSTON'S "MYSTERY MAN."

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Sergeant of Detectives A. P. Mitchell, who is in charge of the Ambrose Small case, said last night that he did not want to see George Cox, whom Magistrate McMillan, of Verona, Ont., near Kingston, is said to be bringing to Toronto under the impression that he might be the missing theatrical man.

CHINAMAN WAS NEAR ASPHYXIATED

Found in Laundry, Gas Turned On.

KINGSTON, April 21.—Suffocated with gas in his laundry at the corner of Princess and Division streets, a Chinaman named Lee lies in a very critical condition at the General Hospital here. The man went to his room over the laundry at about six o'clock Monday morning, and it is thought that he turned off the gas stove which is in the room, and by some unknown means the gas was turned on again. When he was found by other laundry workers about twelve o'clock he was in an unconscious condition, and was rushed to the hospital.

JURY ACQUITS KONOWAL, V.C., OF MURDERING

KILLED MAN IN HULL

OTTAWA, April 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Unanimity of medical experts called for both the prosecution and defence as to the mental derangement of Filip Konowal, V. C., when he stabbed and killed Will Artick at Hull in the summer of 1919, resulted in the jury at the Hull criminal assizes bringing in a verdict of "not guilty" owing to insanity, after but a short deliberation last night following a trial which lasted a week.

Judge Cousineau, in a brief address to the jury, pointed out that Konowal had spent three or four years in the war in which all his attention had been devoted to the killing of men. He had received injuries in France which had caused organic disease of the brain, so that on his return to Canada when the occasion had arisen he had reverted to type and had committed an atrocious crime.

The Crown had established, the Judge continued, without a shadow of doubt that Konowal had killed Artick, but he had done so while mentally deranged. He told the jury that justice would be served if they brought in a verdict of "not guilty" on the grounds of insanity of the accused.

FRESH PROPOSALS BY HUNS TO FAIL

SO FRENCH OFFICIALS FORECAST FROM ADVANCE INFORMATION

PARIS, April 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Germany's proposals relative to reparations had not been received by the French government up till late last night, but officails here declared they expected they would be the same as those published in the German newspapers. For this reason they said they believed the Berlin government's terms would be "insufficient and unacceptable."

It is probable that the Italian and Belgian ambassadors to Great Britain will attend next Sunday's conference at Hythe, at which Premier Briand will communicate to Prime Minister Lloyd George the measures France purposes to take if Germany does not make the reparation payments demanded on May 1st.

JUST ONE APPLICATION AND THE HAIRS VANISH

(Modes of Today)

A harmless, yet very effective, treatment is here given for the quick removal of hairy growths: Mix enough powdered delatone and water to cover the undesirable hairs, apply paste and after 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. One application usually is sufficient, but to be certain of results, buy the delatone in an original package. Mix fresh as wanted.

SHOULD BE KILLED.

The McCrea Bill, which is to be considered by the Ontario Legislature, is a specimen of the legislation Ald. Whitehouse had in mind some weeks ago when he suggested the advisability of the municipalities of Ontario having a representative on duty in Toronto when the Legislature is in session to prevent the passing of measures harmful to the interests of the municipalities. The McCrea Bill is legislation of this kind. It proposes to delegate to the Ontario Railway Board the power to increase the fares of electric railways in the Province, regardless of agreements that may exist between municipalities and the holders of street railway franchises. The cities of Ontario cannot afford to have their right infringed upon or to have such wide powers conferred upon the Railway Board. They must insist that where rates of fare have been agreed upon in exchange for franchise rights the agreement is to be binding. The McCrea Bill is wrong in principle and hostile to the interests of the municipalities of the Province. It is to be hoped that the members of the Legislature will comprehend the vicious nature of this measure and administer a speedy and effective quietus to a bill that is fraught with danger to the public interest.

FALSE ECONOMY.

Economy in any Government—Federal, Provincial or municipal—is such a rare quality that it is with hesitation that The Examiner ventures to criticize a tendency on the part of the Ontario Government to economize at the expense of the Ontario Safety League, which is apparently being deprived of any Provincial grant this year. For several years the Provincial Government has assisted the League with a donation of $10,000, and the investment was a good one. If the Safety League's work only averted one bad accident a year it would have more than earned the amount of this Provincial grant, and who can say how many mishaps have been prevented as a result of the campaign of education the League has been conducting? The work is too important to be neglected, and as one newspaper points out, the grant would be made up many times over each year by the smaller demand upon the Workmen's Compensation Act. The Government, perhaps, has not paid enough attention to the efforts of the League to appreciate the value of its activities, but certainly it would seem that a considerable proportion of the cost of such education should be a Provincial Government matter, as it benefits the people of the whole Province. The member of West Peterborough might interest himself in this matter, for anything that makes conditions safer for the worker should appeal to a Labour member of the Legislature.

THE SANDY BILL.

Considerable difference of opinion appears to exist as to the measure known as the Sandy Bill passed by the Legislature and designed to stop "short circuiting"—the delivery of liquor from warehouses or breweries or distilleries in Ontario on an order sent from an Ontario address to an agent residing outside of the Province. Some people apparently believe that this measure becomes operative at once, following upon the vote against importation. In that belief, they are mistaken. The Sandy Bill comes into force at the same time as the Dominion Government, by issuing an order brings into operation the clauses of the Canadian Temperance Act, which put a stop to the importation of liquor. This may be done at any time not less than sixty days after the date of polling, so that for the present the Sandy Bill does not enter into the situation and "short circuiting" is still within the law. When the Bill does come into effect it is provided that liquor must not be carried or transported within the Province for sale or consumption in Ontario, nor can it be carried from any brewery, warehouse, storehouse, dock or railway station in the Province to any other place within the Province or to any person for sale or consumption in Ontario. The Sandy Bill and the Canadian Temperance Act become effective in the Province on the same day, the date depending upon the Federal Government.

JUSTICE—NOT INTOLERANCE.

The general results of the referendum on Monday should furnish Premier Drury and his associates with considerable food for thought. The people of Ontario by a large majority voted against the importation of liquor, and that may properly be construed as a mandate for the efficient enforcement of prohibition, but at the same time the fact that over one hundred thousand electors voted "no" is a warning against despotism and tyranny in the carrying out of the Ontario Temperance Act. The Province wants the Act administered strictly, but justly, and unfortunately the present Attorney-General seems ill-fitted to have charge of this most serious and important duty. He is narrow-gauged and apparently intolerant; he is too ready to classify everyone who disagrees with him or who criticizes sections of the Ontario Temperance Act as bootleggers and rumrunners. The stand he has taken on the question of appeals under the O. T. A. throws the spotlight upon his defects, and it may, in the long run, turn out to have been a bad day for the cause of temperance when a majority of the Legislature endorsed his attitude and decided to allow only a restricted appeal from the decision of Magistrates instead of the wider appeal that many members held to be in the interest of justice. Newspapers or legislators who maintain that an innocent man should have every chance to prove his innocence are called friends of the bootleggers by Mr. Raney. In pleading that a person accused of an offense under the Ontario Temperance Act should have the right to appeal to the County Judge against the Magistrate's decision and should have the benefit of any new evidence he might be able to produce, The Examiner is not worrying about the fate of the bootleggers who fall into the toils, but is concerned with the man who innocently finds himself involved in an O. T. A. case. It would be better that half a dozen guilty rumrunners should go free than that one innocent citizen should wrongfully be sentenced, and Mr. Raney can put us in any class he sees fit for expressing such an opinion.

A TAX ON FOREIGN ADVERTISEMENTS.

A fair object of Federal taxation is the advertising matter that comes into this country in the columns of United States magazines and newspapers. Present-day advertising is the most effective agency of salesmanship. The magazines and newspapers that come into Canada from the other side of the line carry advertisements that are prepared by men well skilled in the art of implanting a desire to buy. To the highly persuasive wording and depicting of the advertising pages of popular American publications circulating here much of the great expansion of American business in this market is to be credited. The Government is naturally desirous of bringing about an equilibrium between our export trade and our import trade with the United States. The Finance Minister has delivered addresses at public meetings in which Canadian women and Canadians generally are urged to curtail their imports from across the line. The Canadian women who maintain a demand for United States goods that are no better than like goods made in Canada are readers of magazines and newspapers published in the United States, and from the advertising columns of these is caught the suggestion to buy American articles. Since advertising matter thus spread in Canada by American publication circulating here is winning so much business in this market for United States manufacturers, would it not be reasonable to subject those advertisements to a rate of taxation that will make some return to the country for the privilege of pushing American goods here? It is not to be hoped, of course, that from that impost an amount could be obtained that would offset the discount on Canadian money which the advertisements in question have helped to swell, but it ought to be sufficient to amount to a reasonable licence fee for the right to carry on such selling propaganda here through the medium of American publications.

For these American magazines with their great volume of tempting advertisements Canadian news agents and Canadian readers have to pay the quoted price in American money. On certain favorite American weeklies that are sold largely here two prices are stamped—one of them 5 cents, as the selling price in the United States, the other 10 cents as the selling price in Canada. That is covering the difference in exchange with a vengeance. Our Government ought to see either that it gets something out of the circulation of such newspapers advertising here or that it discourages that advertising. A tax per standard line or on some other basis ought to be imposed in the interests of our own producers. This American advertising is a strong suction pump bringing Canadian demand away from sources of Canadian supply and helping to depress the Canadian dollar in the United States.—Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Messrs. Dewart and Ferguson are able to find common ground on one thing anyway. They both love to criticize the Attorney-General.

Attempts to prove that the Ontario Temperance Act is a flawless piece of legislation only tend to arouse the resentment of many people against the measure.

At the risks of being dubbed by the Attorney-General as a friend of the bootleggers, The Examiner ventures to express its belief in the right to appeal from the decision of Magistrates in O. T. A. cases.

The Government's ultimatum to the Grand Trunk is not premature by any means. It will be endorsed by the country.

Surely Canada's need of men of the calibre of Archdeacon Cody is as great as that of Australia.

Major "Chubby" Power, M.P. of Quebec, is a brave man. And the fact that he attempted to deprive the Canadian Scottish of their kilts is almost as clear a proof of that fact as are the letters 'M. C" that follow his name in the militia lists.

"Five hours there, my dear madam," soberly replied the doctor, "would have made you into an angel."

WARSAW NEWS OF INTEREST

WARSAW, April 21. — One of our Warsaw overseas men met with an educated Zulu who was much interested in Canadian agriculture. This Zulu had been taught by a missionary woman from Ottawa and is himself now the principal of a school of 160 pupils in Ngutu, Natal, with two young female assistant teachers. Here are a few extracts from a letter written March 7th — Autumn in Natal:

"We had a grand harvest last year and the result is heavy fighting amongst our primitive brethren, caused by drunkenness and the very low prices for our produce.....The coast people are having it easy. They plant fruit and sugar cane (which sells for about £2 (10) a ton for the best. The same field can be reaped about four times without being plowed again.....Pre-war prices seem like a dream. For instance a tailor made blue serge suit used to cost £5 and to-day without exaggeration you cannot get one for even 15 guineas. Railway fares, stamps for posting letters, etc., all are about 75 per cent. more than in pre-war times.....One thing I think you might like to hear about is the comparison of your cattle in Canada with those of our natives out here. The highest price for a full-grown Zulu ox is not more than £10, while pure bred imported ones are about £20. The reason for telling you this is the appearance of stock in the pictures in the journals you send; are they not beautiful. Seeing all the stock you have in your journals makes one think very low of our own country.....I am going to tell you of a very funny custom of the Zulus, which we are also subject to, if we fall in love with the educated girls of primitive parents. Should you want to get married to any one of their daughters, you first have to report to the girl's parents for negotiations. That being so, you have to pay 10 cattle to the father and one to the mother, for an ordinary man's daughter; 15 to 20 head of cattle for a chief's daughter. Then you have to pay for your own furniture, your home, etc. Is not that very wonderful? I myself have to undergo the same trouble. I have fallen in love and am negotiating for marriage with a girl whose parents are somewhat civilized. They want £55 for their daughter. They ask no cattle, so the sum of £55 is very trying to a man earning £5 a month."

Evidently from his letters this Zulu teacher devours every word of the Farmer's Advocate and Canadian Home Journals also some local papers which are sent him.

"How cold the country of France was to South Africans is more than can be described,' he writes in conclusion.

CONSIDERED MORE IN KEEPING WITH MAIN OBJECTS OF ORGANIZATION—ACCEPT AFFILIATION OF AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION---STANDING COMMITTEES NAMED.

A representative and enthusiastic meeting of the Board of Trade convened Tuesday evening, with Mr. J. J. Duffus, President, in the chair.

Numerous subjects of civic interest were considered, and the enthusiasm evident augurs well for the future of the Board, and demonstrates the value of a citizens' organization, working in the interests of the greatest good to the greatest number.

The questionaire sent out by the Board to its members, requesting suggestions on any subject of civic interest, has demonstrated to a considerable degree the desirability of an organization to protect and promote the citizens' interests. Among the various recommendations were those of (1) to consider the re-establishment of a swimming pool at Jackson Park, referred to the City Planning Committee; (2) further improvements to the corner of Park and Reid streets, referred to the Horticultural Society; (3) change of the Peterborough-Belleville G. T. R. line, questioned as to it being a benefit or detriment to Peterborough, and referred to the Transportation Committee; (4) portions of completed streets in bad need of repair, referred to the City Council for consideration; (5) advertising scheme for made-in-Peterborough products, and various other subjects of particular civic importance.

Standing Committees.

The report of the Executive Council, as submitted by Mr. Duffus, showed considerable activities in the programme of work for the year. The following appointments were made by the Executive Council on the various standing committees:

Agriculture—To foster the interests of the surrounding farming districts and to create a better spirit of co-operation between city and country. Richard B. Rogers (Chairman), Roland Denne and Reeve J. McIntosh.

City Planning—To consider all matters partaining to the planning of the city, with the object of making specific recommendations through the Council to the City Council or the City Development Commission. Joseph W. Worth (Chairman), Dr. E. E. Harvey, Alex. Weddell, D. Reed Wren, R. H. Parsons.

Civic Education—To conduct a campaign of lectures, publications, etc., to promote a better understanding of the potent factors conducive to the development of a healthy, home-like city. Alexander Mowat (Chairman), Dr. Ernest V. Frederick, C. S. Browne.

Fire, Water and Light—S. Taylor (Chairman), H. W. Cressman, F. C. Hungerford, F. H. Dobbin, Dr. J. A. Morgan, V. J. McElderry.

Industrial Welfare—To consider all matters pertaining to the industrial welfare of the city, such as factory conditions, unemployment, etc. John J. Hartley (Chairman), James Garside, R. C. Flitton.

Kawartha Lake Development—To formulate a plan of advertising, etc., for the Kawartha Lake district and enlist the co-operation of neighboring municipalities to develop this region as a summer resort.

To act as representatives of the Board on "The Trent Waterway Development Association," representing the interests of all municipalities in the area of the Trent watershed. Francis D. Kerr (Chairman), Felix Brownscombe, C. G. Graham, F. G. Young, John H. Renwick.

Membership — John I. Allen (Chairman), Jas. Skinner, Adjt. W. Bunton.

Publication—To circulate throughout the membership publications partaining to the work of the Board. To act as censoring committee. R. M. Glover (Chairman), R. C. Flitton, C. E. Jamieson.

Streets, Roads and Highways—To consider all matters pertaining to the development of a good road system in and out of the city. Frank Whitehouse (Chairman), H. O. Fisk, John I. Allen, C. H. Rogers, Charles R. Banks.

Transportation—To consider all matters pertaining to transportation, including passenger, freight and express service by water, rail or road. H. E. Hodgens (Chairman), Robert Hicks, George A. Macdonald, Robert E. Layfield, J. Wearing.

Civic Health.

Owing to the desirability of having a standing committee to investigate and recommend on all matters pertaining to civic health, a resolution was passed for the appointment of a Civic Health Committee, appointments to be made later.

Clean-Up Campaign.

A clean-up campaign, to be instituted between April 24th and April 30th, will be under the supervision of the Civic Educational Committee, and the various interested organizations have been requested to co-operate to the fullest degree.

Change in Name.

The progressive nature of the Board was again demonstrated on a consideration of the changing of the name from the Board of Trade to the Chamber of Commerce. The Boards of Trade in England are authoritative bodies on trade and commerce, and considered a particular department of the Government, and the Chambers of Commerce represent the citizens independent of the Government, and it was found to be a similar practice in the United States. After a lengthy consideration, a resolution was adopted changing the present name to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, authority for which will be secured from the Secretary of State.

Accept Affiliation.

The President referred to the proposed affiliation of the Automobile Association with the Chamber, and believing that the activities of that Association would duplicate in some measures the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, it was considered that the affiliation would be advantageous, and that the Automobile Association be advised accordingly.

Violation of Law.

The notice of the meeting was drawn to the violation of the fish and game laws in the district by thoughtless individuals, and was referred to the Kawartha Lake Development Committee, to draft a resolution in conjunction with the Fish and Game Protective Society, to be forwarded to the Minister of Game and Fisheries.

The President drew the attention of the members to the desirability of forwarding the circular No. 1 to the Secretary as early as possible, so that a programme of work for the year would be established, covering the subjects of civic interest which the time of the organization should be devoted to.

Illustrated Address.

Mr. V. E. Taplin, President of Natural Thread Shoes, Limited, of Belleville, gave a very interesting illustrated address on the care of feet, particularly emphasizing that owing to ill-fitted footwear it was considered that the efficiency of the nation was lessened by approximately 25 per cent.

The educational value of Mr. Taplin's lecture was considerable, and will no doubt have a revolutionary effect on the use of the high-heeled shoes and pointed toes.

New Members.

The following new members elected by the Executive Council since the annual meeting were welcomed by the President:

Wm. P. Adamson—Adamson & Dobbin, 175 Simcoe street.

Dr. R. C. Blagrave—Clergyman, 65 Brock street.

E. S. Cornell—Vice-President of Cornell Knitting Co. Ltd., 176-184 Simcoe street.

D. E. Eason—Civil Engineer, Trent Canal Office, P. O. Bldg.

Claude L. Ensor—East City Garage, Driscoll Terrace.

C. A. Hewitt—Superintendent of London Life Insurance Co., 387 Water street.

Wm. M. Lang—Customs Officer, corner Charlotte and George streets.

H. C. Sherwood—Manufacturer, Gemmell-Sherwood Ltd., 210½ Charlotte street.

Dr. N. H. Sutton—Surgeon, Barrie Building.

Why Grandpa is So Popular

GOOD health and good humor usually go hand-in-hand. The sufferer from torpid liver, indigestion or irritated nerves cannot easily maintain a happy countenance and a cheerful disposition, whether young or old.

The grandpa represented in this picture has succeeded in maintaining his good health and good spirits by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to keep his blood rich and his vitality at high water mark.

Men and women of advancing years are learning more and more the benefits to be obtained by the use of this great restorative. It seems to supply exactly what elderly people require in order to keep feeling well and happy.

Mr. D. F. Armstrong, R.R. No. 3, Mallorytown, Ont., writes:

"Through overwork and an extra amount of mental strain, I became very nervous and run-down. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and they certainly seemed to touch the right spot. It almost seemed for a time as though I fairly lived on them, and I can recommend this treatment to anyone requiring a medicine of this kind. I am now over 61 years old."

MRS. RUSSELL CALLS

Chapter 33

I stopped powdering my nose as Emma came in the room toward me.

"Mrs. Russell is down stairs. She would like to see you for a few minutes, Mrs. Allen," she said, and then hesitated waiting for my reply.

"Tell her I'll be down in a minute," I answered, sinking into the chair in front of my dressing table and trying to rearrange some loose ends of hair which were hanging wildly around my face.

I simply couldn't bear seeing Mrs. Russell, and yet conventions demanded that I go down and be sweet and pleasant when I felt much more like having Emma tell her to go home and stay home and never to bother me again.

As I went down the stairs I could see Mrs. Russell sitting on the very edge of a chair and looking most uncomfortable. In fact, the whole atmosphere of the room seemed to be loaded with an uncomfortable tenseness. Everything felt and looked on edge. Certainly my nerves were.

"You have been to Atlantic City?" she asked, starting the conversation with one of those obviously pointless questions. I felt the keenness of her eyes fairly boring through the powder on my face and disclosing the redness of my eyes and nose. She was one of those people that you instinctively try to keep from knowing of your private affairs, and who invariably know your business in some uncanny way even before you do youself.

"Yes, we had a wonderful trip," I responded, trying bravely to enthuse.

"There is something I am afraid I must tell you," she said suddenly, sitting up a little straighter and a little nearer to the edge of the chair. "It is the kind of thing I hate to do. One hesitates a great while before placing themselves in my position," she went on with eyes now on the floor, and the tone of voice one is apt to use when telling of the sad death of an uncle who has bequeathed them a fortune. I again felt the desire to throw the blue vase ar something, but this time I think it was Mrs. Russell's head.

"Yes," I interrogated as the silence became unbearable. I could feel my heart pounding against my side.

"It is about Leonard—Mr Allen," she said.

I was dragging my fingers into the soft upholstered arms of my chair.

"I feel it my duty to tell you this. Mr. Russell does not know that I am doing it—in fact, he advised me not to, but when a woman is placed in your position she needs a friend, a friend who will be honest with her," she went on with her supercilious twaddle.

The room was going around and around. I found myself wondering if I could aim well enough to hit Mrs. Russell in the head—she seemed to have at least three heads and they were swimming around rapidly.

"It was while you were away at Atlantic City—Mr. Russell and I tried to persuade Leonard to come over and spend his evenings with us but he never did. We couldn't make him." She paused for breath. "Then one night we met him at the theeatre with a decidedly sporty looking woman, and two nights after that Mr. Russell saw him on the Astor Roof with the same woman. Mr. Russell was with a party of men—and they did not leave until after one o'clock and Jack said Mr. Allen was still there when they went out."

She paused a minute and fingered the corner of her handkerchief. "I don't like telling you, not at all, but—well, it was bad enough his being with that sort of woman—but—well—Jack said Leonard was all attention, all devotion to her."

She paused again, and shot a quick glance at me. "There, I've told you! I hated to do it, but some day you may thank me."

For fully a minute I could not speak. My tongue clove to the roof of my mouth and throat was dry and swollen. But my thoughts now were perfectly clear and my nerves were as steady as if her terrible words had been an invigorating shower bath of coldest water.

Tomorrow—I Buffet the Gossip.

Boils So Bad HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

Frou the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.

Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.

It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.

Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes:—"I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally, I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

SURE THING.

A gentleman who was searching for his wife in a crowded department store remarked to a saleswoman, "Is there anything on earth that would reconcile a man to such a crowd as this?"

"Yes, sir, being one of the firm," was the prompt reply.

CHOICE RECIPES

Twelve Layer Cake.

One of the most popular cakes served is a "torte" made of twelve very thin layers. For the layers beat to a cream the yolks of six eggs and one and a quarter cups of powdered sugar; beat in three-quarters of a cup of flour, measured after sifting three times; beat the whites of the six eggs until light and stiff and fold carefully into the flour mixture.

Turn cake pans bottom up and butter and sprinkle lightly with flour. Spread over the buttered and floured tins a very thin layer of the cake mixture and bake in a moderate oven; as soon as baked remove with a thin knife or spatula. The cake will be better if the layers are made the day before using.

For the filling beat to a cream one cup of sweet butter and place on the ice until wanted. In a saucepan place half a pound of broken sweet chocolate, one cup of strong black coffee liquid, one cup of granulated sugar and boil until it can be pulled like candy; remove from the fire and beat until quite cold. Beat in the creamed butter and spread thinly between the layers and thick on the top and sides. Great care must be used in baking and removing the layers, as they should be as thin as wafers.

Russian Tea Cakes.

Russian tea cakes as served at one of the Greenwich Village tea rooms are made by mixing one cup of sugar with one cup of beaten eggs, one cup of sour cream and enough sifted flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Place on a floured board and roll out very thin, one-quarter inch thick; spread with a thin layer of butter, fold the dough, roll out and spread again; repeat this four times, using a cup and a half of butter in all. Place the dough in a bowl, cover and place on the ice to harden. When the dough is hard, roll out very thin and spread with a mixture of one cup of chopped seeded raisins, half a cup of chopped blanched almonds and sugar mixed with a little cinnamon. Cut into seven-inch strips and roll each strip like a jelly roll. Cut into squares, sprinkle with chopped almonds, sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven.

Raised Tea Cakes.

For sour cream raised tea cakes, beat to cream half a cup of butter and add five egg yolks, two tablespoons of sugar, grated rind of one lemon, one cup sour cream and two cakes of yeast dissolved with a little sugar in two tablespoons of lukewarm scalded milk. Mix well and work in three cups of sifted flour, when well mixed drop from a teaspoon on well buttered pans and let rise until light in a warm place. Place on the top of each cake a seeded raisin, brush with beaten egg white, sprinkle with sugar and bake ten minutes in a hot oven.

French Raisin Cake.

French raisin coffee cake as made by one of the big hotel pastry chefs. Dissolve one cake of yeast in a little lukewarm scalded milk. Place the yeast in a cup with two tablespoons of lukewarm water, a pinch of salt and one tablespoon of sugar, mix well and set in a warm place to rise. Beat to a cream one-half cup of butter, add one-third cup of powdered sugar and mix smooth, stirring constantly in one direction. Add one at a time the yolks of four eggs and the grated peel of one lemon. Place in a bowl two cups of sifted flour and make a hole in the center, pour in the raised yeast and one cup of lukewarm scalded milk; beat to a smooth light batter and add the creamed butter and egg mixture, stir until it blisters and leaves the bowl clean; add one cup of chopped, seeded raisins, half a cup chopped blanched almonds and the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Pour into well buttered cake moulds, set in a warm place and let rise until double in bulk, about three-quarters of an hour, bake in a moderate oven forty-five minutes. Fill center with whipped cream and pour over orange sauce.

Broadway Cheese Cake.

Over on the west side of Broadway at a little coffee shop they serve a new cheese cake which is made by adding to one cup of sugar four tablespoons of creamed butter, two well beaten eggs and one cup of water alternately with two and a half cups of flour sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder and a little salt, beat to a smooth batter and pour one-half into a cake pan. Beat two eggs with half a cup of sugar, add one and a half cups of cottage cheese, half a cup chopped seeded raisins, grated rind of one lemon and one tablespoon of corn starch cooked in one cup of milk and cooled before adding. Pour this mixture over the batter in the pan and pour over the rest of the batter. Bake in a slow oven forty minutes. Sprinkle sugar and cinnamon over when baked.

A Raisin Day Request.

Another request forwarded was for Dutch stuffed monkeys, or filled butter cakes. Work into four cups of sifted flour one and two-thirds of a cup of washed butter, one and a half cups of light brown sugar, one egg, one teaspoon of cinnamon and a pinch of salt. Next mix half a pound of chopped seeded raisins with half a pound of chopped blanched almonds, six tablespoons of butter, the yolks of two eggs and half a teaspoon of vanilla extract.

Roll out the dough and divide into two equal parts. Place one half on a well buttered flat pan, spread over the raisin mixture and cover the other half of the paste. Brush with the beaten whites of the two eggs, sprinkle with poppy seeds and bake in quick oven over thirty minutes. When cold cut in squares.

CLOCK WAS ALL RIGHT.

She had looked at the clock several times, and he observed her glances.

"You were looking at the clock?" he said.

"Yes," she answered, with a faint smile. Then he got up and went over to the mantlepiece and looked at the clock for fully half a minute.

"I don't see anything the matter with it," he said, as he turned to his seat.

And he stayed an hour longer!

Many Peterboro Folks Who Live In Darkness Are Taught Useful Occupations By Blind Institute

A branch of charitable work whose benefits cannot be estimated by those fortunate ones blessed with good sight is the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, with headquarters in Toronto. This is the organization which has taken up the work of assisting the blind in the best of all possible ways, helping them to help themselves. Here they are taught to make brooms, to weave rugs, to do caning and basket-weaving, to become experts in message work, to read the Braille and the easier method of raised point called the Moon Type. Children entering the Institute will be encouraged in the study of music.

District Teachers.

Home teachers are educated in the work of teaching the blind and are sent to different districts by the Institute. Miss Ethel Stevens, 364 Mark street, is the local representative, and has a total of 16 pupils both old and young, whom she instructs in all manner of interesting things. It may be a surprise to many to know that there are 30 blind people in Peterborough, and it must take an immense amount of patience and concentration on the part of both teacher and student to learn the Braille type, which seems absolutely incomprehensible on examination by a "sighted" individual. To see a blind person fingering these raised dots with the nervous, tense fingers, the intense concentration, the moving lips of the sightless, is enough to make anyone thankful for the blessed gift of vision. But they do wonderful things with their "seeing" fingers and there are numberless inventions to help them out — self-threading needles with a false opening, clicking shutters for the blind telephone exchange operator, special knitting needles, all sorts of devices for their own invention, like that of the man who makes his garden with the aid of long string-markers, and the woman who always bakes in the oven sausages and such things that would be likely to "spit" on the open frying-pan.

Free Supplies.

Everything is free at the Institute, which is support mainly by charitable contributions. Teachers for the different districts, tuition to those attending the classes, all sorts of material for broom-making, sock-knitting and basket-weaving while the learning process is going on, everything is supplied free to those unluckier humans who sit in absolute or partial darkness.

There are many bright pupils in Peterborough. Mr. Brownlee at 612 Chamberlain street has a diversity of occupations. He gets up early in the morning and works away all day at many different things, reading a little occasionally of the peculiar parchment-like magazines or the books supplied free, also, by the Institute in Toronto, but reading is not indulged in very long, as "it makes the head ache." Mr. Brownlee sells brooms and tea, supplied by the Institute at a nominal charge, he makes all sorts of useful articles, like trays with braided edges, jardinieres, flower-boxes and the daintiest of little baskets for all sorts of purposes in woven reed, excellently varnished and finished off. These are stonger and better made than most of the store-bought articles, as no one would doubt who could see the long left-handed fingers weaving the pliant reed back and forth with the intense, careful concentration and innumerable nervous "feelings" of a man who has found in work well done the one antidote for a bitter deprivation. The maker takes a justifiable pride in his craftsmanship, and spent a considerable time in "looking for," as he expressed it, a particular example of his careful art. The caning of chairs and canoe seats is another well-done work, but the dainty little woven baskets seem to be the favorite occupation, and considerable enthusiasm was shown in a description of a contemplated flower-basket. A little friendly visiting dog nestled against the blind man's knees, his pipe lay on the table close to the quick-seeking hand, a half-read book in the ponderous dots waited for future enjoyment, and there were so many excellent samples of his careful work on view that one could see sympathy was unnecessary here, and feel that the organization which has helped so many of our sightless brothers and sisters to be as self-supporting, as cheerful, and as industrious as this man and his numberless comrades, whose physical affliction has not deprived them of mental and physical self help, must be one of the worthiest and most noble of the philanthropic enterprises undertaken by man.

Taste Real Raisin Bread
and you'll want it ever after

Go to the right dealers and get real raisin bread—bread that's filled with luscious raisins—delicious, nourishing. Or bake a loaf at home according to the recipe below.

Once try real Sun-Maid Raisin Bread and you'll be particular thereafter to have the bread that's full of raisins.

Bread filled with raisins brings you natural iron for the blood, and that means rosier cheeks. Iron helps to make healthy men, and pretty women.

The blood needs little new iron daily, but that need is vitally important. Insure your full supply of iron by eating raisins every day. Every first-class baker has this bread.

SUN-MAID
Raisin Bread

3 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 scant teaspoons baking powder
1½ tablespoons of sugar
Sift well together
½ package Sun-Maid seeded raisins
1½ cups milk

If desired to make bread a little richer, 2 tablespoons of butter and 1 beaten egg may be worked in. Bake 50 minutes. Will make one loaf. Cannot fail.

This recipe makes delicious raisin muffins.

SUN-MAID
RAISINS

Real Sun-Maid Raisin Bread is made with Sun-Maid Raisins—California's finest. They are tender, meaty, luscious, fruit-meat, a natural and incomparable confection.

Clean, sweet, wholesome, American raisins—the kind you know are good.

Three varieties at all dealers: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). Insist upon the Sun-Maid brand.

Peterborough Girls In Training Work

At a convention held some weeks ago in Murray street Baptist church, one of the speakers was Miss May C. Gemmell, of Toronto, who gave a talk on the national programme for Canadian girls entitled "C.G.I.T., or Canadian Girls in Training." This is a branch of endeavor started some years ago for Canadian girls, in the 'teen ages, and corresponds with the Canadian Standard Efficiency Test for boys. It is not an organization, but a programme to be used in connection with organized Sunday school classes and the Y.W.C.A. Its four-fold purpose, the training of the young Canadian girl in the physical, intellectual, spiritual and social side of life in the best possible ways, has for a text, "I am come that they might have life, that they might have it more abundantly," from John 10:10 and from Luke, 2:52, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

The outcome of Miss Gemmell's address was the formation last evening in the Y.W.C.A. of a sub-board of the Peterborough Religious Education Council, which, with two representatives from the Y.W.C.A., is composed of two representatives of each evangelical church desiring to co-operate. About 30 members of the different churches were present at the meeting last evening, and from this board was appointed an executive reresenting the different churches, composed of the following: Chairman, Miss Layton; Vice-Chairman, Miss Dawson; Secretary, Miss M. Eastwood; Treasurer, Mrs. Stock; Committee, Miss Elliott, Miss Morrison, Miss Burgess, Miss McLeish, Mrs. Rowe and Miss Woodford.

This executive is looking forward to providing, under the auspices of the Board, a training course for all teachers of girls in their 'teens, this course to begin during the first week in May. The Board will also promote the girls' training camp at Lake Couchiching from July 25th to August 1st, and the girls' work section of the training school at Lake Couchiching from July 18th to August 25th. This latter course is for teachers and leaders of girls in their 'teens.

The four slogans of the C.G.I.T. work: To cherish health, To seek truth, To know and To serve others, carry out the different aspects of the training. The physical side is expressed in out-door life, health education, first aid, home nursing, and physical culture, the intellectual work embraces school and vocational training, knowledge of current events, home craft, educational trips and lectures, hobbies, public speaking and dramatics, the spiritual life deals with daily prayer and Bible study, public workship, recognition of God in nature, art, music and poetry, Mission study, self-dedication and self-discipline, and the social element recognizes all personal relationships in the home, the church, in different organizations, in friendship, service in community life and choosing of one's life work, in fact, all along these lines, there are activities that help to give the girls self-expression.

The Woman's Age

(By Mrs. F. McL. Smith, Alliston, Ont.)

The Woman's Age! Oft repeated until it has become a slogan. Then one stops to consider. Is the woman making good? Is she more efficient than she was yesterday, yesterweek, yesteryear? Take this Ontario Provincial Society in retrospect.

Five years ago and to-day. In membership it has grown 30 p.c., in constitution 100 p.c. The woman of to-day knows that it is more than a woman's age. It is a young woman's age. It is to-day's girl, to-morrow's woman. In her hands rests the future of the world. No nation rises above the status of its women. The Canadian woman ranks as a queen among the women of the world. What privileges! What opportunity! What responsibility! The world looks to Canada then for leadership, training, guidance, and Canada must measure up. The Ontario Provincial Society has named this seventh annual meeting to be held in St. Paul's church, Peterborough, as decidedly a young woman's meeting, with special sessions, special speakers, special gift.

Talented Musician

Miss Marjorie Stevens, the talented little violiniste, who made such an impression with her performances at the opening of the new Capitol Theatre last Monday, is one of the musical staff of the Palace Theatre in Toronto, and has been leading the ladies' orchestra at the opening of the new Capitol theatre in Montreal. She has played in ladies' orchestras all over the Dominion, and reports a considerable lack of enthusiasm in Eastern Canada as compared with that manifested in the west, where women are taking up the study of orchestral music as a means of livelihood in ever-increasing numbers. Considerable difficulty was experienced in Montreal in the recruiting of the ladies' orchestra, and the same condition is found in Toronto. This seems rather strange, as theatres usually pay very well for good musicians, and the work is pleasant and not very arduous, while the hours, compared to many indoor occupations, are very short.

The Duties Of A Press Secretary

The Women's Missionary Society, which is holding a convention here on the first three days of next week, has a very efficient press secretary in the person of Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith, of Knox church manse, Alliston. She has written a little pamphlet entitled "The Press Secretary," which contains some helpful hints to anyone acting in this capacity, and compares the work of this official of any large society in the old days with the modern ideas of the scope of her activities. She says: "To-day we understand Press Work to mean something much larger and more insistent. It is rather the using of the daily and weekly newspaper in every city and town in the land, in the telling, as often as there is something to tell, of the work that women are doing for women, in this and other lands."

And, "let her know the Press within the bounds of her constituency,—the paper published, their importance and their circulation.—In reporting meetings let her be prmopt. That the hour is late and that she is tired does not furnish excuse for the newspaper reporter. Neither should it do so for her. Let her learn to report the things worth reporting; to be accurate as to names, initials and dates; to be concise, and, with it all, to strive to put flesh on the hard skeleton of fact and breath into the body."

"Some things that Missionary Press Secretaries are doing:

1. Working up an enthusiasm for a coming event by having printed interesting things connected therewith, each day, for some days previous.

2. Supplying striking paragraphs on subjects of world-wide missionary interest at regular intervals to a local paper.

3. Co-operating with the Missionary Societies of sister denominations in their town, in the securing of regular space for items of interest, notes and comments in connection with Missionary work.

4. Enlarging upon this, some Secretaries have been furnishing cuts to local papers of persons and places in the missionary world. These cuts are gladly loaned by the Church offices.

5. It still remains for some enterprising Secretary in a rural Presbyterial to write bright, pithy letters to her county paper. Thereby she might do more than all the others!

6. Also, since the Press stands for Publicity, the local Press woman cannot do better than prepare attractive announcements for Pulpit and Bulletin Board not of Auxiliary meetings only but of Presbyterial, Provincial and General Council meetings. Because all cannot attend these meetings, is it to be inferred that all are not a piece thereof?"

Domestic Servants

The shortage of domestic servants in Canada is pronounced as a national danger in a report of the Overseas Settlement Committee, which has just been published as a parliamentary paper in England.

"A Maid's Protest," published in the Toronto Star Weekly lately, might throw a little light on this subject. It says that, although the cost of clothing and other necessary expenses is not coming down to any appreciable extent, domestic help is always being told that maids' wages are coming down, both by the ladies and the Sunday papers. This girl makes the complaint that a woman will take from the wages which are so badly needed to add "another pair of silk stockings or gloves to her already overcrowded wardrobe, to increase her bulging capital, or she will buy a box of candy with it. The rich should pay for luxuries and there is no greater luxury in the world than having your work done for you while you sit around and entertain yourself. House work is very dreary, monotonous work and to do it the maid has to separate herself from her home and her relations, and from the outside world generally, she has to accept things just as she finds them and put up with the whims and cheap economies some ladies practice, such as cheaply furnished, badly lighted kitchens and sitting rooms or the lady who tries to save a few dollars per week on the butter and cream and then spends fifty dollars a week on a dress she never wears."

A report of a committee on household help gives the main objections to present system of household employment from the maid's point of view, as (a) Lack of companionship. (b) Lack of place to receive callers. (c) Neither fixed hours of work, nor fixed wages. (d) No standard of efficiency, which allows an untrained girl to get as much as one trained. (e) Lack of system in the house. (f) The use of Christian name.

Barbarous Dialect

Writing in the New York Times, Mr. Bliss Carman writes:

"Unquestionably American speech is sadly in need of some amendment. It is not only the uneducated who are so horribly at fault, as instanced by the barbarous dialect of the streets of New York. That is often interesting in its vivid imagination and daring. The whole speech life of the better educated seems to be growing yearly more slovenly, poverty-stricken and inelegant. Few of us habitually speak our best; we grow lazy and content ourselves with the over-used patois of the day. Every new piece of slang, whether clever or odious, we pick up and pass on as currency of thought, in lieu of the legitimate silver coinage of the American tongue."

Household Science

There are in Toronto two High Schools, one at Oakwood and one at Riverdale, which are completely equipped for courses in household science. Here "the right attitude of mind is brought to bear upon the work, waste movement is eliminated, and system stressed."

The cooking lesson includes directions for typical and standard dishes, there are courses in laundry work, in preserving and canning, in artistic house furnishings, in the reactions of various kinds of woods to varnish, paint, soap, and water, and wear and tear, in bed-making, first aid and the care of invalids. There are even mock receptions held at intervals to teach the girls how to administer tea, cut ices, "pour," and receive their guests.

As the report says: "Can you not see in this grand little army of coming home-makers that daily practises the various domestic arts under the eye of a most competent instructress so many happy and successful housewives of the future? No more indigestion for "hubby." Babys food prepared scientifically. A clean, comfortable home run on a schedule with the minimum of friction and cluttering up. Joy, peace, contentment, prosperity in the house, and divorce lawyers put right out of business."

Too many women who remember their own school days and the vast amount of totally undigested information that was showered on their luckless heads in those days, a common sense education like this for their daughters would appeal very, very strongly. In our grandmothers' days there were the Latin verbs which were so popular. Strings of them to memorize and recite, and how many are remembered to-day? Then came another era of unnecessary stuff. Grammar, with its parsing and analyzing. Could any of my readers out of school for the last ten years and more analyze a sentence to-day? Or did we parse sentences and anayze words? Who knows? Then the participles, and the prepositions and the conjunctions with which our young days were darkened. And the botany! There are several things I can remember about botany. One prond item of information is that a sweet pea has a papilianaceous corolla, and there is also something lingering in memory about palmately and pinnately-net-veined leaves. As for the rest, it is regretfully stated that a rose is simply a rose to the writer, and from a botanical standpoint, and with regard to its Latin name one can always sympathize with Mr Peter Bell, to whom

"A primrose by the river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more."

As for the educational fads of the present generation, not having attended school for some time, there is no first hand information to count on, but it is quite safe to say that there are some branches of instruction which the boys and girls are stewing over in these days that will never, never be of any practical use to the majority of them, and a consideration of the common-senseness of the course for girls as outlined above is refreshing when one realizes its adaptability to the present and future lives of the students engaged in its study.

Old Masters

According to a connoisseur, Mr. J. C. Freeman, of Chicago, there are approximately only 1000 genuine old master violins in the world. The list comprises 400 Stradivarius, 250 Nicholas Amati, 150 Guarenrius and 200 Bergonzi. He speaks of the spurious labels which were affixed in former years to new commercial instruments and says "it is a fact that no genuine Stradivarius has been unearthed either in America or in Europe in over 50 years."

A writer in a recent article concerning violins, makes the claim that any cheap instrument of indifferent tone can be vastly improved by the insertion of a double sounding board. He asserts that a poor fiddle treated in this way was once offered to Ole Bull, the famous violinist, for examination, and he was unable to distinguish its tone from that of a genuine Strad.

Madame Curie

Madame Currie, who with her deceased husband, discovered radium, the most wonderful and expensive material in the world, will on the ocasion of her visit to Washington on May 20th, be presented by President Harding with a gift of radium from the women of the United States which has a value of $100,000. The American women have already raised $60,000 and expect to secure the needed $100,000 before the 1st of May.

Madame Currie, who since her discovery of radium, has also perfected so many uses for it, gave all of her available supply to France in war time for medical purposes; in fact she practically impoverished herself in this way, and now finds it impossible, owing to the excessive price of the material to procure any more for further experiments. Hence this gift on the part of the American women, who feel that the most aceptable form in which to show their appreciation of the great French woman is to present her with a supply of her own discovery in order that she may proceed with her wonderful research work.

The Famous Creator of Fashions

IN CHOOSING CLOTHES for the varied events of the day, the well-dressed woman seeks first to obtain the lines that will accentuate the beauty of her figure. If she is of rather portly proportions she will strive to attain a slender effect by affecting long, graceful lines. If, on the other hand, she has an attenuated figure, she will soften its angles by adopting ruffles and more bouffant draperies.

But if she would achieve greater individuality she must consider color in its relation to her eyes or hair. To enhance their beauty is an important consideration, for color reacts not only on the spirits of the person who favors certain shades, but it also exerts its influence on those around.

Each different type of coloring demands particular shades. But if their values are once learned and appreciated, any woman may possess distinction in her attiring. The brunette possesses quite a wide number of colors from which she may make her choice. Care, however, should be exercised even in their selection, for the girl with brunette hair may have a lovely olive complexion or a somewhat sallow skin.

As a rule, intense and brilliant colors are those best suited to the coloring of the brunette. Green must be avoided, otherwise a rather sickly tone pervades the complexion. Brown, too, takes away from the beauty of the face and suggests a muddiness that is far from pleasing.

Her Street Attire

For the street suit black or navy is admirable. Then gray tweeds, black and white checks or stripes are also excellent. Of course, combined with these, one may add bright touches in the trimmings. This is interestingly interpreted in the blue [illegible] Designed with a long tunic [illegible] with red soutache trimming the shoulders and on the front [illegible] The sleeves are long and [illegible] on the forearm. A gold [illegible] introduces another delightful [illegible] on the dress. Three rather [illegible] flounces offset the long lines [illegible] With this striking creation [illegible] hat is worn, for brilliant shades [illegible]decidedly becoming to the brunette.

The shape of this hat is quite picturesque, while its trimming of satin bows forms an effective contrast to the tresses.

The brunette who has a somewhat sallow complexion will rejoice in the purple charmeuse dress that is depicted on this page. This color is especially becoming and is not too brilliant for outdoor wear. With this frock I have introduced some jade straps and buttons. These are placed upon the shoulder to bridge the space that is really a continuation of the neckline. The bodice blouses softly about the figure and is restrained at the waistline by a soft girdle that is tied at the side.

Unusual but most attractive drapery is disposed on the front and back of the skirt. This is developed in the purple charmeuse and held in place by large jade buttons. Jade earrings are quite harmonious, and the wavy tresses are topped by a fascinating little hat of cerise satin. To its side is attached a gorgeous flower, also wrought in cerise satin.

The all-black hat is an exceedingly attractive addition to the headgear of the brunette, for it may be worn with any frock or suit. I have chosen one of draped black satin to accompany the orange flannel dress. The simple lines of the hat achieve decided individuality by the use of the waving glycerined feather. Black is used with admirable restraint on the dress, which boasts a vestee of black satin. The wide-mouthed sleeves reveal their lining of black satin.

The decoration of this dress is uncommon. The tassels that edge the somewhat tight underskirt and flare from the waist and neckline, are of gold. They are attached to the dress by orange wool and gold thread. This dress, admirable for the woman of slender figure, has the fullness effectively held in on the side by these tassels.

It is, of course, in the modes for evening that the most gorgeous colors may be worn advantageously. The brunette will find that there are many shades of cream that greatly enhance the beauty of her coloring. Then certain yellows, especially those that have quite a tinge of canary in them, are excellent. The brunette, however, should avoid yellows that lean toward green, as this will lend a wanness to the complexion that detracts immeasurably from her beauty.

The Evening Gown

In the evening gown that I have created especially for a brunette, I favor a thin gold tissue. This creation possesses wonderful lines and shows unusual draperies. Gold beads are embroidered all over it and at intervals handsome floral motifs are developed. The tissue in a narrow strand girdles the shoulders and from these points forms two floating trains. In the back the waist is held up by flesh marquisette, which seems to take on a richer color by the reflection from the lining of the trains. This is a warm copper color, and it is also used with striking effect to line the bouffant draperies that distinguish one side of the gown.

Gold flowers are arranged on the opposite side of the gown, while a fold of gold ribbon encircles the part of the waistline that is untrimmed by these lovely blossoms. The hair gains a more lovely sheen from the petals of the gold flowers that are interestingly disposed amid its tresses.

Among accessories of dress there are many delightful novelties that appeal to the woman who realizes the importance of these details. The Directoire vestee is of particular interest now that many charming creations are being originated along the lines of this well-liked style. It has a high collar and is finished with a frill which is placed at the left side.

Another charming model with shirring down the front boasts a handsome jabot. The material is gathered very full around the neck beneath the high crushed collar. This vestee has matching undersleeves of exquisitely fine lingerie cloth.

Bracelets are still in high favor with the fashionably attired woman. Many are worn together, but they need not be of the same metal or enriched with similar jewels. When two are used on one arm very often the combination of one ivory bracelet and one of tortoise shell is noted. Another type of bracelet is that made of tiny pearl beads strung on a small chain. Such bracelets may be of great length, for they are wound around the arm a number of times and fastened at the wrist.

Egyptian and oriental motifs are shown in the new neck chains. The pendants are imitations of the scarab, sometimes enriched with tiny colored stones in fascinating color combinations. The colored silk cords to which they are attached often match these stones.

Cut crystal is also much in request this season. Neck chains, pendants, bracelets and hatpins show most pleasing use of the stones. The hatpins are both large and small in shape. Some are designed with a crystal button from which hangs a chain and jet drop. Others have several rings of colored stones, which make splendid decorations for the hat.

The Fashion Forecast

Dull finished taffetas in heavy grosgrain weaves will be extremely fashionable for the spring frock. More elaborate afternoon models will be developed in brocades which show interesting patterns in silver or gold.

A CAMPBELLFORD SCHOOL TEACHER RECEIVES SALARY OF $150 A YEAR AND PAYS DOLLAR A WEEK FOR BOARD

INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON THE TRENT VALLEY TOWN AS IT EXISTED SEVENTY YEARS AGO—THE FIRST "ORANGE WALK."

The following interesting paper on Campbellford in its early days was read by Mrs. Rendle at a meeting of the Epworth League held recently in that town:

"I have been requested by a member of your League to write an article on the early history of our town—'Seymour Bridge'—as it was then called. I have much pleasure in doing so to the best of my ability.

"I arrived here with my parents on July 11th, 1850, seventy years ago. The date is indelibly fixed on my mind by seeing next day, for the first time, the 'Orange Walk.' It was an exceedingly small one, consisting, if my memory is not at fault, of about 40 or 50 per sons, followed, as usual, by all the younger population of the village. Towards evening, after paying frequent visits to the two hotels the village boasted of, they became very hilarious, and I can safely say not one could walk a chalk mark. Compare this with the Orange parade of to-day. At that time the place was a mere wilderness. There was a beautiful beech wood on our present school site, indeed, all the surroundings were principally woods. At the time I speak of, there may have been from 20 to 25 families, but this is rather a large estimate. The greater part of the population resided on the 'Patch.' Of this place, more hereafter. We lived in a rough-cast house, which occupied the site of the late Dr. Bonnycastle's home, and was really the best house in the village. There were two hotels, one on each side of the river, two stores, a blacksmith shop, a shoe shop, and a few log houses and shanties. The hotel on the west side was kept by a jolly old couple named Willman. Some of their descendants are with us to-day. The one on the east side was kept by a man named Miller. They, too, kept an excellent house, and some of their descendants are with us to-day. Of the two stores, the one on the east side where the Standard Bank is was kept by the Gibbs Brothers, that on the west side by Mr. Cockburn. But I must not forget to mention the little schoolhouse. You may have seen the picture of it beside its successors. It was about the size of a good sized bed-room of to-day. The Post Office was on the 'Patch.' A man named Boland was Postmaster and school teacher. A doctor named Fergus also lived there. It was he who laid the original foundation of the store building now occupied by Mr. Robert Linton. I remember when my father took three of us to school, Mr. Boland making the remark he didn't know how he was going to manage so many. He may have had, all told, about 20 pupils, most of these came from the 'Patch.' This was so called from a collection of log houses now owned by the Paper Mill Company. It was a beautiful level spot and the river bank most picturesque.

Used as a Church.

"The schoolhouse was used also as a church. The Rev. Dr. Neil preached there many years. When it got too small, he used the Town Hall, which later had been built. The religious services of other denominations were held over stores or any other convenient place which could accomodate them.

"At low water, the river was fordable, both above and below the bridge, which was very convenient, as the bridge, a wooden one, frequently broke down. Once I saw a man carrying a small cooking stove, wade the river. He was moving from the east to the west side. People had to do lots of strange things in those early days.

"The town was named Campbellford after Major Campbell, who owned the greater part of the east side. Mr. Cockburn and Kirkoffee bought this property and laid it out in lots, and made many improvements, so that the village gradually increased in size and importance. If we consider our little town beautiful now, what must it have been in those days with so many natural beauties, both sides of the river clothed in the most beautiful verdure. The comical little French-Canadians, with their picturesque garb and funny language, all summer brought down huge rafts of timber, at least, until the water became too low, then, they very often came to grief.

Climate Changed.

"The climate, too, has changed. The winters were longer and the summers hotter with more storms. Sleighing generally lasted from November until the middle of April, sometimes longer. We looked forward to picking May flowers about the 24th of May. Then, we always had several weeks of mild, hazy eather in the late fall. This was called the Indian summer, and very pleasant it was, too.

"It would seem rather odd in the present day to see our farmers' wives drive into town on ox-sleighs, clad in their homespun. Yes, and I have seen many of them smoking their clay pipes, poor things! They had so few pleasures, but they were, after all, a happy lot. A great contrast to the wives of to-day. Now they come in fashionable cloth, not in ox-carts and sleighs, but automobiles and carriages. Silks and satins were unknown, but I doubt if the farmers' wives of to-day are any happier than their less favored sisters were. The farmers had to take their produce into Brighton or Trenton, and as there were many stopping-places en route, they did not always bring home much money. A great deal of buying and selling was done by bartering. I heard my father laugh heartily about a farmer's daughter wanting to trade an egg for a darning-needle—she got it, too.

Present Schools.

"On the site of our present schools, I remember seeing posts marked T.V.C. What a long time they were building it, but I have heard that the money set apart for that purpose was used to quell the rebellion.

"During the early sixties, it became necessary to have an assistant teacher and Miss Ogilvie filled that position until 1866. I succeeded her with a salary of $150 a year. Think of that, you teachers of to-day! All the holidays we had, with few exceptions, were two weeks in mid-summer, one at Christmas and every other Saturday. But to offset the small salary, I never paid more than a dollar a week for board. After a few years, it again became necessary to enlarge the school accomodations, and I was promoted to the Town Hall. Then I had an average of 90 and 100 pupils. I also, with aid from the larger pupils, lighted my own fires, did the sweeping, and, indeed, very frequently hacked pine from the pine stumps to start the fire. I forgot to say, though, that my salary was raised $50, which came about in the following manner: A rural trustee offered me that increase to teach his school. Of course, I could not afford to refuse such a good chance, but when I told the trustees I intended leaving, the late Mr. Kennedy said: 'Well, Miss Archer, if they can afford to give you so much, I guess we can.'

"Living in those days was not as luxurious as now. Money was scarce, but we could buy 10 lbs. of butter for a dollar, and about 15 dozen of eggs. Meat, too, was cheap, chickens 25 cents a pair, and I have bought geese for 25 cents apiece, and turkeys 50 to 75 cents each. So you see we had many advantages over the present day. The best beech and maple wood was about a dollar a cord, wild fruit was to be had in great abundance, but sugar was dear, so we dried much of the small fruits. Of course, there were many hardships incidental to a young country, but I really believe people were more contended and happier.

The Town Library.

"In those days there were all kinds of bees, namely, quilting, logging, plowing, cabbage and apple bees, and the lads and lasses had the time of their lives. Seymour also boasted a small library. I think it started about 1858. People paid a penny to take a book out. After a time, this was given up, and, eventually, formed the neucleus of our present library. This was brought about mainly through the exertions of the late Mr. Kennedy, Father Casey and Mr. Lynch, who, by great perseverance, finally accomplished their object.

"Women wove, spun, dyed and made their own clothes, also blankets and full cloth. They used great ingenuity in making the different dyes. A good black was made from bark of white oak trees with the addition of copperas, a good grey was also made from the sumac, a yellow from golden rod, and with the addition of indigo, a green. We made ink from oak bark and copperas and red from crushing a bright scarlet weed which grew in our yards.

Grew Rapidly.

"After 1870, the village grew more rapidly. Mills were built and various other industries started, and our railroad soon became a certainty. There are persons now living who can give you much better information than I can. There are also a few grandparents who remember being taught in the Town Hall, which was then the boundary of civilization, and, let me tell you, a building of some consequence. Its uses were many and varied—court, council, jail, church, school and all entertainments. These are a few of the uses the good old standby was put to.

"I have tried to give you a true account of those pioneer days, when our present town was a mere wilderness. The great advancement of late years you all know. Then we used tallow candles, and when we could not get them, a saucer filled with grease or a bit of rag did duty. When coal-oil came, we thought it wonderful, but very dangerous, and the bread made in the old bake kettles was a thing to remember. What a contrast to-day! Then was heard the echo of the axe; now it is the car and whirl of machinery. I fear I have not been very consecutive in many things, but I am sure you will pardon these shortcomings—it is so many, many years ago, a reality, but still a dream."

DUMMER COUNCIL IN FOURTH SESSION

TO ADVANCE $5,000 FOR ROAD OVERSEER'S REQUIREMENTS

WARSAW, April 20.—The fourth meeting of the Municipal Council of the Township of Dummer for the year 1921, was held in the Town Hall at Warsaw, on Friday April 15, commencing at 11 a.m.

Mr. J. F. Jory applied to the council to have it arranged so that he could pay any employees for work, by himself, giving a cheque on the bank, instead of giving an order on the Treasurer, as this would save them an extra journey to the Treasurer's office instead of going to the Bank in the first place. On motion a resolution was passed to authorize the Treasurer to advance and set over to the account of the Township Road Overseer, Mr. J. F. Jory, the sum of $500. to be paid out to employees by his cheque, for work and expenditure on roads in the Township of Dummer, until next meeting of Council

Mr. Robert Tedford applied to the Council for permission to put gates and fence in the road allowance on that part of the fifth Concession line on the wetern front of lots Nos 11 and 12 in the Townships of Dummer. On motion his application was granted until the road is required by the Council to be opened up and gates removed.

On motion a by-law will be prepared and passed at next meeting of Council to authorize the Treasurer to advance and set over to the account of the Township Road Overseers, in trust, to be expended on roads and bridges in the Township of Dummer, the account of $5000, in proportionate amounts as may be required from time to time by him for expenditure on roads in the Township of Dummer.

Accounts to be Paid.

On motion the following accounts were passed by the Council for payment: John A. McMillan, for repairing Buck's bridge, $34.80; Norwood Register, printing 15 sheets of Auditors' Report $21.93; Hugh McDonald, funeral expenses of Peter Storms, $67.00; H. Darling, balance of salary as collector, $45.00; Harold Darling, refund of interest on abatement, $16.40.

Council adjourned, to meet as a Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll, on Friday, May 27, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

REFERENDUM RETURNS SOUTH MONAGHAN

The correct returns for the two polls in South Monaghan gave a majority of 200 to the "drys." The votes were:

Centreville—Yes, 122; No, 25.
Bensfort—Yes, 120; No, 17.

What is a "Person-to-Person" Long Distance Call?

WHEN you ask the Long Distance operator to get Mr. Somebody in a distant city, she must not only establish connection with his telephone, but must do so at a time when he is available and willing to talk.

The obligation on the operator here is greater than in the case of a Station-to-Station call, and the additional expense and circuit use involved make a higher rate for this type of call reasonable.

Again, when the calling party, in placing a call, names a specified time at which he wants to talk and the conversation is held accordingly, the "appointment" rate applies. Additional operating labor and circuit time have been required to make the appointment.

By studying their Long Distance requirements, subscribers can effect economies and make the service more valuable and convenient.

If there is anything about our rates and practices you do not understand, please call our Manager and he will be glad to explain.

DISTURBING ELEMENT.

A well-to-do Scottish woman one day said to her gardener:

"Man Tammas, I wonder you don't get married. You've a nice house, and all you want to complete it is a wife. You know the first gardener that ever lived had a wife."

A Maid (handing in two books to a library assistant) — Will you change these two books, please, for Mrs. Crawley-Smith?

Assistant —Are there any others you wish for?

Maid—No. Mrs. Crawley-Smith doesn't mind what they are so long as they have big print and a happy ending.

HE GUESSED RIGHT.

"Do you love me for myself alone?" he asked her.

"Why, certainly, silly," she said wonderingly. "What else should I love you for?"

"My automobile."

The startled look that came over her face made him wonder if he hadn't hit it right after all.

Buy at Reduced Prices During MARSHALL MONTH

MARSHALL Mattresses were never reduced by our authority or co-operation before. Not in the 20 years they have been manufactured. This occasion is something new and unprecedented.

You have an extraordinary opportunity now to buy a genuine Marshall Mattress instead of a common mattress or an imitation. Do not let it slip.

Marshall Mattresses are famous

The Marshall Ventilated Mattress was put on the market first 20 years ago. It embodied a new principle of construction—the use of hundreds of fine spring steel wire coils, each enclosed in a cotton pocket, set upright, side by side, and sewn into position. Over these and under these were laid two inches of curled hair or fine cotton felt. The ticking which enclosed the whole was pierced and eyeleted at the ends to allow the free passage of air through the curled hair or the felt, and the bellows-like action of the spring coils, in conformity with every movement and pressure of the body resting upon it, caused the air to be drawn in or expelled. Thus the mattress actually breathed, and always kept itself aired.

It is not necessary to turn this mattress more than once or twice a year. It is always ventilated, never sags or spreads, or works into hollows. It is guaranteed for five years, during which time the manufacturers will repair free of all expense to the purchaser any Marshall Mattress whose springs are damaged from ordinary wear.

The demand for the Marshall Mattress has steadily grown. It's reputation for comfort and "sanitariness" is such that it is installed in the best bedrooms of many of the leading hotels of Canada and the United States, as well as in thousands of the most luxurious homes.

But Canada is entering on a new and a peculiar business era, so we are doing something without precedent. We are co-operating with the leading furniture dealers to hold a Spring Demonstration, and to emphasize the occasion we have arranged for reduced prices, for April only, on the four Marshall lines—The Marshall Hair Top Ventilated Mattress, the Marshall Cotton Top, the "Marshaldown" Mattress, and the "Marshalfelt" Mattress.

Ask your Dealer to explain their different advantages. This is Marshall Month.

Pretty Things Already To Be Made Prettier

With the Aid of the Fancy Work Needle

Otonabee Silk-Mix Wool, 35c One-Ounce Balls

Something New in the Way of Yarn

It is half wool and half silk. The result is a fluffy wool like appearance with a silken sheen. All women who have seen it comment on its beauty and the wonderful possibilities it presents. We can imagine the beautiful jackets and things that woman, skilled in the making of such goods, will create.

It is interesting and gratifying to note that this innovation in the realm of knitting wools is not only made in Canada but made in Peterborough.

Stamped Gowns, 98c

Made from a nainsook of the same fineness and firmness that you would select if you were purchasing it by the yard. They are hemmed and ready for the embroidery needle. With each gown goes three skeins of Peri Lusta.

Pique Stamped Dresses, $1.85

White, of course, and for children from 5 to 6 years. Some have scalloped bottoms and others are hemmed. When the floral stampings are embroidered the effect will be pleasing.

Sports Wool in 2-Ounce Skeins, 49c

In this splendid wool we have every color that one could wish for: seal, jade, mauve, sky, purple, Royal, American beauty, salmon, sea green, henna, buff, peacock, coral, cadet, reindeer, Oxford, cardinal, flame, maroon, Paddy, pink, navy, black and white.

Tortoise Shell and Metal Purse Tops, $1.35

We purchased these at a special price, and believe we made a good buy. The shell ones have reinforced edges. The metal kind have a grey finish and are patterned with floral embossing. The shapes are semi-circular and square.

Children's Stamped Rompers, $1.35

These will fit children from 1 to 4 years. The stamped patterns are bunny designs that make an instant appeal to children and mothers. The material is white pique. The neck and sleeves are scalloped.

Baby Carriage Covers, $1.35

They are of white pique and the edges are stamped with scallops and in the centre and corners are handsome floral patterns. The size is suitable for any carriage and the quality of the pique is good.

Stamped Pillow Cases, $1.39 Pair

These cases are made of a particularly good quality of cotton. The stamped designs are floral and scalloped and are suitable for eyelet work. French knots and satin stitch. They are finished with a scalloped edge. The width is 42 inches.

Tray Cloths

Pure linen damask tray cloths with stamped scalloped edges come at $3.25. Part linen tray cloths with hemstitched edges and floral stamping on the ends come at 98c.

Mull Gowns, $3.50

These gowns are already worked and ready for wear. You have choice of pink or pale blue. The sleeves are kimona style and the neck round, and both are finished with crochet edging, in color to match. There is also an embroidery motif on the yoke.

Dresser Scarfs, $2.25

Pure linen, white in color and scalloped edges, ready for crocheting. They are also hemstitched on the edges and stamped with pretty patterns. There is an assortment of designs.

Linen Crash Runners, $2.25

They are made of a heavy linen crash with deep hemstitched ends and stamped conventional designs on the ends.

Another line of brown linen but of a cheaper quality, has rough edges and stamped ends. Prices at $1.75 and $1.85.

Pillow Slips, $5.50 Pair

They are finished and ready for use. The ends are handsomely worked with crochet and there is an inset crochet panel on the end in a pleasing design. They are 42-inch size.

Brown Crash Centres, 98c

A fine quality brown crash in a 22-inch centre. There is an assortment of butterfly, floral basket and conventional flower patterns. A larger, 27-inch size, in a slightly better grade, is priced at $1.65.

EARLY CHERRY AND PEACH TREES BLOOM

UNUSUALLY EARLY HAPPENINGS IN ESSEX COUNTY—POTATOES FED TO COWS.

The following is a summary of the reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

It is estimated that in some of the Lake Erie and West Midland counties from 15 to 30 per cent. of spring seeding has already been done, although even there, some farmers have put in little or nothing yet.

Essex and Middlesex claim that some early planting of potatoes already has been done.

Some early cherry and peach trees were reported to be in bloom in Essex by the middle of April, an unusually early occurrence. Welland fears loss to early cherries by recent severe weather. The general opinion, however, is that up to the time of reporting, fruit prospects generally were on the whole quite satisfactory.

The latest reports regarding fall wheat are most encouraging, as the crop has been gathering strength during the last few weeks.

Red clover is also looking better thon it promised in March, and alfalfa has a better appearance than clover.

Sweet clover will likely be more generally grown than in 1920, but it is doubtful whether many will raise it in such large quantities for seed, as prices have been discouraging. Farmers in Rainy River are selling seet clover seed locally, but can find no outside market for it. Grey, however, says that some farmers are ploughing up sweet clover fields for the sowing of rough grains.

Hastings states that in that county large quantities of potatoes are being fed to cows. Potatoes are hard to sell anywhere. Prices range all the way from 0 to 90 cents a bag, in Middlesex to $2.00 a bag in Port Arthur district. The representative of the latter district says that some farmers seem to think that after all this will be a good season to plant, as so many will be afraid to go heavily into them again.

The Cattle Market.

Hogs are scarce, and are selling at from $12.00 to $13.00 a cwt. Brood sows, however, are in brisk demand, and so are little pigs, which are selling at from $6.00 to $8.00 each when about six weeks old.

A number of sheep were clipped a week or two ago—too early, in the opinion of some, as the cold weather following has been hard on the animals.

Brant says that a man has been doing the job at 25 cents a fleece for the members of a local sheep breeders' association. The Grey representative speaks of a farmer in that county whose eleven ewes bore twenty-four lambs.

More farm labourers than usual are said to be available, but experienced help is still scarce, especially among single men. Newly arrived immigrants with a knowledge of farming are much in demand.

NEWS FROM EAST EMILY

EAST EMILY, April 21. — The roads were very muddy and sloppy on Monday for the people of this district to get out to vote on the referendum, but, however, all the farmers interested managed to get there and take their wives and daughters.

PULP MILL PRACTICALLY ASSURED FOR HAILEYBURY

HAILEYBURY, April 21.—Business men in Haileybury express the opinion that the erection of a large pulp mill on the shore of Lake Timiskaming, at a point about two miles north of the town, is practically assured. It is stated that everything now seems to hinge upon the question of being given the advantage of a fixed assessment, not to exceed some $30,000 for the first ten or twelve years. The site chosen lies at the outlet of Dickson Creek, and is situation in the township of Bucke. The question of receiving the benefit of a fixed assessment is now before the Township Council. The question of securing certain rights from the Dominion Government as to use of the required water frontage has also to be arranged.

THE HOME CIRCLE

(By Edgr A. Guest.)
From the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The great were once as you.
They whom men magnify today.
Once groped and blundered on life's way,
Were fearful of themselves, and thought
By magic was men's greatness wrought.
They feared to try what they could do;
Yet fame has crowned with her success
The selfsame gifts that you possess.

The great were once as you.
Dreaming the dreams you hold
Longing yet fearing to be bold,
Doubting that they themselves possessed
The strength and skill for every test
Uncertain of the truths they knew,
Not sure that they could stand to fate
With all the courage of the great.

Then came a day when they
Their first bold venture made,
Scorning to cry for aid,
They dared to stand the fight alone,
Took up the gauntlet life had thrown,
Charged full-front to the fray,
Mastered their fear of self, and then
Learned that our great men are but men.

Oh, Youth, go forth and do!
You, too, to fame may rise;
You can be strong and wise.
Stand up to life and play the man—
You can if you'll but think you can;
The great were once as you
You envy them their proud success?
'Twas won with gifts that you possess.

The following is taken from an essay of Dr. Frank Crane on the subject, "Dad"—one that is very dear to our heart. And the way he handles it shows that he "understands."

Dear Dad: I am writing this to you though you have been dead for thirty years.

From your seat in the Place Beyond I hope you can see these lines. I feel that I must say somethings to you, things I didn't know when I was a boy in your house, and things I was too stupid to say.

It's only now, after passing through the long, hard school of years, only now, when my own hair is gray, that I understand how you felt.

I must have been a bitter trial to you. I was such an ass. I believed my own petty widsom, and I know now how ridiculous it was, compared to that calm, ripe, wholesome wisdom of yours.

Most of all I want to confess my worst sin against you. It was the feeling I had that you "did not understand."

When I look back over it now, I know that you did understand. You understood me better than I did myself. Your wisdom flowed around mine like the ocean around an island.

And how patient you were with me. How full of long-suffering and kindness.

And how pathetic, it now comes home to me, were your efforts to get close to me, to win my confidence, to be my pal!

I wouldn't let you. I couldn't. What was it held me aloof? I don't know. But it is tragic—that wall that rises between a boy and his father, and their frantic attempts to see through it and climb over it.

Haven't you all heard men say in a boasting tone of voice, "Why I haven't had a vacation in ten years." Let me tell you right now that such insane adherence to work is nothing to boast about. Half of the men that make such a boast are loafing on the job constantly and for that reason they don't need to take any particular time for a vacation; the other half are on the verge of a vacation not to their liking and confined to about six feet of earth. There is something wrong with the organization of any business if its heads cannot take an occasional vacation.

Let us never forget that God made home among the first things that He created. Before commerce and trade, laws and statutes, thrones and altars, there were men and woman, fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, lovers and friends, hearthstones and homes.

"The world is God's workshop; the raw materials are his; the ideals and patterns are his. The task is ours, to do with the brain he has given and the life he has created, some worthy helpful work for the services of man and the glory of God."

The time of the year approaches when duels are fought daily between the best neighbors over the question of gardens and chickens.

NOTHING NEW.

"You look like an idiot," thundered the digusted man to his swell son, just returned from college. "You grow more and more like a conceited, hare-brained, helpless idiot." Just then an acquaintance of the old gentleman entered the office and saw the youth. "Hello, Charlie, back, eh?" exclaimed the visitor. "You're lookin gmore and more like your father every year." "Yes," siad Charlie, "that's just that the governor's been telling me."

Enough meat and lard are held in cold storage warehouses in the United States to supply the American public for about 10 days.

In large cities in the United States, more than 90 per cent. of the commercial business is done by checks or drafts, less than 10 per cent. being done in cash.

As a result of the numerous holidays, the labor question among the Serbians is a real problem. One hundred holidays are celebrated in the Balkan kingdom every year.

An appropriation of $446,000 was made by the City Council of Detroit, Mich., for relief work by the Public Welfare Department among families of unemployed workmen.

The average price per head, all ages, of cattle on farms in the United States, other than milk cows was $35.92 in 1917, $44.22 in 1919 and $31.41 in 1921.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs."

After hair growth

INDIANS' SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

Mr. Brittain certified further: "At a time when I had become discouraged at trying to grow my hair again, I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days."

True Hair Grower at Last

"That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the then mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this, now called KOTALKO, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist. That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

METHODIST PASTORS ON THE MOVE; MANY TRANSFERS MADE

TORONTO, April 20.— Numerous transfers from one Methodist conference to another were made here by the Methodist general transfer committee.

Rev. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church in Canada, presided at the committee, and Rev. W. T. Neal was appointed secretary. Presidents of all the Methodist conferences were in attendance.

Interim transfers: Harry Royle, Newfoundland to London.

Transfer of supernumerary: Aquilla Lucas, New Brunswick to London.

MANY PEOPLE INVITE APPENDICITIS ATTACK

Appendicitis is often due to infection from old, retained waste matter. Even though bowels move daily poisons may accumulate in the system for months. The intestinal antiseptic Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing ALL foul, decaying matter which might start infection. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or chronic constipation. Adler-i-ka removes matter which you never thought was in your system. ONE single dose will surprise you. McDermid & Jury and E. L. Payne, druggists.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 21 (Canadian Press). — Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western extended its gain to 14 points during the morning, and Kansas City Southern also strengthened, but the rails group showed little support. Steels and equipments also lacked recuperative power, and food shares were heavy, especially Jewel Tea Preferred and Food Products.

Oils continued to feature the constructive side of the market, notably the low-priced issues, such as Cosden, Union and White, as well as Phillips Petroleum, which rose one to three points.

Miscellaneous issues, including American Ice, National Biscuit, and Adams Express, also gained one to three points.

Call money on the exchange again opened at 6 1-2 per cent., although lending at 6 per cent. in outside markets.

The strength of Studebaker and the weakness of steels, food shares and high priced oils, unsettled the list in the more lively dealings of the final hour. The closing was heavy.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 21 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange steady. Sterling demand 392 3-8, cables 393-1-8; Canadian dollar 11 1-16 per cent. discount.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts 436, trade brisk. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10.50; butcher steers, choice, $9.00 to $10.25; medium, $7.00 to $8.00; butcher heifers, choice, $9.00 to $10.00; butcher cows, choice, $7.50 to $8.70; medium, $5.00 to $7.00; calves, choice, $12.00 to $14.00; lambs, none; hogs, selects, $12.00 to $12.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 21 (Canadian Press).—Toward the last the market advanced owing more or less to the signs of export business. The close was firm, 3-4 to 2 net higher, with May 122 1-4 to 122 1-2 and July 106 1-4 to 106 1-2.

It was said the offerings of corn had slightly increased from Indiana and Illinois. The corn close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-2 lower, with July 61 7-8.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—An eight point over-night advance in Riordon was the outstanding feature of the morning session on the Toronto Stock Exchange. On sales of 475 shares the price was boosted 3½ points higher, until 45 was reached. From there the stock slid off to 39 and closed at noon with 41 quoted. This represents a net recovery of 7½ points from yesterday's extreme low.

Canada S. S. Preferred also showed a revival from yesterday, with a net gain of three points resulting from rather light trading. Brazilian was a weak feature, however, selling down to 29¼, a loss of 1¼ points from yesterday's close. Toronto Railway was in demand, and dealings in hundred shares boosted the price one point. Outside of the four issues above mentioned, there was very little of interest transpired this morning on the local exchange.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The market was fairly active all morning. Riordon did not live up to expectations, but sagged four points and closed at 41. Abitibi advanced half a point before the closing, while Atlantic Sugar was also stronger, closing at 29 1-8. Brazilian, however, was weaker and closed at 29¼, but Brompton went up another ¼ to 33 1-4. Laurentide lost fractionally and closed at 89 1-4. National Breweries was particularly strong, advancing to 42½, at which figure it closed. Spanish River was stronger at 71, and Wayagamack did not change.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE TO GRAPE CROPS

That in Chatauqua-Erie Belt Said to Be a Total Loss.

HAMILTON, April 21.—This season's grape crop in the Chautauqua-Erie belt is practically a total loss, according to an announcement issued by the National Grape Growers' Association, and read at a conference in St. Catharines between members of the Niagara Grape Growers, Ltd., and the provisional directors of the Niagara District Fruit Growers' Association. On the Canadian side half the grape crop is lost east of Beamsville owing to the changeable weather of late and in some parts of the Niagara Peninsula the crop is a total loss. Sour cherries were reported to be a total loss. Pears are badly damaged, peaches are in fair condition and apples are not injured.

ORDERED TO REDUCE PRICES OF FOOD

French Under-Secretary Issues Instructions to Delecatessen Dealers.

PARIS, April 21.—Andre Paisant, Under Secretary for Food, to-day summoned the officers of the Delicatessen Dealers' Association and told them they must reduce prices in accordance with the wholesale market. He also asked the restaurant proprietors to attend a conference Saturday to discuss reductions in prices.

Meantime the police and Government officials are filing scores of charges against butchers, whom the newspapers assert are paying little attention to the Government's order to reduce prices, some of them openly defying the order and others changing the grading of meats.

JOHN P. CUDAHY ENDS HIS OWN CAREER

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—John J. (Jack) Cudahy, member of the Kansas City family of packers, was found dead here in his residence in the Hollywood section of Los Angeles. The police said Cudahy apparently had killed himself by placing the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and pulling the trigger with his toes.

There was some delay in establishing the identity of Cudahy owing to the effect of the gunshot wound, the police said. The officers and servants at the residence finally made the definite announcement that the dead man was the well-known Jack Cudahy and that he had killed himself. The dead man, who was 43 years old, and his wife and children had lived in Pasadena and Los Angeles for several years.

STOP SALE OF BOOK AS TOO FLIPPANT ABOUT MRS. EDDY

SHE IS CALLED 'THRICE MARRIED FEMALE TRISMEGISTUS' IN HISTORY OF LITERATURE

NEW YORK, April 21.—Because Albert F. Gilmore, in charge of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for the State of New York, objected to an article, "Science and Health," in the fourth and last volume of "The Cambridge History of American Literature," G. P. Putnam's Sons have stopped the sale of the volume, discontinued the publication of any more copies, and will recall all the volumes so far on the market. The volume was issued just a month ago.

The offending article was written by Dr. Woodbridge Riley, professor of philosophy in Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and he is exceedingly angry at the treatment he has received. The most offending part was where Mrs. Eddy is called "the thrice-married female Trismegistus."

Major George Haven Putnam and Irving Putnam, who are brothers, have arranged to have Dr. Riley's article eliminated at once and to have the Rev. Dr. Lyman P. Powell, President of Hobart College, N.Y., write a substitute article.

Irving Putnam said last evening that it would cost his firm "a great deal" to suppress the volume and issue another, and that between 1,500 and 2,000 books had already gone out. He said it was the first time that any book issued by Putnam's Sons had ever been recalled or suppressed. He characterized Dr. Riley's article as "outrageous." He had not read it until his attention was called ot it by Mr. Gilmore, as that, he said, was the task of his editors.

ROYALTY PRESENT AT FINAL GAME

Of English Football Association Cup.

LONDON, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—In the presence of a representative of the Royal Family, Prince Albert, King George's second son, and probably a record breaking crowd of Tottenham Hotspurs and Wolverhampton Wanderers will meet on April 23 at Stamford bridge grounds in the final game for the Football Association cup, the prize competed for every year by English league soccer teams. The high water mark of attendance at English games that must be beaten is held by the cup tie at the Crystal Palace in 1913 when Aston Villa defeated Sunderland before 120,128 people. Tottenhom Hotspur have figured in the historic contest on a previous occasion, when they defeated Sheffield United in 1900. The Wolves have got into the final round for the cup four times before and have won twice. The cup games were begun in 1871. The teams will probably be:—

Tottenham Hotspur — Hunter, goal; Clay and McDonald, backs; Smith, Walters, and Grimsdell, half-backs; Banks, Seed, Cantrell, Bliss and Dimmock, forwards.

SALES CONVENTION AT GREENE'S STORE

Mr. Wagner, general supervisor, with Messrs. McKay, Robertson and Hanley, representatives of the Edison Company, of Toronto, held a sales convention of the Edison dealers in this district yesterday at the J. M. Greene Music Company store. As this local company covers the entire district, representatives from the Belleville, Lindsay and Peterboro stores of the Greene Music Company, composed the gathering. very interesting discussion of methods of salesmanship and advertising took place. These sales conferences are being held in only four places in Ontario, in Ottawa last week, in Peterborough yesterday, and next week in London and Guelph.

SELLING SECRETS.

It is not always the man who can buy in the cheapest markets and sell at less than his rivals who builds up the best or biggest business.

A study of the fads and foibles of the individual and the crowd; the weaknesses, habits, moods, and vanity of shoppers; the weather; and the locality of a shop will bring greater business and profit.

The man with a shop on the shady side of the street, for instance, gets the greater part of the pedestrian business. In the summer the shopper seeks his pavement in order to escape from the glare of the sun, while in the winter the shade prevents thawing after a snowfall, and is less slushy. It is the dry side.

Again, lights are an attraction to shoppers. Thoroughfares illuminated by the windows of the brightly-lit shops always draw the crowd.

In Human Nature in Business, the author, Fred C. Kelly, tells of a leading retail florist who amassed a big fortune by utilising a little phase of everyday human nature. He charged 30 per cent. more for his flowers than any of his competitors, and his place became known as the highest-priced establishment in the town. So long as human vanity is what it is, a great many persons will derive pleasure from showing their ability to have nothing but the most costly.

Special bargains always attract, and if the shopkeeper cannot make customers buy other goods at the same time with a tempting and attractive display, he doesn't know hsi business.

Smrt salesmanship naturally counts for a great deal. The assistant behind the counter who can please without pestering is a treasure. He (or she) studies every customer who comes into the shop, and no matter whether he requires a cheap or expensive article, he gets the same attention and consideration.

The wise shopkeeper, too, chooses assistants with agreeable voices as well as pleasant manners; while the value of courtesy cannot be overestimated.

Thousands of articles are sold because they appeal to one or more of the five senses rather than to one's reason.

Women especially are attracted through their senses. They buy a fabric because it looks pretty or feels god. A man is more likely to consider such advantages as cheapness or durability.

WESTERN CROPS

According to figures compiled by the Grain Exchange News, the acreage prepared for seeding in the three prairie provinces for 1921 totals 12, 785,750, as compared with an acreage for 1920 of 11,649,744, an increase for this year of 1,136,006 acres. A PRESENTATION.

Before leaving to take up his new duties in the Toronto office of the Canadian Packing Company, Bert Everett, who has been connected with the company for some years, was presented with a handsome set of silverware by the employees of the company. Gordon Matthews, manager of the Peterborough factory, made the presentation and referred warmly to Mr. Everett's ability and service to the company during his identification with the office staff. Mr. Everett made a suitable acknowledgment of the handsome expression of the respect and confidence of the office and factory staffs.

CALEDONIAN WHIST DRIVE A SUCCESS

MRS. ROBERT VEITCH WON THE QUILT BUT WAS SOLD AGAIN ON BEHALF OF PIPE BAND.

The Caledonian Club Ladies' Auxiliary held their first whist drive last night in the Woodmen of the World Hall. A large number of Scots people participated in the game and produced some very high scores.

Mrs. A. Duthie won the ladies' prize with the high score of 89, and Miss Jean Paterson received the "booby" prize. Mr. Alex. Morris won the gentleman's prize with the high score of 90 and Mr. Neil Hurry was presented with the "booby" prize for the total 62.

Excellent refreshments were provided by the Ladies Auxiliary. During the evening the company enjoyed themselves singing some of the old favorite songs.

The result of the drawing for the handsome quilt was the main attraction, and when the little girl picked out the number it turned out to be Mrs. Robert Veitch, who accepted the gift, but immediately authorized the chairman to auction it on behalf of the Caledonian Pipe Band. After a very interesting competition in bidding, the quilt was sold to a young man for a magnificent sum.

THE GREAT EMANCIPATION.

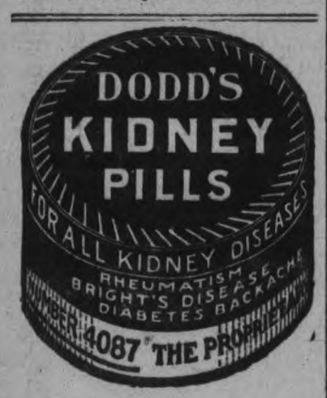
And let me soar and soar
On eagle's wings and song of lark
May I my soul outpour;
I want to sing, "I'm free, I'm free,
From all earth's chains which bind,"
And with a glad exultant cry,
To leave them all behind.

Then I will circle round the earth,
Far from its greed and grime,
And breathe the pure and upper air,
entrancingly sublime.
I'll seek a place on craggy heights,
Where I may hie to rest,
To gather up my latent powers,
And brood upon the best.



VALUE OF SENSE OF HUMOUR

(By F. M. DELA FOSSE)

Some seventy or eighty years ago, a writer (I think it was Leigh Hunt) wrote an article entitled "Is There a Perception of Humour in the Almighty?" I remember coming upon it one day in a friend's library, and being considerably startled at the title. But the article itself was innocuous and, indeed, reverent, for it simply suggested that nothing tending towards levity could possibly have an abiding place in the mind of the Creator.

A learned German professor once defined Humour as the "Revelation or perception of the surprising or the incongruous in cases or under circumstances where the mind perceives a parallel or concurrent ideal or possible expectedness or congruity, generally of a spiritual nature." This is not quite so mystifying as it sounds, and if one reads it through carefully four or five times the conclusion will be arrived at that the learned gentleman was right, and that he offers a really substantial theory of Humour. For example: On April Fools' Day it would be quite within the bounds of possibility to see a pompous, self-satisfied gentleman walking down the street with a label affixed to his coat-tail bearing the legend, "Kick me." Most of those who saw it would smile because they would note the incongruity between the written request and the self-importance of its bearer. But the same legend attached to the rags of a helpless cripple would only provoke disgust and wrath in the mind of the reader.

Let us consider another case. Some few years ago a man was recounting to me the unsavoury particulars of a case where an acquaintance of his had run off with another man's wife. It was a distinctly sad recital, but he gave a touch of comedy to it by winding up with the emphatic remark, "Well, sir, I tell yer, the hull thing's downright scanderlus—in fact, blamed if it ain't perfectly redickerlus!"

If the number of books of alleged humour which have been published may be taken as any criterion, it is not hard to believe that those who can enjoy a joke far outnumber those who are capable of making them. I think that most of us will agree, who have attempted to wade through a whole volume of so-called humour, that a great part of it is of a very unsatisfying character. I don't care who the author may be, whether it is Mark Twain or Artemus Ward or Stephen Leacock, or, going to a much higher level, Addison himself, we may read chapter after chapter with a distinct feeling of boredom.

When we go back to the days of the wits, to Sydney Smith, to the joint authors of "Rejected Addresses," to Sheridan, Theodore Hook, or any others of that frolicsome galaxy of genius, we are confronted with the same feeling of insufficiency. Their jokes don't always run true. I think it is only when we turn to the bright world about us and come in contact with our fellow-men that we attain to a full conception of what real humour means.

I am thankful to confess that I belong to the vast army of those who appreciate the fact that there is much that is entertaining and humorous in the world. There are many, and one cannot help feeling sorry for them, who have little or no perception of such things, just as there are many who have no sense of sight or of smell. But sightless people are proverbially cheerful, and, speaking for those who cannot smell, it may be stated authoritatively that they bear their deprivation with a certain measure of becoming thankfulness. But the man who cannot see a joke seems to have no cheerfulness in his composition. He is all gloom.

One of my earlier recollections of a good laugh, one that doubled me up and caused the tears to stream down my cheeks, centres, oddly enough, on a frog-pond. It is strange how, when we attempt to look through the lengthening corridors of the past, queer little happenings show up so clearly whilst matters of far greater moment remain in the shadows. This is a case in point. I had been told that frogs' legs, fried, made a most appetising dish, and that the best way to catch a bull-frog was to tickle its nose with a piece of red rag tied to a fish-line. There was a lovely batrachian paradise close to our house in the shape of a small pool covered with lilies and other vegetation. Thither I sallied one fine morning, and, arriving at the footbridge spanning the pool, proceeded to follow the instructions that had been given me. I caught sight of a little green frog seated placidly on a large lily leaf, and immediately opposite him a full-sized bull-frog squatted on a piece of driftwood. They seemed to be thoroughly enjoying the morning air. I dowered my line exactly between the two frogs, and a most surprising thing happened. No sooner did the rag come within the scope of their vision than both made a jump for it, and the little frog jumped right into the big frog's mouth. Possibly this was one of those cases where one needed to actually witness the occurrence to see the full humour of it. To me it was indescribably funny. But there was not much fun in it for the little frog. The bull-rog had him tight in his maw, and the demoniacal glare in his eyes showed very plainly that he intended to hang on to him. After a struggle of a second or two they disappeared from view, but the tell-tale bubbles that sprang now and again to the surface evinced clearly that there was a real tragedy being enacted one or two feet under water.

Even in libraries humorous things will happen. I remember some four or five years ago being at my desk when a young girl of some nine or ten years of age walked in. She told me, without circumlocution, and in a somewhat pert manner, that her mother wanted a book. "Well," I replied, somewhat nettled at her tone, "if your mother wants a book she is perfectly at liberty to come and get one." Then the tears came into the child's eyes. She answered, "My mother's ill in bed." "Ah," I said, "that's a different matter altogether; we must see if we can help her. By the bye," I asked, "does your mother happen to have read 'Freckles'?" "I wish you to understand, mister," the child snapped out in a blaze of fury, "that my mother has no freckles at all."

The world is not such a dull, dismal place if we can only make up our minds to keep out of the shadows and revel in the sunshine. Providence has furnished many ways of lighting up the human heart. One of these is the ability to provide humour, another is the power to appreciate it. We do not need to entirely agree with Gay in the words of his epitaph:

"Life's a jest and all things show it;
I thought so once, but now I know it."

But we can, amid all the serious business of life, discover humour almost anywhere; in the tumult of a great city, in the seclusion of the countryside, in the society of one's friends. It is one of the things that add zest to existence, and its value is priceless.

NEW AUTOMOBILE LANDS IN A DITCH

PORT HOPE, April 21.— Just west of Canton, early Tuesday morning, a new car came to grief. No information as to how the accident occurred is at hand but from marks on the road it is thought the car was travelling at a high rate of speed One of the tires was found on the side of the road and the marks were quite plain where the car had travelled for some distance after losing the tire. Mr. Peters, who resides near where the mix-up occurred, came to the assistance of the motorist and drew the auto out of the ditch, but it was so badly damaged hat it could not go under its own power. The automobile isowned in Cobourg and Chief Colwill has secured the number.

SALTS IN HOT WATER CLEARS PIMPLY SKIN

Says we must make kidneys clean the blood and pimples disappear.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generally in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities ad clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

158 Gloucester Street,
Ottawa, April 19, 1921.

Editor Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir: My attention has been caled to a letter published in your paper of the 13th inst., signed by one J. T. Foley. Mr. Foley has not given us his address, ut I notice that his name and initials are the same as the R. C. priest who edits the "Catholic Record," the Roman Catholic newspaper published at London, Ont.

If Mr. Foley will take the trouble to investigate, he will find that my statement re the non-English speaking population of Quebe is correct. Ontario is an English province and his remarks about the number of Quebec members who can speak English are not at all relevant.

Mr. Foley in the approved R. C. manner brings in the "No Popery" cry again, but even such cleverness as Mr. Foley displays will not any longer fool a public that reads the newspapers of his church. It is plain to be seen that the one organization profession religion, that is Political first and Religious next, is the Roman Catholic Church.

The school question is a matter upon which Mr. Foley may differ with me, but when he says the Roman Catholics of that Province have too much sense to translate our public school text books into French and use them in their schools because in our books "Britain and the Empire are idolized while our own Canada is placed in the background as an inferior colony unable to take care of herself," surely he betrays not only animus, but complete contempt for our intelligence.

Just before the war there was being used in Quebec Roman Catholic Schools a text book, "40th edition approved by the Council of Public Instruction the 15th of May, 1912." In Chapter VI of this entitled "Geographic Description of the Present Possessions of the English in America," we find it stated that Quebec i sthe capital of Canada. Toronto is referred to under its old name of York, Winnipeg does not get any mention at all, even as Fort Garry. Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia are regions apparently unknown to the Quebec School Council of Public Instruction under those names. They are all comprised under the designation of "New Caledonia, a wild region which is of no importance except for its furs, and whose coast is divided into New Cornwall and New Hanover."

Could Canada be placed more in the background than by this ridiculous reversion to the days just after the conquest For all I know the same misinformation is still being taught to the unfortunate Separate School children in other parts of Canada.

I do not take second place to Mr. Foley in my pride of being a Canadian, but I am at the same time just as proud that I am a citizen of the great British Empire. It is not at all humiliating to loyal Britishers in Canada to appeal when necessary to the highest Court in the Empire. The wisdom of having such a court was demonstrated in the decision handed down recently, in which the Church of Rome in Canada has been taught the lesson that in the future her "Church Annulments" cannot be approved b ythe courts of the country.

He charges me with adroitly dodging the "Divorce Question." Once again our friend Foley is wrong. We do not admit that his church has a monopoly of the morality of the Dominion, and as considerable time would be required to cover that question, I have arranged to return to Peterborough later on, and fully discuss this matter. I can assure Mr. Foley that I will do so in such a manner that even such an unbiased critic as he undoubtedly is, will be convinced.

I also notice that he objects to the so-called "Self-Determination for Ireland League," being called "Disloyal." I do know that the organization is loyal to the Roman Catholic Church and her aims, but I must confess that such a policy would lead to the destruction of the British Empire and as such I do call it disloyal even though Mr. Foley may not be able to draw much comfort from such facts.

Thanking you in advance, Mr. Editor, for the space necessary to reply to Mr. Foley. Sincerely yours,
M. J. O'BRIEN.

AN IDEAL REMEDY FOR SPRING ILLS

Weak, Run Down People Should Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Do you find it hard these spring days to apply yourself to your work? Do you feel tired, without ambition or energy? These are the symptoms of a condition which our grandparents used to meet each spring with a medical tonic, and medical practice to-day supports their wisdom. During the winter months the blood frequently becomes weak and thin, especially in those whose work keeps them indoors most of the time

Weak blood frequently causes indigestion, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, and a constantly tired feeling. Sometimes there are headaches or a feeling of nervousness, or there may be unsightly pimples or blotches on the skin. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of condition, and any improvement in the condition of the blood improves the general health. The right tonic to improve the blood is shown by the statement of Miss L. Evelyn Brown, Milltown, N. B., who says: "I can say for myself that I was greatly benefitted by taking Dr Williams' Pink Pills. My work keeps me indoors many hours in the day and many days in the year. When feeling exhausted and tired out from long hours and hard work, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make me feel entirely made over. For several years I have taken them in the spring and find they are the only medicine I need to keep me in good health. I believe every girl and woman would find her blood better and nerves stronger by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PLANNING A VACATION?

The Lake of Bays region in the Highlands of Ontario is an ideal holiday territory, and is attracting an ever-increasing number of visitors from the various Canadian and United States centres. It is reached through Huntsville, 146 miles north of Toronto, at which point the trains of the Grand Trunk connect with steamboats serving all the territory. To spend a summer in the Lake of Bays is to be near to nature in her most fascinating mood, and there is the widest choice of recreations—bathing, golfing, fishing, boating, bowling, tennis, etc. A tribute to the merits of the Lake of Bays as a vacation territory is found in the fact that it was chosen as the location for the largest and most modern summer resort hotel in the Dominion—The Bigwin Inn. This magnificent enterprise was opened for the reception of guests during the season of 1920, and seldom has a summer resort hotel made such an instantaneous appeal to discriminating travellers. Any agent of the Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways will gladly send you the illustrated folder, "Lake of Bays," giving full details regarding hotels, boarding-houses, etc.

URGE NUMBERING OF ALL HOUSES

TRADES COUNCIL WILL ALSO ASK CITY COUNCIL FOR INFORMATION REGARDING A LOCAL INDUSTRY.

A request to the City Council that all the houses be properly numbered was embodied in a resolution passed at the meeting of the Trades Council last night. In explanation of this suggestion, which it was believed would be generally appreciated, it was stated that in some sections of the city there are rows of houses that are unnumbered, causing inconvenience to persons having occasion to seek out friends, to deliver goods, or to get their bearing in unfamiliar localities.

On some houses the numbers have been thoughtlessly painted over and almost obliterated, making them difficult to be read after dark. These conditions, it was stated, could be remedied through the medium of the City Council if that body would sympathetically consider this petition. Regret was expressed that the initiative of the Board of Trade in this direction had failed last year through lack of co-operation and financial support. It was proposed that the Postmaster-General might be asked to lend his official influence, but it was felt that a communication from that source might not add much force. Some time ago the Postal Department made a house-to-house canvass in an effort to secure a complete numbering, but that only a few occupants had complied.

Unnumbered houses in Peterborough are comparatively few, and for that reason it was believed the City Council would be favourably disposed toward this request.

Last night's business included several questions and complaints that were discussed at considerable length. In one case a vote of censure was deferred until the delegates satisfied themselves that they had all the facts before them and that complete information warranted the condemnation that had been suggested.

Although the Labour Council is opposed on principle to fixed assessments and bonuses to industries, one of the delegates reported that he had learned of the probability of the loss of a company that had been capitalised by local men and developed to a stage that now seemed to promise expansion and success. He hesitated to recommend that the Trades Council approve of assisting this company in some way or other, and yet he felt that the City Council should try to keep this industry in Peterborough. There was some doubt as to whether the directors had definitely applied for a concession, and to clear up this point the municipal committee was given a set of questions to present to the City Council at their next regular meeting.

MENACED BY WOLVES

COCHRANE April 21.—A thrilling tale of how the women folk of an Indian encampment battled with a pack of ferocious wolves and worsted them was told by Indian trappers who arrived here recently.

During the absence of practically all the men on a week's trip over their trap lines a short time ago, the camp, situated on a little lake about 40 miles north of here, was surrounded by a pack of between 70 and 80 timber wolves. A great circle of bonfires was lighted, and for a while the leaping flames kept the brutes at bay. Soon they appeared to have overcome their awe of the fires and gradually the ring of animals narrowed.

Then the battle began. Some of the squaws, armed with the few rifles remaining in camp, opened fire upon the leaders of the pack. As each wolf fell its companions tore it to pieces and devoured it. The squaws shifted their fire from point to point, picking off an animal here and there, and thus the advance of the beasts, who stopped to devour their mates, was checked.

When the ammunition gave out and the wolves again began to draw in, an aged squaw offered to sacrifice herself to them, and was restrained only by force. But just as it appeared that the camp was about be rushed, an Indian boy bethought him of some dynamite stocks, kept for use in the lake when fishing was bad. A bundle of these was tied together with saps and fuse, and this was hurled into the midst of the wolves, who were rallying for a rush.

When the smoke of the explosion had cleared 72 wolf ears were gathered up representing 36 animals in addition to those shot and devoured by their ravenous companions.

LAST WORD IN AUTO BUILDING.

New Oldsmobile Offers Special Features For Comfort, Utility and Economy.

The Olds Motor Works announce the new four-cylinder Oldsmobile. This car, known as the Model 43-A, has been in preparation for some time and the new models are being shown by Fred Foster, the Oldsmobile dealer. The new Oldsmobile is similar, mechanically, to their former four-cylinder car, known as the Model 43. The new model has a wheelbase of 115 inches. The fame closely resembles that used upon the six-cylinder car, having a very deep section and being sturdily braced by cross members. The front cross member has been increased in thickness from 1-8 inch to 3-16 inch, and the rear cross member from 1-8 inch to 5-32 inch to add to the stability of the whole job.

Special Features.

The motor in this job is a regular overhead valve type Four, with cylinders cast en bloc. The bore is 3 11-16 inches, stroke 5 1-4 inch, giving a displacement of 224 cubic inches. The S. A. E. rating of this new motor is 21.7 horse-power. The block test develops 43.8 horse-power at 2,004 revolutions per minute.

Th crankshaft is a high carbon, heat-treated drop forging. There are three large supporting bearings—front 2 11-16 inches long by 1 1-2 inches in diameter; centre, 2 inches; rear, 3 1-2 inches long by 2 inches diameter. These bearings are lubricated by oil under pressure.

Fuel Automisation.

To assist in the automisation of the fuel, a device known as the re-atomiser is installed in the intake manifold directly above the carburetor. The function of the device is to lead from the sides of the intake pipe the heavier portions of the fuel which tend to cling thereon, and to direct same through four small ducts into the centre of the air stream, thus virtually, as the name implies, re-atomising the fuel. An exhaust heated "hot-spot" is situated at the "T" of the inlet manifold.

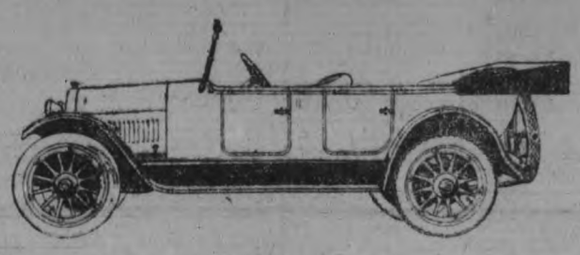
The transmission is of the selective type, giving three speeds forward and reverse. On third speed, the drive is direct; the ratio on second speed is 1.736-1; first speed, 3.525-1; and reverse, 3.966-1. The drive from the transmission is taken through Spicer universal joint, which is encased in a spherical ball-housing supporting the end of the torque tube in which operates the propeller shaft.

More Leg Room.

While the coupe body lines are similar to those used in the present six-cylinder job, there is three inches more leg room in the body, due to the longer wheel base. This extra length has been added to the length of the rear side windows. Both the seat backs and the cushions have the pillow effect obtained by plaiting in two sections on the coupe and three sections on the sedan. The auxiliary seat in the coupe is conveniently arranged and does not cramp the leg room.

These closed jobs are trimmed in a high-grade velour and in broadcloth. Marshall type springs and best grade curled, interlaced hair are employed. Two corner lights and dome light are installed flush with the trimming. The instrument boards are highly finished walnut, and the instruments are illuminated by an electric light which can be operated independently of all other lights.

The shipping weights of the various models are as follow: Five-passenger, 2,767lb.; Roadster, 2,744lb.; Coupe, 2,917lb.; and Sedan, 3,027lb.



ASKS AMERICA TO ACKNOWLEDGE IRISH REPUBLIC.

U. S. Sinn Feiners Send Resolution to President.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Two days of fiery appeal by the 5,000 delegates to the first annual convention of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic ended with formal adoption of resolutions in support of Erin's fight for independence. Chief among these was one calling upon President Harding to acknowledge the sovereignty of Ireland, and to notify the President of the so-called Irish Republic to appoint duly-accredited Commissioners or Ambassadors to negotiate with the President of the United States such treaty or treaties as may be now in existence between the Government of the United States and the Governments of the most favoured nations.

SPORT COMMENT

Fred Rutherford of Peterborough, Ontario, a former star all-around athlete of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, is making good as second baseman this season on the baseball team of the American School of Osteopathy in Kirksville, Mo., which looms up as the fastest aggregation that has represented the school since the war. Rutherford is guarding the keystone position like a veteran and is wielding the willow in healthy fashion. Manager Licklider and Captain Revare says the Canadian is a fixture at his position, and as he is planning to remain in school until 1924, he will be available to the team for at least three more seasons. The Osteopaths have the heaviest schedule in several years with teams in Missouri and Iowa, and Rutherford will get a chance to perform against the leading college and independent organizations of these two States in April and May.

Brantford has signed John L. Sullivan to play on the infield. It will need a man of the caliber of the late ex-champion to fill the hole in the fighting line left by Johnny Murphy.

The Kitchener Telegraph says that, with Knotty Lee and Frank Shaughnessy out of the circuit, the Michigan-Ontario fans will miss a heap of long-distance conversation, which will help to improve the game. But the Kitchener man forgets that Johnny Murphy is still in the ranks.

Some years ago Canada was supreme in distance running circles, and Canuck runners captured all the leading Marathon races. But things have changed in a few short years, and to-day it is doubtful if Canada has a distance man capable of finishing "in the money" in the Boston Marathon, which is being run to-day in the City of Beams. Fabre of Montreal was the only Canuck to face the barrier.

There was a beautiful example of the change of opinion regarding men during the spring training season. The Chicago White Sox, with Gleason striving desperately to rebuild the club, were working hard at practice. A kid was practicing at first base, and his work was attracting the attention of the veterans and of Manager Gleason, who has had, perhaps, the most strenuous spring training of any of the managers and whose desperate efforts to build upon the wreck of his great club deserve better fate than they seem to have enjoyed. The kid, for that day at least, looked good, and one of the veterans ran past, patted him on the shoulder and said:

"Good boy! You're a second Hal Chase!"

The kid did not hesitate a second. He cut loose a right swing to the jaw and knocked the veteran flat.

The element of scrappiness in a young player is one of the most promising of signs. Almost every one of the top-notch players who have come into the big leagues came in filled with fight and pep—Cobb, Evers, Tinker, Chance, McGraw, Joe Wood and many others came in fighting and ready to fight, and naturally became leaders.

This spring McGraw has a kid of that type who, whether he goes back for further seasoning or not, is certain to become a major league star some day. That boy is Patterson, the Texas leaguer who has shown such promise during the spring workouts.

Paterson is a batter, and he won a reputation in Texas of mobbing the crowd if it criticized him. He battled his way right to the top of the Texas league, and it got so that the team had to sign his brother to lick him when he got too pugnacious. His brother kept him in order fairly well, but his spirit was not tamed. Fighting, of course, is bad for a player, but the fighting spirit is the thing that makes real stars. Without it few can succeed. Patterson is tamer now, as he gains age and experience, but he is the scrappy, hustling type that makes winners.

THREE CROWNS HIS AMBITION

BENNY LEONARD ASPIRES TO HEAVIER HONOURS NOW

NEW YORK, April 21.—Benny Leonard wants to be three champions all at the same time.

Having fought himself clean of opponents in the lightweight class, the champion would like to annex the welter and middleweight crowns.

Since the days of Bob Fitzsimmons, two and three way champions have ben unknown models, but Leonard thinks he can do it.

Then as the king of three divisions he would retire, the greatest of all modern fighters.

Leonard is not alone in thinking that the welterweight championship is his if he ever gets a chance at it, at least in a year or so.

Jack Britton, the greatest of present day boxers, reigns the king over a class that is sadly shy of strong competition. Jack is the oldest ringman in the game and although he persistently makes that adage about "youth being served" look foolish, he can't hang on forever.

But when it comes to the middleweight class, Leonard may have some elastic confidence merely on a weight proposition.

Benny works on a sliding weight scale, a welterweight normally, a lightweight when he has to be. He has shown, whenever called upon the last winter, that he can make 135 pounds, but he is not too strong at that weight.

"I would have been willing to meet Mike O'Dowd when he was champion because he was made for a good boxer," Leonard says. "Johnny Wilson, with his southpaw style, would be just as easy. I'm sure I'd could at least out point him in a decision bout."

Outside of Rocky Kansas, Leonard hasn't an opponent worth consideration in the lightweight class. Lew Trendler and Willie Jackson make exorbitant financial demands to cover their fear of the champion and Pinkey Mitchell, who is coming fast, is not ready for him.

Jack Britton and Johnny Wilson are both in the same fix. Ted Lewis spells about all there is in the middleweight field and O'Dowd and Mike Gibbons are the only formidable middleweights.

Regardless of the culmination of his extension of glory plans, Leonard says he wants to retire from the ring.

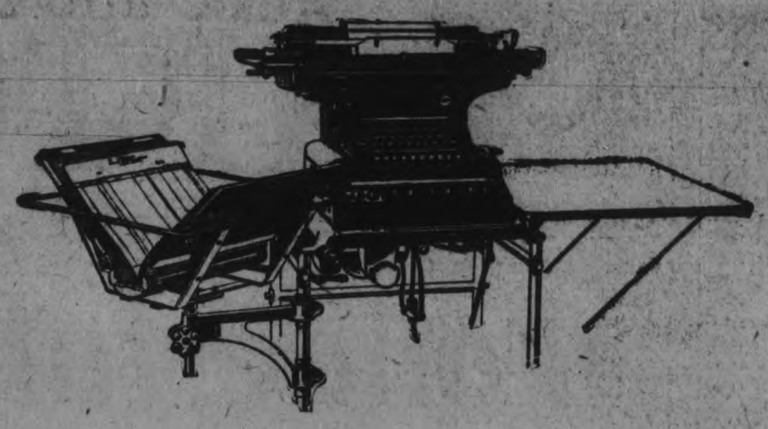
It isn't so much that he is tired of boxing, but he wants to get away from the spotlight and avoid the demands that are made on a champion outside of the ring.

He admits that he has earned a fortune in the ring so that he can retire anytime. "I'm not as well off financialy as generally considered.

THE PRACTICAL WRETCH.

"Will you care for me all the time?" sighed the bride.

"I'll do my best, Nerissa," said the groom, "but part of the time I gotta care for the furnace."



The Motor-driven Underwood Bookkeeping Machine

BEST for ledger-posting. It combines in one efficient and remarkably versatile machine a Standard Underwood Typewriter and three complete adding and subtracting units. All are operated from the Underwood Keyboard, with which every typist is conversant.

IT PROVES that all items are correctly posted as to amounts on both ledger-sheets and statements (ledger and statement may be written at same operation). It proves that all items are accounted for, and that none are omitted from ledgers or bills; that old balances are properly picked up, and that new balances are correctly computed; and that all items have been posted and billed to the correct accounts.

We have a most satisfying list of local installations — all with concerns of prominence. They will tell you what modesty restrains us from saying.

The Underwood Bookkeeping Machine supplies what has been lacking in every attempt to adapt an adding machine to bookkeeping purposes.

We do say, however, that the Underwood Bookkeeping Machine is used by people who know before they buy.

Grant Stirrett, of the Toronto University, was suspended indefinitely for competition at an unsanctioned boxing tournament at Petrolea against Sergt. Blake, a professional coach. Petrolea is Stirrett's home town, and Blake is the instructor at Varsity.

P. G. Murray, Riverside A. C. boxer, must make a written apology for his actions during the second night of the recent Ontario boxing championships.

The status of J. Gayder, lacrosse player of St. Catherines, was placed in good standing.

The application of H. W. Marshall, of Hamilton, who acted as physical director for a short time during the war, was sent on to the National Registration Committee.

The Victoria Athletic Club will be granted a sanction for athletic events on the 24th May next.

RUTH HAS SECOND HOMER OF SEASON

Washington Comes From Behind and Makes Clean Sweep.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The New York Yankees closed their first home stand yesterday by defeating the Boston Red Sox by a score of 8 to 4. Russell, a Yankee discard, did well until the seventh inning, when Ruth broke a tie score by making his second home-run of the season with Peekinbaugh on base. Meusel clinched the game in the eighth with another home run made with Ruth and Pipp on base.

BASEBALL.

There will be a meeting Thursday evening, April 21st, at seven o'clock, for the puprose of organizing a Church Baseball League for the coming season. It is important that all churches have representatives present, as officers will be elected and arrangements made for getting away to an early start.

TRIS SPEAKER UNEARTHS AN OUTFIELDER WHO IS GREATER THAN HIMSELF

Tris Speaker is generally regarded as the greatest fielding outfielder of all time, and here comes Tris and declares that on his Cleveland team is an outfielder that is a better fielder than he is or ever was.

The young man to whom Speaker passes the well-known laurel wreath is "Blue" Jeanes, whose home is in a town called Maypearl, and located in Texas, Speaker's home State.

"Blue" Jeanes is a typical Texan, long and angular. He is fast, and Cleveland players say he is one of the greatest judges of a fly ball that ever laced on a cleated shoe or any other sort of shoe or sock for that matter. He can "go get 'em" over a greater range of territory than they care to estimate.

A great fielder, "Blue" Jeanes is not a good batter, but Speaker believes he can correct his batting weakness, which is stepping too far into a pitched ball. Jeanes believes in going into them to hit them, but he does not hit because he is offstride, and no man can hit when he swings while off balance.

If Speaker can correct the young Texan's batting weakness, the great Tristam promises to produce a worthy successor to himself.

Jeanes, by the way, never saw snow until Sunday. He has a habit of arising early, and he did this on Sunday morning, as the train, carrying the Cleveland party, was nearing Detroit. Looking out the Pullman car windows, Jeanes saw acres and acres of snow. Recovering from his first shock, he ran through the coach yelling: "My Gawd! They're taken us out of the United States!"

"CHUCK" HENRY REFUSED A CARD

Grant Stirrett, the Varsity Athlete, Suspended—Gayder Reinstated.

TORONTO, April 21.—The Registration Committee of the Ontario Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada held their regular meeting at the offices of the Union.

Additional evidence having been produced in the famous "Chuck" Henry case, an alleged baseball tourist from Guelph, a decision was reached in the matter which was unfavorable to the reinstatement of the applicant.

The expulsion of Worters, Campbell, Joliat and McGrath, reported by the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, was confirmed, as also the suspension of John McGregor, of the Toronto Amateur Hockey League.

LEAFS LOST TO THE ORIOLES

Anderson's Home Run Was Outstanding Feature of Toronto's Play.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 21. — Larry Doyle and his Toronto Leafs got away to a bad start yesterday afternoon, when they dropped the opening game of the season to Jack Dunn's two-time pennant winners to the tune of 9 to 1. The Canucks were never in the running, and with Jack Bentley pitching superb ball all the way the Leafs were a poor second from the very start and finished away back in the ruck. But for Anderson's long drive over the right-field wall in the sixth session Toronto would have been dipped in the kalsomine bucket.

The opening festivities were attended by the largest opening-day crowd since the Feds started out here in 1914, as there were over 12,000 who paid to see the Orioles start out in quest of their third straight pennant. President John Conway Toole of the International League graced the occasion, his first appearance at a ball game since he was elected to office, and he was pleased at the large crowd and the manner in which his trio of umpires took care of the set-to. Incidentally, he promised President McCaffery that he would visit Toronto early in May. Governor Albert C. Ritchie tossed out the first ball, and there was the usual presentation of flowers and gifts, Manager Dunn being the recipient of a handsome gun from his players.

MAY DAY DISORDERS FEARED IN MEXICO

ELABORATE PREPARATIONS BEING MADE BY RADICALS

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, April 21.—(Canadian Press.)— Elaborate preparation for May Day demonstrations throughout Mexico are being made by radical elements here and in some quarters there is apprehension that the observance of May Day may lead to disorders. Government authorities have been amply informed as to the plans being formulated, however, and while inclined to look on the demonstrations as mere outlets for radical enthusiasm they are prepared to meet any emergency. President Obregon has stated that he does not consider the present radical activities in the light of being a menace to the peace of the country.

HAILEYBURY ABANDONS SOCCER FOR BASEBALL

The effort to secure an all-star soccer team in the Haileybury district so as to issue a challenge to the Scottish team who are to tour Canada during the coming summer has met with failure. It had been planned to hold the event in the new Lakeview Park at Haileybury, but the uncertainty of being able to secure a sufficiently strong line-up has led to a cancellation of the plans.

In the meantime, however, a busy season in the other lines of sport, particularly baseball, is now practically assured, and there is every reason to believe the number of teams and the measure of interest will exceed any previous season in the history of Timiskaming.

With the view of cultivating closer commercial relations with North America, more than 100 business and professional men of Argentine will come to the United States in May.

AT THE GRAND.

THE ENGLISH PLAYERS.

The visit to Peterbo-ough yesterday of the English Players brought to Canada by Trans-Canada Theatres was a notable event in the theatrical season, but local play-goers for some reason or other, did not seem to appreciate their opportunity, for the attendance at both afternoon and evening performances was disappointingly small. The company of English artists, chosen by Messrs. Walter Howard and Percy Hutchison, for the present tour of Canada, is a well balanced and most capable aggregation and they have had very successful stands in Montreal and Toronto, in their revival of a series of standard English successes.

Yesterday afternoon the English players presented a remarkably effective performance of "East Lynne," and last night the offering was Henry Arthur Jones' great play, "The Silver King," a famous old melodrama full of action and thrills and affording opportunities for finished acting and clever character work. Henry Lonsdale gave a sparkling performance in the title role, a part that runs the whole gamut of emotions and makes an exacting demand upon the versatility of the actor who essays the role. Mr. Lonsdale was equal to every call upon his ability. Norman B. Cannon shone in the part of "The Spider," and F. Joynsen-Powell's portrayal of "Elizabeth Coombes" was a masterpiece. Frederick Ross was excellent as the faithful servant "Jarkes" and Bert Randall did splendid work as "Henry Corbett." Dorothy Reeve as Mrs. Denver and Peggy Bryett as Olive Skinner contributed materially to the success of the production, as did little Dorothy MacKay, incidentally the fourth role in which she has been seen in Peterborough this season.

"DAMAGED GOODS."

"Damaged Goods," which opens at the Grand to-day for three days only, has been called "the best and bravest" play of its type that ever came to the picture stage.

Seven reels of the picture version are as fresh in dramatic strength today as six years ago when the picture was offered the people of Ontario and withheld. It is true that styles in dress have changed, in fact the picture is a remarkable commentary of the fickleness of Dame Fashion. But with the release of the picture it is at once apparent that here is a drama ranking with other great screen epics, which shall live and continue upon its mission of enlightenment as long as there are people to be awakened with tremendous yet sympathetic force to the dangers that walk hand in hand with social ignorance.

"Damaged Goods" is the film evangel of the new order of things. While Eugene Brieux, the playwright, poses as no reformer, he does give to the great moral behind his play, the living, human, everyday realism in the most natural action. He opens a way out to those who walk in the black fog that covers a hidden trap for the untaught and the innocent.

AT THE ALLEN.

AT THE ALLEN BILL HART COMING

Bill Hart went out into the cactus country of the great Southwest to make his new picture, "Sand!" which will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre for days commencing Friday. Bill believes in absolute realism in all his pictures.

AT THE ALLEN

Hellena Phillips, one of the cast of "My Lady's Latchkey" which is the feature attraction at the Allan Theatre, relates the enigmatical reply of a cook that her sister had just engaged. "Your employer is a very nice lady and you cannot do too much for her."

"I don't mean to, ma'am," replied the domestic. Upon repeating the conversation to her sister the latter said the girl had lived up to her intentions.

Katherine MacDonald believes that luck is always attached to the numeral, "Seven". And by that token she is positive that "My Lady's Latchkey" is among her most successful pictures. It is her seventh production for Associated First National.

Claire DuBrey has won an enviable reputation as the most striking brunette on the screen. For that reason she was selected to play the part of the Countess de Santiago in Kath ine MacDonald's current picture, My Lady's Latchkey."

AT THE EMPIRE.

"THE MIRACLE OF MANHATTAN' IS ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN'S GREATEST PICTURE

Winsome Screen Favorite Depicts Series of Subtle Character Changes in Manner that Denotes Supreme Emotional Artiste

Elaine Hammerstein whose delineations of the best type of womanhood have established her as one of the favorite stars of the silent art, has, in her latest Selznick Picture, "The Miracle of Manhattan," which will be presented at the Empire Theatre to-day, a role which makes more demands upon her ability than any part she has hitherto essayed.

As the somewhat self-opinioned young society woman who is suddenly plunged into a phase of life and surroundings that are entirely foreign to her, Miss Hammer-stein is enabled to depict a series of subtle changes of character that at once stamp her as a supreme artist.

At the beginning of Bradley King's photoplay Miss Hammerstein is pictured as a young woman of refinement and wealth who is about to marry a man she really does not care for, merely because it will be what an ambitious aunt considers a "good match." Chance throws across her path a girl who is destitute and who in desperation has made the first step on the downward path. The society butterfly who has never had to shift for herself cannot understand the other's lack of courage and in a spirit of adventure attempt to prove that any girl can easily support herself Her adventure is about to end in a dismal failure when she, as a final resort, accepts a position to sing in a cheap cabaret.

Here she meets characters such as she never knew existed and is forced to rely on the protection of a man who, under ordinary circumstances she would not even have deigned to look upon. His honest love is at first not even considered but when the true woman in her comes to the surface she realizes the sacrifices he has made for her and she sees the light. The various emotions and mental changes of the character as portrayed by Miss Hammerstein represents the acme of acting and make "The Miracle of Manhattan" this winsome star's greatest photoplay.

WHAT ALICE LAKE THOUGHT

Upon completion of "The Scarecrow," the third of the Buster Keaton smile reels, which followed "One Week" and "Convict 13," the slapstick successor of Fatty Arbuckle invited some of the Metro stars to see it in the projection room.

"Well, what do you think of it?" he asked pretty Alice Lake who was indulging in a series of school girl giggles.

"Speaking seriously," she replied between chuckles, "it strikes me that one week as convict 13 is enough to make even Buster Keaton look like the scarecrow."

AT THE REGENT.

The strongest story in which Tom Mix has appeared—that is how some critics have described "The Texan," the Fox production based on James B. Hendryx's story, which will open at the Regent Theatre, beginning today, for a run of three days. If you are a lover of the great outdoors, if you enjoy the clean and wholesome and virile in life, if you enjoy good comedy, and if real, thrilling stunts interest you—don't miss "The Texan."

AT THE CAPITOL.

"HUMORESQUE" FILM OF INTENSE APPEAL TO BE SHOWN HERE

Fannie Hurst's most appealing story, "Humoresque has been transferred to the screen and will be the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre to-night, Friday and Saturday, matinee and night The intensely human atmosphere of the novel is said to have been incorporated into the picture with singular success.

The story centers around Leon Kantor, a boy of the Ghetto who shows an intense love for music. His mother who has always wanted a musician-son, is delighted and on his seventh birthday buys him a violin. Leon's playmate is pretty Gina Ginsberg. Fifteen years later, Leon is a recognized genius. On the night of his triumph at a big concert given for his people of the Ghetto, he enlists. Leon returns from France with a shattered shoulder and it is said that he will never be able to play the violin again. Leon's music is his all. He becomes morose and discouraged. Before the war he had become engaged to Gina Now he wishes to release her from marrying ham— a cripple. But in a very winderful way he is restored to full strength and, to the joy of his mother and Gina, turns toward new conquests in the realm of music.

Alma Rubens is the featured player in "Humoresque," and Gaston Glass and Vera Gordon are also included in the cast.

The first picture to be produced at the new theatre saw its concluding performance last night, with another large audience to enjoy the splendid acting and the realistic atmosphere of "Behold my Wife." The transformation of the beautiful half breed into a cultured society woman is enacted very slowly and naturally and the hero in his descent down the drunkards ladder and gradual recalmation, does some fine work. The comedies were evry funny. Larry Semon went through some side splitting stunts in the Suitor ,and the Topics of the Day are greeted with interested attention. An equally fine programme has been arranged for to-day and to-morrow in presentation of 'Humoresque", a Cecil B. DeMille production from Fanny Hurst's well known dramatization of mother love.

Miss Hazel Scott of Port Hope has returned home after spending a few days the guest of Mrs. S. C. Kerneghan.

Mrs. A. A. Perrin and Miss Margaret McCabe went to Lindsay today for the second performance of "Pinafore."

Mrs. R. C. Acton, of Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Hopwood.

The young people taking part in the Mock Trial of "Pek vs. Peck," which took place in George street church on Tuesday evening, were entertained after the performance by Rev. Harold and Mrs. Young at the parsonage. Dainty refreshments were served by the hosts, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Thompson.

Mrs. G. B. Jamieson, 493 Gilmour street, has just received word of the death of her cousin, Mrs. Hardwick, of Tottenham. Mrs. Hardwick, who was formerly Carrie Rich, has several friends here who will regret to learn of her demise after a few months' illness. She leaves besides her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Vera.

The last weekly at home of the series given during the winter in connection with the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Church was held last evening, with a very good attendance. Prizes for cards were won by Miss Nellie Hobbins and Mr. Wm. Clancy. Prizes were also awarded last evening to the lady and gentleman who had won most prizes during the winter series of card parties, and these went to Miss Hobbins and Mr. Crowe.

The last dance of the series which have been held in the Conservatory of Music Hall took place last evening, with a good crowd in attendance. Mr. Al. Linton supplied the music and the King's Daughters served refreshments during the evening.

WEDDING BELLS

BALLARD—MORROW

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Toronto on Wednesday at Sherbourne street Methodist Church by the Rev. G. H. Williams, D.D., when Mildred Hazel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrow, was married to Horace William Ballard both of this city.

The bride wore a travelling suit of sand tricotine, black mohair hat and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas.

HARRISON—EDWARDS.

LAKEFIELD, April 21.—One of the most delightful events of this season took place on the Second Line of Warwick Township, Lambton county, on Thursday, April 7th, when the nuptials of Grace Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Edwards, and Mr. Charles Leslie Harrison, of Lakefield, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. The occasion marked the 73rd anniversary of the birthday of the bride's grandmother, who was present to enjoy and grace this happy event. Another striking feature was the signing of the register by the same two who performed like service on the occasion of the marriage of the bride's parents. These were Walter W. Edwards, Watford, brother of the bride's father, and Mrs. Wm. E. Parker, sister of the bride's mother. The happy couple were unattended.

Promptly at one o'clock the bride was escorted by her father through an aisle formed by streamers of ribbon arranged by Francis Edwards and Ivan Parker, who scattered flowers in her path as they approached the waiting bridegroom standing beneath a beautiful arch banked with cala lilies and roses. Miss Florence E. Edwards, sister of the bride, played the wedding march. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Tiffin, of Watford. During the signing of the register, Donald, little brother of the bride, sang sweetly "O Perfect Love."

The bride was prettily attired in cream Georgette with trimmings of gold. She wore the bridal veil and carried a bouquet of cream roses and maiden hair fern. The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely chain and pearl lavalier, to the pianist an opal ring and to the soloist a pearl tie pin.

The numerous and costly gifts to the bride betoken the high esteem in which she is held by many friends. On the Monday night previous to her marriage the young people of Zion Methodist church, of which she is a member, presented her with a silver tea service.

The guests were confined to uncles and aunts and a few close friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The wedding dinner was dainty and most appetizing.

The happy couple left on the evening train amid showers of confetti and best wishes for Sarnia and points west. They will be at home after the first of May at the home of the groom near Lakefield.

KERR—ADAMS.

The marriage took place yesterday at 1.30 at the home of the bride's aprents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams, of Flora Helena Adams and David A. Kerr, Rev. F. E. Malott officiating. Only the immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served, and Mr. and Mrs. Kerr left for Minburn, Alberta, where they will reside. Mr. Kerr is manager of the Merchants' Bank in Minburn.

DEYELL—WHITE.

The marriage of Cora Alberta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. White, Bailieboro, to John Deyell, B.A., Lindsay, took place at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon in the Centreville Presbyterian church. The service was conducted by the Rev. A. McConnachie.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming suit of navy tricotine with French embroidery over a blouse of tricolette, with hat to match. She also wore ermine furs and carried a bouquet of sunset roses. Mrs. Canon W. C. Allan, of Millbrook, played the wedding march, while Mr. Roy White, Peterborough, and Mr. Ronald Deyell, Bailieboro, acted as ushers. The church was prettily decorated with banks of lilies and ferns, while armfuls of ferns, tied with white ribbons, lined the aisle down which the bridal party passed. During the signin gof the register, Miss Lillian Eastwood of Peterborough, sang "O Promise Me." She was smartly gowned in Belgian blue taffeta with maline hat and carried an armful of pink carnations.

The happy couple, amid showers of confetti and the good wishes of their hosts of friends, left by motor for Port Hope en route for Buffalo and New York. On their return they will reside in Lindsay.

Among the guests were: Mrs. P. S. White, Miss Louise White and Mr. Roy White, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Johnston, Miss Lena Johnston and Miss A. Dobbin, Peterorough, Mr. David Deyell, Omemee, and Mr. R. Deyell, Lindsay.

ROBINSON—WHEELER.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly on Wednesday, 13th inst., at 6 o'clock, when Mr. William J. Robinson and Miss Hattie Wheeler were united in marriage. Rev. A. C. Huffman officiated. The bride was suitably attired in white, and was given away by her father. The young couple were unattended. After the ceremony the guests retired to the dining-room, where a dainty lunch was served. The bride was the recipient of a goodly number of useful and pretty gifts. The young couple left amidst a shower of rice and confetti, for their new home. Their many friends tender their heartiest congratulations and wish them bon voyage through life.

WELLS—TUGGEY.

A very pretty wedding took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Paul's Church, when Miss Lillian Tuggey, daughter of Mr. Fred. Tuggey, and Mr. Arthur Wells, both of Peterborough, were united in marriage by the Rev. Robt. Pogue. The bride, who was attended by Miss Eva Smith and Miss Elsie Wells, was attired in a beautiful navy serge suit, with ermine scarf and large pink hat. Her bouquet was of pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Arthur Wilson and two dainty little flower girls in white were Miss Winnie Hayward and Miss Myrtle Tuggey. After the ceremony, the young couple proceeded to Roy's Studio, where a photograph of the bridal party was taken. Clouds of confetti accompanied them on their way to a suitably inscribed carriage, which took them to the train for Toronto, where a honeymoon will be spent. On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

DAMAGES FIXED

HAMILTON, April 21.—Damages to the extent of $250 each has been fixed by the jury which heard the action here by David Fonger and John MacDonald against Police Sergt. Reynolds and P. C. Edwards for false arrest. It appears that these officers took plaintiffs in charge at the City Hospital while attending at the death-bed of a close relative. They were suspected of being responsible for a hold-up at the Golden Gate cafe on June 5. Although the defendants were asked by the plaintiffs why they were being arrested, it was alleged that they refused the information until after the men were handcuffed. It was also charged that the defendants declined to listen to any explanation of the doings of the plaintiffs on the night in question. The plaintiffs were released after having been in custody two or three hours.

Open Fight Against Giving the Railway Board Fare Control

REPRESENTATIVES OF MUNICIPALITIES, INCLUDING PETERBOROUGH, PROTEST BEFORE LEGISLATURE THIS AFTERNOON.

HANNIGAN IS SPOKESMAN

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press.)—Representatives from nearly all cities in Western and Central Ontario were on hand to-day to protest when Charles McCrea, M.L.A. for Sudbury, appeared before the Ontario Legislature Committee on Railways to urge them to report his bill amending the Ontario Railway Act so that, regardless of any agreement, the Ontario Railway Board may approve of increased fares on electrical railways.

The member for Sudbury explained that conditions were rapidly changing and it was only fair that the Board should have the power to adjust rates. T. J. Hannigan, of Guelph, re presenting ten or twelve municiaplities opposing the bill, including Toronto, Hamilton, London, Chatham, Peterborough, Galt, St. Thomas and Sarnia, said that a meeting in Toronto these municipalities had gone on record as being absolutely against the bill. "Why are you afraid of the Ontario Railway Board?" asked Z. Mageau of Sturgeon Falls. Mr. Hannigan said it was because the municipalities thought they should have some say in regard to the fares to be paid by the public who ride over the systems, they did not think the Railway Board should have the right to say that a franchise should continue and at the same time disregard agreements regarding the rate of fares.

Mayor A. A. McIntyre of Peterborough was a member of the deputation representing the municipalities.

formerly of this city and now of Toronto, who was an unsuccessful candidate as a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

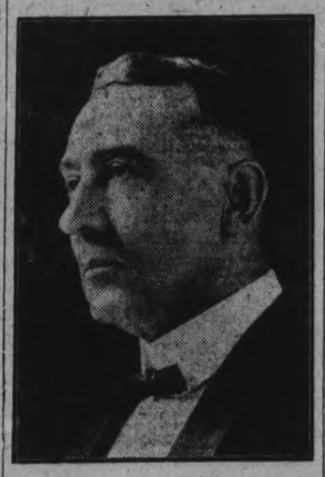
SERIOUS LOSS TO PETERBORO 5 YEARS AGO

TO-DAY IS THE FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE BATTLE OF LANGEMARCK IN WHICH MANY LOCAL LIVES WERE LOST.

BENNETT AMONG FALLEN

Five years ago to-day the first gas attack was launched on the 2nd Canadian Division in the salient in front of Ypres. The city and county of Peterborough were deeply moved when the casualties were announced. Included in the list of many fallen from Peterboro was Major George W. Bennett, valiant and respected citizen and soldier.



MAJOR G. W. BENNETT

In commemoration of the foregoing the 4th Brigade Canadian Machine Gun Corps Band proceeded last night to Kingston to take part in a garrison church parade at 11 this morning, in MacDonald Park.

By special request Capt. Rev. Dr Blagrave arranged to have the chimes in St. John's Church rung, at the same hour, as a further act of respect by the city of Peterborough, to those who that day made the supreme sacrifice for their King and Empire.

EVIDENCE OF CONNECTION BETWEEN SINN FEIN AND BOLSHEVILI FOUND IN CORRESPONDENCE FILE SEIZED

LONDON, April 22 (Canadian Press).—Evidence of a connection between the Bolsheviki Government of Russia and the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland had been found, declared Denis Henry, Attorney-General for Ireland, in replying to a written question by Sir William H. Davidson in the House of Commons to-day.

The evidence is in the form of the draft of a treaty and of letters and memoranda, chiefly in the handwriting of Eamonn de Valera, Dr. McCartain, Diarmid Chegarty, and other Irish Republican officials.

A communication from the Irish "Department of Foreign Affairs," dated 20th March, 1921, states, "Dr. McCartain is now in Russia as diplomatic representative of the Republic of Ireland."

The correspondence file from which these letters and confidential documents are taken was seized last month at Sinn Fein propaganda headquarters, 11 Molesworth Street, Dublin, and the complete file reached London yesterday for examination by the British Cabinet, the papers showing that at the same time the Sinn Fein is campaigning in the United States for recognition of the Irish Republic, its leaders are seeking also the co-operation of Bolshevik Russia.

THE PASSOVER FEAST TO-DAY

SUNSET MARKS BEGINNING OF THIS IMPORTANT JEWISH FESTIVAL.

TRADITIONAL CEREMONIES

In the Jewish year there are three outstanding festivals, the Feast of the Passover, the Feast of Weeks or the Festival of Pentecost, and the Feast of Tabernacles. The first of these begins with the setting sun this evening. The Feast of Weeks is seven weeks away and the Feast of Tabernacles does not take place till September. While the Feast of the Passover does not transcend the others in importance it marks the beginning of a new year and as such is the occasion for much rejoicing without detracting from its religious significance.

Friday's sunset begins the observance of this important Jewish festival which is kept with traditional ceremonies in all parts of the universe. The Festival lasts eight days, concluding on Saturday, April 30 at sundown. In the Hebrew calendar the Feast of Passover or, as it is caled by the Jews, Hag Hamatzs, meaning the Festival of Unleavened Bread, begins on the fourteenth of Neson, the first month of the Jewish year.

The Feast of the Passover is ordained to commemorate the goodness of the Almighty in having heard the cries of the children of Israel when they were cruelly persecuted by the Egyptians. Moses was sent by the Lord to deliver the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt from slavery and bondage into the land of Canaan as promised to Abraham. The festival commemorates the passing of their peoples from bondage to freedom and therefore is celebrated with rejoicing by the descendants of Abraham.

The first two days of the festival and the last two must be kept holy and sacred. Prayers are offered and special services will be held by Rev. Rosenefild, Hebrew minister in this city in the Tabernacle on Water street. The middle four days are not observed with such piety. During these eight days no leaven is eaten or used by the Jew for any purpose. All bread, beer or any drink made from grain is abstained from by the Jewish people during this period and also no vessels in which these things have been kept is used. To disregard these ordinations would be a gross, inexcusable misdemeanor for a true and fervent Jew. Unleavened cakes are eaten by the Jewish people during this holiday in observance of the forced practice of Moses and his followers when they made their journey out of Egypt without a supply of leaven. Thin cakes are eaten just as the little band baked flat cakes on the hot hand of the desert. The cakes now, while still unleavened, are not baked now by the sun. Far from it. The cakes are made in great electric ovens in Pittsburg and other American cities and sent to Jewish ministers for distribution for the Passover feast in huge quantities.

On Friday April 29 every first-born son must fast in gratitude to the Almighty who when He slew all the first-born of Egypt on the night they left Egypt passed over the houses

PETERBORO' TALENT IN OPERA TRIUMPH

"PIANOFORE," DIRECTED BY MR. ASA HUYCKE, A STRIKING SUCCESS.

LINDSAY, April 22.—The Gilbert and Sullivan light opera, "Pinafore," presented here in the Academy Theatre, Wednesday night, by local talent, trained and directed by Mr. Asa Huycke, of Peterborough, and assisted also by two Peterborough vocalists, proved a triumph in every way for amateur effort. The company sang, acted and danced their way into the hearts of a capacity and responsive audience.

The "Post" here says that Mr. R. A. Brown (basso) and Mr. Walter Evans (tenor), Peterborough, "were splendid help, both being gifted with pleasing voices." Of Mr. Huycke, who impersonated Dick Deadeye, the same paper credits him with "putting such consummate villainy into his part as brought shudders to his audience. Incidentally, he displayed a powerful bass-baritone voice."

The other characters interpreted so capable by Peterborough talent were: First Lord of the Admiralty, Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B. (Mr. R. A. Brown) and foremost hand, Ralph Rackstraw (Mr. Walter Evans).

The opera was repeated last evening.

Hope Revived in Britain as the Miners and Owners Meet Premier To Discuss the Strike Situation

CONFERENCL THIS AFTERNOON FOLLOWS UNEXPECTED POSTPONMENT OF MINERS' MEETING

SUDDEN TURN OF EVENTS

LONDON, April 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Decision on the question of impowering the executives of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain to enter into negotiations with the British mine owners had been expected when the national conference of the miners' delegates assembled here to-day. The unexpected turn of events which came with the annoucement this morning that the miners' conference had been postponed to to-morrow and the mine owners and union leaders were to meet the Prime Minister this afternoon has revived the hope of an early settlement.

Official figures on unemployment made public last night placed the total at 1,686,909, an increase of 71,900 over last week. It was asserted that Germany was offering coal at Swansea at half the price of the Welsh product.

LIQUOR POURING INTO THE CITY IN INCREASING QUANTITIES AND A FURTHER SPURT IS EXPECTED

A decided increase is noticeable in the quantity of liquor pouring into this city from Quebec and the Old Country. So stated J. Stewart, License Inspector, yesterday.

Last week the flow took on a decided spurt and Mr. Stewart expects that the shipments which will be frenziedly rushed through now that the referendum has carried, will be unprecedented in strength or magnitude.

Next week gives householders a last chance to stock up from the supplies of the Quebec wholesale houses, and the opportunity will be fully availed of. Mr. Stewart predicts that next week will see the product of the distillery and wine press pour torrent-like into Peterborough and the express companies will experience the busiest season in years.

Considerable quantities of Scotch whiskies are being imported in spite of its excessive cost when freight and duty charges are paid. It is understood that the tap will not be turned off on this supply till the importation of liquor into Ontario is definitely stopped—some weeks hence.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH HUNS TO BE RESUMED?

PREMIERS MEET SUNDAY

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press)—Dramatic Efforts on the part of Germany to induce the United States to arbitrate the reparations question betwen Berlin and the Entente Governments and the refusal of the Washington Government to sit in judgment of the merits of the vexing problem have lent a new interest to the conference at Hythe on Sunday between Premier Briand of France and Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain.

The expressed desire of the United States that there be "an immediate resumption of negotiations" has brought into the situation a new element, as it has been popularly supposed the two Premiers would merely consider plans for further occupation of German territory and not a renewal of the Exchanges between London aad Paris and Berlin.

HAMILTON'S SCHOOL CHILDREN THRIFTY

HAMILTON, April 22. — Savings of the school children in Hamilton, show a total of $91,315 for the quarter ending March 31, 1921. Gibson school has the best record, the students there amassing $7057 with 777 children on the roll. The Robert Land school is next with deposits of $6363 among the 647 depositors. There is still $9 left in the now defunct Charlton avenue school. This money is held by 28 children.

The deposits for the month of March reached a total of $8,714. The withdrawals during March totalled $6,832, leaving a total of $1882 saved during the month. The officials of the Board of Education are quite gratified with the thrift shown by the local kiddies.

SWEDEN'S NEWSPRINT.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Trade reports received here from Stockholm state that, according to the Swedish Association of Paper Mills, 165,000 tons of newsprint paper were manufactured in Sweden in 1920. For 1921 the manufacture is expected to reach about 175,000 tons. The exports during the period, January to November, 1920, amounted to a total of 105,811 tons, and will probably reach 120,000 tons for the year, compared with 66,066 tons in 1919.

$50,000 IN SUCCESSION DUTIES.

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press.)— The Province of Ontario will get from $45,000 to $50,000 in succession duties from the $3,369,239 estate left by the late Justice Britton.

BEAVER CHEESE FACTORY TOTAL LOSS BY FIRE

CONSIDER RE-BUILDING

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22. — (Exclusive to The Examiner).—The Beaver Cheese factory, two miles west of Meyersburg, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin about 11 o'clock last night. The loss is estimated at 3,000 and is partially covered by insurance.

All supplies for the season, including wood, were lost. Yesterday was the first day the factory had been in use this season.

A meeting of the patrons will be held this evening to discuss rebuilding.

DEPRESSION IN THE DIAMOND MARKET.

Restricting Production in South Africa.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, April 22—(Canadian Press).—Owing to the seriously depressed state of the diamond market, the diamond mines in South Africa have found it necessary to restrict production in every possible way. The De Beers mines at Kimberley have reduced their white employees by 500; the Premier mines in the Transvaal have retrenched to the extent of dispensing with 250 white employees; while the Wesselton mine has closed down entirely until such time as the state of the market will again justify operations. The reduced production is felt by the South African Government, which derives annually a large revenue from the sale and export of these stones.

"GOOD FILMS" CRUSADE HERE

OTHER BUSINESS

The regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women took place yesterday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A., with the president, Mrs. Mowat, in the chair. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting and the answering of the roll call, Mrs. Mowat, who just recently assumed the presidential office, made a nice little speech in the "carry on" spirit.

A resolution introduced some time ago by the Otonabee Chapter I. O. D. E., with regard to the opening of the Public Library for public convenience on Sunday afternoons, and which had the approval of the different affiliated societies, came up for consideration. A very favorable communication received from the Public Library Board was read, and it was decided to interview the Board with regard to the most suitable time and season for carrying out this plan.

A very interesting review of the report of the "Good Films" Committee in Winnipeg was read by Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, and a motion was then made that a committee composed of Mrs. Stevenson, Miss Walton, and Mrs. R. Harstone, acting in conjunction with a similar committee of the Chamber of Commerce, look into this subject in Peterborough, and report at the next meeting of the Council.

With regard to nominating officers for the National Association, it was decided to name Mrs. W. R. Morris on the National Recreation Committee, and Dr. Stowe Gullen as Vice-President for Ontario. Mrs. Jos. Mills was nominated as fourth vice-president for the Local Council, to take the place of Mrs. Mowat, now occupying the presidential chair.

Mrs. A. Stevenson reported in regard to the changing of Peterborough street names to numbers, that the deputation from the Local Council which waited on the City Fathers was received very graciously, and informed that no action in this matter would be taken for some time to come.

UNIQUE WAY TO REMOVE BIG ALARM BELL.

HAMILTON, April 22.—Firemen here adopted a rather unique plan for removing the heavy ton and a half alarm bell from the tower at Central Station, from where for years it has been tolled for every fire occurring in this city.

They simply dropped the bell from the tower's edge to the pavement below, a distance of ninety feet. It fell with a resounding thump upon a cushion composed of several thicknesses of bales of hay, which had been placed at the base of the tower to receive it.

The operation of dropping the bell was not accomplished without much labour and care. The bell weighed 2,981 pounds, or nearly a ton and a half, and the work of removing it from its fastenings and lifting it over the railing of the balcony required the efforts of several men.

GUARANTEES AGAINST RETURN OF CHARLES.

VIENNA, April 22.—Guarantees against a return to the Hungarian throne of former Emperor Charles are being prepared at Belgrade by Jugo Slavia, Czecho Slovakia, and Roumania and will be presented to the Budapest Government in a few days, says the South Slav News Agency. It is understood the attitude of the three governments is that, as long as there is danger of a Hapsburg coup they will be compelled to maintain intolerably expensive military establishments.

CAMPBELLFORD ORGANIZATION HEAR ADDRESS

PROFESSOR GRAHAM WAS THE SPEAKER—CAMPBELLFORD NEWS—DOUBLE FUNERAL.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22. — The first regular meeting of the Campbellford Poultry and Pet Stock Association was held last evening in the Farmers' Club Rooms, Ferris Block, the President, Mr. E. Moffat, presiding. Prof. Graham, head of the Poultry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, was the speaker. The weather was unfavorable and the crowd was not as large as it would otherwise have been.

The speaker said, "From the standpoint of the large cities the children must have a sufficient supply of milk and eggs at a reasonable price. Most disease and sickness is attributable to errors in nutrition and hygience. The three essential parts of an egg are the yolk, (composed of fat, white and shell. The hen must be given more than a maintenance ration. The reason artificial light in the poultry house helps to increase the egg supply is because most hens' crops are too small to hold enough food for the night. Mr. Graham emphasized most strongly the necessity of a balanced ration and regularity in feeding the fowl.

As 65% of the white of the egg is composed of water hens must have plenty of clean water. Water, air, green food, exercise and system he suggested as being essential in the successful rearing of poultry.

The speaker predicted that within the next 25 years the incubator method of hatching chicks would be the chief one, pointing out that the time for laying lost while a hen is brooding. A great deal of the mortality among young chicks he attributed to over feeding during the first three days. The speaker advocated large flocks as these could be more economically raised than an equal number in small flocks. The hen is the most efficient paymaster in the world to-day, said the professor, and to be successful in the raising of poultry one must look entirely at the financial side but must have a love for poultry.

Prof. Graham has a large poultry farm and speaks from a practical as well as a theroretical standpoint.

Result is Same.

Is the poultry industry a national asset or a liability? Or is a mere hobby? No matter how it is considered the result is the same, namely that the maintenance of a flock proportionately the same now as one year ago. The chicken raised last year was the most expensive chicken ever raised but the owner must bear his expense the same as every person else. Everything except property has depreciated in value and hence the poultry man must absorb his share of the loss.

He first dealt with the question from a national standoint. Every person in a young country such as ours should be vitally interested in the rising generation. The raising of a good strong race is the most important question and to do this milk and eggs are necessary. Proper food is essential to proper growth and the counteraction of diseases and if this food of which eggs and milk form such an important part, is not supplied, there will be no normal growth and normal resistance to disease.

It is of course necessary to arrange the production so the producer may have a fair profit and the consumer be able to buy sufficient qunantities.

He asked himself the question so often heard: "Why does one hen lay and another not?" If the producer watches his hens he will see that one hen may lay seevn eggs a week while another may lay seven in a month or a hen may skip days, and she may vary greatly as to the number laid. In the first place she must obtain the material from which to make eggs. Then consider the parts of an egg, the yolk, the white and the shell.

The Yolk.

The yolk is composed of fat and a hen that weighs from 5 to 9 lbs. must eat enough to rebuild the tissues and cells which are continually wearing away throughout her body and must also get enough extra food to make this yolk.

The White.

Next consider the white. It is composed of over 65% water, and how many flocks have all the water that they want all summer. The white of an egg is the most expensive substance in the world and is called protein. It composes the muscles of the body and the curd of milk and white of an egg. The hen cannot get her supply of protein like the cow from grain, cotton seed meal for oil cake, as she had no ability to handle this form of protein, but must get hers from skimmilk, insects, beef scraps or other animal food.

The Shell.

Then comes the shell. When a hen lays 200 eggs she produces 2 1-2 lbs. of lime. How can she lay these

HICKS' CHARGE IS EVAPORATED MORE OR LESS

TESTIMONY IN EFFECT

TORONTO, April 22 Canadian Press).—Andrew Hicks' charges of "appalling" offerings being made to members of the Legislature for their influence with respect to certain measures, more or less evaporated when the U. F. O. member for East Middlesex faced the Privileges and Elections Committee at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

In effect, Hicks' testimony was that one day in the corridors of the Legislature he had understood M. C. Fox, U. F. O. member for South Essex, to say that he could have had $20,000 to switch his vote on the Beach Protection Act. He had since learned that there was no such meaning to be taken from what Mr. Fox had really said.

CHARGES PLOT TO CUT WAGES

NAMES TWELVE BANKS

CHICAGO, April 22.—Charges that a "capital combine," headed by twelve New York financial institutions, inaugurated a policy of nationwide shut-downs, was made yesterday before the United States Railway Labour Board by W. Jett Lauck, economist for the unions which are fighting any reduction in wages before the Railway Labour Board.

Mr. Lauck named about 100 men who through interlocking directorships, he contended, centred in these dozen institutions control of the majority of the country's important railroads and of basic raw materials. He charged that:

"This inter-related capital group deliberately deflated the farmers and then undertook by precipitating industrial stagnation to deflate labour."

The railroads, he asserted, were the chosen vehicle for this labour drive. Lay-offs of repair men on railroads in recent months, he charged, were made deliberately, while much of the repair work was let to outside companies, who charged the roads about twice as much as the same repairs would have cost in their own shops. One purpose, he said, was to get his portion of railroad labour out of Government jurisdiction by forcing it to work for the outside concerns. These concerns, he said, were largely under the same financial control as the roads The document that Mr. Lauck presented made about 125,000 words. It was prepared by the American Federation of Labour Bureau of Research, Railway Employees' Department,a nd entitled, "Human Standards and Railroad Policy."

Names Alleged "Capital Combine."

The dozen New York financial institutions as named were:

Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York.
First National Bank.
Equitable Trust Company.
J. P. Morgan & Co.
Guaranty Trust Company.
Equitable Life Assurance Society of United States.
American Surety Company.
National Surety Company.
Mechanics and Metals National Bank.
National City Bank.
New York Trust Company.
Chase National Bank.

Mr. Lauck charged that the banks had directors in ninety-two Class I. railroads and in twenty railroad equipment companies, that their directorships reached twenty-four coal railroads and coal companies, and that through non-banking directors this alleged "capital combine" was still further interlocked.

POSTPONEMENT OF THE SOUTH IRISH ELECTIONS ASKED

CABINET CONSIDERS REQUEST AND DELAYS DECISION

LONDON, April 22 (Canadian Press).—The Cabinet yesterday discussed a request from Ireland for the postponement of the elections to the Southern Parliament.

No decision was reached, and the matter will again be considered next Thursday.

Mr. Lloyd-George admitted in the House of Commons at yesterday's session that the question was under consideration. If it were decided to postpone the elections, he said, the House would be given an opportunity to discuss the subject.

The City Manager

If by democracy one means "dictatorship of the proletariat," then the city-manager plan is not democratic. The idea which it does serve is government by the whole people.

Class government, whether it be by the business class or the working class is contrary to its spirit; nevertheless, whenever organized labor has sought a more definite representation, it has been accorded.

For instance, in the first commissions in Dayton, Dubuque, Sandusky, Springfield, O., and various other cities, there were representatives of organized labor. In fact, labor's leadership was taken in on the ground floor and given a voice in the framing of the charters; a condition which has been repeated in many cities.

Sandusky, O., elected a mechanic to its first commission. As a member of the council, he contributed his valuable viewpoint to the joint discussion of municipal projects.

"His was the most anxiously awaited voice in the discussion and other councilmen, merchants to whom the views of labor were mysteries, deferred to his superior knowledge of the popular effect of their proposed acts in certain qaurters of the town.

Labor has sometimes been suspicious that the plan would be "capitalistic," especially when the movement for its adoption originated with a chamber of commerce. But, in done what it did in Dubuque, Ia., one done what it did it Dubuque, Ia., one of the towns where labor initiated the movement and where the trade and labor congress states, in a letter to the city manager:

"Expressing the feeling of the laboring people in general as to our change to the manager plan of government, we can say with pleasure that there seems to be a co-operative spirit among our people in support of your truly business administration. This has been occasioned in large measure, even in former opponents to the plan, by your practical demonstration of its principles."

The "Labor Review" of Dayton reports the plan "satisfactory in every respect."

After looking into the workings of the plan in Dayton, he stated:

I haev personally investigated how the city-manager plan has worked out in Dayton. I have asked railroad men about it. I don't see how any railroad man can oppose the plan after investigating it.

"I see nothing undemocratic in having the city maanger selected by the commissioners. A city manager doesn't rule anybody. He doesn't pass any laws. He doesn't determine any public policies."

"I'm for the city-manager plan because it makes possible the elimination of politics from public business and that means better government and lower taxes."

When the city manager idea was proposed in Loraine, O., union labor in Wheeling, W. Va., was asked what its experience had been with the city-manager plan. The trades and labor assembly, after long and thorough discussion, sent back a full and vigorous endorsement.

RAINMAKER HATFIELD BEGINS HIS TAPPING

IS FIRST BANQUETED AT MEDICINA HAT

MEDICINE HAT, ALTA, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Rain maker Hatfield arrived in the city from California and was banquetted at noon yesterdy by the Southern Agricultural Association a number of Medicine Hat's prominent business and professional men were present and expressed confidence in Mr. Hatfield's undertaking. Towers used in connection with his proposition are being erected fifteen miles north east of the city at Chappice Lake. Hatfield does not claim to be able to bring moisture from a clear sky but asserts his ability to tap the rain clouds.

IMPELLED BY DUTY.

"I must say those biscuits are fine," exclaimed the young husband.

"How could you say those were fine biscuits?" inquired his mother when they were alone.

"I didn't say they were fine, mother, I merely said I must say so,"

INTERNATIONAL PLOT IS SEEN

FOUR PERSONS SOUGHT

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 22. —Advices from Germany to-day have established definitely that the man murdered here last Thursday was Heinrich von Pickler, whose mother was one of the noble Von Buelow family of Bavaria. At the same time developments in the investigation of his death, here and elsewhere, tend to strengthen the belief of the authorities that the victim, known many years in this country as Henry Buelow, was assassinated with either hatred or revenge, not robbery, as the motive. While the police still think several hundred dollars were taken from a secret waistcoat pocket, they believe the theft was but a blind to conceal the motives of the slayer.

E. C. Gaskill, County Prosecutor, while not disclosing more than a glimpse of the case as thus far developed, said to-night that certain aspects of it well might give reason to ask at least the advice, if not the intervention of the State Department before the crime was unravelled completely.

Belief in this "international" phase is based upon the discovery, already outlined, that Von Pickler was driven out of Germany more than a quarter of a century ago by junker members of the Von Buelow family, who despised him because a club foot made it impossible for him to serve in the Kaiser's armies. It may yet be shown that that hatred pursued him across the water, followed him in all the years he dwelt in obscurity in this country, and intensified itself into a passion of destruction when Von Pickler in war time refused to render such service to the Fatherland as many other Germans in this country gave.

Quarrelled with Another German.

It has been learned here that at the outset of the war Von Pickler quarrelled bitterly with another German who was interned because of pernicious activities, whereas Von Pickler so conducted himself that he was allowed liberty as a registered enemy alien. This man is reported to have been in Atlantic City within a week or so of the slaying, and the police here hope to find him soon. They believe he may be able to throw some light on those who were unfriendly to Von Pickler.

The police are elated with the discovery of the identity of the wearer of the pepper and salt cap found near the body on the outskirts of the city. This cap lay near Von Pickler's own. It bore the label of a local merchant who has been able to tell who bought it. Beyond saying that this man was "of foreign extraction," the authorities would give no clue to him.

They said they expected to arrest him almost any hour and that then they would be able to learn whether the killing was done by one man, or whether the murder was the result of a conspiracy.

Intensifying the belief in a murder plot as the disclosure by a respected resident of this city that two nights before the killing he emerged from a house in the south end, where Buelow, as he then was known, had been a frequent visitor. This man said that as he reached the curb a touring car stopped and a man invited him to ride. They started toward the heart of the city, and the man asked him if he worked at the St. Charles Hotel. It was there that Von Pickler was employed.

Citizen Resembed Von Pickler.

When the citizen responded no, the other man manifestly, lost interest in his "pick up," but took his passenger to his destination. The man who told the story resembled Von Pickler to such an extent that he readily might have been mistaken for him in a gloomy street.

WOULD-BE THIEF HAS NEW EXCUSE

MONTREAL, April 22.—A novel excuse for attempting to steal was made before Judge Bazin, in the Court of Sessions yesterday. Arthur Delaurier, accused of having attempted to steal a fare box from a conductor on a street car, when asked if he pleaded guilty said: "I am not guilty of attempting to steal. I am only guilty of temptation to steal. I said to the conductor: 'Give me the fare box and I will give you some money.' Anyway, Judge, this is not the first time this has occurred to me. The same thing happened two years ago."

"What happened on that occasion?" asked His Lordship.

"Well," replied the prisoner, "I got one year in jail."

"All right," replied Judge Bazin, "you will have another year in jail."

TABLED MAIN ESTIMATES OF THE PROVINCE

TOTAL $22,081,459, NOT INCLUDING $6,943,199 FOR HYDRO AND $7,133,199 FOR T.N.O.

$672,770 FOR 'VARSITY

TORONTO, Ont., April 22. — (Canadian Press).—The main estimates were tabled in the Legislature this morning at 1.30. They amount to $22,081,459, not including $6,943,199 for the Hydro and $7,133,199 for the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

MINERS AND OWNERS TO MEET PREMIER THIS AFTERNOON

LONDON, April 22 (Canadian Press).—The British mine owners and the leaders of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain will meet Prime Minister Lloyd-George this afternoon to discuss the coal crisis.

The meeting will be held at the invitation of Mr. Lloyd-George.

The conference of the miners' delegates, which was to have been held to-day, has been adjourned until to-morrow.

A SOCIAL DANCE IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, April 22.— The Social Club held a dance here last evening in the Memorial Hall, and had about 200 in attendance, which was a very good crowd considering the inclement weather. More than fifty young people came up from Peterboro and a couple of carloads from Young's Point helped to swell the merry throng. Excellent music was supplied by the Syncopated Three from the Conservatory of Music in Peterboro The patronesses were Mrs. Thomoson Braden, Mrs. F. I. Burgess, Mrs. R. H. Alford, Mrs. R. J. Lennox, Mrs. Chas. Thompson, Mrs. J. H. Moore, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Gordon Northey The committee was composed of the Misses Edna Braden and Stella Lennox, Messrs. F. T. Leggott, H. Blewett, W. INVALIDATION OF VOTING IS FEAR OF "WET"

TO ASCERTAIN THE POINT

HAMILTON, April 22. (Canadian Press.) William Glendenning, secretary of the Citizens' Liberty League, stated that he did not think that Colonel Snider ,the returning officer, was entitled to open the boxes before May 4, and has asked provincial headquarters to get an opinion from the chief election officer on that point.

He considers that if an illegal act were committed here or anywhere in the province by an election officer it might invalidate the voting.

LAST OF GYPSY HOUSE VERY ILL

DETROIT, Mich., April 22.—Whether the dynasty of the tribe of Demitro, one of the oldest reigning gypsy houses in America, is broken depends on the fight of eight-year-old John Demitro for recovery from pneumonia. The lad is in a hospital here critically ill.

John, the only heir-in-line to the title besides his father, Ephraim, is the one concern of 1,641 families in the United States and Canada, whose king is Zitho, the boy's grandfather.

The aged chieftain, who inherited his title from his father in Serbia, has spent night and day at John's bedside for a week and during that time many others of the tribe have visited him, some coming from New York, New Orleans, Chicago and San Francisco.

When his condition will permit, John receives his visitors with the poise of a chieftain, but the homage is paid as well to a real American boy., for his nurse's review of the "movies", and news from his schoolmates at the Bishop School means as much to him as tribal traditions.

A PURCHASING AGENT.

The efforts of the Provincial command of the Great War Veterans' Association to hasten the appointment of a purchasing agent by the Ontario Government are in the public interest. A communication from Secretary J. V. Conroy declares that the veterans are at a loss to understand the Government's attitude in this matter, and in that respect, many other people are on an equal footing with the ex-service men. They cannot see why there should be any hesitation over such a step, the need of which has been clearly shown by recent investigation. Naturally, the G. W. V. A. desires that the appointment should be given to a returned soldier, and it is but fitting that a veteran should be selected for the position. Of course, care must be taken that a man with the necessary qualifications is chosen. A purchasing agent who does not possess the training and business ability the position calls for, would be a liability instead of an asset, while on the other hand, a properly qualified man would save many thousands of dollars each year in buying Government supplies. The G. W. V. A. communication claims that practically every Liberal, Conservative and Labour member in the House, as well as a large section of the U. F. O., favour the appointment of an agent. If such is the case, the tardiness of the Government in dealing with the matter becomes even more mystifying than before.

A POPULAR ITEM.

The name of Dr. Stevenson, M. P. P. of London, hitherto known only to the people of Ontario as that of the man who defeated Hon. Adam Beck in the last Provincial election, should be remembered because of the fact that he is the only member of the Legislature to raise his voice in protest against the $600 bonus granted the members to augment their sessional indemnity. The item covering this windfall for the legislators went through committee without a complaint save from the member for London. The blame for this raid upon the Treasury, therefore, must be accepted not only by the Government, but by the entire Liberal and Conservative groups and by all the Labour Party except Dr. Stevenson. The members who last year opposed an increase in the indemnities, have apparently been able to overcome their scruples and deaden their conscience, for they are prepared to accept an increase that is more unwarranted now than was last year's demand. The people of the Province are entitled to an explanation of the bonus scheme, but apparently the public will be left to draw its own conclusions as to why the services of the members of the House are considered—by the legislators themselves—as worth $600 more than they formerly were valued.

LEST WE FORGET.

April 22 is a date that should be stamped indelibly upon the memory of the Canadian people. Six years ago this evening began the battle that made the name of Canada ring round the world, the furious conflict that is variously known as the battle of Langemarck, or St. Julien, or as the second battle of Ypres. In the late afternoon of April 22, 1915, the Germans suddenly launched their horrible clouds of poison gas upon the thinly held Allied line. The world remembers how the French native troops, stationed north of the Canadian forces, broke in the face of this terrible new danger, this cloud of deadly fumes that killed men quickly and horribly. And how the Prussian hordes, confident that the way to the channel ports was open to them, came on in masses—to find the khaki-clad Canadian battalions had swung across the gap and that the road to Calais was once more blocked. Peterborough should remember the anniversary, for six years ago to-morrow morning, in the shadowy half-light of the dawn, the 2nd Battalion of which the infantry from Peterborough formed an important part, charged forward against overwhelming masses of the enemy, and by their unhesitating valour and the audacity of their attack halted the German advance—but at a price that should never be forgotten by the people of this city. Major George W. Bennett was instantly killed as he led the gallant "A" Company, and with him died many a well-known Peterborough soldier whose names should be household ones in the community that sent them forth. Public memory is short and public gratitude fleeting, but the stand of the Canadians in front of Ypres and the heroism of the citizen soldiers of the Maple Leaf in the fact of the hordes of the Kaiser's professional legions should live as long as time endures.

A DRUMHEAD SERVICE.

The Great War Veterans' Association are following their usual custom in honouring the memory of the comrades who fell in the battle of the second battle of Ypres by holding a church parade on Sunday, the Salvation Army Temple being the choice for this year's service. It is fitting that this great anniversary should be properly observed, and it is to be feared that were it not for the G. W. V. A. it would be allowed to go unnoticed and unmarked, save in the hearts of those who have sad but proud reason to remember the occasion. In some cities of Canada a drumhead service, participated in by the units of the garrison and by the returned soldiers, is being held on Sunday. An open-air service of this nature gives an opportunity to the public to share in the observance of the anniversary, which is impossible in an ordinary church service because of the limited accommodation, and while it may be too late to undertake such an event this year, The Examiner puts forward the plan as one worthy of consideration for future anniversaries of Langemarck. The Great War Veterans' Association and the various militia units, including the Peterborough Rangers, the 4th Battery, the Machine Gun Company and the Wireless Signal Section, would doubtless be glad to co-operate in arranging such a service, and it would be a testimony that Peterborough had not forgotten the men who helped to fill the gap in April, 1915. The service might fittingly be held in Central Park, from which the gallant lads from Peterborough who fought at Ypres marched away in the bright sun-light of a perfect August morning nearly seven years ago.

GERMANY'S HOUR APPROACHES.

Germany, which has learned nothing and forgotten nothing in the last half century of her diplomacy, once again plays her trump card of well simulated indignation and injured dignity. In answer to the firm proposal of France that the gold reserves held in the Reichsbank at Berlin shall be transferred to Cologne and Coblentz, the German Embassy in London holds up its hands in horror and wails of the ruin of Germany, and splutters about the impossibility of such a task.

The day on which Germany must make a final decision is rapidly approaching, for May the first is the date set by the Treaty of Versailles for the naming by the Allies of the total sum which Germany must pay in reparations. With this sum settled, discussion must be confined thereafter to the methods of payment. If Germany gives a point blank refusal to the Allied terms France will demand supplementary penalties, which will be neither vexatious nor vindictive, but which are bound to affect both the German morale and the income and the property of the Reich. These penalties will have to be applied continuously and firmly until the terms of the Treaty have bees executed in full.

In insisting on a preliminary payment in gold, the Allies do not overlook the fact that to-day France is bankrupt and that her budget for the ensuing year has been framed on the basis that a considerable part of her revenue will be obtained from German reparations. M. Cheron, the "rapporteur" of the Finance Commission of the Senate, recently made a sensational speech in that chamber regarding France's financial position. The national debt has increased from 27 milliards of francs in 1914 to 302 milliards to-day, and the annual interest on this will amount to about one milliard. The estimates showed an expenditure of 60 milliards and a revenue of 22 milliards. "Germany must be made to pay, otherwise France's financial position is insoluble," was the burden of M. Cheron's speech.

Apart from the impelling motive of her pressing financial needs, France has a hatred of Germany which has emerged out of the ashes of half a century of distrust and anxiety. The calling out of the 1921 reserves has met with a response which has been unequalled in the annals of French military history. Premier Briand knows well that any signs of weakness on his part, any tempering of the terms which the people have set their hearts upon would overthrow his Ministry and bring Poincare into power.

France has announced her intention of seizing the whole Ruhr area if Germany fails, and a meeting of the French and British premiers will be held next Sunday at Hythe to consider the project. Marshal Foch and Field-Marshal Robertson will attend the conference and the future policy of the Allies must be determined upon. Premier Briand in an interview yesterday said that he would "demand that the Union Jack and the Tricolor of France float together over the seized area." Therein lies the essence of the problem. Britain will scarcely withhold her moral support from her great Ally, but it is exceedingly unlikely that she will send more soldiers to act as policemen in the occupied territory.

Certain hotheads of France and the jingo element of Britain talk stupidly of the luke-warm attitude of England and of "abandoning her war ally." Such talk is not only foolish, but it is exceedingly harmful. France may favor one policy for the collection of reparations and Britain viewing the matter from a different standpoint may deem some other course wiser and more expedient.

In a matter of national defence England would again leap to the aid of her neighbor; in matters involving complex economic processes her judgment must not be outweighed by sentiment.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Why not fit up one of the idle vessels of the Canadian Mercantile Marine as a transport and send a ship load of the reddest Red leaders over to Russia? The sea air would not do them any harm, and they could investigate the Soviet system to their heart's content.

"The workers' republic will give you freedom," declares a manifesto issued by Toronto Reds. What is meant is freedom "as they have it in Russia."

Ontario is being asked to pay one-third of the cost of a new bridge from Ottawa to Hull. They must anticipate a heavy increase in traffic in the near future.

A lecturer in Toronto the other day described advertising as the tool for opening markets. He might have added that many people want to get free tools.

The members of the Legislature seem almost as unanimous in approving of the $600 bonus plan as the residents of Verner were in opposing prohibition.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Remember the time you went to your first banquet, expecting to get something to eat.

A man may have a headache as often as a woman, but generally he knows how he got it.

Vowel letters are easily misplaced, but you can hardly blame her father for thinking of wedding "bills" instead of wedding "bells."

Some men stepped up to the poling booths on Monday as though they expected the officer to flick a moist cloth before them and ask, "What'll you have to-day, boys?"

Perhaps one of life's most tragic figures is the man whose bank account will not allow him to buy an automobile and whose pride keeps him fro many other means of locomotion.

There's considerable controversy at present over the modern dance, but what we would like to know is, What can be done with the girl who, when dancing, hangs her chin over her partner's shoulder and allows her face to register the expression of a dying tuna fish wig-wagging signals of distress to its mate?

How do you Buy A Corset?

Do you look for a well-known name like WARNER'S—which stands for attractiveness, long wear, comfort and fit—or do you allow your fancy to be caught by a pretty shade of materials?

The outside of a corset—like the outside of a jacket—tells nothing of the wearability. It is the INSIDE—the quality of the goods you don't see, and the fashioning of each individual part—which adds to or detracts from the wear.

Warner's Rust-proof Corsets are just as good after several months' wear, because they are made of rust-proof steel and fabrics of tested and proven worth.

No matter what strain you put on a Warner's Rust-proof—and every bend and twist and turn of your body is a strain on a corset—it will hold its shape, giving you smart, clean-cut lines, ease and comfort.

Warner's Rust-proof Corsets are designed and fashioned by America's foremost experts. They are built for wear and service; they give both, month after month, without developing breaks, rips or tears; because every part is of equal strength, consistent with the strain put upon it.

A Warner's Rust-proof wears evenly. When you are ready to discard it, after months of comfortable, perfect-fitting service, it has worn out evenly.

Warner's Corsets are now made in Montreal; thus saving you the 35% custom charge on imported corsets and the exchange rate on goods bought in the United States. They are truly

HEROIC INCIDENTS BEING REVEALED

PARIS. — Little by little many heroic incident in the early days of the great war are being revealed by individual commanders who heretofore have failed to get the full share of glory to which their victories entitled them incidents typical of French heroism under dificulties were revealed before a group of 50 generals and one time French cavalry officers by General Pelecier, who told how for two days in September during the first year of the war the fifth French Cavalry Division actually reconnoitered night and day behind General Von Kluck's overwhelming armies, destroying meanwhile small German units, and on one occasion almost capturing the Prussian leader himself.

"You have no fixed orders; do your best," was the only order given to General Corulier Luciniere, then commanding the Fifth Cavalry Division. Accordingly he gathered together an organization of picked dragoons and Chasseurs, a small artillery group and one cyclist company, in all not more than 1800 men. They were supplied with only meagre rations and were tired after the retreat from Belgium.

In so far as is concerned the kind of fighting these men did during the 48 hours they were in the rear of Von Kluck's armies, General Pelecier cited the capture by them of a German aviation section which was busy trying to install a camp near Mortefontaine. The German bivouac was quickly surrounded by the unintentional firing of a large petrol dump the French diverted the attention of the enemy, allowing the rushing forward of the French lance dragoons.

"Few of our troops survived, it is true, but the German camp was entirely annihilated," Gen. Pelecier declared.

It was during the reconnaissance the second day that the Germans, unexpectedly attacked in the northwest by Gen. Manoury, commenced a retreat. Von Kluck admitted that his headqaurters were at one time surrounded by this valiant French cavalry. The German leader, believing he had retreated into a stronger French flanking movement, immediately saved his army by changing his retreat direction northward thus enabling Gen. Lucinier's troops to join the main body of the Marne troops for the first great French victory in the war.

Argument for Mounted Troops.

The great effect of these new revelations of French heroism is not in additional prestige they give certain French generals, but in the incentive given the French general staff not to abolish the cavalry arm of the service, as some military writers propose.

"Aeroplanes are by no means a substitute for cavalry," said one general at the conclusion of Gen. Pelecier's recital. "Aeroplanes are good enough for huge mass operations over a lengthy front, but for detail reconnaissance and divisional operations the glory of cavalry initiative remains undimmed as in the days when the French represented the highest type of soldiery and strategy."

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I SUFFER THE GOSSIP

Chapter 34

Mrs. Russell took a step toward me. She held out her hand a minute and then dropped it quickly to her side. She had caught the glint of fire in my eyes.

I rose to my feet. I remember wondering what made me seem so tall.

"Is that all? Have you finished?" I heard my voice asking the question, but it didn't seem to be my voice that was speaking. The words came deliberately, and with perfect poise.

"Why, er—yes, quite all," Mrs. Russell stammered, stepping back before my penetrating gaze.

"Thank you—for your trouble," I said. "Though it was hardly necessary. What my husband does is quite acceptable to me. We understand each other perfectly." All my love and devotion to Leonard went into those words.

Mrs. Russell was nonplussed, but she hated to be beaten, hated to fail in the anticipated pleasure to herself in the staging of this little scene. At the door she turned with a knowing smile of cynicism.

"I understand perfectly," she shot at me. I longed for a man's method to show her what I felt.

"I am glad you do, Mrs. Russell," I returned with equal meaning. "Thank you for your kindly invitations to Leonard during my absence," I added, dryly.

I closed the door softly after her. Then all the strength given to me in those terrible minutes fell from me with sickening result. I felt my knees tremble and then give way. I don't remember just what happened after that.

When I came to I was stretched full length on the floor by the front door. Emma was leaning over me and with a dampened cloth was bathing my head and face. A dull pain throbbed through me. A pillow from the lounge was under my head.

"What is it, Mrs. Allen?" Emma asked breathlessly. "Shall I send for the doctor?"

"No—no," I said with effort. "I had a dizzy spell and fainted. I'll be all right in a minute. Can you mix me a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia? You'll find the bottle on the little glass shelf under the medicine closet in the bath room."

I tried to raise my head but it dropped back weakly on the pillow. I tried to think.

What had happened? Suddenly the world had gone black. Something terrible had happened to shake the very foundations of my life—all was dull and bottomless. Nothing seemed very clear—only it was there something hideous. I felt weak, weak, so very, very weak. Nothing mattered now but to lay very still and quiet.

Emma came downstairs with the ammonia. She helped me, holding the glass to my lips. I closed my eyes for a few minutes.

Emma bathed my head gently. I was glad she was there. It seemed to help to have a woman there beside me, someone who did not ask questions or pry into one's soul with insulting eyes.

"Now, I think I'll go upstairs," I said after a while. "Can you help me, Emma?"

I don't know just how I reached my bed, but Emma was strong—that accounted for how I did it. Its friendly softness gave relief to my aching body and I fell asleep.

When I awoke, more than an hour had passed. I felt the horrible pain. Just a strange mental and physical torpor seemed to have spread entirely over me.

I did not try to think. I did not want to—sometime soon I knew I would have to.

Now I only wanted to be still, very still. If only my temples would stop jumping.

Emma pulled down the window shades, darkening the room and went downstairs.

Every once in a while I would hear her tip-toe to the door and look in at me. Once she came to my bedside and asked me if I did not think she had better call the doctor. But I told her no, and fell asleep again.

The ringing of a bell woke me up. I heard Emma answer at the switch in the downstairs hall.

It was Leonard saying he would not be home for dinner—not until very late, Emma told me he had said.

All the vital pulsing lines of connection between Leonard and me seemed to have been suddenly broken off. I wondered if I would care very much if I never saw him again?

Perhaps I was going to be very ill.

I might die. That would be better. I played with the thought and it seemed to bring relief. It was a solution—a way out.

Tomorrow—Leonard Calls the Doctor.

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

All that most weak, nervous, thin, mentally-depressed people need is ten grains of pure organic phosphate with each meal for a few weeks.

It is natural food for nerve and brain cells and is known to such reliable pharmacist as McDermid & Jury as Bitro-Phosphate. Because of its power to help create healthy flesh and strengthen weak nerves, much of it is being sold to people who are lacking in vitality.

CAUTION: Although Bitro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous condition, its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

DASHED INTO DANGER.

Matron—A very horrid scar you have on your face, my wounded hero.

Veteran Great War—Yes, ma'am. That's what I git, ma'am, for tryin' to shave with a safety razor.

Purchasing a 30 X 3½ Tire

SUPPOSE everybody in Toronto and Montreal wanted an automobile ride at one time. The Canadian cars running on 30x3½ clincher tires would carry them all. In Alberta and Saskatchewan the entire population could find a seat in the same cars.

This is a tremendous number of cars. And over half of them left the factory on Goodyear Made in Canada tires.

Such enormous production means experience and specialization. It creates unequalled skill in the manufacture of this type of tire. It insures greater value in the tires you buy.

Goodyear All-Weather Tread 30 x 3½

Made in Canada in increasing numbers for ten years. The largest selling 30 x 3½ tire in the world.

Goodyear Non-Skid Tread 30 x 3½

This new Goodyear Tire has been tested on hundreds of thousands of cars in the United States. It is now made in the big Goodyear factory at New Toronto, Ontario.

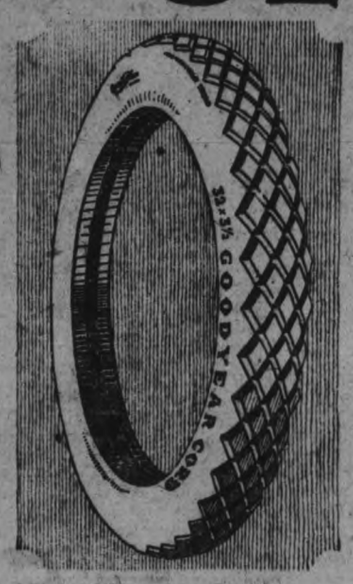
32 X 3½, 32 X 4 to 40 X 8



Six, seven and eight inch Goodyear pneumatic tires are now made in Canada. Being made for trucks, they must be unusually strong and sturdy. They must give long mileage. They must save gasoline. They must save wear-and-tear on the truck. So they are all Cord Tires.

Most owners of medium and large automobiles use cord tires also, in 4, 4½ and 5 inch sizes.

They, too, want the gasoline saving, mechanical protection, long mileage, and safety of Goodyear All-weather Tread Cord Tires.

Most cars over $2,000 are sold with Goodyear Cord Tires. Most of these cars continue on Goodyear Cords throughout their life. They are the logical tires for you to buy for a season of real motoring economy.

D. O'CONNELL WAS DEFEATED IN THE BENCHER CONTEST

FORMER LOCAL LAWYER FAILED TO SECURE ELECTION

D. O'Connell, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, nominated as bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada, was defeated in the election held recently, the result of which the scrutineers have just announced, after a week's work. Thirty-three benchers were elected to hold office until 1926. F. W. Harcourt, K.C., of Toronto, again headed the poll with a total of 1,228 ballots, out of the 1,630 cast.

WHEN GERMANY ADMITTED DEFEAT.

July, 1917, Was the Date Exactly.

BERLIN, April 21.—(By Canadian Press)—It was in July, 1917, that the German military machine first admitted they were beaten and could be saved only by the submarine warfare. This is brought clearly out by an article in Die Glocke, on some diaries of Herr H. P. Hanssen, former Danish member of the Reichstag. In these are given some new details of events in the Reichstag on the debate on Herr Erzberger's Peace resolution of July, 1917. Ruthless submarine warfare had then been in progress for a whole year, and there had been grumbling and dissatisfaction at the non-fulfilment of the promises that six months of it were to bring England to her knees.

Herr Erzberger's speech in the Reichstag on July 6 was regarded as, in many respects, the turning point of the war. The voting of the credits, he said, meant that the war would continue for another year. That would cost 50 milliards (£2,500,000,000) and over 200,000 lives. Could Germany, he asked, bring England down before she herself collapsed? He did not believe it was possible, and Germany must therefore recede. He warned the Kaiser against living in the background out of touch with his people, and cited the aloofness of the Tsar from the Russian people as the cause of the Russian revolution.

Herr Hanssen says this speech of Erzberger's stripped the veil from Helfferich's juggling with figures, and it brought the Poles, Alsace-Lorrainers, and other oppressed nationalities into the open with the truth about the feeling of their constituents towards Germany.

A letter from Hindenburg was read after Herr Erzberger's speech. This must have made it plain to the Reichstag that the German army had shot its bolt and looked to the navy alone for salvation. Hindenburg wrote that "as hope that the conclusion of an early peace has had to be abandoned it is necessary to hold on until we wring victory from the enemy. The enemy is held at a distance from the frontiers of Germany. There are sufficient foodstuffs and raw materials in the country for continuing the war until the U-boat war forces a decision. Our food conditions will not get worse during the coming year. But every peace discussion helps to prolong the war."

Herr Erzberger responded by quoting Admiral Capelle, who had said that America as a military power was equivalent to nought, and that the war would be over before she could intervene. He also quoted a letter from Ludendorff, who said:—"The navy has undertaken that England is to be destroyed before the end of August." After their experiences, he said, they could not put unlimited faith in Government utterances.

Finally Herr Hanssen depicts Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Chancellor, declaring that "if the enemy wants peace he must come to us"

STEEL VEIL INVENTED TO PROTECT POLICE.

LONDON, April 22.—To minimize the danger policemen are subjected to in the present wave of disorder sweeping over the land, many novel suggestions have been offered. One of the most novel is that of a Hampstead, England, woman, who has invented a steel veil for policemen. The veils are designed to cover the whole of the head and neck, and fall on to the chest. The object is to protect Robert's features from assault. Their value in a riot, when missiles are being thrown, is obvious.

NEW RAILWAY.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Tenders are to be called for soon for the construction of a new railway for Sydney. This railway is to be built partly underground and partly overground at an estimated cost of 8,000,000 pounds sterling.

SEED TREATED BY A NEW PROCESS.

Increase the Yield and Check Disease.

CARMANGAY, Alta., April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Seed treated by a new process of seed electrification, a method which, it is claimed, will increase the yield, check the spread of funoid diseases and improve the quality, will be sown this year by many of the leading farmers in Southern Alberta. A plant for the treating of seed has been established here, and already its capacity is taxed to such an extent that an enlargement will be made immediately.

Great claims are made as to the advantages of this system, which is known as the Wolfryn Electro-Chemical process of seed electrification. The process consists in placing the seed to be treated in a bath containing a suitable metallic salt such as calcium or sodium chloride and weakly electrifying the same for a length of time appropriate to the seed under treatement. The solution is then run off, and the seed taken out and dried. The object of the salt is not only to decrease the resistance, or, in other words, to increase the conductivity of the seed-coat, but to maintain that conductivity during the period of germination. Calcium and sodium in correct proportions are, moreover, plant foods and assist in the after stimulation of root production.

This method is a new one to Canada, but it has been tried with remarkable success in England. From the reports for the season 1920 of field trials made in England by the seed production department of the Board of Agriculture, on farms selected by themselves, the results showed a gain of 2 to 7 bushels of wheat to the acre; 5¼ to 19½ bushels of oats, and 5 to 16 bushels of barley.

RID THE STATES OF THE BARBERRY BUSH.

NEW YORK, April 22.—In an editorial advocating a campaign to rid the western sections of the United States of the European Barberry bush, which is the cause of black rust, the Wall Street Journal declares that this crop in one season destroyed 300,000,000 bushels of wheat in the United States and in Canada.

TWENTY CHINAMEN IN GAMBLING CHARGE.

Five Fined Five Dollars, and Costs—Others Escaped Conviction.

KINGSTON, April 22. — Five Chinamen were each fined $5.00, and costs, in the Police Court here for gambling on Sunday. Twenty Celestials in all were gathered in by the police, but positive convictions against fifteen of them could not be reached.

When the police raided a home on 241 Bagot Street last Sunday, they found twenty Celestials gathered around a table in the back room. Piles of money were in evidence, and Lee Ling, one of the convicted men, was seen to transfer money to another gambler. In front of Lee were also a few pearl beads, while dominoes in the centre of the table were evidently being used in the interrupted game.

The police identified five of the accused as having been gambling, while the only evidence against the others was that they were in the room while the game was under way.

No man can fight the battles of life and hold his own if his blood is not pure, for rich, red blood is what strength is based upon. When you see a strong, vigorous man, who never knows when he is licked, you may wager that such a man has coursing through his veins rich, red blood. Many people have thin, pale blood. They are weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly, and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle. Such folks need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is sold by druggists in liquid or tablet form.

NIAGARA FALLS, ONT.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at times for the past three years with wonderful results, and I take great pleasure in saying a word to boost the cause of 'Freedom from Illness.' I am a pressman by occupation, which is quite fatiguing and injurious to the system, but since taking the 'Discovery' business has no drawback for me. Three cheers for Doctor Pierce's medicine!"—WILLIAM H. DEMPSEY, JR., 32 Bridge Street.

ACTRESS SMASHES PORTRAIT OF SELF.

It Is Simply Horrible, She Said.

PARIS, April 21.—The Comedie Francaise star, Cecile Sorel, tried to obliterate the caricature of her at the Humorists' exhibition, but only succeeded in breaking the glass of the picture without defacing it. Apparently the action was unpremeditated, as she attacked the portrait with nothing more deadly than a gold vanity bag.

After breaking the glass the angry woman stalked through the crowd to her automobile, but returned shortly afterward to say that an eleven-carat ruby was missing from the clasp of her vanity bag, for which she offered a reward of 10,000 francs—the exact sum for which she is suing the artist Bib to avenge the insult to her charms. It was afterward that she learned that the chauffeur found the ruby on the floor of the automobile, but history does not relate whether he got the 10,000 francs.

The newspapers criticise Mlle Sorel pretty severely and some of them suggest she is jealous of the notoriety of some of her colleagues who have been losing jewels or having law suits over a pearl necklace broken when two well-known stars came to blows.

"It is horrible," she said, to the press. "It is unworthy of a gentleman. You make ugliness because you are unable to create beauty. Why don't you magnify beauty instead of destroying it?

This is in keeping with her previous statement: "I am beautiful—only time has the right to disfigure me."

U. S. CONVICT NOW INVENTS AIRSHIP.

Count Loudon Expects to Launch it Soon.

OSSINING, April 21. — Count Loudon, alias Max Lynar, Sing-Sing's titled inventor and international swindler, has completed the ocean-going airship he invented and has been working upon for a year, and is now planning to launch it in prison.

Loudon, who made $2,000,000 selling fake war munitions stock before imprisoned, made the craft in his spare time after doing his prison work. He has built a model of a dirigible, which he expects will be able to transport 1,000 passengers overseas, and has patented it. The model, which he built in the prison metal shop, of which Keeper John VanWyck is foreman, is about twenty-five feet long and about nine feet in diameter. It is cylindrical in shape. Where it excels other dirigibles is in the horizontal airshaft through the centre of the bag. This enables the wind to pass through the centre of the bag and therefore greatly lessens the resistance of the wind against the head of the dirigible. The model will take aloft about 300 pounds.

"I'm expecting to get the gas to start it up," said Count Loudon, "in a few days." Warden Lawes will not permit the Count himself or any other inmate, to experiment in the launching for fear the pilot might be corried away or forget to return to serve the rest of his sentence.

ONLY 28 INCHES HIGH, SUING FOR DIVORCE.

LAPORTE, Ind., April 21.— Che Mah is the name of the smallest man on earth, and he lives in Knox, Indiana. He is 28 inches high, weighs 40 pounds ,and is 83 years old. He is suing his American wife, who is between five and six feet fall, for divorce.

Che Mah was a star attraction in the Barnum and Bailey Circus for years. Ten years ago he retired from the life of interminable travelling in tents, and settled down in Knox, where he is a star character of the town.

The diminutive Chinaman was married to an American wife once before, but she died. From this union he had a son, who was of normal size.

EVANGELIST KENNEDY IN MICHIGAN CITIES

Tangible Appreciation By Church's Official Board.

Evangelist and Mrs. H. D. Kennedy, of this city, have been having great success during the past season in Michigan cities. They are now in the midst of their tenth campaign since August 1st. Hundreds have sought the Lord, and about 25,000 Gospel tracts, written chiefly by the evangelist themselves) have been given away in the meetings. Recently they closed a three weeks campaign in one of the large churches in the city of Lansing, Mich. As the meetings progressed the interest and attendance increased. When the first altar call was given, 40 people sought the Lord, and after that nightly the altar was thronged with seekers until over 160 persons had publicly confessed they had found a personal Saviour. To show how highly the work of the evangelists was appreciated in this church, when they were leaving, after many kind things had been said regarding the services rendered, the official board on behalf of the congregation, presented them with a check for $450.00 as a thank offering, assuring them that their good will and prayers would follow them.

FORTY-FOUR HOUR WEEK A CRIME.

Women Who Wield Flat Irons Protest.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — Describing the eight-hour workday and the forty-four hour week, as "crimes against civilization" in these reconstruction days, and their approval as an affront to every woman who wields a weighty flat iron or swelters over a sizzling stove,the "Association of Overworked, Underpaid, Dishwashing Housewives" has addressed a petition to the members of Congress against any legislation recognizing limited hours of labor.

The headquarters of the petitioning association are declared in the petition to be "By the cookstove and the cradle, with the washtub nearby." The document contains numerous shots at legislation which makes work easier for the male and winds up with the following

"We believe that Congress should realize that those who cherish ambition for political advancement may find that support by a Labor organ will prove a handicap and not an asset."

The petition urges Congress to consider thoughtfully that the "workers who demand an eight-hour day and prate the loudest about their industrial slavery are the very ones who compel housewives to serve as domestic slaves."

LUMBERMEN GET HIGHER PAY HERE.

Industry in States Needs No Protection.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Wages paid common labor in the lumber industry in Canada are slightly higher than in the United States, according to a letter sent to some of the members of the House Ways and Means Committee by Donald D. Conn of the Shevlin, Carpenter & Clarke Company of Minneapolis. Mr. Conn was a witness before the Ways and Means Committee several weeks ago in opposition to the imposition of any duty on lumber, contending that the lumber industry in this country needs no protection. His company has lumber both in the United States and in Canada.

Most Amazing Offer of Phonographs in Years

News that will Cause a Big Sensation Among Phonograph Dealers and Make Happy Hundreds Who Have Wanted to Own a High-grade Instrument.

After several years of gradual climb in prices on all makes of phonographs, the Greene Store is enabled to make the first announcement of a stupendous cut in thc price of the most popular model of the world-famous Columbia Grafonolas—an offer that gives you a

$135 Grafonola for $95

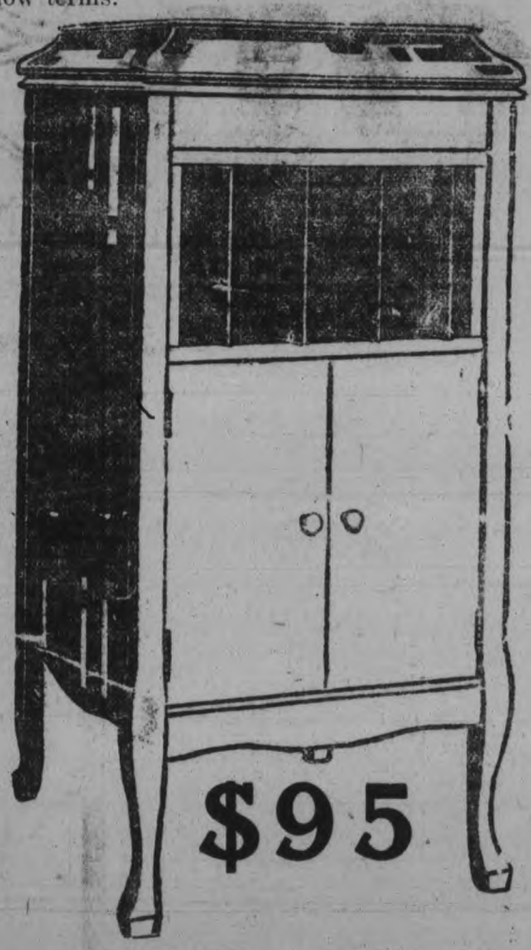
This offer is indeed sensational, for never before in our experience in selling Grafonolas have we been permitted to cut the price a single penny. The saving of $40.00 on a Grafonola is in itself a sufficient inducement to provide a big day's demand for the Grafonolas, but we are going to make it an offer unparalleled by taking orders to-morrow — Saturday only — to the number of 25 only on these amazingly low terms.

Only $1 To-Morrow Sends Home This Handsome Grafonola At Once

The offer is simple. All we ask is your agreement to pay us balance of purchase price ($94) in small weekly sums after you receive the Grafonola and while you are getting your enjoyment from it.

There is nothing extra to pay for this easy purchase plan.

Remember: it's a one-day offer only and you must place your order to-morrow if you want one.



Details of the Construction of Grafonola

The Model X here illustrated has powerful three-spring motor, tone-control leaves, graduated dial, speed regulator, new bayonet-joint tone arm, Columbia reproducer, piano-hinged lid with self-supporting device, all exposed parts are heavily nickel-plated. It is, in fact, mechanically perfect.

Choice of Walnut, Mahogany or Oak

The Model X is a stately floor model Grafonola in the highest class Cabinet Makers' Art, made in selected mahogany, fumed quarter-cut oak and walnut. Purchasers can have their choice of these where it is desired to match other furniture in the home. This model has large compartment with divisions for holding records, capacity about one hundred 10 and 12-inch discs.

No other phonograph will give you more pleasure or satisfaction at any price.

Just 25 of These Grafonolas Will Be Sold To-Morrow on the Extraordinarily Easy Terms Stated Above

As this offer entails a very considerable outlay for us and the immediate returns from the small down payments being so slight, naturally we have had to limit the number we will sell. But to make the quantity meet the convenience of those of our customers who cannot come to the store in the morning, we have arranged to sell them to-morrow as follows:—

12 on Sale at 8.30 a. m.---13 on Sale at 1.30 p. m.

We know whereof we speak when we say there is no likelihood of an opportunity to buy a good phonograph so advantageously in a long time—if ever again. So make up your mind to quick action if you want a Grafonola, and come to-morrow at the opening hour. You need bring only $1 with you, and you'll never miss the small amounts that will quickly make it yours —but come to-morrow.

The Game of Golf

There are people who do not play golf and it may be interesting to them to know why it is so popular. But it is really popular amongst older people only. Few young people play golf. Young people often belong through their parents to country clubs it is true, but it is not for the sake of golf. Dances and tennis are the attractions. But, you osk, if it is such a delightful game, why is it that young people do not 'go in" for it? For two reasons. One of them is that it is a lonely game and the other is that it is a slow game. For older people, however, the slowness of it or rather the deliberation of it is one of its charms People with a waist line and a middle-aged heart cannot go galloping about "the way they used to do." Golf as an exercise is little more than a very agreeable country-walk. Its surroundings are its chief pleasure. But the day of people's having all these things simply because they can pay for them, is going by. We are getting on a more socialistic or social plane than formerly. Private rights are disappearing. The next topic for the clergy to preach upon will doubtless be: "Why should the rich not divide up their joys and opportunities" They will appeal to the majority and it will vote "yes". It is a strange inconsistency too that at this very time everything is being brought down to a business basis. Perhaps it all unites in being practical. But what has that to do with golf you say? You will find out some day, especially you who motor out on the Sabbath and play on the first day of the week. You don't do it always it is true. Only when the day is fairly fine. And look at the church attendance as a consequence! But why do women play golf? I give it up. Unless it is to keep an eye on their worse portion. It makes the hands large as do all branches of agriculture, sours the temper and produces wrinkles, tans the skin and coarsens it, gives a soft-ground or sailor roll to the gait and gives the look to the eye, that is neither soft nor alluring. In fact an athletic girl is never the most attractive in the eyes of men. Men like to see a woman, not an earth-shaker Golf is going out as a woman's game. At cards she can fight with several at a time and put a whole club on the blink, men and women, but at golf there are no witnesses and no conversations or other versions to dispute about. Doctors play golf because it is healthier than practising medicine. Lawyers because it gives them another excuse for enjoying themselves. All said and done it is a game that anybody can at any time and in almost any place, play at. To play it properly is a difficult matter Most games are so except possibly dominoes. In what way does golf differ in the stroke from "shinny"? In no way. The clubs are more varied to enable the player to get the ball up better but that is all. There are eighteen holes in a game of golf all of the same size, 4 inches in diameter and all placed on croquet-lawns. When you make up your mind to put your "wee ba' " in a hole you begin as at every hole by putting your ball upon a tee or little mound, and then you take your "driver" and hit it as far and as straight as you can. To go far and straight is the difficulty. It is not difficult to go far or to go straight but both together are a conundrum. As golf is what the Americans desire viz: something expensive and therefore "exclusive" as they call it, where the poor and there fore the contemptible do not intrude only continental courts and the like you must hire a teacher and if you learn anything you are a hero. Americans play this game most and best because like fishing they regard it not as a sport but as a business. Canadians play well but only by accident. Canadians like a game better such as hockey or lacrosse, where they can hit each other over the pate. There is nothing of that at golf Well! if you get your drive away and the hole is long enough (far enough away, for holes differ in distance from 600 to 100 yards), you take an iron club or a wooden spoon and try and place it, (the ball), near the hole or in it, (if you can), whoever does all this in the fewest strokes wins, unless his opponent is a better arithmetician. Golf is a lonely and a selfish game. That is the truth about golf. But it is played in the open air and that helps to redeem it from the card class. But it is not always the best player who wins since no man can conrol the lies, (that is the little places the ball will run into on the fair way), and no woman either. When we get public golf-links or grounds then anybody can play for a quarter unless he's out of work when he will not care to spend the quarter and if he is working, he may not have the time. It isn't in it with the movies or telling other people what they have got to do to come up to your moral stature or anything like that, but it is quite a game nevertheless. It was invented by the Dutch, who played it for years before the Scots took it up and both for the same reason. The English play golf as a sport when they play indifferently and by dint of native genuis when they win. There is a variety of styles of dress for golf, all making one look like a tramp or a fury, according as the player is a man or a woman and also accordingly as they are successful or not. The poet says that 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned" but I want to tell you that a woman dubbing her drives is worse than that.

There is not as much blowing about a man's game as there used to be. They all did it and it got tire some. But golf has its life-lessons all the same. One is it teaches self-reliance because there is nobody else to rely on except one's opponent and even he may not be thorough ly reliable. With a woman it is different. Golf has hurt the matrimonial market and cannot really last. It will be dead in twenty years. Even in Scotland it is played only by the old and the plain. No woman is either of those on this continent. It would be cruel to hint at such a thing in the face of all the face-powder used. It occurs to most people at some time to ask the question: "What game shall I go in for?" I would say to a girl to play tennis in preference. It is true the golf-grip is a terrible thing and may prove an excellent preparation for the piano. To a young man I would say: "Play cricket or football. They are not only amusements but also an education."

In former times when taxes were not so high people had more inviting homes and plenty of ground about them. After the toils of the day, if there were any, relaxation and health could be found in and about the house, but that is not the case in these days. With the motor it is possible to have a country-place of one's own practically, kept in perfect order for fifty dollars a year fee and as for further expense that is at one's option. Since luncheons, teas and dinners have become fashionable at these places, the old-fashioned home festivity of that description in summertime at any rate has become a thing of the past. The race began to find that it needed more fresh air and that was a good thing. There are fewer pale and hysterical women than there used to be but still there is a sacrifice of the artistic for the athletic. The question continually arises "where does the money come from?" and echo still gives the same unsatisfactory reply. The most exacting thing about golf is after all, the strike. Skill and smoothness count for more than srength. A smooth stoke will produce good results! A reckless, feckless stroke will do no good That is why the boy with the "shinny" stroke excels his elders who almost invariably try to knock the ball a mile and fail. However unlike the poet the good golfer is made not born and that lures the "duffer" on.

STOP THAT TICKLING IN THE THROAT
BY USING
DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

That tickling in the throat sensation is most distressing and causes a nasty, irritating, dry cough that not only keeps you in misery all day long, but also prevents you enjoying a god night's rest.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks combined with the lung-healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mr. E. A. Price, Port Carling, Ont., writes: "For about a month last fall, I had a bad cold and cough and a tickling in my throat. I coughed nearly all the time. I tried different remedies and cough syrups, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had used two bottles, my cough was all gone, and gone for good. I have not coughed since."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 35c and 60c a bottle at all dealers; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

REDUCING NAVY OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Admiralty Sets Example—Drastic Economy.

LONDON, April 22.—(By Canadian Press).—The Admiralty, under its new administration, continues to set an example of drastic economy, which according to the "big navy" critics is bringing the country perilously near the danger line.

In accordance with the policy, announced by Lord Lee, of reducing the number of capital ships in full commission from 20 to 16, the Atlantic and Mediterranean Fleets are each to be reduced by two big ships. In addition, two admirals will haul down their flags without replacement in the Atlantic Battle Fleet, which will have in future four flag officers instead of six.

This Fleet has hitherto consisted of the Queen Elizabeth as Fleet flagship, the First Battle Squadron of five vessels, the Second Battle Squadron of four, and the Battle-Cruiser Squadron of four. The battleship Royal Sovereign is to be withdrawn from the First Squadron, and the Tiger from the Battle-Cruiser Squadron. The Royal Sovereign was reduced to reserve complement at Portsmouth on January 28 as a temporary measure, as she is to undergo an extensive refit in the dockyard for which £382,121 is taken in the new estimates. She will now join the Reserve Fleet permanently, with three-fifths complement. The withdrawal of the Tiger will be postponed until shortly before the commissioning of the Renown, now under refit at Portsmouth after her Dominion cruises, with the Prince of Wales. The Renown is expected to rejoin the Fleet next September.

In the Mediterranean a battle squadron of six vessels had been stationed since the Armistice. These six at present are the Iron Duke, Emperor of India, Ajax, Benbow, Centurion, and King George V. The Emperor of India and Centurion are, on April 1, or as soon after as possible, to be reduced to three-fifths complement and to be kept at Malta, where they will form what may be called a station reserve for the four battleships in full commission

With the reduction in gumbers, the Atlantic Fleet will also undergo a change of organization. The First and Second Battle Squadrons will be malgamated, with a vice-admiral in command, and a rear-admiral as second-in-command, instead of two officers of each of these ranks as hitherto. The term of Vice-Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle, K.C.B., M.V.O., in command of the First Battle Squadron expireson May 1, and he will not be replaced, Vice-Admiral Sir William Nicholson, K.C.B., of the Second Battle Squadron, assuming charg of the combined squadron. Rear-Admirals H. M. Doughty, C.B., C.M.G., and E. B. Kiddle, C.B., complete their twelve months as rear-admirals in the First and Second Battle Squadrons in the first week of April, and only one officer will succeed them. The changes in the Mediterranean will not necessitate any alterations in the flag commands of the Battle Fleet on that station.

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GREY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't, stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

Provisions are being made for the nomination of Major General Leonard Wood as the next provost of the University of Pennsylvania. The office, it is said, will carry a salary of $25,000 a year.

A Razor and Stropper IN ONE

VALET
Auto-Strop Razor
—sharpens itself

NOTHING could be more annoying than to find that your razor blade is dull—especially on a rush morning. Such an experience brings a cloud over the brightest day-break. But this cannot happen when you possess a Valet AutoStrop Razor.

All you need do is to slip the strop between the rollers, run the razor to and fro; and in ten seconds the keen edge is renewed. The Stropping device is part of the razor. It is built right into the frame.

If you are in a hurry, and you usually are, you hate worrying with taking a razor apart to clean it. This never occurs with the Valet AutoStrop Razor. It is not necessary to remove any part either for shaving or cleaning. A wonderful advantage.

Then there is the simple adjustment. Valet AutoStrop Razor can be adjusted to suit any face—to tackle any beard, no matter how "tough". A slight pressure of the thumb on the lever of the razor properly adjusts it for either a light, medium or close shave.

THE RAZOR THAT MAKES YOU LOOK FORWARD TO YOUR MORNING SHAVE WITH PLEASURE. It makes one blade do the work of a dozen. It saves times. It is truly

PARIS THRILLS TO FATAL END OF WAR ROMANCE

War Godmother Could Not Part With Lover, So Shot Him.

PARIS, April 22.—A young woman's strange crime that is a tragic aftermath of war, is thrilling Paris to-day. Like many other lonely soldier, Louis Houillier found, through the columns of a newspaper a war godmother, Antoinette Raynaud, living on the outskirts of the capital. The acquaintance, begun by letter, ripened into love, and after demobilization Houillier came to live on the same street as the young woman. Then they quarrelled and Antoinette became engaged to another man, who insisted as a condition to the marriage that she entirely cease her acquaintance with the former lover. She agreed, but a last goodbye meeting with Houillier proved too much for her resolution. The fiance insisted, but Antoinette couldn't rid herself of the memory of Houillier's parting words:

"Mind, if you break with me utterly, I take another."

Tormented by jealously, unwilling to live with him and unable to live without him, she took a desperate resolution. She informed Houillier that she had broken with her fiance and asked him to leave Paris with her, arranging a rendezvous at the entrance of lonely lane. He came gladly and there in the darkness she shot him four times. Then she returned to her apartment and barred the door with the intention of taking her own life. But her courage failed and when, hours later after Houillier had been discovered, the police hammered on her door, Antoinette found voice to refuse admission. It was only when the police threatened to flood the apartment with asphyxiating gas that she yielded and they found her trembling with the revolver she dared not use, still in her hand.

JUDGE LANDIS RULES BAKER IS ELIGIBLE.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Colonel Ruppert, President of the Kilties, announced here that he received word from Judge Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, that Frank Baker, former star third-baseman of the Kilties, has been reinstated and eligible to play whenever Manager Huggins desires to use him.

The evidence submitted to Judge Landis showed that Baker was guilty of no offences against organized baseball, and that he had not played against any eligible players last year.

The average grade plow land in the United States is valued at $83.78 per acre, as compared with $90.01 an acre a year ago.

TALK ON MARRIAGE

Can a person be married unawares? asks London Tit-Bits.

Beyond a doubtt And the bride or bridegroom need not of necessity be insane either?

Many people have gone through the marriage ceremony without understanding its nature. A singular case was that of a girl of seventeen One day her mother took her for a drive, stopping the carriage at a church, where thew found a friend of her brother—a friend whom she had met only a few times previously and who had never professed love or spoken to her of marriage.

Under the direction of her mother, she was, as she thought, betrothed to him, and the same day he sailed for South Africa. Three years afterwards, her mother having died in the meanwhile, she went through the ceremony of marriage with another man, whereupon her "betrothed" wrote to her from South Africa, claiming her as his wife The first ceremony, though it was actually that of marriage, was however, held to be invalid.

A woman who was particularly fond of exercising the privilege of her sex obtained a divorce and subsequently remarried her husband. There was a certain irregularity—of which she was fully conscious—on the second occasion. Changing her mind again, she tried to get the marriage annulled on this ground; but, much to her chagrin, she did not succeed.

Similar surprises have often followed weddings at Gretna Green. About six months ago a man had the mortification to discover that the little ceremony in the blacksmith's shop—the joining of hands over the anvil in the presence of witnesses — constitutes marriage according to Scots law.

In the same way, many secret weddings intended as sham have turned out to be perfectly legal. An Irish squire went through the ceremony of marriage with one of his housemaids, the wedding taking place at midnight in a bedroom. His design was to throw off the girl at his convenience; but the ceremony, though irregular, was valid.

Not always, again, do people commit bigamy when they think they are doing so. In the north of England, some years ago, a wealthy woman married her coachman to evade payment of debt. The man, she knew, had been married before, and both parties believed that his wife was still living. It was arranged, indeed, that the whole thing should be merely a paper marriage.

After the desired object had been attained—that is, after execution had ben stayed—the woman wished utterly to ignore the marriage; but the coachman, having discovered that his first wife was dead at the time of the second ceremony, insisted on his rights, and to get rid of him the fair debt-dodger had to undertake to pay him £300 a year.

A remarkable case of a like character came before the divorce court. The petitioner stated that at the time he went through the ceremony of marriage with the respondent she had a husband living. She admitted that she had been married, adding that her husband had left England in a ship which had been lost with all on board.

This was found to be inaccurate Though a man with the same surname and initials as her husband had gone down in the wreck, his widow was forthcoming, and further inquiries resulted in the discovery of the respondent's first husband

What could the lady do then? Only prove that at the time he went through the ceremony of marriage with her he had a wife alive—a thing too wildly improbable for any novelist to work into a plot. Yet this was clearly established. The woman lived four years after the "marriage" of her husband with the respondent.

The respondent's first "marriage" was quashed, and she and the petitioner remained man and wife.

1 Pill a Laxative,
2 Pills a Cathartic,
3 Pills a Purgative,

This is the Way Millburn's Laxa-Liver Pills Work.

You will never use any of the old griping, nauseating, sickening, purging pills, containing as they do calomel and other drastic mineral ingredients, once you use Milburn's Laxa-Liver, a pill that is purely vegetable.

Owing to the great care used in procuring the highest grade of drugs from which they are manufactured, they are as near perfect as it is possible to get a laxative remedy.

They work gently and effectively, without a gripe or pain.

If you are troubled with constipation, biliousness; driven to distraction with sick headaches, if your tongue is coated, your breath bad, your complexion muddy, your eyes yellow, have floating specks before the eyes, jaundice, itching, bleeding, or protruding piles, stir up your sluggish liver with a few doses of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

Mrs. Roy Mackie, Orillia, Ont., writes: "I desire to express my thanks for the relief I have had by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I had been suffering for some time from constipation and bad headaches. I tried all sorts of cures, which did me no good, until I was advised to try your pills. I got great relief after taking only a few doses."

GOVERNMENT PERMITS GUINEAS TO BE RUN.

Decision Means Record of 100 Years Will Not Be Halted.

LONDON, April 22.—The Government has withdrawn its ban on racing so far as the Two Thousand and One Thousand Guineas are concerned. Both races will be run at Newmarket on Friday, April 29.

The Government banned racing because of labor troubles. It was asked to consent to the Guineas being run off because of their importance to blood stock breeders. The Guineas were run throughout the war when most of the other great races were cancelled. They have been run yearly for over one hundred years.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

WOULDN'T TAKE $1,000 IN GOLD FOR THE GOOD

DAWSON DECLARES TANLAC HAS COMPLETELY OVERCOME ALL HIS TROUBLES AND HE'S A WELL MAN AGAIN.

"Honestly, I wouldn't take a thousand dollars in gold for the good Tanlac has done me," said Delbert F. Dawson, of 174 Browning avenue, Toronto, Ont., well-known carpenter and builder.

"Besides relieving me of a bad case of stomach trouble of many years' standing, Tanlac has built me up ten pounds in weight and I never felt better in my life than I do now. I suffered so I could hardly stand the pressure of my clothes against my stomach, and the way it pained me was simply terrible, and often I had choking spells, when I almost lost my breath. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep, and mornings got up feeling more tired and worn out than on going to bed. I lost weight considerably and became so weak I was constantly losing time from work, and many times got so dizzy I had to grab hold of something to keep from falling. Nearly all the time I had a headache and sometimes it hurt me so bad I could hardly endure it. My liver was in an awful condition and I had liver spots all over my body.

"Well, I just kept getting worse, in spite of everything I did, until I got Tanlac. But this medicine seemed to get right after my troubles, for it wasn't long before I was feeling lots better. I've taken eight bottles in all and am a well man, never lose a day from work or feel bad in any way. It's a fact, Tanlac is the best medicine I ever saw or heard of."

RESEEDING ON SWEET CLOVER

While most of the reports received state that sweet clover has come through the winter in better shape than either wheat or other clovers, there are some cases, particularly on heavier lands, where sweet clover has killed out rather badly. As a means of meeting the requirements in such cases some farmers in Lennox and Addington are sowing from 12 to 15 pounds of sweet clover seed on new seeding partly winter-killed, and are doing the same with old meadows partly run out.

MOTHER SAVES CHILD FROM DROWNING IN A CISTERN WITH A RAKE

BRANTFORD, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—The coolness of Mrs. John Hartley, 118 Erie avenue saved the life of her two year old daughter, Beatrice Louise, who fell into a cistern at the rear of their home. There was no ladder available and the youngster was submerged in seven feet of water in a twelve foot cistern when the mother reached the spot. She took a garden rake and secured a hold on the clothes. These gave way but on second grapple success attended and the youngster is now little the worse for her experience.

BRITTON LEFT OVER $3,000,000

TORONTO, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—The National Trust Company, Limited, is applying for probate of the will of the late Hon. Mr. Justice B. M. Britton, who died on November 19, 1920, at Toronto. The estate amounts to $3,369,234.78.

eggs if she does not get the lime? If she eats her eggs it is eitherfrom mischief or for lack of shell making material. The hen is the most efficient paymaster in the world and nothing is more exacting as to time and system than the hen. Success depends on manner of details and if the hens are kept in a quiet pen neevr allow any stranger to bother them because it will cost you many dozens of eggs. Don't work with them all week and forget them on Sunday because if you do they will forget you every other day. It will take a lover of animals to make a success of hens.

The baby chick.—How fast does he grow? One hundred chicks weight 8 lbs, while the average baby weights 8 pounds and the average calf 80 lbs. At the end of 12 weeks 100 chicks weigh 200 lbs., and if the baby and calf were to increase at the same rate the calf would wtigh a ton and the baby 200 lbs.

Three Classes..

Professor Graham stated that he thought that within twenty-five years twenty-five per cent. of the chicks hatched would be done by a commercial process and the farmer would cease to a certain extent. He explained how it was that some eggs which were fertile did not hatch out. There are three classes of eggs, (1) Eggs, (2) Fertile eggs, (3) Hatching eggs. Sometimes fertile eggs do not hatch because there is a lack of vitality. The hen was not physically fit or too fit. There might have been incorrect moisture or too much heat.

The commercial hatchins is cheaper because if a hen is broody only one day it will take from 13 to 15 days before she will recommence to lay. If she is allowed to hatch 21 days will be lost, and as eggs can be commercially hatched for three cents each it doesn't pay to set hens.

A good feed for young chicks would be "Johnny cake," which is made from corn meal and flour, also sour milk and green grass. Keep the chicks on clean ground always. When asked what kind of floor is best, Prof. Graham recommender cement, with plenty of light, air and no draft or dampness.

Mr. William Smith, Booth street, moved a vote of thanks to Professor Graham for his most interesting and practical address, and Mr. C. A. Moore seconded the motion. The meeting closed with the national anthem.

The officers of the Poultry and Pet Stock Association were fortunate in being able to secure Prof. Graham's services, as he is a clear, logical speaker and one of the best authorities on poultry in the Dominion.

Bodies Recovered.

About noon yesterday the bodies of Charles Ibey and Kenneth Blakely, the unfortunate victims of Wednesday's drowning accident, were recovered by Mr. Rightmeyer, not very far from where they had fallen in. The funeral of Charles Ibey will be held on Saturday at 2 p.m., and will be under military auspices, he having been a member of B company, 40th Regiment, Brighton. Comrades from C company, Campbellford, will also attend. The funeral of Kenneth Blakely will be held on Saturday afternoon. Both interment will take place in Mount Pleasant cemetery, Campbellford.

Election of Officers.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church was held in the school room yesterday, when the election of officers took place:

President—Mrs. J. A. Irvin.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. W. Stone.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. J. Smith.
Treasurer—Mrs. Chas. Davidson.
Secretary—Mrs. C. A. Wilson.
Pianist—Mrs. Russell Melville.

The treasurer's report showed the financial condition of the society to be in a flourishing condition, and the membership also was very gratifying.

Pleasing Numbers.

In the account of the Methodist Ladies' Aid tea on Tuesday, three very pleasing numbers were inadvertently omitted. Mrs. Glenn Thompson delighted the audience with an instrumental solo, Mrs. Malcolm's vocal solo was heartily encored, and Miss Armstrong's reading was indeed a treat.

The Pipe Organ.

Mr. L. Downey, of London, Ont., is in town making some alterations to the pipe organ in the Methodist church. The key-board is being changed and the choir loft is being entirely altered. The re-arrangement will be a great improvement.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Anson R. Walker, of Toronto, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Morton, Queen street.

Mr. Guy Winters of Sutton, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. ad Mrs. Alex. Winters, returned on his home yesterday.

Mrs. Duncan Kerr accompanied her daughter, Miss Clyta, to Saginaw, Mich., to be present at the latter's wedding on Saturday.

Mr. R. C. Weston was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. A. E. Hogle, Trenton, was in town yesterday, going on to Healey Falls to visit his friend, Mr. Worrall, who was injured last week at the power house at Healey Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Malcolm and children are in Toronto this week.

Mrs. T. McAvoy, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Scanton, of Port Colborne, has returned home.

Miss Viola Reynolds of Sebastopol street, is visiting in Toronto.

Mr. Andrew Scott is on a business trip to Niagara.

Mr. L. Collins returned Thursday evening from Toronto, where he has been spending a few days.

The poor relation often wonders if the rich one really has a poor memory.

BACK TO NORMAL

CHESLER'S INVITE INSPECTION OF THE COMPLETE NEW STOCK OF LADIES' WEAR.

The Elliott store has now discarded its screen of sale postersand with a beautifully dressed window, invites custom for a brand new stock of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Garments. The name "Chesler's" has taken the place of the former proprietor's, and the store's advertisement in this issue announces a return to normal business and invites inspection of the complete new stock of Ladies' High Class garments. The statement that the prices are very moderate indeed, can easily be proven by a visit of inspection, which is urged, whether the need is pressing or not.

MORE G. T. R. RUMORS

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—It is generally believed in London that the object of Mr. Howard G. Keeley's visit is to arrange with the directors and shareholders for the handing over of the Grand Trunk Railyway to the Canadian Government.

TWO SISTERS GET HELP

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it did for Them

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was weak, overworked, and my periods stopped. My body was swollen and I often had pains so I had to lie down. I was treated by a physician, but he did not seem to help me at all. My sister had taken your medicine with great results so I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am able to work and feel like working. I have been recommending your medicine to my friends, and you are welcome to use my testimonial for I can never praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me."—RHODA E. CARBAUGH, R. R. 1, Hagerstown, Md.

Women will tax their powers of endurance to the limit before giving up, and it is then some womanly ailment develops and they have to give up entirely. When a woman suffers from such symptoms as irregularities, headaches, backache, bearing-down pains, inflammation, nervousness and "the blues," it is well for her to profit by Mrs. Carbaugh's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BURGLARS VISIT HASTINGS STATION

SECURED A SMALL QUANTITY OF BOOTY—HASTINGS NEWS

HASTINGS, April 22.—Constable Dixon and a G.T.R. detective are in search of the parties who forced an entrance into the station a few nights ago and secured some booty.

Weather, Crops, and Gardening.

If the old adage, "April showers bring May flowers," be correct, we shall be expecting a great profusion this year.

The farmers are busy seeding. Some reports say that on the whole the fall wheat has suffered severely from the winter frosts, and that the clover will not be more than half a crop.

Some of our enterprising citizens have almost finished gardening, even potatoes being planted. This may be considered a very early season, judging from these reports.

The Town "Clink."

Constable Dixon, late on Tuesday night, came across a rather suspicious looking character tramping around the town, and gave him a night's lodging in the Town Hall.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Walter Raycroft was in Campbellford on Wednesday.

The many friends of Mr. John Fitzpatrick, Sr., will regret to learn of his death, which took place at his home in Asphodel on Tuesday last. The deceased was well and favourably known, and sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. Al. Scriver took a trip to Campbellford on Wednesday.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church have completed arrangements for their annual rubber social to be held in the near future.

Housecleaning is the order of the day.

Dr. J. H. Hess took a trip to Oshawa on Wednesday, and brought home a new car for the local garage.

Dr. Hess reports the roads, in general, very good.

Dr. De La Matter took a trip to Toronto this week.

The many friends of Mr. Frank McMillen are pleased to see him looking so well after his recent operation for appendicitis.

We are glad to report improvement in the condition of Mrs. Chas. Jones, who has been confined to bed for the past two or three months.

Mr. Case, of Peterborough, was in town on Thursday.

Messrs. C. Adam and J. Fallon, of Peterborough, are opening up an automobile tire repair shop in the store formerly occupied by Miss Maggie Butter as a millinery parlor.

Mr. J. Collins has brought in a car load of coal, which he is distributing about the town.

Mr. Walter Thomson, of Toronto, is the guest of his parents, Rev. D. A. and Mrs. Thomson, at the manse.

Mr. Walter Raycroft spent Thursday in Harwood.

Mrs. James Stenson has been visiting friends in Peterborough.

WANTED FOR FRAUD.

COBOURG, April 21—Chief Constable J. C. Ruse holds a warrant for the arrest of G. W. Powell, who is wanted on a charge of fraud.

Powell is described as being 30 years of age, five feet seven inches in height, and weighs 170 pounds. He wears a small moustache and walks lame. Powell is peddling small wares about the country. The police throughout the country have been notified to keep a sharp lookout or Powell.

KEENE NEWS HAPPENINGS

PREPARING TO UNVEIL WAR MEMORIAL IN VILLAGE

KEENE, April 22.—Preparations for the dedication of the monument recently erected are under way. The committee in charge will meet in the Town Hall on Monday evening for final arrangements. It is expected that several military and parliamentary leaders will give addresses afternoon and evening on May 24th.

The complete programme will be issued after the Monday evening meeting on April 25th.

Purchased Property.

Mr. Theodore Kimball has purchased the property belonging to Mr. Andrew Rennie on the sixth line of Keene.

Mr. Wiliam Fletcher is on the sick list.

Basket Social.

The basket social given under the auspices of baseball team of Keene on Wednesday evening was a splendid success in every way. The proceeds amounted to sixty dollars.

Presbyterian Church News.

Miss Maragret Bryce has returned from Toronto and will lead the choir in the services of praise.

Mrs. Barraclough will be soloist for Sunday, April 24th.

The subject of the minister's sermon will be "The Last Reward," based on the words, "A Hundred Times as Much."

The S.O.S. Socity will have their regular service on Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m.

Miss Mabel McNevan will have charge. The socal half hour at the close of the evening is a very pleasant innovation.

The go-to-church effort is already bearing fruit in largely increased attendance at Sunday school. It is expected that a number of families will revive their church going habit.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, or milk, but the pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little Bisurated Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can get almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

A Bulletin of Good News For Those Who Will A Shopping Go on Saturday !

This Better Store of Yours

This store is no less yours because we happen to be the owners of it. It is yours for the fullest and completest use and service at all times—yours because you have made it so.

In still a broader sense it is yours because you have created it by being part of this community, developed its policy by your desires and continued it in healthy activity by your patronage.

When it is not your store its decay will have begun, for it then will be less of a store than it is to-day, while it is enjoying your frequent visits.

Not a day passes in which we do not study how to make it still better.

SATURDAY

3000 Yards Novelty Dress Ginghams, 23c Yard

A fine big array of dress ginghams for Saturday shoppers. There is a wide assortment of patterns, some we have never shown before. It is the same quality we sold last year for 59c and 65c yard. The width is about 27 inches.

$1.25, Navy Poplar Cloth, 79c Yard

It is a fine light weight cloth, suitable for children's dresses, and we have known people to make very good bathing suits of it. It is inexpensive, but has good wearing qualities and a good appearance.

12-4 Flannelette Blankets, $2.79 Pair

This is the largest double bed size and these are first quality. You can have white or grey with pink or blue borders. This price is positively the lowest we have offered in years.

A Miscellaneous List of Big Values

Men's Balbriggan Underwear, 69c.
Women's Pink Balbriggan Bloomers, 39c.
Women's White Nainsook Gowns, 98c.
55c Bungalow Curtain Nets, 33c yard.
Fibre Suit Cases, $1.76.
10c to 25c Embroidery Insertions, 5c yard.
Men's Negligee Shirts, $1.39.
Large bars Castile Soap, 20c.
Paint Brushes, 42c and 54c.
Children's Waists, 39c.

Regular Up to $5.95 Models at $2.49

There is a fine variety of shapes and nearly every color is represented. A few have silk crowns with straw brims, but more are all straw. There are turbans, tams, rolled brims and small sailors.

Regular Up to $12 Models, $5.50

They are trimmed in a variety of ways with bands of silk, garlands of flowers, streamers, or hanging strands of fruit. There are many desirable shapes and the colors will be acceptable.

Regular Up to $16.50 Models, $7.98

Several of these are transparent, being of Mohair or Maline. Some have transparent brims and straw crowns. In such instances there is usually a garland of Flowers decorating the juncture of the brim and crown. Others are all straw or part straw, with either the crown or brim draped with Silk or Satin.

Sheet Music at the Music Counter

"Nestle In Your Daddy's Arms"
"I Never Knew"
"Moon-Glo"
"Humming"
"Wang-Wang Blues"
"Jelly Bean"
"I Never Realized"

"Venus" Second Quality Silk Hose, $1.24 Pair

"Sub-standards," the Venus Co. calls them. This requires an explanation. "They are better than seconds, but not exactly firsts." This distinction will be quite evident when you inspect them, for it requires close scrunity and a little perserverance to discover just what is wrong with them. The first quality sells at $2.00 pair. The 76c difference in the price is certainly more than ample compensation for the slight imperfections. You can have black, navy, brown or white in any size.

$1.50 "Queen Quality" Silk Gloves, $1.24 Pair

These Gloves are made of an extra heavy silk and have reinforced finger tips. Some are plain and others have contrasting colored points. The colors are black, white, navy, sand, grey, brown, smoke and pongee.

5c to 15c Torchon Lace Insertions, 2 Yards for 5c

It is unfortunate for us that these Laces are slightly soiled, otherwise we could get full price for them. They can be washed clean again, for they are only soiled with dust. We have about 1,000 yards in widths from ¼ to 2 inches and all are Torchons.

$1.50 Linoleum, $1.19 Sq. Yard

An extra heavy quality, well seasoned linoleum, in a selection of floral, block, Oriental, tile and oak plank patterns — light and medium colorings. The widths are 2 and 4 yards.

$3 Hearth Rugs, $2.29

These Rugs are of fibre wool and come in shades of brown, green and blue. They are reversible and both sides are prettily patterned. The size is 27 x 54 inches.

$3.50, 38-Inch Duchess Satin, $2.69 Yard

We present it in a true shade of navy blue. We can say about its quality that it is good, about its finish that it is beautiful and desirably lustrous, and about its fineness that it is soft and supple. It suggests itself for skirts, dresses and blouses.

Silk and Wool Satin Cloth, $1.95 Yard

This fabric is suitable for dresses or skirts and is admirable in texture and colors. The two shades we present it in are taupe and light grey. The width is 38 inches.

An excellent material, and two suitable colors for matrons.

DRESS VOILES

800 Yards

We believe these Voiles are the greatest wash good values shown in Peterboro for five years. They are exactly what you would expect to pay $1, $1.25 and $1.50 for. They are fine, they are beautifully patterned and handsomely colored. In fact, we can say they are the best looking lot we have seen this season.

Here is a summary of the colors: Brown, navy, saxe, taupe, grey, light blue, tan and black. Also a couple of pieces with light grounds. The patterns are floral and conventional.

See Them in Our George Street Window

Plenty of Smart Clothing for Men

Every man must feel the influence of this lovely weather. He must feel the desire to lay away the old weather-beaten and worn clothes of winter and put on the bright, the new and cooler garments of late spring.

Be Sure They Are Good Clothes,

be sure they are of fabrics that will give long service, be sure they will retain their shape throughout their lifetime. It's the quality that counts, and do not be deceived the quality is not in the fabric alone; it's in the workmanship and trimmings, too.

We Can Recommend Our Society Brand and Leishman Garments.

They have the real stuff in them.

Suits Priced from $25 to $60

Light Weight Overcoats from $18 to $35

Two New Strap Slipper Models, $9 Pair

One is of brown calfskin, in single strap pattern. The toe is semi brogue style, with stitching and perforations. A welted sole, Cuban heel and the best of workmanship throughout.

The other is of black kid in the two-strap pattern. The heel is the Cuban style, the toe is receding and shows straight tip stitching. Smoked pearl buttons are used for the strap fastenings.

Odd Lots of Oxfords, $8.65 Pair

There are brown calfskins in semi-brogue style with Cuban heel, and Black Kid Oxfords with full Louis heel. You will not find every size, but there is a very good assortment, and the prices are certainly away down for such excellent goods.

White Footwear for Glorious Summer Days

They are here and the summer weather will soon follow. There are Oxfords and Pumps and Strap Slippers and Brogues. They are novelty affairs with ties and other touches that make them different from those of other seasons. The Brogue Oxford of genuine white buck leather is good to see. When can we show them to you?

Children's "Hurlbut" Play Slippers

They are made of "Wunx" hide, a leather that is tough, but not coarse, and withstands all sort of hard wear that children subject them to.

Sizes 5 to 7½, inclusive, $2.50 pair.
Sizes 8 to 10½, inclusive, $2.75 pair.

Children's "Hurlbut" Oxfords

They are priced at $4.50 and come in sizes 8 to 10½, inclusive. They are of black kid and are downright fine little Oxfords for the money.

Navy and Black Suits of Tricotine, Serge and Gabardine. Reg. Values up to $67.50 are marked at $59.75

The materials are tricotine, serge and gabardine, in colors of navy and black only. There are numbers among them the cleverest in make, the snappiest in style, and the most desirable in materials. Varying from the simple semi-tailored type to the softer line suits with their tuxedo collars, box back coats, which are beaded and embroidered in self color and gold, and the suit with slashed coat, which is bound with silk braid and gayly colored, or in other cases subdued colored, embroidery trimmings. A few of these beautiful suits have fancy satin vests and all have narrow belts. In all, this is the most comprehensive showing of new spring suits, specially priced for one day, that we have shown for many a day. The regular values were up to $67.50. For $59.75

Serge and Tricotine Suits of Navy Blue. Regular Value $57.50 are marked at $49.75

At this very moderate price, you will be pleasingly surprised at the quality of these suits. Not only in material but in style, a richness is displayed that one would expect to find only in a very high-priced garment. There is a very select lot of suits to choose from at this price, including both tailored and fancy models, which have been created by no less than expert workmen. Every seam, stitch, or bit of binding is done with the utmost care, resulting in beautiful tailored garments, and exceedingly moderately priced for Saturday.

THE NEW PERFECTION COAL OIL STOVES

For summer use at home or at the cottage a New Perfection Coal Oil Stove makes life worth living. They are so economical on fuel, so quick to deliver heat, so clean and harmless, that thousands of housekeepers would not be without one. There is no danger like with the gas stove, of leaving the gas turned on, or with the children turning it on. It is absolutely harmless, but best of all, it is so cool to work beside in the summer time. There is no great fire heating all of your kitchen; it is all concentrated under the pan or dish on top of the stove, no heat wasted, no fuel wasted. We have just received a fresh shipment of these Stoves in threedifferent sizes. See these in our Economy Basement, also the New Fireless Cookers.

FRESH NEW STOCK OF DINNER WARE

During this last month we have been receiving shipment upon shipment of fresh new Dinner Ware until now our stock is up to its regular high standard again, comprising all of the newest designs in Dinner Ware, both open stock and separate sets. There is the Almeria set of high-grade semi-porcelain. The pieces are of a pure white with a floral band around edge. The Cups are a new shape, making a very neat and rich looking Dinner Set.

Then we have numerous other floral designs in a host of different colors for the house wife whose fancy turns to floral decorated dishes. In fact, our Dinner Ware stock was never more complete, or never have we shown such an exclusive and well-chosen range of Dinner Ware, the majority of which are open stock. If it is a present for the June bride, you would do well to visit this department. Our Tea Sets and Odd Pieces of China are beautiful, also our Cut Glass Department is aglow with richly cut pieces that would please any bride. A visit to this department would be of value to you as well as doing us a favor. —Economy Basement.

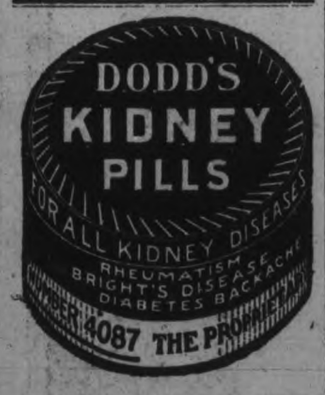
350,000 IN BRITAIN SUFFER CUT IN WAGES

General Reduction of Eleven Per Cent. Since January.

LONDON, April 21.—In view of the reductions in wages reported from the United Staes, the following figures of cuts in England may afford an interesting comparison:

Over 350,000 working people have been affected by the reductions which came into effect last month. The amount of money represented by the reduction is £60,000 weekly, according to the Labor Gazette. The biggest cuts occurred in the textile trades, where 278,000 workers' wages were reduced. These include about 200,000 woollen and worsted operatives in Yorkshire and Lancashire.

The general reduction is equivalent to 11 per cent. of total wages since January, when the cost of living really began to fall. A total of 1,689,000 employes have had wage reductions representing £680,000 a week.



RATTLING CAR CHAINS.

The common method of locking spare tires is to use a chain and padlock. The only trouble with the idea is the noise incident to the rattling of the chain and the fact that it mars the finish of parts with which it comes in contact. Some car owners cover this chain with a bit of hose, but this is usually too stiff and is somewhat noisy, and even permits marring of the finish. A bit of leather or heavy substitute, the length of the chain and wide enough to form a tube to enclose the chain, offers a satisfatcory solution of the problem. Turn in the edges of the leather case, and if you cannot do the job yourself, the nearest harness maker will make the tube for you.

AUTOCAR BRINGS FEED FOR TRACTOR.

Light farm touring cars are gradually replacing the old democrat as a conveyance for supplies to and from town, a good example of the extent of this replacement being offered by Nesbit Morrison, of Ontario County.

Since the purchase of his medium-weight tractor Mr. Morrison has carried his oil for the same in the rear of his motor from the local station to the farm. On arrival the car is driven into the machinery shed and the barrel elevated by means of a block and tackle to a platform. Gasoline is then ready to be drawn off for the hungry machanical horse.

$100,000 WILLED PETROLEA HOSPITAL

Will Be Used to Finish Improvements.

PETROLEA, April 21.— G. G. Mongrieff, one of the executors of the will of the late Jacob Englehart, announces that the memorial hospital built in this town will receive $100,000 from the estate to complete the plans and renovations that have been under consideration by the board of directors for some time. One half of the amount is in cash and the remainder is in stocks in the Imperial Oil Company.

CUSTOMS CONTROL IN OCCUPIED ZONE

BERLIN, April 21. — A special despatch from Essen says the new customs control set up by the Allies in the occupied zone for the collection of duties under thespenalties plan became effective at midnight last night. Passenger trains are being detained ten minutes for the inspection of the passengers and their baggage.

CARSON REPORT UNFOUNDED.

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—The report that Sir Edward Carson has accepted the High Court Judgeship turns out to be unfounded. Political gossip says that he will probably become a member of the Judicial Committee of the House of Lords and the Privy Council, at a salary of six thousand pounds a year.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

If you are accustomed to wake up with coated tongue, foul breath or a dull headache; or if your meals sour and ferment, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire ailmentary canal.

Those subject to headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying the morning inside bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

House of Commons,
Ottawa, 20th April, 1921.

Mr. Roland Denne,
Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—In the letter to which you signed you name a few days ago, you suggested that the proposed tariff agreement in natural products would cause a lack of employment.

Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, in the recent by-election, stated then, practically as he stated in his speech in the House of Commons on the 13th instant, that the Liberal Government's tariff was higher in the average than the tariff of the late Borden Government. Sir Henry Drayton in a lengthy speech made the following statements:

In the first instance, I wish at once to agree with some of the things that my hon. friend says. Certainly no one in Canada, so far as I know, is either looking for or hoping to make trouble with the United States. Canada, having regard to her size, her population and her resources, is immeasurably the best customer of the United States. It is also true that Canada, with her eight or nine millions of people, does more business with the United States and is in closer touch with that country than the whole of the continent of South America, with which the United States people are present doing so much trade. There is no issue between us as to the necessity of maintaining the very best possible relations with our great neighbour to the south, and I am sure that every hon. gentleman on this side is as anxious as my hon. friend that those relations should be fostered and maintained. We may differ, of course, as to the best way of maintaining them.

Sir HENRY DRAYTON: The hon. member says, the real argument for us. I wonder if he is really thinking what he is saying, in view of the trade figures, and in view of that discount. Valuable for us! It is the argument which this country has given to our friends to the south. It is something which the American farmer finds very real. He says: The Canadian dollar passes for par in Canada; my dollar passes for par in my own market. The Canadian, when he sells his wheat at the same price at which I sell, gets in his own currency 15 per cent. more than I can get in my market. That, Mr. Speaker, is the real reason for a great deal of the present trouble.

The resolution of my hon. friend calls for the adoption of the reciprocity agreement. I have not had an opportunity of making as careful a study of it as my hon. friend, but the adoption of that agreement would mean that the American duties on fresh meats, for instance, bacon and hams, salted meat, lard, wheat flour, oatmeal, agricultural machinery, shingles, lumber, iron ore, cement, and bituminous coal would be raised against the Canadian exporter. Why, the duties on all these articles to-day are lower than are called for by the reciprocity agreement. The reciprocity rate of duty on fresh meat is 1 1-4 cents a pound; to-day it is free. Bacon and hams take the same reciprocity rate; they are to-day free. Lard took the same rate; to-day it is free. Wheat flour took a rate of 50 cents a barrel under the reciprocity agreement; to-day it is free. Oatmeal took a rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds under the reciprocity agreement; to-day the rate is 30 cents per 100 pounds. Agricultural machinery took a rate varying from 15 to 20 per cent, under the reciprocity treaty; to-day there is no duty at all, machinery is free. Shingles took a rate of 30 cents per thousand under the treaty; to-day they are free. Lumber took a rate of 50 cents to $1.50 per thousand feet; to-day it is free. Iron ore was 10 cents per ton; to-day it is free. Cement, 8 cents per hundred pounds; to-day free. Bituminous coal took a rate of 45 cents per ton; to-day it is free.

Thus you will see that the Pork Packers, Flour Mills and Factories making agricultural machinery, sent their products into the United States, free, although, the Liberals did not reduce the tariff to that extent. According to Sir Henry Drayton, the late Borden Government gave a lower tariff agreement than any Liberal Government before. So you will see if there are many men out of work by reason of their food products being untaxed, the Borden Government did it, and you cannot blame any Liberal Government.

In fact Dr. Edwards, a strong Government supporter, stated that the tariff of the Borden Government on implements is now 14.6 p.c. while under the proposed reciprocal agreement under the Liberal Government, it would have been 17.3 p.c. These facts are proven. There is no question about them being true, so that declaration you made about this affecting working men is pure bunkum and the result of an extravagant line of thought which is not warranted by the facts.

My recollection was that in 1911 you were a supporter of Hon. J. R. Stratton, when he supported this trade agreement and if you were not actually a supporter, you did not take any strong grounds against it on any platform or in the press, and many men at that time thought it was a good business deal for the farmers, fruit growers, employees of farm machinery shops and packing houses.

I would suggest that you write to the Prime Minister protesting against the party's action which reduced the tariff lower than the Liberals ever offered to reduce it, and then you will put this matter right if you are consistent in your declaration of policy which was contained in the letter you signed a few days ago.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir,—The Globe printed in full yesterday the manifesto of the Reds of Toronto and it is red, sure just about as red as anything possible. But it was for a warning because The Globe is not red. The Reds' Committee includes all branches of Labour and plainly enough says that the country belongs to the people and they must have it. One speaker said "You have saved us from drink now, save us from death. You have shown that no private right can be allowed to stand in the way of the general good. Let her go boys all is ours."

There will be 250,000 men out of employment this winter. Let's build a bridge from St Peters' Cathedral across to Armour's Hill The Council and the Board of Trade can do it.

Tiny Dose and Baby Is Happy

THE medicine a mother takes for her own constipation is seldom the right medicine for her baby. Thousands of mothers for thirty years past have been giving babies Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of simple herbs with pepsin. The full formula is on the package. This remedy is mild and gentle and does not gripe. It contains no narcotics. Half a teaspoonful will relieve constipation, biliousness, feverishness, colds and many other symptoms that indicate baby's inactive bowels. Mother, a sixty-cent bottle will last you months, and if it doesn't do as claimed your money will be refunded.

If you would like to test Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin free of charge before buying it in the regular way of your druggist, send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont., and a free trial bottle will be sent to you promptly, postpaid.

WORSTED YARN PLANT STARTS UP AT MILTON.

TORONTO, April 21.— The new $100,000 plant of the Milton Worsted Yarn Mills for the manufacture of worsted yarn has commenced operations. The property, which was originally occupied by the Canadian Carpet Company, has been rebuilt and renovated. Several additions have been made and a new heating plant and power plant installed. In addition to the manufacture of worsted yarn a modern dye-house has been built and equipped with the latest machinery for the dyeing of yarn and cloth. There are now nine mills in Canada manufacturing worsted yarn, with a capital invested of over $4,000,000 and an annual output of over $6,000,000. The new plant at Milton makes the tenth in Canada engaged in this industry. It is the ultimate intention to enlarge the present premises and greatly increase the output.

BANDITS HAVE EXCITING DAY AT MELBOURNE

CAR CARRYING THEM TO TRIAL UPSETS AND MOB THREATENS THEM.

LONDON, Ont., April 22.—William and Sidney Murrell and "Slim" Williams, who were committed for trial on a murder charge by County Magistrate W. H. Chittick at a preliminary hearing conducted yesterday afternoon at Melbourne, narrowly escaped death, when the London Police Department touring car, in which they were driven to the scene of the tragedy, turned turtle en route.

The car was occupied by the prisoners, Detective Inspector Thomas Nickle, Detective Harry Down, who was driving; Mrs. Collins, Police Court stenographer, and Russell Boyd, a London newspaperman.

All were pinned under the machine, but they extricated themselves, and were found to have suffered no serious injury. The preliminary was delayed for an hour as a result of the accident. In the meanwhile the hall in which the proceedings were conducted became so crowded that a section of the floor collapsed. Several of the spectators became panic-stricken and screamed for help, but no one was hurt.

When they were taken to the special car waiting in the village, the detectives found great difficulty in getting their men away from the hall. Several men in the crowd suggested that it would be a good opportunity to make use of a rope and save the hangman a job. Mother and sister of the Murrell boys accompanied them despite the jam of people, through the main street to the waiting automobile.

"Say, guy, quit your pushing there!" he shouted.

The streets were crowded throughout the afternoon with those who could not get into the building. Many climed onto the adjoining buildings so as to be able to look through the open windows of the hall. The streets were lined with automobiles from all parts of the surrounding country.

Death Instantaneous.

The first witnesses were Dr. Freele of Glencoe and Dr. Dewart of Melbourne, who performed the post-mortem examination. Their evidence was similar to that given at the inquest. There were two wounds in the body, the one that caused death as caused by a bullet which passed through from the right armpit to the left, severing the pulmonary blood vessels. Death was instantaneous.

Miss Erma Wright, teller of the bank; Miss Agnes Campbell, another employee of the bank, and Manager McCandless, all told the same stories as at the inquest.

The first man who entered his office was the missing bandit, said McCandless. Sydney Murrell came next, with William close behind and Williams in the rear. All were armed, and had their guns pointed at him. He heard a yell from the men, and they suddenly left the bank. He then grabbed his gun and rushed out after them. The next thing he saw was the capture of Williams. The money was found on him, and on examination he found the bag held by Williams to contain $1,000 or $1,500.

Crowd Cheers Indian.

The crowd cheered William Danford, the Indian, who, single-handed, captured William Murrell in the hay loft of a barn near the bank, when he told the court of scaling the wall and entering the window of the loft, where he found Murrell hiding under the hay. Murrell put up his hands on seeing the Indian, but when he discovered that he (witness) was not armed, he started hunting in the hay for his gun. Danford grappled with him, and finally threw him out of the window to another man, who held him.

Mr. Donahue—Did you go into the hayloft alone?

Danford—Yes, sir.

The crowd yelled and cheered for several minutes at this statement.

SEIZE TWO ILLICIT STILLS AT ORILLIA.

ORILLIA, April 22.—Two illicit whihky stills have been seized by Preventive Officer Floody, of Toronto, and Licence Inspector Reed, of Orillia. One was being operated in Tiny Township, on the shores of Georgian Bay, and the other in Coldwater Village.

Both operators of these stills were absent at the time of the inspectors' visit, but prosecutions will be put into effect at once.

VANCOUVER HEN SEEMS CHAMPION.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 22.—This city now lays claim to the championship for the largest hen's egg laid in Canada. Driver Mitchell, of the Police Department, is the owner of a flick of white leghorn hens, one of which laid an egg four and a half inches in length, with a long circumference of eight and three quarter inches and a short circumference of six and five eighths inches.

When opened it was found to contain two perfect whites and two perfect yolks.

Ottawa held the previous record for an egg laid last week measuring 8 1-2 inches and six and a half inches circumference.

CALGARY, April 22.—Angus McKay, of Calgary, produced an egg the other day from a Buff Orpington hen which weighed five and a half ounces, measured nine inches around the tips and seven and three quarters of an inch around the middle.

COMMUNITY WORK FOR THE VILLAGE

LAKEFIELD PLANS A REGATTA ON JULY 1

LAKEFIELD, April 22.—Yesterday, about 50 ladies gathered in the basement of the Methodist Church here to organize a sisterhood to work in conjunction with the brotherhood which has been in existence about three months. While this organization is directly under the auspices of the Methodist Church, it is by no means limited only to Methodists. Anyone belonging to another church wishing to join may do so with the full understanding that their obligations and membership to their own community work in the village for these two societies, and they expect to find a wide field for such work. A regatta on July 1st will be one of the big things which the brotherhood expect to accomplish, in which the sisterhood will be of great assistance. A meeting to complete the latter organization will be held next Thursday, at 8 o'clock, in the basement of the Methodist Church.

MONOTONY OF "MAIN STREET" IS APPALLING.

Indictment of the Average Town and Its Folk Is Terrific In Best Selling Novel

Few recent books have created such a furore as "Main Street," by Sinclair Lewis. The best seller of the day, the novel is very uncomplimentary about American towns. Does the following description apply at all in Canada?

"Nine-tenths of the American towns are so much alike that it is the completest boredom to wander from one to another. There is the same lumber yard, the same railroad station, the same garage, the same creamery, the same box-like houses and two-storey shops. Intelligent young people and fortunate widows flee to the cities with agility, and spite of the fictional tradition, resolutely stay there, seldom returning, even for the holidays. The most protesting patriots of the towns leave them, if they can afford it, and in old age go to live in Caliofrnia or in the cities. The reason is not a whiskered rusticity. It is nothing so amusing. It is an unimaginatively standardised background, a sluggishness of speech and manners, a rigid ruling of the spirit by a desire to appear respectable. It is contentment — the contentment of the quiet dead, who are scornful of the living for their restless walking. It is the prohibition of happiness. It is slavery self-sought and self-defended. It is dullness made God. A savourless people, gulping tasteless food, and sitting afterward, coatless and thoughtless, in rocking chairs, prickly with insane decorations, listening to mechanical music saying mechanical things about the excellence of automobiles, and viewing themselves as the greatest race in the world." — Sinclair Lewis in "Main Street."

KILLED VALUABLE BULL TOO SOON.

Five Daughters Later Make Records.

NEW YORK, April 21.—A remarkable case of misfortune is cited by Hoard's Dairyman, in a recent issue. Aaggie Cornucopia Johanna Lad Jr. 5th, for several years sire of the Minnesota University Farm Holstein herd, after developing slight traits of viciousness, was slaughtered. Five daughters of this animal later produced an average of 19,468 pounds of milk, containing 657.2 pounds of fat in a year.

The remarkable ability of the former sire was shown by the performance (781 pounds fat) of his highest record daughter, Facile Aaggie. She was out of a dam who three times was unable to qualify for admittance to the blue book.

A vicious bull is a dangerous thing to have about a farm, but in the case of an animal with a record of the sire mentioned above surely some means could have been found of retaining him with safety, and, no doubt, would have been had his merits been known previous to the passing of the death sentence.

Sarnia Doctors Will Give No More "Pers".

SARNIA, April 21.—A number of Sarnia medical men have announced that as the result of the referendum voting they would start at once refusing "pers" to all persons other than those sick in bed, and that in future "per" seekers would be given the gate. The medical men who are going to enforce this action state that with the closing of importation of "wet goods" in Ontario they will put the barriers up on "pers", as they are not in the profession for financial gain through the issuing of these. Speaking of the issue of "pers" one doctor stated that a number of doctors would follow the action taken by the local medical men.

A $2,000 SUIT IS RESULT OF COLLISION

KINGSTON, April 21.—Suit to recover $2,000 daamegs from C. N. R. will be brought by Rev. and Mrs. S.B. Griffith. The case will be heard here.

Rev. S. B. Griffith is a Free Minister, and when, with his wife, driving across the C.N.R. tracks in a buggy on January 6th, they were struck by an east-bound train. The accident occurred a mile west of Harrowsmith. The horse was killed and the rig smashed, while Mr. and Mrs. Griffith were thrown, the former into a ditch and the later against a fence alongside the railway.

Fighting the Little Monster that Spreads a Terrible Plague

How the Discovery That the Rat Flea's Bite Is Fatal Has Led to a War of Extermination Against the Only Carrier of Bubonic Plague Germs

TWO California boys, playing in the unused cellar of a waterfront tenement, chanced upon the carcass of a great brown rat. "Come," one said, gleefully, "we shall have a funeral! We'll give the old fellow a good burial." "Said was done" with the boys and they solemnly began the interment of the dead rodent.

"Gee!" one of the youngsters suddenly exclaimed. "This place must be full of fleas." Soon he and his chum were shattering the mock reverence of the occasion by scratching furiously.

Through with their sport, the boys left the cellar. Within forty-eight hours each was stricken fatally with the bubonic plague, the result of being bitten by the fleas which had been feeding on the dead rat. The rat, one of the domestic variety, had been infected through a flea which hopped off a brown Asiatic rat imported by a ship from the Far East.

And the other night a great brown rat, with ready eyes and quivering whiskers, crept over the rail of a foreign merchant ship tied up at an Atlantic port, and started down the hawser which stretched to the dock. The smell of the land was in its quivering snout, and to the land it wanted to go, because it was sick and dying. It was dying of the bubonic plague and in its fur was a colony of fleas, which, having fed on the live rat, soon, with plague death in their proboscis mouths, would desert the dead rat for other rats or human beings.

Slowly, inch by inch, the dying rodent felt its way down the taut rope, nor was it alarmed at the squeaking of the great hawser, straining at the undulation of the swells. The way seemed clear to the rat. What could prevent its landing with its host of death-infected fleas?

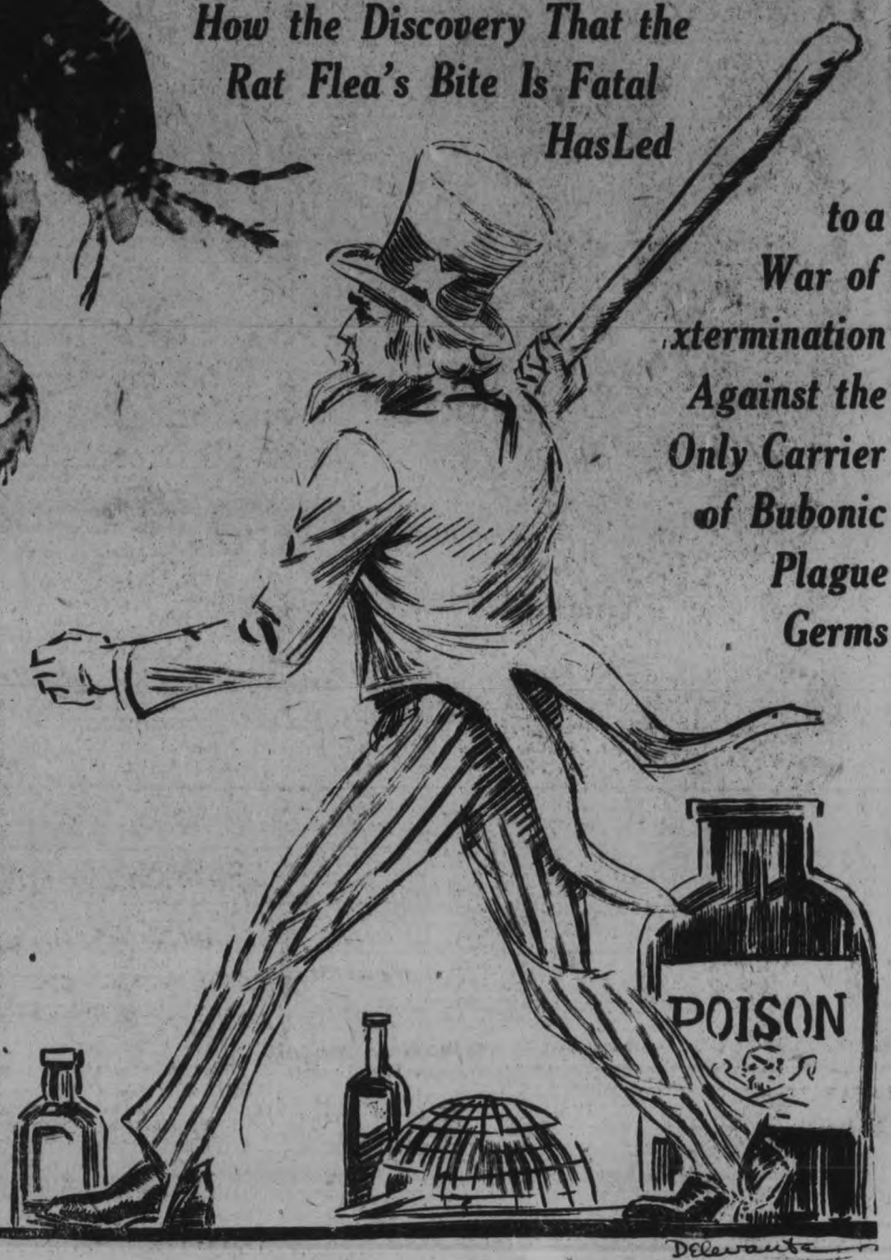
Suddenly, the rat stopped. A shining object, refulgent in the moonlight, loomed fully eighteen inches above its head. And it rose perpendicularly, so that the rat could not mount it. And the rodent was puzzled sorely and poked an inquisitive nose under the giant hawser, to see if the way was clear beneath. But on every point the way was blocked and the brown, sick rat squealed in alarm and desperation.

On the dock, beyond the shining object, a domestic rat was waiting the signal of silence to board the ship. Rich stores urged him. And when he heard the brown rat's squeal he knew that all was well for rats to safely board the ship. So he started up the hawser. But he, too, met the object, only to him it was shadowy and vague, for it was between him and the bright, lunar light. He heard the squeal of the other rat. With his head an inch removed from the dying stranger, he waited. Presently, alarmed at the coming of the watch, the rats whisked their tails and retreated, respectively, to ship and dock, the one to die, foully; the other to live, cleanly, as cleanly as a rat can live.

And when morning dawned and the inquisitive eyes of the land rat peered at the object which had prevented him from boarding the ship, he saw that it was a metal disc, three feet in diameter, through which the hawser ran. And he saw that every hawser was similarly equipped with a rat guard effectually to prevent passage to or from the ship.

Micro-Photo Enlargement of the Deadly Rat Flea Which Is Now Recognized as the Only Disseminator of the Terrible Bubonic Plague. The Bite of This Flea Has Been Responsible for 10,250,000 Deaths in India Alone in the Past Ten Years.

To Prevent Flea-Infested Rats from Coming Ashore When a Ship Arrives from a Southern or Foreign Plague-Stricken Port, Every Exit Is Guarded and Big Circular Rat-Guards Are Placed on All Hawsers and Cable Lines.



By Joseph H. Appelgate

THE above episodes, taken from the official records of the federal authorities, are illustrative of the manner in which the bubonic plague, now sporadically appearing in this country, is either spread or prevented. The great disc is one of the several means adopted to keep out of the ports of the United States the flea-carrying infected rat. It is one of the weapons Uncle Sam is using in fighting the little monster that spreads a terrible plague. For it is the flea, says Dr. W. H. Ballou of the Academy of Natural Sciences and the National Institute of Social Science, which is the real carrier of the bubonic plague. The rat is the only agent and from its contaminated blood the flea sucks forth the plague germs and buries its bubonic-infected proboscis into human beings.

Scientifically convinced by the most eminent bacteriologists of the world that the little monster is the potential disseminator of the dread disease, which has claimed millions of victims since its original appearance in the beginning of the Christian era, the United States government has joined with the health authorities of other nations to wipe the rat flea out of existence. The war has begun at various seaports of this country. How grave the danger is, and what it may portend, may be inferred from the statement of Dr. Victor G. Heisler of the Rockefeller Foundation, foremost authority on the plague in America, that the flea-disseminated pestilence "wherever it has come has never been eliminated." Man's efforts have succeeded in arresting the plague, but it has been impossible to destroy it completely.

Within the past few weeks bubonic plague has broken out in Paris. Countless thousands of rats, the spawn of those bred in the trenches, have overrun the city, and fleas that have fed on their diseased bodies have caused many cases of the plague by biting inhabitants. Alarm is felt in all quarters and 300,000 francs have been appropriated by the municipal council to destroy the rodents with poison gas and every means in the power of the rat-hunters. The rats occupy every cellar. So plentifully are they housed on the roof of the famous Notre Dame Cathedral that visitors are no longer permitted there because, when the roof doors are opened, rats as large as kittens come tumbling down on the sight-seers' heads.

The formidable disc, the trap and even the schoolboy are being used in fighting the little flea. The discs have been ordered placed on every ship putting in at the principal American seaports. Nor will Uncle Sam stop there. He will urge like action by all the governments of the earth so that the rat may be segregated and destroyed, thus wiping out the source of the plague and making it impossible for the flea to disseminate the pestilence.

Private Capital Assisting

Officials are going ahead with the campaign against the flea, by destroying the rat, with the certain warning that procrastination might mean a dreadful toll of human life. C. L. Williams of the United States Public Health Bureau says: "It is only a matter of time when the disease will appear in many, if not all, of the seaports of the United States." Spurred on by the admonition of this federal official, government authorities are daily devising new ways and means to wipe out the plague. Much assistance is being rendered by private capital.

Merchants, aside from the hygienic aspect of the situation, are enthusiastic over destroying the rat because of the rodent's costliness. Damage totalling $200,000,000 is caused annually by the cargo and grain-consuming rat. In New York city the loss is $35,000,000 a year. It has been estimated by an expert of the United States department of agriculture that there are now 350,000,000 rats in this country, each with a capacity and an appetite for 50 pounds of grain a year. It has also been computed that the spawn of a pair of rats would reach 20,155,392 inside of three years, intermating of all the rodents granted.

The rat flea is rendered the more deadly in its dissemination of the pestilence because of the length of time it can withstand the attack of the disease. The infected rat dies in five days, maximum. The flea succumbs in 60 days, maximum. Thus, beyond the rat's traveling area of five days and the flea's of 60 days, one is safe from infection. In fact, it is conceded that segregation from all communication of a city stricken with the plague is a sure means of checking its spread. The disease then can go no further than its own inhabitants.

The government is not confining its fight on the flea to this country. It is striking at its foreign sources. Dr. Carl Michel of the United States Public Health Service is at Vera Cruz, helping rid that Mexican city of the plague which has broken out. Jacques W. Redway, F. R. G. S., has advised that the focal point of the disease in central Asia be located and a campaign of extermination there waged. He declares that all of the destructive bubonic plagues that have scourged great areas of the earth started from a point in central Asia and followed the same course that Spanish influenza pursued, with the exception that the bubonic plague did not visit this continent only in rare cases. Now it is here and its spread is problematical.

According to Dr. William H. Ballou one of the three forms of the plague has always ended fatally and mortality from the others is 98 per cent. Sunlight and heat are the two enemies of the dread germ. Over his signature Dr. Ballou says: "The germ cannot exist in high temperature. Sunlight kills it in three hours. If I acquired the bubonic plague, I would hasten to a Russian bath, where the temperature is so hot that one can scarcely breathe, and in the room I would camp until the plague germ was extinct."

Genius May Conquer

Some years ago a physician in a western seaport broke open the wainscoting of a grocer's flat from which emanated a noisome odor. A decomposed rat was discovered. Two days later three in the grocer's household were ill of the bubonic plague. One died on the third day. Fleas, liberated by the physician, had bitten the plague victims with bubonic germ-infected proboscis.

Will history repeat itself?

Will a careless longshoreman rip up a plank and liberate the pest that hops with death? Will a neat housewife, bent on roach destruction, open the partition prison of infected fleas, which fed on the infected rat dead in her walls? Will a kiddie, mumbling mock funeral rites over a rodent carcass, let loose a scourge to sweep the United States as the black plague of bubonic origin attacked Europe in the fourth century, claimed 25,000,000 human beings in the 14th century, and has caused the death of 10,250,000 people of India under its real name of the bubonic plague during the last decade? Or will science, with the microscope and genius, successfully keep from the microscopic maw of the carrier flea the germ of pestilential death?

How Quicksilver Is Made from a Mixed Ore

QUICKSILVER, or mercury, is derived from an ore that is a mixture of sulphur and mercury, called "cinnabar," and when very pure is in color a brilliant vermilion. It is from this source, indeed, that vermilion used to be obtained. Nowadays, however, it is usually made by heating mercury together with sulphur, potash, and water.

To get the quicksilver from the ore it is necessary merely to separate it from the sulphur with which it is chemically combined, and this is accomplished by roasting. The ore goes from the crusher into a furnace, where high heat volatilizes the quicksilver, the latter being thereupon precipitated pure in a water jacketed "condenser." Out of the condenser it runs in a silvery stream, and is put up in wrought iron flasks for market.

Some tribes of California Indians have used cinnabar for red paint since prehistoric times, frescoing their faces and bodies with it, and it was observation of this circumstance that led to the discovery of the famous quicksilver mines of that state. Occasionally a miner's pick penetrates a pocket that contains a cupful or so of pure quicksilver.

When reduced by low temperature to a solid, quicksilver becomes very malleable, and can be beaten into sheets as thin as tissue paper.

The metal has a strong affinity for gold, and is much used in connection with gold mining. During the war its price multiplied tenfold, owing to the need of fulminate of mercury for cartridge caps, shell fuses, and detonators for all sorts of projectiles.

Mercury is called "quick" silver because it seems as if alive, so lively is the way in which it runs about. It is a fluid—that is to say, molten—at temperatures which render other metals solid.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 22.—(Canadian Press). — Quotations among the leading issues were mostly higher at the opening of to-day's stock market, motors and oils featuring the stronger shares. Studebaker, which made a spectacular advance in yesterday's later dealings, opened with a sale of 3,500 shares at 86 1-4 to 86 3-4, a maximum gain of 1 1-4 points, this soon being extended to 2 points. Mexican and European oils scored substantial fractional advances with several of the domestic issues. Food and allied specialties, including Industrial Alcohol, Corn Products and Coco Cola, also were moderately higher. Crucible Steel was heavy at an initial loss of 1 1-4 points. Baldwin Locomotive, Central Leather and Goodrich also were backward.

The leadership in the further advance was retained by Motors and Oils, Studebaker increasing its gain to almost four points. Part of this was forfeited before noon, however. On profit-taking, Mexican and Pan-American Petroleum and General Asphalt registered extreme gains of two to four points. Tobaccos, Textiles and Shippings trailed along alone to 1½ point gains, and Famous Players was the foremost of the specialties, rising 3 points. Utilities, especially Local Tractions and Express shares, were in demand, rising one to three points. Rails remained in the background, showing only nominal changes. Call money opened at six per cent, the week's lowest initial rate.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand 3.92½; cables 3.93. Canadian dollar, 11 per cent. discount.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 22. — (Canadian Press.) — Riordan Paper and the Steamship issues which have been in the spotlight of the Toronto Stock Exchange for the past few days had to give way this morning to Toronto Railway. Rails was by far the most active stock and advanced to 72 1-4, a gain of almost four points from last night's close. The stock closed the morning session at 72.

Riordan, while lightly dealt in, was quite erratic in its movement, ranging from 42 to 38, with the close at 40 1-2, a 2 point loss from the last sale yesterday. Trade in Steamship issues was light and quotations confined within the limits of 3-4 for Common and 1 point for Preferred, with the former closing unchanged, and the latter 1 point higher at 47. Brazilian was active and gained 1 point during the morning, closing at 31. Considerable business is developing in mining stocks in the unlisted departments.

MAKE FUTURE TRADING A FELONY

WASHINGTON, April 22—(Canadian Press.)—Speculation in farm products through sales on future exchanges without actual ownership of the commodity would be made a felony under the bill endorsed to-day by the National Farmers' Union Convention at its final session here. It was announced that the measure would be introduced in Congress and would have the united support of the cotton and grain membership of the Farmers' Union.

MONTREAL.

The market continued to be quiet and practically nothing of interest transpired during this morning's session. Riordan closed a point stronger at forty as did also Atlantic Sugar at 29. Brompton did not change and National Breweries closed practically the same at 43 5-8. Spanish River was fractionally weaker at 71.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Country offerings of corn were light. The market closes strong 1 1-8 to 2 1-8 higher with July 63 1-4 to 6 33-8.

Export sales to Belgium and Germany tended to bring about recoveries from set backs in wheat. The close was strong, 1 to 3 1-2 net higher with May 130 1-2 to 130 3-4.

COSTS MONEY TO DRY UP THIS CITY

NEW YORK, April 22.—Drying up New York after the manner prescribed in the State's new prohibition law assumed a new legal aspect, when Deputy Police Commissioner Leach announced his intension of obtaining liens against 1,000 property owners to insure payment of possible fines for liquor-law infractions on their premises.

Citing a provision in the new law allowing this procedure, the official said this legal action already has been taken against 500 property owners on whose premises arrests have been made and that notices have been sent to the others that similar action will be taken in the event that suspicion held by the police should lead to arrests on their premises.

Coincident with this announcement, Police Commissioner Enright, in a newspaper interview, predicted that the city can be made "as clean as a whistle" if the administration granted him the "man force" he has asked for to enforce the law. He estimated that real enforcement will necessitate the expenditure of $3,000,000 a year, $2,500,000 of which would be necessary for salaries and the remainder for "expenses." Under this head he listed the expense of buying "evidence" on which to base arrests.

Within fifteen days, since the police campaign started, said the Commissioner, 700 barrels and 7,000 bottles of liquor have been seized.

NINE WHISKY BANDITS CAUGHT IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, April 22.— Nine members of what the police say is one of the biggest whisky rings in the country had been arrested last night, following a gun battle here in which one of the bandits was shot and wounded, after an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Interstate Chemical Company. According to the police, the band has been in operation for months and is responsible for several big alcohol thefts.

In a raid on the home of one of the men to-night, which was said to be the cache of the band, an automobile, a quantity of tires and several thousand dollars worth of other stolen goods were recovered.

When seven bandits, some of whom were armed, tried to rob the Interestate Chemical Company of alcohol to-day, they were confronted by a squad of detectives, who, acting upon a tip, had been lying in wait.

Shooting started almost immediately, and, surrounded by officers, five of the men surrendered. Two attempted to escape. One was shot three times, and when his companion saw him fall, he also gave up. The wounded robber will recover.

A lookout fled when the shooting started, but was arrested to-night, during the raid on his home.

A garage man, whose place, police say, was a headquarters for obtaining trucks to cart stolen goods to the band's cache, was arrested to-night. Police say other arrests will result from confessions obtained.

The Interstate Chemical Company was robbed of $1,000 worth of alcohol two months ago by five men who operated in a fashion similar to to-day's attempt.

FAVOR ADVERTISING IN WAR ON CANCER.

French Physicians Would Thus Warn Public Against Quacks and Advise Proper Treatment.

PARIS, April 22. — The Franco-Anglo-American League Against Cancer favors advertising by reputable medical organizations to counteract the exploiting of quack remedies and the "puffing" of unscrupulous or oversanguine physicians who assert that they have discovered a cure for the disease.

Dr. Recaud, a professor in the Pasteur Institute and a leading cancer specialist, said that cancer was greatly on the increase in France, and was causing 32,000 deaths a year. The lives of many patients, he said, might be prolonged or even saved by the right treatment at an early stage of the disease.

Despite the hostility of his audience, mostly professional, to any form of advertisement by medical men, there was unanimous approval of his suggestion that advertisements signed by the Pasteur Institute, the Academy of Medicine or the Franco-Anglo-American League should be published in the non-medical press, warning the public against quack remedies, giving details of early symptoms of cancer and information as to where to apply for treatment.

Many physicians present agreed that a similar system should be applied to the other common diseases, and it is understood that the Academy of Medicine will be petitioned to take up the proposal officially.

Savings deposits of school children through the United States aggregate $4,200,872 on February 1 This compares with a total of $2,274,628.49 for the school year of 1919-20. The thrift report is based on 2620 schools with an enrollment of 1,430,936 pupils.

GRAPES IN LUXURY CLASS THIS YEAR

HEAVY LOSS IN NIAGARA BELT AND ACROSS THE BORDER

ST. CATHARINES, April 22. —If the opinion of experts is to be relied upon it seems that this year grapes will not only be scarce but may find their place in the luxury class. At a meeting of the executive of the Niagara Grape Growers, Ltd., in St. Catharines, bulletins from the National Grape Growers, Inc., an American corporation, with which the Niagara Grape Growers are affiliated, showed that 75 per cent of the crop in the Chautauqua and Erie belt in Pennsylvania and New York states, will be a total loss. The cold snap of 12 days ago practically destroyed the crop in a great many sections and in the 40,000 acres under grape cultivation less than 25 per cent. of the vines have survived.

Considerable Loss.

In the Niagara River district on the Canadian side, the grape vines are badly damaged by the frost which injured the American belt and also the bad weather of Saturday and Sunday. One large grower in this district said that examination since the storm brought home the sad fact that there no buds had survived. Examination by government oficfers from Vineland, it is said, gives ground for estimating the loss owing to the week end storm, at about 50 per cent. in the district east of Beamsville. West of Beamsville the loss is not considered so heavy and in the district immediately east of Hamilton it is said to be almost negligible. T. J. Mahony, president of the Niagara Grape Growers Limited, and one of the most successful grape growers of the district, says that from all appearances the Hamilton district is the most fortunate so far as fruit crop is concerned. While there will be losses, he said, they will be in comparison to the losses further east, of a very minor quantity. Sour cherries will be the worst hit in the district but they will not be the total loss that they are further east. From information available to the grape growers Mr. Mahony stated that he had no fear of a fruit glut this year. English cherries will probably be a 50 per cent crop; pears and grapes even less. Peaches and apples so far are promising well and strawberries were saved by the snow which fell thereby protecting the vines and the buds from the frost. Raspberries and other small bush fruits do not promise well but with favorable weather have a chance to come back.

CARUSO TAKES BEST SUITES.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Caruso's plans to sail for Naples on 28th May, and every suite de luxe on the Italian liner Presidente Wilson has been engaged for his family and retinue of ten secretaries, accompanists, valets, and maids.

The tenor will seek to complete his recovery from pleurisy at his estate near Florence so he may resume his roles with the Metropolitan Opera Company next season.

Although the reservations are subject to cancellation or change, his physicians expect he will be able to make the trip at the date set. His choice of a Italian liner ends a family discussion as to whether the party should take a liner to Cherbourg, and the final plan was adopted because it was believed that the direct route would be less of a tax on Caruso's strength.

Mrs. Caruso and their infant daughter Gloria will accompany the tenor, as well as his brother Giovanni, who came to this country from Italy when Caruso was critically ill. Bruno Zirato, Caruso's secretary, and Salvatore Fucito, his accompanist, will be in the party, but it is expected that Enrico, Jr., will remain at military school in this country.

SWEAR TO "HAVE JUSTICE."

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—When the body of eight-year-old Nadine Kremer, who was slain by a pervert, was placed in a hearse after funeral services in St. Mary's Church, three men standing by the hearse raised their hands and solemnly swore, "We will have justice."

The oath was quickly caught up by the great crowd which had attended the funeral and was repeated by thousands in the street as the procession started for the cemetery.

The throng was so great that it was difficult for the police to keep the onlookers from interfering with the progress of the procession. All along the route business was suspended as a mark of tribute to the little victim.

The beginning of the American public school was in Massachusetts in 1635 Philemon Purmont was the first schoolmaster.

ORIOLES DEFEATED 5-3; POLICE PROTECT LEAFS

BALTIMORE, Md., April 22. — They had it out yesterday, as have Toronto and Baltimore teams since the days when first they met. They had it out tooth and nail—hammer and tongs—and the Leafs won a fighting game by 5 to 3. They fought, wrangled and battled as though their very lives depended on the outcome, carried their animosity to the point at which it was necessary to call upon the police to interfere, and worked the 2,500 spectators up to a frenzy which at times did not bode good for the Leafs. John Conway Toole, President of the International League, sat in a front row box, and watched it all.

Figuratively speaking, scratching, biting and kicking were not barred. The spectacle was not altogether edifying, but it must be said that the teams provided a brand of baseball, when they were actually engaged in that pastime, that would do credit to teams anywhere at any time. The game demonstrated that the Toronto team are an outfit that will not "take anything from anybody." They fought when they were cornered, and emerged triumphant. They are not a team that will back up.

Exit Mr. Doyle.

Manager Doyle set Jess Winters, tall right-hander, secured from New York, at the task of subduing Jack Dunn's collection of sluggers. The band of Oriole left-handed hitters had no terrors for the Toronto right-hander. He pitched a masterly game, excepting a lapse in the eighth round, when he lost control for a time, and the Birds were enabled to tie the score. It was in this round that the police were summoned, and removed Doyle from the field. Dunn chose Groves, a southpaw, to tackle the Leafs, and the latter hit him hard, if not often.

Winters is a six-footer, with great speed and a sharp curve. He has a long, free swing, and appears to have benefited by his two years' tuition in the McGraw school. Winters will win a lot of games for the Leafs this season. He struck out eight of the enemy, but gave six walks. There is no reason at all why he should not gain control, and when he does he will be hard to beat.

LACROSSE PRACTISE ON SATURDAY

The Peterborough lacrosse team will practice in Central Park Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. A full attendance of players is expected and a good work-out should be possible.

CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENING

The Peterborough Church Baseball League made an auspicious beginning at the organization meeting held Thursday evening at Knox Church. Representatives were present from St. John's, St. James, Trinity, St. Luke's, Knox, Murray Street Baptist, Park Street Baptist, and George Street Methodist Churches. A constitution was discussed in detail and adopted, and the following officers elected for the season of 1921:

Hon. Present—Rev. Dr. Blagrave.
President—G. R. Langley.
Vice-President—C. Armstrong.
Secretary-Treasurer—D. Loomis.

The present indications are that senior, junior and juvenile leagues will be formed, with from four to six entries in each.

Although not represented at the meeting, it is almost certain that All Saints' will enter teams, and it is also expected that St. Paul's will take an active part.

A meeting of the Executive will be held early next week to get work under way on the schedule.

A number of well-known Central Ontario and City League players have volunteered their services as umpires, and every indication points to a successful season.

FIRST GAME OF INDOOR BASEBALL MONDAY NEXT.

City League Getting in Shape For Season—Entrance Fee, $10.

At the last meeting of the Peterborough City Indoor Baseball League, the representaives present of the several teams were as follows:

Peterborough Rangers — Mr. J. Dunkerley.
C.M.G.C.—Mr. J. Gilvin.
Wireless Section—Mr. C. Carson.
De Laval—Mr. C. R. Morrow and Mr. P. W. Johnson.

The G.W.V.A., C.G.E., Belmonts and Y.M.C.A. each failed to send a representaive.

Mr. J. Dundkerley was elected chairman, and Mr. C. R. Morrow, secretary-treasurer.

Entrance Fees.

It was moved by Mr. Gilvin, and seconded by Mr. Morrow, that an entrance fee of $10.00 be paid by each team, in order to defray the necessary expenses of purchasing balls, etc. This money to be handed to the secretary on the night of the first game. The motion carried.

The schedule, it is expected, will be drawn up and published in the Examiner on Friday.

First Game.

The first game will be played on Monday the 25th inst., commencing at 8 p.m.

SPORT PAGE THTES THMTH FRANCE EAGER TO STAGE OLYMPIC GAMES IN 1924.

PARIS, April 22.—Premier Briand said it was his earnest desire that Paris secure the Olympic Games in 1924, and promised the moral and financial support of the Government to that end.

The announcement was made to the French Olympic Games Committee, the members of which were introduced to the Premier by Deputy Henry Nate as Honorary President of the Committee in the absence of Gaston Vidal, Under-Secretary of State for Sports.

Premier Briand offered Government support to the building of the stadium necessary in case the games are held in Paris, plans for which will be submitted to the International Olympic Committee at its coming conference at Lucerne, Switzerland, on 2nd June.

The final and official allotment of the 1924 international meet will be made at that meeting.

BRITISH BOWLERS TO COMPETE IN OSHAWA.

OSHAWA, April 22.—Oshawa is to be honoured in August with a visit from the touring British lawn bowlers. Six clubs, Oshawa, Belleville, Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg, and Bowmanville, invited the visitors, but at a meeting in Port Hope last night Oshawa was decided upon.

The local club will give the visitors a royal welcome.

LAWN BOWLERS.

At a meetin gof the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club executive, held on Tuesday evening, it was decided to hold a two-day tournament this year, instead of the one-day tournament as held in the past, the date decided upon being 13th and 14th July, starting at one p.m. on the first day.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 22. — Pittsburg opened the season yesterday with a victory over Cincinnati by 8 to 7. The score was close throughout, the locals putting across two runs in the eighth inning that brought victory.

Before the game Barney Dreyfus and Manager Gibson were each presented with a floral decoration by the Stove Leaguers, and the regular ceremonies of flag-raising were observed.

New York Defeated.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Philadelphia defeated New York 6 to 5 yesterday in a nip and tuck game which opened the National League in this city. Philadelphia hit Toney for long hits, but Meusel scored the winning run in the eighth on a fumble by Bancroft. Weather conditions were ideal. Former Governor Alfred Smith threw the first ball. The attendance was 25,000.

Brooklyn Won.

BROOKLYN, April 22.—Burleigh Grimes pitched his first game of the season yesterday and the Brooklyn champions won their formal opening at home, 4 to 2. It was a pitchers' batle for seven innings and then both boxmen "blew up," Watson soaring higher. Music, parade and flag-raising featured the opening, 15,000 attending.

Newark Won.

NEWARK, N.J., April 22.—Newark won in the ninth yesterday from Syracuse. With the score tied Ray got his third hit. Schultz passed Shields and Madden and then Walsh hit to Ens, whose throw home hit Ray and the latter scored.

Rochester on Top.

READING, Pa., April 22.—Rochester evened up the series with Reading here yesterday by winning 4 to 3. The deciding run was scored when Ross sent out a slashing double aaginst the left field fence, and scored McMillan.

Jersey City Won.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 22. — Jersey City scored another victory over Buffalo yesterday, 5 to 0. Jack Clifford twirled for the Skeeters, and although hit more freely than Gordonier, his rival, proved effective in the pinces, marooning ten men on the bases.

THE PASSOVER FEAST

of the Israelites and not one of them was injured.

On the first two nights of the feast the table of each Jewish family is prepared as usual on Sabbaths and Festivals. Three plates are put thereon; in one is placed three Passover cakes; in another the shank one of the shoulder of a lamb or an egg roasted, and in the third is put some chevil or parsley and horse-radish, as also a cup of vinear or salt water and a mixture of apples, almonds and cinnamon. The bone of the lamb is in memory of the "Passover" offering. The egg is to remind of the offering in honour of the fesival. The bitter herbs are eaten because the Egyptians made the Jews' ancestors' lives bitter by slavery in Egypt. The cinnamon is in memory of the bricks and mortar used by the people in Egypt.

The table being thus laid each of the family even, to the youngest, seats himself thereat, each with a glass of wine before him. On this night every one at the table drinks four glasses of wine, the size of the glass being regulated for the respective members of the family. The master of the house then relates before the food is partaken of, the story of the Passover, how their forefathers made their way into God's promised land, and he offers up fervent thanksgiving and praises for the deliverance of the Israelites. On these two nights all Hebrew servants are allowed to sit at the table carrying out fully the ceremony symbolical of equity, all alike rejoicing in the protection of the Almighty to the Jewish people.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir,—Will you please give this communication publicity through your "Voice of the People" column. The Musicians Union Local 191, A. F. of M go on record as "regretting the action of the City Council cutting off the grants to the Bands for summer concerts in the various parks of the city, and being opposed to any Bands, members of the Union, playing park concerts without a definite contract."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor for your courtesy,

Yours truly,

Sec-Treasurer.

ROCKEFELLER TO PAY $2,000 TAX ON PLANT HE LETS STATE USE.

BEDFORD, April 22.—As a result of a final legal ruling by Attorney General Newton's staff, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., according to an official of the State Reformatory for Women in Bedford, will have to pay a tax bill of $2,000 yearly on the social hygiene plant alongside the reformatory, which he is letting the State use free of charge for the treatment of psycopathic prisoners. Mr. Rockefeller will get $1 a year rental from the State. It is reported that Mr. Rockefeller, appreciating the efforts of the reformatory managers to relieve him of taxation, will pay the taxes without protest.

Sports

SPORT COMMENT

What is the true measure of a pitcher's worth—his ability to win ball games or his ability to prevent rival teams from getting earned runs?

Babe Adams, for example, was No. 2 in the matter of allowing earned runs.

But he was No. 13 when it came to games won and lost, with an average of .507, the result of seventeen victories and thirteen defeats.

Art Nehf of the Giants was No. 20 when it came to the earned run allotment, where his mark was 3.03 per game.

But he was No. 5 when it came to a winning average, with twenty-one victories and twelve defeats.

And these are only two samples from many others. Nehf was hit much harder, but he won more games and lost fewer than Adams did.

Nehf was working with a somewhat better team. That meant quite a bit.

The National League last season had three men able to register 200 or more base hits. They were: Hornsby, 218; Young, 204, and Stock, 204. The American League had eight. They were: Sisler, 257; Collins, 222; Jackson, 218; Speaker, 214; Jacobsen, 216; Rice, 211; Weaver, 210; Tobin, 202. You can prove from this that the American League had the harder hitters, or that the National League had the better pitching. The discrepancy is wide enough to prove something.

Two points worthy of note are that St. Louis had three in this class, an unusual array for one club, and two of the list will not make any base hits this season unless a depth bomb is exploded.

In some manner unknown to the club owners, Baker's name got on the list of ineligibles that Ban Johnson turned over to the High Commissioner.

Baker was asked to give a full account of his activities last summer when he played with independent clubs.

Because there was little about them to make a lasting impression, the old Athletic star could not give the names of all the players who had been on the opposing teams.

He resented the demand for an account of his activities until Miller Huggins assured him that it was just a part of the new regime of baseball.

The statement has been in the hands of Judge Landis for several weeks.

Baker was concerned lest his name be mixed in gambling or crooked baseball, but he has been assured that his case is just one of formality that will establish a precedent for Judge Landis.

William A. Brady, former boxing manager, theatrical producer and erstwhile partner of Tex Rickard, said:

"Carpentier will win in three or four rounds. Dempsey was slow against Bill Brennan and isn't the fighter he used to be. Carpentier is the greatest boxer since Jim Corbett, a powerful hitter and the quickest thinker in the ring to-day. Dempsey has never defeated a first-class man and he'll find Carpentier the best."

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

C. G. E. VS. CALEDONIANS AND COMRADES VS. DE LAVAL AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Two very important local football games will be played to-morrow afternoon at the Exhibition grounds. The famous C.G.E. team will have the Caledonians as their guests and the Comrades and DeLaval will face one another at the other game.

Official referee for the Canadian General and Caledonians is J. L. Howarth and Comrades and DeLaval will be handled by J. Hensley. Both games start at 3 p.m. prompt.

The Scotsmen have a great difficulty in getting a team together owing to a number of players being otherwise engaged. They anticipate putting up a respectable game in spite of difficulties and place the following players for duty: Wright or R. Brunton, goal; J. McFeat and Sam McMillan, backs; J. Brown, D. Moir and Alex. Morris, half backs; Alex. Burgess, R. Hannah, W. Calder, J. Dingwall and J. Terrace. Other players be in attendance no later than 2:30 p.m.

The C. G. E. Executive place a strong eleven on the field for tomorrow as follows C. Griffine, goal, J. Davis and J. McDonald, backs; J. Williams, H. Turner and J. Mann, half backs; J. Powell, R. Ackland, "Wag" Hotston, J. Williamson and T. Bartley, forwards; reserves, J. Anderson, Hotston and Warne.

The spring schedule as printed denoted that the DeLaval was the home team for Saturday, but it was transferred as a Comrades home game by the Football Executive. Then on Tuesday, June 21st, the DeLavals will have their home gome. The alteration was made to conform under ground regulations.

The Comrades' team for Saturday afternoon will be: G. F. Poste, goal; F. Mallinson and R. H. Kitchen, backs; R. Jolliffe, H. Cowie and J. Mulvihill, half backs; J. P. Roberts, M. Dunkley, E. G. Hardie, Wm. McDougall and E. Lee, forwards. Reserves: T. Bolan, A. E. Smith and W. Warman.

Owing to the unfavorable weather last Saturday afternoon, the DeLavals did not get an opportunity to try out their new line up but will probably place the team as follows: J. Long, goal; Arnold Pickles and R. Leach, backs; A. Nicholls, R. Lindsay and Albert Pickles; J. Cutmore, J. Conway, Wm. Dyer, E. Abrahams and R. Hanson forwards. Reserves: J. Lindsay and J. Murray.

A special meeting of the Peterboro Football Association will be held on Monday evening in the G. W. V. A. rooms for the purpose of examining referees and other business as arranged at previous meeting.

The first evening football games takes place on Thursday evening at the Exhibition grounds when the Canadian General and the Canadian Woollens played the first round of the Gordon Challenge Cup. The winner of this series represents Peterboro in the Ontario Cup Competition.

All players, reserves and members of the Canadian Woollens Athletic Association are requested to attend at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 p.m.

SPORT FLASHES

The district tournament of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association will be held in Peterborough on July 13 and 14.

Toronto is to have a second municipal golf course.

Football in various forms has been played for nearly 700 years in England.

Every year $60,000,000 is spent on the turf in England—on race meetings, horses, breeding establishments and so on.

"Rabbit" Maranville, the Braves' old star, has already won the hearts of Pittsburg fans and become a Pirate favorite.

Washington fans have great hopes of McBride's outfit coming through this season, especially since the Senators got away to such a fine start.

SPORT LEADERS IMPORTANT STEP.

Eastern Ontario Branch of Amateur Athletic Union to Be Established.

OTTAWA, April 22.—The culmination of effort during the past two years on the part of Ottawa sport fraternity will be the holding of a general convention of athletic representatives from all parts of Eastern Ontario in Ottawa this week for the purpose of launching the new branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, the headquarters of which will be found in this city. The establishment of the new Eastern Ontario branch means the placing of all amateur sport in this district on a truly organized basis and it also provides the important fact that district will enjoy local autonomy in the government of various sports.

Prominent athletic officials from Toronto will attend the local convention and one of them, Dr. Bruce MacDonald, president of the A. A. U.C., will be the principal sepaker at the luncheon which will be held in the Chateau Laurier. A business session will be held in the afternoon at the Chateau after which the visitors will be given a drive around the city. A dinner will be held Friday evening at which addresses will be given by men who are prominently identified with amateur sports in Canada.

Officers To Be Chosen.

Representatives of all branches of sport in the Capital, as well as many outside delegates, will attend the luncheon, business meeting and dinner. After the formal authorization of the A. A. U. C. branch has been received, the sport representatives present will proceed with the election of officers and other necessary business business details.

MIGHT BE WORSE.

Bride-to-Be — I hope, dear, we won't get any duplicate wedding presents.

Groom-to-Be—Oh, I don't know. Dad's promised me a $5,000 check and I wouldn't mind getting a duplicate from your father.

LOCAL SPORT COMMENT

Don Loucks, Secretary of the City Baseball League, will be at LeBarr's News Agency on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with player's certificates for the clubs of the League. Team managers are reminded to be on hand to receive the certificates.

Wet weather, which brought bad roads, prevented delegates getting to the meeting of the East Peterborough Baseball League last night, President Pollard and the Secretary were on hand, and a constitution was drafted along the lines of the Central Ontario League rules, changes being made to suit conditions in the Peterborough circuit. An effort is being made to bring the delegates together next week.

Several more teams are wanted for the juvenile series, which will be conducted by the City Baseball League. Byersville has sent in an entry, making the fifth team.

Once again, the invitation is extended to sporting clubs to send representatives to the meeting in the City Council Chamber next Monday night, when the question of an Athletic Association will be further considered. It now appears that the meeting on Wednesday night accomplished more than was realized at the time. Those who would like to see a branch of sport not already organized, encouraged and developed will be made welcome at Monday's meeting.

Jack Thirnbeck, who played on the forward line with the Bankers in the City Hockey League, is working out with Westclox in the Mercantile League.

Here's to W. J. Gilson, who will box at Toronto to-night in the Dominion tournament. The local boxer went to Toronto this morning, accompanied by Chris. Graham and Walter Jackson, as an entry from the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT GOING STRONG

The bowling tournament at the Water Street Alleys is going strong. In the single Pinette is still leading and Curvin in second place. In the double Miller and Shaughnessy are now leading in first place with 1107. A. Ross and Barrett are second with 1055. In the three-men event Maynard, Arrowsmith and McDonald are leading with 1703. In the five-men Shaughnessy, McGee, Alexander, Roberts and Pinette are leading with 2752.

Tonight the double and three-men and five-men will take place.

The Pacific Coast Baseball League has opened its 19th season and is running along at a fine clip.

AT THE GRAND.

"DAMAGED GOODS."

Yesterday afternoon and evening at the Grand Opera House, the first showings of the great educational picture, "Damaged Goods" were presented to large audiences, the picture in seven reels putting forth the points in Dr. Godfrey's bill in the Ontario Legislature that a thorough medical examination should take place before the marriage of two parties. The picture has been withheld from the public for six years but the great moral lesson that it teaches and the great benefit that this picture would be to the rising generation, caused its release a short time ago. The story, interwoven throughout with the great lesson that the picture teaches, tells of a young man who has graduated from law college with honors. He falls into the snare of the "woman of the street" and his downfall comes a result of this. By keeping company with this woman in secret, he falls prey to he dread disease which tears his home and family into the depths of ruin as a result of his sin. No sane thinking young person or elderly person for that matter, could help being deeply impressed with the story told in "Damaged Goods" and a lesson, that is too little known at the present time, could be learned from it. It sounds a note of warning to those that would lead a rather gay life and it puts before the mind the dangers of an immoral life and the results that follow to those who fall by the way-side. Every mother, father, boy and girl should see this picture and receive its lesson in the same spirit that it is given and it will prove of more benefit than words can explain. This masterful picture will be shown at the Grand to-night, to-morrow afternoon and to-morrow night, and those desiring to learn a clean moral lesson from the story of "Damaged Goods" should not fail to see it.

There are two shows each evening, starting at 71.5 p.m. and a matinee at 2.30 p.m.

AT THE ALLEN.

MRS. ATHERTON PRAISES HER DIRECTOR'S WORK.

Wallace Worsley, the well known motion picture director, who directed "Don't Neglect Your Wife," Gertrude Atherton's first original photo play, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for two days, beginning on Monday, recently renewed his contract with the Goldwyn studios. Mr. Worsley also directed "The Penalty," one of the most successful pictures of the year.

Mr. Worsley was formerly on the stage, having made his first appearance in 1901 under the management of Charles Frohman. He later had his own stock company and entered pictures in 1916 as an actor. He soon showed great talent for directing and turned his attention to that end of production. He has held the megaphone for many of the screen's leading stories.

Mrs. Atherton, who was present nearly every day while "Don't Neglect Your Wife," was being filmed, expressed herself as greatly pleased with Mr. Worsley's work on her picture.

"He understands my story and characters as well as I do mysel," she said.

AGAIN THE PINTO PONY!

Appears in a Leading Role in "Sand!" New Hart Picture.

The beautiful pinto pony, seen to such advantage in many of the older William S. Hart pictures, and very prominently in "The Toll Gate," one of his recent productions for Paramount Artcraft, will have a really important role in "Sand!" Mr. Hart's latest vehicle, which will be presented at the Allen Theatre to-day.

The Pinto, with almost human intelligence, is as the apple of Bill Hart's eye. And in the story, scenarized by Lambert Hillyer, and directed by him, the talent equine shares honors with some of the human characters and among other things displays his love for his master in the most affecting manner. Indeed, the meeting between the two after a separation is a very moving thing. In another scene the Pinto, with his master in the saddle, leaps from a high cliff into the river, one of the most daring feats ever attempted.

"Sand!" is a picture with thrills galore and human interest plus.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol Theatre saw another large crowd last evening for the first presentation in Peterborough of the picture which had such a run in Toronto, "Humoresque," from Fannie Hurst's beautiful story of a boy's genius and a mother's love. Leon Kanter is the boy prodigy of the Ghetto, whose patriotic feeling leads him to enlist on the eve of his first triumph. His return with a crippled shoulder seems to have ruined his musical career forever, but in an almost miraculous way, he is restored to full srtength and is enabled once more to play his beloved music. Alma Rubens is featured in this picture, but Vera Gordon, as the mother, does some wonderful work in his delineation of the heights and depths of a mother's love and anguish.

A Mack Sennet two-reel comedy and the first episode of the new William Duncan serial were enjoyable variations in the programme, which will be repeated to-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening. The full orchestra is in attendance at the Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

OBITUARY

MRS. W. H. ROBERTS.

The death occurred at ten o'clock this morning of Mrs. W. H. Roberts, 496 Stewart Street. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, three sons, Albert G. of Toronto, W. H. Roberts of this city, and Harry R. of Fairmount, Sask.

Mrs. Roberts, who was born in London, England, was married here and had lived in Peterborough for the past fifty years. Had she lived until August of this year, she would have celebrated the golden anniversary of her wedding. She was a faithful and lifelong member of St. John's Church, from which the funeral will take place to Little Lake Cemetery on Monday, 25th April, at two o'clock.

Mr. Fred Harstone of Winnipeg, who is east on business, was in the city yesterday, the guest of his brother, Mr. Robert Harstone, Water street.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. W. Metheral, Murray street, in honor of Miss Antionette Fontaine, whose marriage took place shortly. The evening was spent with music and dancing. A little waggon prettily decorated was wheeled in by little Miss Marion Ringer and Master George, loaded down with beautiful and useful gifts. The evening broke up with singing, "She's a jolly good fellow."

A very pretty tea was given yesterday afternoon in aid of All Saints' Women's Guild, at the home of Mrs. Edgar Worth, 590 Weller Street. About 75 ladies attended and a substantial sum was realized for the work of this society. Mrs. Edgar Worth and Mrs. Jos. Crowe received the guests, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Worth. The tea table, charmingly arranged with Maderia lace and beautiful silver basket of American beauty roses, was in charge of Mrs. Dyson Worth, while Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Mrs. Wolstenholm and Miss Worth assisted. Little Blanche Worth made a dainty little door keeper. During the afternoon, vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. J. H. Renwick and Miss Emma Worth.

ONTARIO LEADING IN WINE MAKING

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23.—Wine products valued at $1,460,577 were manufactured in Ontario, according to a preliminary, survey made of the wine industry in Canada for the calendar year 1919 by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Of 16 individual plants in operation 12 are in this province, three in the Province of Quebec and one in the Province of British Columbia. Grapes and sugar were the chief ingredients used. Figures show that 7,476,000 pounds of grapes, valued at $254,097 were consumed in the process of manufacture, while 2,144,241 pounds of sugar was required. Raisins rated third as an ingredient, there being 182,125 pounds used. Ontario led in the wine industry.

SNEEZE WAS UNLUCKY.

BROCKVILLE, April 23.—An unlucky sneeze led to the arrest at Brockville by G. T. R. police of a Pole giving the name of H. Wasyluk, Montreal. A constable passing a sealed box car heard a sneeze from within, and, investigating, found Wasyluk lying on the contents of wool. The man is being held for examination by the immigration authorities.

NO HUGGING ON THE HIGHWAYS

IS RECKLESS DRIVING

HAMILTON, April 23. — Hugging a girl or even a woman in public was never good form in rural Canada, and putting an arm around a lady's waist while operating an automobile was always frowned upon by the Safety First League moguls. And now the motor cops on the Toronto-Hamilton highway have put the ban on that popular outdoor sport. This morning a number of motorists were before Magistrate Davidson at the highway court here, on a charge of reckless and careless driving and the testimony of the officers was to the effect that while at the wheel of their cars they had one arm around a female's waist and both eyes on their company. Attelio Damlani, one of the accused, explained that he was an expert one hand driver and was not endangering anyone when he allowed his second arm to hold his wife close to him. His better half had just come out of St. Joseph's hospital, and he felt happy at being able to show her the beautiful scenery betweene hre and Oakville.

"How long has she been out of the hospital?" asked the beak.

"Uh!" sounded the magistrate, "a week, eh? Well this is a dangerous practice and must be stopped. Five and costs." As all costs are $4.00 at this court the luxury tax on hugging on the highway may be scheduled at $9.00.

Russell Tilson was accused of the same offence—reckless driving. He denied being a careless driver, but admitted having had one arm around his sister's waist while his car was in motion—and a motor policeman was looking. He too was ordered to pay the luxury tax, $9 in all.

RETURNED TO CITY.

Mr. R. Gliddon, director of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, has returned to the city after spending three days in Lindsay, conducting final rehearsals and performances of "H. M. S. Pinafore," which was so successfully put on for the I.O.D.E. by Mr. Asa Huycke. The orchestra was augmented by flute, clarinette and double bass, of the local Conservatory players.

Proclamation

Clean Up and Paint Up and Keep it Up!

Know all men, women and children by these presents:

THAT, Whereas the Clean-up and Paint-Up Campaign has resulted in many advantages to the community life of our Dominion—

In Safeguard Health,
In promoting Thrift,
In Furthering Fire Prevention,
In Stimulating Civic Pride, and
In making the "Home and City Beautiful,"

NOW, THEREFORE, be is known that plans have been perfected for a thorough clean-up and paint-up campaign in the City of Peterborough, beginning April the Twenty-fifth.

The date to mark the opening of a real campaign of persistent and constructive effort in cleaning up and keeping it up. In this worthy movement I urge each citizen to do his or her part to make our community—

CLEAN, HEALTHY, THRIFTY, SAFE AND BEAUTIFUL.

Signed this Twenty-third Day of April, 1921.

A. A. McINTYRE,
Mayor of Peterborough.

WOULD DEFINE THIS COUNTRY AS A NATION

BILL REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE IN THE SENATE ARISES FROM STATUS IN LEAGUE.

DIVERGENT OPINIONS

OTTAWA, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—A bill to define a Canadian "National" was reported from committee in the Senate yesterday. Sir James Loughed explained that the bill arose from Canada's new status in the League of Nations. Senator Lynch-Staunton said his information was that it was necessary to define a Canadian "National" so that Canadians could be represented at the League of Nations by their own representatives.

In the opinion of Senator Roche, Canada was not a nation, and therefore the bill was unnecessary. The Dominion was in the League of Nations by allowance and not by right.

FARMERS' MARKET SLIMLY ATTENDED THIS MORNING

ABATTOIR BUYERS SECURING NEXT WINTER'S EGG SUPPLY

Due to bad roads, the market was sparsely attended to-day. There were only about twenty-five waggons and cars around the Square, and there were wide open spaces at the tables in the basket market. At ten o'clock there was only about half the usual number of farmer folk in with produce. Eggs, because of the abattoir buyers beginning to buy in large quantities for packing and export, have recovered somewhat, and the ladies asked from 30 to 35 cents today. The general price was 30 and 32 cents. The farmers expect the re-action to continue till eggs are 40 cents. A contributing factor to an increase is the buying in large quantities by housewives for winter use. Butter is evidently not subject to intermittent changes like eggs. For weeks the price has been 60 and 65 cents, and none of the basketeers had altered their prices since last week.

Chickens were scarce to-day as on other market days. Thirty-five and 40 cents a pound was asked.

Potatoes Down.

Potatoes sold at 80 cents a bag today. Onions were 40 and 60 cents a peck. Carrots were 30 and 35 cents. Ben Davis apples were the only representatives of the apple family on the market, and sold at $5.00 a barrel, or by the peck 50 cents.

In only one waggon was there any fresh pork. The farmers asked 23 and 25 cents. Six-week-old pigs were $18 a pair.

Raspberry bushes sold at $1.00 for 50 settings.

The crowd on the market preferred to gather around three auctioneers who went into action at 10 a.m., rather than around the farmers' waggons. The farmers made a honeless struggle against the magnetism of the silver-tongued ones, but failed. Lots of new straw and felt hats and boots and shoes were being sold by one auctioneer, while the others had only second - hand wares to offer the bargain - seeking and rubber-necking hordes.

OLD INDIAN CUSTOM

For several miles outside the city of Chicago, there are to be seen a number of trees with a curious formation of the branches. They appear to be growing down from the tree and to have taken root in the reverse of the usual manner. Old residents who are acquainted with Indian customs say that in the days when the red men were numerous in this vicinity, and when they wished to convey certain information, such as the location of routs through forests, etc., they would bend a sapling over to the ground and weight it down or slightly break it. Other Indian travellers knew at once what information was to be conveyed.

LORD DECIES

Lord Decies, a representative peer of Ireland, and a member of the House of Lords, is said to intend to offer himself for election to the south Irish Parliament from North Kilder.

All elections to be held in Northern Ireland will be keenly fought, the Nationalists and Sinn Feiners having agreed upon mutual candidates.

VANCOUVER LOST LINDSAY

8,000 WAITED FOR LINDSAY CRAWFORD OUTSIDE HALL BUT HE ESCAPED THEM.

DROWNED OUT SPEECHES

VANCOUVER, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—A crowd of eight thousand people, including a sprinkling of women, waited for three hours outside Dominion Hall last night while Lindsay Crawford of Toronto, addressed a meeting under the auspices of the Irish Self-Determination League. Half an hour after the meeting had closed, one of the city detectives climbed up a lamp post and shouted "I give you my word he is not in the hall". The Crowd, which departed reluctantly, voiced its determination to find Mr. Crawford, after persistently, but good humoredly, trying to drown the speaking in the hall with two bass bands and massed singing of patriotic songs.

"Y" CIRCUS

The annual Y.M.C.A. circus, held in the gymnasium last night, proved to be of the same high standard of entertainment which has marked each of the yearly efforts of the 'Y.' Each class took part and the programme was carried through with great precious. The circus enjoyed a fairly large house.

Of the programme, two numbers were outstanding features — the maze march by the beginnners and juniors and the ladder pyramids by the intermediates and seniors. The clowns, Messrs. Elliott, Carte and Parnell were as ludicrous as in other years and a horde of clownettes provided plenty of amusement as well. The gymnastics were of a high order and reflected the splendid training given the classes by the Y. During the evening music was furnished by the Y.M.C.A. band, both in real and camouflaged manner.

SIR SAM BELIEVES IN 'THE BOYS' WHO FOUGHT

OTTAWA, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—The Ottawa members of the First Canadian Contingent celebrated the second battle of Ypres by a banquet at the Chateau Laurier last night. Congratulatory messages were sent to other similar functions and the message from Sir Sam Hughes who is still critically ill read "Tell the boys I believed in them, now."

GERMANS SEND REPLY TO THE HARDING NOTE

NOTE'S TEXT UNKNOWN

PARIS, April 23. — (Canadian Press).—Germany, instead of either agreeing or refusing to transfer the gold of the Reichbank to the territory of Rhineland, as the Allied Reparations Commission had demanded, has offered to agree not to export or permit exportation of gold from Germany before October 1st next.

BERLIN, April 23 (Canadian Press).—A Cabinet crisis appears imminent here as a result of the discontent aroused by the Government's failure to consult the Reichstag before asking President Harding, of the United States, to mediate between Germany and the Allies relative to reparations.

LONDON, April 23 (Canadian Press).—Germany has sent to Washington a reply to the United States note, rejecting the role of arbitrator of the reparations question between Germany and the Allies, says a Central News despatch from Berlin.

The terms of the note sent to President Harding were not divulged to the party leaders up to the time it was despatched at noon to-day, and its contents will not be made known until later in the day.

Leading politicians are declared to have been angry because the members of the Cabinet did not consult them before the original communication was sent to the United States capital.

MAY TRANSFER GOLD.

BRUSSELS, April 23 (Canadian Press).—It is reported that the German Government has informed the Allies that it is ready to transfer the gold holdings of the Reichsbank to Cologne immediately.

HYTHE, April 23 (Canadian Press)—Exchanges which have been going on for some weeks between the British and French Foreign Offices relative to what can and ought to be done to collect reparations from Germany, will be continued here late to-day by Prime Minister Lloyd-George and Premier Briand.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY COMMEMORATED

SONS OF ENGLAND HELD A BANQUET LAST EVENING

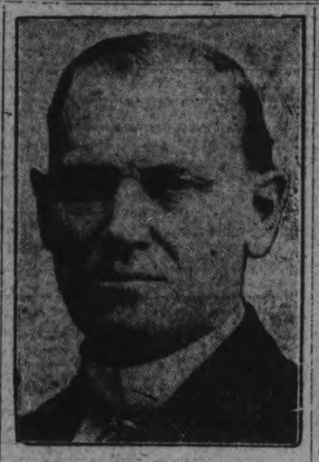
The St. George's Day Banquet, held last evening under the auspices of the Sons of England, was a very successful event in every way. About 100 people sat down to a very bountiful repast, served at tables prettily decorated with red, white and blue streamers, and had a very jolly evening, from 8 o'clock until nearly 11.30. Alderman John Turner made a very efficient chairman and Rev. F. Vipond of Lakefield gave a excellent address on "The Englishman: His Heritage." The toast to "The King" by the chairman was fittingly followed by the Veterans' song, "Long Live the King", by Mr. G. Chandler, the toast to "The Motherland", proposed by President Bro. Starr, was responded to by "Land of Hope and Glory," sung by Miss Doris Rathbone, and "Our Society", given by Dist. Deputy Bro. H. Beale was accompanied by "Red, White and Blue" by Bro. H. Soden. The song "The Englishman" an instrumental trio "The Angel's Serenade", by Mrs. M. Smith, Miss D. Rathbone and Mr. C. Rathbone, and recitations by Mr Tivey were loudly applauded, and Follis' orchestra provided excellent music while the banquet was in progress.

A vote of thanks was proposed by Bro. Shiner to Rev. Mr. Vipond and all, who so kindly took part in the programme, and the gathering broke up with the consciousness of a pleasant evening enjoyably spent.

BASEBALL SCORES BULLETINED EACH NIGHT HEREAFTER

Beginning to-night, The Examiner will bulletin the International and Major League baseball scores each evening. It is likely that the results of the games will be received some time between 6 and 7 o'clock.

In order to publish baseball scores and important sport in the noon mail edition it is necessary to place these on the front page of that edition, which form page 3 of the afternoon city edition, due to lack of space. Consequently when a sport story does not appear on the sport page look for it on page 3.



READ BIBLE THROUGH IN LAST SIX MONTHS

REGINA, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—Speaking yesterday before the Women's Canadian Club, F. B. Carvell, chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, appealed to the Women not to allow any political activities they might engage in to degenerate into measures of class legislation. He claimed that the granting of the franchise to women was the greatest thing that has come within a century. He said that as an aid to his study of the question he had read the Bible from cover to cover in the last six months

NEW PHASE OF ERIN ELECTION

MODERATES WITHDRAW AND DOMINION LEAGUE WANTS IRISH PROBLEM MADE AN ISSUE

LORD DECIES TO RUN

DUBLIN, April 23.—(Canadian Press). — Moderate organizations formed in Southern Ireland to put forth candidates to the Southern Ireland Parliament and to work out the Home Rule Act have been disolved. Members of the Dominion League will not intervene unless the British Government promises the parliamentary elections will be treated as furnishing a constituent assembly, charged with the task of discovering a solution of the Irish problem.

STRIKE AT AN IMPASSE; THE MINERS MEET

NO DEFINITE DECISION THOUGH UNTIL AFTER THEY MEET PREMIER AGAIN MONDAY.

NO RESULTS YESTERDAY

LONDON, April 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Delegates of the local unions of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain met here to-day, but it was understood before the meeting that no definite decision relative to the controversy with the mine owners which caused the miners' strike on April 1, would be reached until after the leaders of the Federation conferred again with Prime Minister Lloyd George on Monday.

FIFTEEN YEARS AS MISSIONARY

REV. J. M. FRASER GAVE AN ADDRESS LAST EVENING

Between three and four hundred children gathered in the hall of St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening to hear an address to children by Rev. J. M. Fraser, missionary from China, illustrated with colored slides. Father Fraser has spent fifteen years in the missionary fields of far-away China, and is well qualified to speak on the subject. From Canada to Canton and back again to Canada was the route for this illustrated travelogue, which was made very interesting to the children by the colored scenes of things and people in Celestial Kingdom. Shanghai, with its 15,000 rickshaws, or "Pullmen" cars, the picturesque junks with their two "eyes" to see where to go, Ning-Po of half a million souls and streets so narrow as to permit a passing umbrella to touch both sides of the thoroughfare, Buddhist monks with their twelve times burnt headpieces, and ascetic diet lacking meat, fish or eggs, and the terrible images which decorate their pagan temples, were some of the interesting things which amused the children for a pleasant and educational hour.

MURDER A MAN IN SIGHT OF PRIEST

FIRST TIME IN HISTORY OF IRISH TROUBLES

DUBLIN, April 23. — (Canadian Press).—For the first time in the history of the troubles in Ireland, Sinn Feiners have murdered a man in the presence of a priest, who was summoned to administer the last rites. He was John Reilley, former soldier, who was taken from his home at Ballycar by armed men on Wednesday night and shot to death. A priest was called after Reilley had been severely wounded. With the arrival of the priest, the raiders poured pistol shots into Reilley, killing him. A label was printed on the body, reading, "Executed by the Republican Army. Getting them at last. Beware."

FUNNY FACE

"Funny Face" is the title of the latest song production by Peterborough's musical genius, Mr. Asa Huycke, which for both air and verse humor, is destined to become exceedingly popular. Mr. Huycke has made his mark, not only in this city, but in Canada generally, with previous musical compositions, such as "March Irresistible," "Way Down in Caroline," "An' You'll All Go to Heaven When You Die," "Referendum Blues," and the "Waltz Alluring,' but in "Funny Face," he presents a superiority of clean comedy, catchy in the extreme, and set to a tuneful melody in the one-step class, quite impelling to lovers of the Terpsichorean art. The joyous and alluring musical setting of this last work by Mr. Huycke harmonizes in charming accord with the merry facetiousness of the altogether jolly stanza.

"Funny Face" is solely a Peterborough product, inasmuch as besides being printed on the Examiner's presses, its cover design and pen transcription from the author's original musical composition in pencil is the work of Miss Louse Adamson, of East City. Her transcribing ready far plating shows superative talent for music calligraphy, which reflects credit on Peterborough, as well as herself. Every note in perfect in adjustment on the bars and in formation—in fact her skilful pen has produced the real thing. Mr. Huycke's original pencil copy and Miss Adamson's reproduction may be seen next week in the window of the Peterborough Music Co., and inspection is invited, for inspection is worth while.

As to Miss Adamson's cover pen and ink sketch for this song-dance, great artistic genius is revealed in the pair of juvenile "funny-faced lovers sitting in hug-me-tight fashion on an old sawed-off tree stump." There is life in every line, likewise that childish "I love you" declaration and responsive facial expressions which reflects in arresting burlesque fashion the humor of Mr. Huycke's song theme. She has caught the idea with admirable faithfulness of just what was wanted in picture design to reveal the jocosity of "Funny Face."

This latest song-one-step by Mr. Asa Huycke is published by the Peterborough Music Co.—the Examiner commends it to lovers of verse-humor and dance melody.

According to reports from Germany, the University of Berlin is under a sort of soviet system, the students deciding upon what teachers shall be employed and what the studies shall be.

CAMPBELLFORD MAYOR KILLED 6 YEARS AGO

TO-MORROW MARKS SIXTH ANNIVERSARY OF DEATH OF FIRST MAYOR AT BATTLE OF YPRES.

LIEUT. W. J. DOXSEE

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — Six years ago to-morrow—April 24—the first Mayor of Campbellford, Lieutenant William. J. Doxsee, of the Original 2nd Canadian Battalion, was killed in action during the third day of the second battle of Ypres.

Time has passed swiftly since that ominous spring of 1915, when the first full-columned casualty lists startled the people of Canada, bringing with the cold reaction a clear, calculating realization of the facts of war. And it will be a far day before the baleful light of that revelation begins to fade. This early period of peace, giving chance for reflection and for an accounting of the cost, seems to have intensified the glare so that few restful shadows remain where the compensations of victory may be recalled and the memories of cherished glories be refreshed. Blighting burdens of debt, the industrial conflict of nations and of classes within the nations, social unrest and rampant selfishness mock the hopes and strivings for peace, and tend to obscure and depreciate the sacrifices of those who so recently gave all they had for a cause they believed holy—and that was holy.

A Successful Business Man.

One of that legion was William J. Doxsee. In 1914 he was one of the outstanding citizens of Campbellford. That summer found him in the prime of early manhood. Material success was flowing to him from his business. He was the proprietor of a sash and door factory, planing mill and a lumber and fuel yard. For fifteen years he had been a member of the Town Council, two years Reeve, and six years Mayor. He was married, and life had enriched him with the happy responsibilities of three children. He had a real stake in the community, which had honored him as few men are honored by their fellow-townsmen.

Served in South Africa.

And in his younger days he "had done his bit." When the Boer War broke out he tried to get away with the first contingent, but business affairs prevented him. His friend, Jack Mackay, had gone, and Doxsee had strained to be off with him. When the next call for recruits was issued it seems that only men who had seen service were wanted. This excluded W. J. Doxsee, but his determination took no count of the barriers of red tape. Leaving his business in the care of others, he paid his own way to the coast. Eventually arriving at Port Elizabeth, he made his way up country with the troops to the line of fighting.

Was Urged Not to Go.

That same quick sense of duty and fervid spirit of patriotism flamed up again fifteen years later when the "Hun was at the gate." W. J. Doxsee had been an officer of the Campbellford Company of the 40th Regiment of the Canadian Militia. Cobourg was and is its garrison town. Evidently he felt that he should put his peace-time military precepts into practice ,that he should set an example for the community. He promptly offered his services, was accepted as a subaltern, and assigned to the 2nd Battalion of the C.E.F. Friends tried to persuade him not to go. With the best of intentions they told him he had done his duty in the Boer War. They reminded him of his home and of

MAHARG RESIGNS SEAT IN HOUSE

OTTAWA, April 23 Canadian Press).—J. A. Maharg, of Maple Creek, is resigning his seat in the House to accept a place in the Provincial Government of Saskatchewan.

Mr. Maharg, who was born in Orangeville, Ont., is president of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association and a director of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company.

He was elected to Parliament in 1917 as a supporter of the Unionist Government, headed by Sir Robert Borden. He has since become a member of the Agrarian party, led by the Hon. T. A. Crerar.

He goes to Saskatchewan to fill a vacancy in the Government of the Hon. William Martin, caused by the withdrawal of the Hon. W. E. Knowles from the Provincial Ministry.

NORWOOD MAN LOSES THUMB AND 2 FINGERS

PAINFUL ACCIDENT TO ISAAC RUSAW—DELEGATES TO CONVENTION APPOINTED—SOCIAL DOINGS—THE SILENT POLICEMAN.

NORWOOD, April 23.—On Thursday afternoon Mr. Isaac Rusaw met with a very painful accident, while working in Mr. H. G. Buck's box factory. When engaged in manipulating the saw, some of the cogs slipped, and Mr. Rusaw's hand was caught, thus mangling two fingers and thumb of his left hand very badly. Medical aid was immediately given by Dr. Sutton, who found it necessary to amputate the thumb and two middle fingers. Dr. S. P. Ford administered the anaesthetic.

Silent Policeman.

The Town Council has decided to place a silent policeman at the corner of Peterborough and Colborne Streets, to regulate traffic at that busy cross-section.

Delegates to Convention.

The Presbyterian Church will be represented at the annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Women's Missionary Society by Miss Marjorie Johnston for the Y. W. A. and by Mrs. J. Frost, president of the Mission Band.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Hermis Nicol, of Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nicol.

Mrs. Charlie Miller, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Nicol, has left for her home in Spragge, Ont.

Mrs. Minore was in Toronto last week.

Mr. Geo. Iles has gone to Swift Current for a few weeks' holidays.

Mr. Percy has left for Peterborough, where he has secured a position.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Puffer and Master Jack, of Havelock, were in town on Friday.

Mr. Coleman Elliott is moving to Peterborough this week.

Mrs. Jones will move into the house on Alma Street, recently occupied by Mr. J. Hibbert.

Mr. Fred. McConnel, of Rosetown, Sask., and Miss Mary Rudder, of Gravenhurst, who were united in marriage at Gravenhurst, Ont., recently, will make their home in Norwood. A reception was tendered them on Tuesday at the home of Mr. McConnel's brother-in-law, Mr. John H. Brown, in this town.

YARN EXPORT

(Canadian Press)

MANCHESTER, April 22.—Statistics on the export of yarn and piece-goods from Manchester, which have just been issued by the Board of Trade show that in February last 83,300 pounds of cotton yarn and 2,547,700 square yards of cotton piece goods were sent to Canada against 81,500 pounds and 3,485,000 square yards in February 1920.

'MYSTERY MAN' IS NOT SMALL SISTERS HOLD

AWAIT MRS. A. J. SMALL

TORONTO, April 23 (Canadian Press).—George Cox, the "Mystery Man" of Verona, Ont., is not the missing theatre man of this city, Ambrose J. Small, according to Mr. Small's sisters, who saw Cox yesterday.

Constable E. Tallon, of Verona, brought Cox to Toronto for purposes of identification and to claim the $50,000 reward if his man proved to be Small, and even in the face of the denial of Small's sisters, he still claimed that Cox was Small.

Mrs. Ambrose Small is out of the city, so she has not seen the Verona constable or his charge.

"I wish to God I were your brother," Cox said to Miss Small. "But I don't know who I am."

He told the constable he had lost $300,000 in a deal, after which he was beaten and "put on a train for the East." The men who beat him, he said, also looted him.

BRANTFORD LABOR BACKS M'BRIDE

AND WON'T LET SIMPSON COME TO MEETING

BRANTFORD, April 22. — The Independent Labor party gathering here on Friday night is expected to create some heated discussion. The Central Executive of the Provincial I.L.P., will confer with the local party as a whole on the ejection of M. M. MacBride from the Ontario party and the ejection of the local party if it does not concur with the Provincial's wishes. The local I.L.P., in preparing for the conference, demanded the following:

"That the minute book of the Central Executive be produced for the period since October 20, 1919.

"That the Brantford branch forthwith request that a copy of any such charges or allegations be forwarded to the secretary of the local branch not later than four full days before the 22nd inst.

"That under no circumstances will the Brantford Branch consent to the presence or recognition of one James Simpson, as we understand he was not even a member of the I.L.P. previous to the Provincial election, but that he has attached himself to the party for certain political reasons since that date.

"That the Brantford branch feel that under any party or other system of government recognizing the true principles of democracy, local autonomy must at all times be recognized."

Following instructions of the Easter convention of the Labor party a committee, appointed by President Buckley, composed of Roy Palmer, Joseph Marks, and Miss Mary McNab, will go to Brantford tonight to give the branch of the party in Brantford all the facts upon which the party at its convention took action against M. M. MacBride, M. P. P. If the branch fails to endorse the decision of the convention it will lose its charter.

OBITUARY

(Contributed.)

At the ripe old age of seventy-seven, Mrs. Helena Young, widow of the late John Young of Peterborough county, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Walker.

Mrs. Young was the mother of eleven chillren, nine of whom survive and mourn her loss: Mrs. W. J. Walker, of Marmora, Mrs. George G. Lewis of Toronto, Rev. Wm. M. Young of Lockport, N.Y., Mrs. Jas. Reynolds of Bancroft, Ont., Mr. Thomas C. Young of Peterborough, Mr. Nathan G. Young of Roseville, Cal., Mrs. Robert H. Cobb of Kenora, Ont., Miss Florence E. Young, R.N., of Buffalo, New York and Mrs. W. H. Gibson of Campbellford, Ont.

The deceased was a beautiful Christian character, beloved of her family and all who knew her, bearing with patience and fortitude her protracted illness. Her last testimony was a sermon in a nutshell, "Read to me about the precious blood of Jesus. It's all I need for my soul's eternal salvation." She sang a few lines of "Safe in the arms of Jesus" and not long after fell asleep.

Asleep in Jesus blesed sleep
From which none ever wake to weep.

The funeral service at the home of Mr. W. H. Gibson was conducted by Evangelist W. J. Gilchrist of Peterborough. Interment took place April 21st in the Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, beside her departed husband, where they together await a bright and glorious resurrection at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

HIGH SCHOOL CONVERSAT IN CAMPBELLFORD

INTERESTING PROGRAMME PROVIDED—CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OF INTEREST.

PERSONAL MENTION

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — The pupils of the High school, together with their parents and friends, assembled in the Opera House last night for the annual conversat. An excellent programme was put on, after which a dainty lunch was served. The programme consisted of eight numbers and ten promenades, in which the following artists took part: Miss L. Thain, Miss G. Maynard, the Misses Brunelle and Anderson, Miss Hawley, Miss Dolman, Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. Anson R. Walker, Misses Diamond and Davidson, Miss Hawley and Miss Wood.

The other part of the programme consisted of solos, readings and duets. Miss Meiklejohn rendered, "I Couldn't, Could I?" in her usual excellent manner. Miss Young, a rapidly rising young entertainer from Belleville, deighted the audience with a reading, "The Hymn of Hate." Miss Helen Wood also gained hearty applause by the excellent singing of "Daffodil Land," Miss Young then gave a very humorous reading. Her subject was "The Pudding," and it, the selection, not the pudding, was well received. Miss Brunelle and Mr. Brunelle sang "Breezes at Night" in French and were heartily encored, and Miss Young gave a reading on a rather sentimental subject, "Rosa and Roses," which was followed by a duet, "Springtime," by Mrs. J. E. Glover and Miss Meiklejohn. This number was very good and was encored. Miss Young then rendered a reading, "Dominique." The refreshments were then served, to which justice was heartily done.

Last but by no means least came the dancing. A large crowd thronged the floor and all enjoyed this part of the entertainment.

The various committes are to be complimented on the general success of the evening and are to be thanked for the good time which was provided.

The evening came to a close with the National Anthem.

Noted Gynecologist Dies.

Dr. L. L. J. Commisky, of 189 6th avenue, New York city, a prominent gynecologist and obstretician, one of the chief visiting surgeons of the King's county hospital and a lieutenant-colonel of the P.S. Army Medical Corps Reserves, died on Friday, April 15th in the King's County Hospital, following an operation for appendicitis. His funeral was on Monday morning, with a requiem mass in the R.C. church of Saint Augustine, 6th Avenue and Sterling Place ,of which Dr. Commiskey was a member and the interment followed in Cavalry cemetery. Dr. Commiskey is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ann Black Commiskey, two brothers, Colonel A. E. Commiskey of the United States' Army, and Frank E. Commiskey and three sisters, the Misses Grace T. and M. Agnes Commiskey and Mrs. Walter Grant.

Dr. Commiskey was born in Brooklyn, the son of the late F. W. and Mrs. Commiskey. His father was a prominent New York business

GORDON TAKES UP MATTER OF IMMIGRATION

DETERMINED THAT FARM LABOR AND DOMESTICS ONLY WILL BE ALLOWED TO ENTER.

FEARS DEPRESSION

To the Examiner this morning Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., said Mr. Tooms, M.P.P., had mentioned to him some time ago the question of restricting emigration into Ontario.

Mr. Gordon stated that a week after he was elected, he took the matter up with the Superintendent of Emigration and also had discussed the matter with the Hon. Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor. The Government is now restricting all emigration to Canada of all classes, except, farmers and farm labourers, and female domestics.

Mr. Gordon also stated that he was watching the matter and intended to use his best efforts to prevent any efforts being made to bring skilled or unskilled labor into Canada, except labor required for the farms, as at the present time, jobs are not plentiful and indications point to a pinch of hard times again this Fall and Winter

The member further stated that there are many indications which point to business depression this fall unless something intervenes which is not in sight now to prevent such an occurrence. He also stated that he saw the Superintendent of Emigration on Thursday last and he assured him that everything was kept tight and no labor would be allowed to come in except to be used on the farms, and as domestics.

CANADIAN FLOUR

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Net imports of wheat flour into the United States from Canada between Sept. 1, 1920 and February 1, 1021, amounted to 39,000,000 bushels. The United States Bureau of Markets reports that during this period 60,000,000 bushels came into this country from Canada of which 30,000,000 bushels were in bond for export.

IRISH ELECTION NOT POSTPONED

DUBLIN, April 23 (Canadian Press).—Official indication that the Irish elections will not be postponed was contained in an official notice concerning the election which appeared in last night's Dublin Gazette.

The elections need not be held until August, but the understanding is that whenever they are read they must be for the north and south together, and the northerners are not inclined to wait.

WEDDING BELLS

KIDD—INGRAM.

LAKEFIELD, April 23.—A very pretty wedding was solemnised on Wednesday evening, 20th April, at Hillcrest Farm, in Douro, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Ingram, when their only daughter, Hazel Irene, was united in marriage to Maxwell George Kidd, youngest son of Mrs. A. Kidd.

The ceremony was performed, under an arch of evergreens ,from which was suspended a bridal bell, by the Rev. C. W. Barrette, assisted by the Rev. S. F. Dixon.

The bride was charming in white satin and georgette, trimmed with silver lace, and wore the conventoinal veil and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The maid of honour was Miss Celia Dunford, a cousin of the bride, wearing white crepe de chine, and carrying American Beauty roses, while Mildred Garbutt, a cousin of the bride, with Phyllis Lake, made dainty little flower girls, in white silk, with bouquets of sweet peas. Mr. W. Frankish supported the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Isabelle McKee.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Among those present were friends and relatives from Toronto, Peterborough, Fenelon Falls, and Westwood.

STABILITY IS SHOWN BY THE LOCAL MARKET

PRICES HAVE REMAINED VERY STEADY DURING THE PAST FEW DAYS IN FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.

SOME OF THE FEATURES

Marked stability has been noticed in the prices on the local market during the last few days Even if the prices remain about the same, the fruit stores are always an interesting place.

Every fruit shop is Mecca-like. Here are gathered the choice products of every clime and every country, and particularly at this season fruit and vegetables from many countries are to be found, with the United States over-topping all. California oranges, Florida pineapples, Louisiana strawberries, all lie alongside one another. Pineapples are becoming more plentiful in the stores with prices slightly lower. Nice ones, although not large, are selling at 25 cents, but the princely varieties are 50 and 60c. The fruit men claim that if the freight rates were lower fruit prices could be reduced, and it is principally the high rates that make pineapples so expensive. In a few weeks, a fruit dealer told the Examiner, nice-sized ones for canning would be selling at 25c.

Potatoes slumped greatly and are selling as low as 75c in some of the stores. On the market last Saturday some sold at the close at 60c.

Potatoes have firmly established themselves at a pre-war level undreamed of last spring when the general price in the province was $3.50 to $5.00, and seed potatoes cost as much at $6. Splendid tubers for seeding could be had for 75c on the market last week.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23RD, 1921.

THE GROUNDS QUESTION.

The City Council would do a good deal towards promoting the interest of sport in Peterborough and towards helping in the formation of the Athletic Association if they would decide upon and make known a definite policy in regard to Riverside Park. The citizens voted in favour of the purchase by the city of these grounds, but the transaction has never been completed, with the result that the various sporting organizations are at the present time more or less in the air as regards their plans for the coming summer. They do not know whether or not Riverside Park is to be purchased by the city, nor do they know what policy would be adopted by the Council in the event of the grounds being taken over. It is a matter that the city fathers should consider at their earliest opportunity, for it would be a pity to have the present revival of sport hampered by uncertainty as to the fate of the grounds. The question has dragged along for many months and it is high time that it was settled one way or another by the Council.

WHY THEY COMPLAIN.

"Why are you afraid of the Railway Board?" one of the members of the Legislature asked the deputation representing the municipalities of the Province which visited Queen's Park yesterday to protest against the McCrea Bill. The member in question, Mr. Mageau of Sturgeon Falls, seems to have missed the point. The municipalities may have every confidence in the Ontario Railway Board, but at the same time they have the strongest kind of objection to handing over to the Railway Board, or any other body, powers which the municipalities now have and which they desire to maintain. The believe that a contract should be binding on both parties and that when a street railway company has been given a franchise based on an agreement which fixes the rate of fares, no third body should have the power to allow such rates to be raised. The McCrea Bill, as the municipalities affected see it, is a measure that deprives them of their rights, and the unanimity of the protest registered should be a sufficient notice to the Legislature that there is no public demand for the legislation the member for Sudbury is attempting to push through. It should be consigned to oblivion as speedily as possible.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

Several cities in Ontario are planning a clean-up campaign, advising the citizens to clean up their premses, not to be afraid of using a little paint and to plant plenty of flowers. Undoutedly, a general compliance with these three instructions would achieve a transformation in the appearance of almost any community, and the advice might well be followed in Peterborough. We have many beautiful homes in the city, and there are a number of streets, the attractive appearance of which is favourably commented upon by visitors. On the other hand, it must be admitted that there are other thoroughfares in which the beauty is more or less spotted. The neatness of some houses is marred by the weather-beaten appearance of the neighbouring dwelling. A coat of paint and a little attention to the lawn is all that is needed to lift the standard of the whole street, and because the remedy is so simple, several wide-awake Ontario communities are bringing it before their people and advocating a general adoption of the plan. Peterborough might well take a leaf out of their book in this respect.

THE HICKS "CHARGES."

The result of the investigation into the so-called "Hicks Charges" made by the Privileges and Elections Committee of the Ontario Legislature, should be a warning to public men to be sure of their facts and to weigh their words carefully before they make speeches. Mr. Hicks, M.P., who is the U.F.O. Whip in the Legislature, is the gentleman who at the picnic last summer talked of "appalling" pribes that were being offered members of the Legislature. Had he been just plain Andrew Hicks his words would have attracted little or not attention, but being the Whip of the chief wing of the Government, this address caused more or less of a sensation. In fact, the uproar was so great that Mr. Hicks at first was inclined to believe that he must have been misquoted and that the Press did not catch his exact words, because there was a strong wind blowing. At the least, that was the effect of his explanation. It now transpires that his speech was based on a remark made by a fellow member and that he had since learned that no such meaning should have been taken. Mr. Hicks will be more careful in the future and his experience should be beneficial to other U.F.O. members who, now that the picnic season is coming, will soon be filling the air with words. They surely have learned the lesson that public speakers must be reasonably accurate in their addresses.

WORK AND PAY.

The policy of labour unions, all the world over, has been to discourage what is known as piecework—alias, pay proportionate to work. The labour policy has been to enforce uniform pay; and pay based simply on time, not upon the amount of work. Among the arguments advanced for this by union men, the chief is that to allow men to do piecework has the double effect of encouraging the best workers to do more than is good for themselves, and of setting up a standard that is unfair to the average worker, tending to unjustly discredit him. But the real reason for the union policy is deeper, though probably some union men themselves may not realise it. The real reason is that uniform pay in a union clinches union assessments and union benefits; to workers the same scale of livelihood for all; equal advantage in increase of wages; equal cause to look only to increase in wages for advantage, instead of to personal effort; simplicty and equality in union assessments and union beefits; and finally, equal risk in strikes, with equal possbility of gain.

Thus, the apparently simple and unanswerable proposition that a good worker should be able to earn more than a poor worker has been flouted by the unions, and flouted with good cause in their own interest, up to the present time.

It is a question, however, whether intelligent union men should not be ready to concede that now an era has arrived when the principle of uniform amount of pay can be abandoned safely by any union. The unions have become so strong that no one wishes to fight them unless compelled to do so by business necessity. The unions no longer need to maintain the weapon of uniform pay for their own safety. On the other hand, the principle of uniform pay is probably responsible for a great deal of the distress and unemployment prevalent in the world to-day. By depriving good men of incentive to do good work, and by protecting slackers and incompetents, it reduces industrial output and blocks industrial prosperity.

The Montreal Master Plumbers' Association has had a report made to it by a committee on the subject of piecework. The report declares that the members of the committee, after studying closely, and in many cases personally, the amount of work completed by each of their mechanics, were struck by the great disparity in the results obtained. In the course of their investigations, it was clearly established that in certain cases some employees turned out three times the amount of work as did others, who were working under practically the same conditions, and the committee considered it a handicap, not only to the building trades in general and the plumbing and steamfitting in particular, but also a hardship to many of their workmen that the wages bore at present no relation to the efficiency and output of their mechanics.

"Men must be judged by the work they perform and be paid accordingly," adds the report, "inasmuch as all men are not equally proficient at their trades, and to have a uniform rate of wages applicable to all engaged in a particular trade saps ambition and initiative, makes living easy for the slacker and the shirker, encourages discontent and dissatisfaction with their conditions among workers generally, and ultimately places a burden on the public which it has no right to bear."

This is something which deserves consideration in the present distress ful industrial era.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

What Ontario needs now is some one to put the "end" in referendum. But as a local citizen puts it, Rev. Ben Spence seems to want to convert "referendum" into "neverendum."

It is hoped there will be no attempt to "screen" the recent film transactions in which the Ontario Government is involved.

The McCrea Bill should be crushed by the Legislature. It is a direct blow at the rights of municipalities.

Hon. Peter Smith is to introduce a general borrowing bill giving the Government the right to borrow twenty million dollars for general purposes. They must be going to furnish some more bed-rooms in Queen's Park.

Six years ago to-day the war came home to Peterborough.

The letting of the contracts for the filtration plant should provide employment for quite a number of local men. It is to be hoped that they will be given the preference.

Because of their inability to write correct English, the business man of this country lose $20,000,000 every year.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Judge's remark: "The people who used to wine and dine now dine and whine," will soon be applicable here.

Some men walk up and down the same street for years and then see nothing but the impression their presence creates.

No man fully appreciates the results of Eve's eating that fatal apple until he receives the first bill for his wife's clothes.

Sometimes when you look at the man a women pretends to be devoted to you realize that women have an inordinate sense of humor.

When a man goes out into the world and expounds an idea and a number of people agree with it because it's the same as their own we say that he is a man of great influence.

One of the aptest comparisons ever drawn was the coining of the phrase, "The school of experience," for in nine cases out of ten its precepts are remembered and followed about as long as those of any other school.

A FRIENDLY TIP.

The following editorial from The Montreal Star is addressed to Toronto, but parts of it might serve as a gentle hint to Peterborough:

Monday's vote on the liquor question in Ontario was distinctly Ontario's affair. We would like to make it very clear at the outset that we have no desire to criticize the good people of the neighboring province for going dry. No doubt they felt it was up to them to swear off while it was still possible.

But we do feel it is necessary to say a word of warning to Toronto, and we hope Torontonians, whom we know and like, will not take it amiss.

Toronto has acquired a considerable reputation for being a "good" city. It has admitted its goodness several times, and we must confess to a severe shock when it joined the "wet" brigade by a substantial majority on Monday.

However that, too, is Toronto's business. The thing we want Toronto to understand is that after the first of next May it can't come down here and raise the roof on our firewater.

We are inaugurating a new system in Quebec, and we propose to stick to it. We are going to buy a bottle at a time and take it home and give it to the cat, or do anything else we wish with it. We are not going to drink it in public places and then go out and try to arrest a policeman, the way Toronto likes to do it. Moreover, we are not going to ship any to Toronto labelled "Dry Batteries," or "Hymn-Books," and Toronto can make up its mind to that.

In a word, we don't propose to allow Toronto either to kick up its heels when it comes here on "business" or buy strong drink here, carry it home, get lit up and break the furniture. Toronto has been industriously doing just these things on Quebec liquor for the past two or three years and then turning round and blaming Montreal for it.

This is to serve notice— in the most friendly but firm manner—that it's got to stop. We've got enough troubles of our own without having it on our consciences that we allowed a weak sister to fall by the wayside. We're sorry for Toronto, but that's what she gets for living in Ontario.

There are now more than 17,000 high schools in the United States, attended by approximately 1,736,619 pupils.

Food for Thought for Canadian Manufacturers

ABOUT two-thirds of all the products advertised in Canadian daily newspapers are owned by firms whose parent houses are located elsewhere than in Canada.

This is not said to reflect upon Canadian-manufactured products (most of these advertised products are now being manufactured here), but to indicate that these firms when entering the Canadian market were quick to seize upon Daily Newspaper Advertising as the speediest and most economical method of introducing themselves and their goods to our people.

Think of all the prominent British and American firms you can, and ten chances to one every firm will be a daily newspaper advertiser.

They have used daily newspaper advertising to establish their goods in this market---why shouldn't you?

If you wish to know how to use Daily Newspaper Advertising, ask us or write to any advertising agency. We or they will advise you.

Your inquiry involves no financial obligation. We have nothing to sell---directly.

EXPECT RETALIATORY TARIFF FROM CANADA

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—There appears to be a good deal of speculation in U. S. commercial circles as to whether the U.S. tariff legislation recently enacted is likely to provoke retaliatory tariff measures by Canada. A recent issue of the Journal of the American Bankers' Association, discussing this point, said:

"A tariff that rigidly excludes foreign goods is likely to provoke retaliation in some form by foreign governments and to create a prejudice against American products among foreign consumers.

"In Argentina a bill providing a retaliatory duty of 40 per cent. on American imports is strongly urged and is widely commended in the Argentine press. The Canadian newspapers are advocating a further extension of the preferential rates on British goods which were first adopted after the passage of our Dingley tariff. Unfortunately there is already in many countries a widespread opinion founded on envy, ignorance and suspicion, that the exchange situation in due to the selfish machinations of American financiers and business men. A high tariff tending to make our international trade even more one-sided than at present will be regarded as a further evidence of a grasping and selfish policy that aims to use our economic strength to exploit weaker nations. Special circumstances, it is true, will restrain many countries from formal retaliation; but a general sense of unfair treatment would hamper American business in much the same way as would an organized boycott."

LEONARD CALLS THE DOCTOR

Chapter 35

The next morning I woke with a splitting headache.

I waited until I heard Leonard go into the bathroom and then turn on the shower. Then I tried to get up. My temples were bulging, and hammering like steel mallets against the nerves of my head. A sickening sensation gripped me at the back of the neck. I got as far as pulling on my stockings, but when I leaned over everything went black and my head swam.

It was of no use. I dropped back on to the pillow again and closed my eyes.

Leonard finished dressing and went downstairs to his breakfast. He did not speak to me. Maybe he thought I was asleep, or perhaps his feelings had not yet thawed out after our unpleasant parting of the previous morning.

When he finished his breakfast he came up to my room and stood at the foot of my bed. I opened my eyes and looked over at him.

"Emma tells me you are not well, had a fainting spell yesterday," he said with feeling in his voice. He sat down on the edge of the bed. "Why didn't you have Emma telephone to the office? I would not have stayed down last night if I had known you were ill. You should have told me, Noreen," he reproved kindly.

"I'm better now," I answered, raising my hand weakly. "I've a headache this morning, but I'll be all right in a couple of hours," I said bravely. Leonard's solicitude hurt me. I tried to turn from it.

"No, you're not all right," he said firmly, placing his cool, firm hand on my burning forehead. "I believe you have a fever. I'll 'phone over to Dr. Mitchell before I leave and he can run over to see you after office hours."

He took hold of my hand and ran his fingers up to my pulse. My blood tingled sweetly at his touch and sent a warm thrill through every vein and nerve in my body.

"What made you sick, anyway?" he said suddenly. "What have you eaten that would make you ill?"

I closed my eyes again. I could not meet his gaze.

He leaned over and pressed his lips to my forehead.

"I'll have to go now, Noreen. Promise me you'll telephone if you're not feeling better by noon, won't you?" he said affectionately.

"I'll be all right dear," I answered. The "dear" slipped out between my lips without warning.

He went downstairs, and I heard him get the doctor on the 'phone. Then he called Emma and talked to her a minute in the hall before he went out. I thought I heard him say something about having the doctor call him at the office. I could not hear all he said, but it did not matter. Already I was feeling better. Just Leonard's voice and the touch of his hand lessened the pain and calmed my aching nerves.

When the doctor came at about 11 o'clock I was sitting up in the big morris chair by the window with slippers and dressing gown on.

"No temperature, Mrs. Allen," he said, standing in front of me and hitting the thermometer gently against his left hand. "Quite the opposite, you're below normal. It's about 94 degrees."

He looked down at me minutely. The quick keenness of his blue eyes made me uneasy. "Haven't had a shock, of any kind, have you?" he said, looking directly at me from under his shaggy eyebrows.

"I had a dizzy spell, and fell," I explained, hoping that would be sufficient explanation. "Been over-tired, I guess," I added artfully.

"Go to bed for the rest of today, and tomorrow," he ordered, and added, "Keep quiet, and don't worry."

I felt my cheeks flush.

"You'll be all right in a few days if you're careful," he said. "Take one of these every hour, and when they're gone better telephone me."

A CONTINUATION CLASS PROPOSED FOR HASTINGS

BY-LAW WILL LIKELY BE SUBMITTED TO THE RATEPAYERS

HASTINGS, April 23.—A meeting in the interests of a Continuation Class for Hastings was held on Thursday evening. It was decided to put forth a special effort to educate the citizens up to the importance of an institution of this kind for the benefit of the coming generation, so that the young boys and girls may secure more of their education at home.

It is expected that a by-law will be put before the people in the near future.

Attended Funeral.

Many Hastings residents attended the funeral of the late Mr. John Fitzpatrick on Thursday morning. The body was taken to Norwood Church, where service was held, after which interment was made in the Asphode Cemetery.

Social Mention.

The stork called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lobb on Friday morning and left a bouncing baby boy.

Mr. Breithaupt, of Kitchener, is in town for a few days in the interests of the Hastings Tanning Co.

Death in the West.

The people of Hastings and vicinity were shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. J. K. Wilson at her home in Regina, as it was only about a year ago that she and her husband spent some months in this vicinty n the hope that she would be benefited in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left here for the West about twenty years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter and one son. Thomas and William Hill, of town, are brothers of the deceased.

Purchased Farm.

Mr. Alcott, of Toronto, has purchased the farm of the late David Dickey, and has moved, with his wife, on to it, where he has begun sealing operations. Mrs. Alcott is the daughter of Mrs. W. Wage, of town.

Good seeds are uniformly bright colored, whereas seeds that have been exposed to moisture, or that are dead, are duller and darker in color.

ARE LIQUIDATING U. S. SECURITIES.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Every week large quantities of high grade U. S. securities are being shipped from New York to London, whence they are being sent back to their owners from whom they were taken by the British government at the beginning of the war to serve as collateral for loans in the United Staes, says the Wall Street Journal. Total of such securties originally deposited was $77,000,000 pounds sterling, or at parity of exchange $4,748,000,000. It was stated recently, the paper says, that there still remained on deposit in the hands of the British government's agents, J. P. Morgan and company, $1,273,000,000, of which $948,000,000 was still pledged and subrogated. The balance is being withdrawn as asked for by British owners and as released by liquidation of British loans. Originally the British government undertook to buy the bonds or hold them in trust, paying one-half of one per cent. additional interest to that yielded by the bonds. Later the option of sale was cancelled, and of the bonds now held here it is understood that none are owned by the government.

RE HOME DEMONSTRATION WORK FOR FARMERS' WIVES

Home demonstration work, the fundamental purpose of which is to assist the rural housewife to apply business principles to her daily tasks for the purpose of making the farm home as efficient as the farm and thereby producing a more satisfactory and permanent type of rural life, is making great strides in the United States, where the work was begun in 1914.

This system, by which agents of the State agricutural colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture offer the practical results of research and experiments in home economics to the housewives of the country, who, in turn, extend the instruction to a larger number of women, is carried out with the aid of teachers who go right into the homes and make liberal use of practical demonstration rather than the lecture or text book. Aside from interesting women in better home management, modern conveniences, food production and preservation, better food for the family, home nursing and the selection of making of clothing, the agents are devoting their efforts to promoting community enterprises.

Three types of such enterprises are developed: The economic type which includes food preservation, the hot school lunch, co-operative laundries; co-operative buying and selling associations; labor saving devices and salvage shops. The social type is concerned with such things as recreation centres, civic improvements and rest rooms. The educational type embraces farm home tours, libraries and magazine circles and the like.

HELD AS "FLAPPER BANDIT."

But Girl of 17 Denies She Has Been Robbing Chicagoans.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Mae McDonald, 17, pretty and unabashed, is under arrest as the "flapper bandit" who has been busy at highway robbery for several days. The girl stubbornly denies the charges against her, but she was identified by William Meckless as the girl who shoved a pistol under his nose and forced him to give up $35. Other victims of the girl bandit will be asked to identify the prisoner.

In all of the reported "flapper" robberies the girl bandit worked with several men in the background, though she carried the only visible weapon and did all the dangerous work. Early Tuesday morning the band took a taxicab and money from a taxicab chauffeur at Eighty-Seventh Street and Ashland Avenue, him on the head with his pistol, fell-

The City Manager

The advocates of the city manager plan recognized that, however great might be the need in any community for a thorough municipal housecleaning, however great the need for economy and a "business administration" at the city hall, the first thought should be that there be no sacrifice of real democracy to a much abused and perhaps too well advertised ideal of "efficiency."

Indeed, the driving power behind the whole movement was the idea of doing away with false, discredited forms of democracy that played into the hands of the few professionals or political experts who have always thrived in the complexities of city government.

Since the commissioners (or councilmen) are directors of policy only, and therefore are only required to devote a few hours a week to public business, the people are free to expand their field of selection beyond the old list of chronic job holders, and consider representative citizens whose private business affairs are too big to be relinquished for an old-style city job.

The city manager plan, moreover, lends itself perfectly to a scheme of representation that gives a voice to every considerable element in the town.

What this means in practice is best illustrated by the composition of the councils in Ashtabula and Sacramento. These cities have "proportional representation" — sometimes referred to familiarly as "P. R."—which is another way of saying that under this system of voting each man in the council stands for a group of citizens who have a common interest and think pretty much alike on public affairs.

The result of such a plan is a governing body which is bound to be an excellent miniature of the whole city. Here, for example, is the composition of the council in one city which adopted "P. R.": A widely known and reputable physician, a popular wealthy lawyer, an advertising manager with a creditable record of local public service, a manufacturer with public spirit and liberal leanings, an active Socialist editor, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, and a vigorous, liberal young business man.

A feature of the record is the increased prominence of labor. Dubuque, Dayton, Springfield and Sandusky are examples of cities where labor men sit on the board.

Under the city manager plan, the governing body can be just as democratic as the town wishes.

But, regardless of any method of selecting the officials, it is fundamentally democratic because of its simplicity and because of the responsibility which it imposes on the men chosen to operate it.

The plan abolishes "one-man" power, for it is the council and not the manager which governs. In the old-style mayor-and-council plan, the election of a fool mayor is something of a calamity, from which there is no escape.

The manager, on the other hand, is subject to continuous control by the group. There have been misfit managers, just as there have been misfit mayors, but they have been put in their place or removed with little ado.

A CHANCE FOR KINGSTON

Hardware and Metal, published in Toronto, has the following, which should be of interest to the Industries' Committee in Kingston: "A United States manufacturer, who is considering the opening up of a plant in Canada, has asked Hardware and Metal to supply the names of suitable towns in which a suitable building, etc., could be secured. This manufacturer would also wish to locate at a place where there are good shipping facilities and also electric power. If any of H and M.'s readers wish to send in any details regarding available locations for plants or particulars of specil inducements, etc., we will gladly pass the information along to this manufacturer."

Thin Blood Like Skim Milk

JUST as milk is a perfect food, so is blood a perfect nourisher of the cells and tissues of the body.

But thin, watery blood is like thin, watery milk with the cream skimmed off, and you do not look for much nourishment in skim milk.

Impaired heart's action is one of the first results of a weakened condition of the blood. There is shortness of breath, the circulation of the blood is imperfect, you are easily tired and suffer from indigestion.

The heart is a tireless and prodigious worker so long as it is supplied with an abundance of pure, rich blood with which to replace its own waste.

To overcome this starved condition of the system it is necessary to supply to the blood in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements of nature which go directly to supply the nutritive factor in the blood.

These ingredients are found in happy combination in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Gentle though wonderfully potent in action, this restorative treatment feeds the blood, and through the medium of the blood sends new vigor and energy to every cell and tissue of the human body. The heart's action is strengthened and the feelings of fatigue and lassitude disappear.

Open Library Sunday Afternoon

The idea of opening the Public Library on Sunday afternoon, which was originally moved by the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and taken up by the local Council of Women, is a splendid one.

It is an innovation which reflects great credit on the ladies who endorsed it. Peterboro, in this respect can blaze the way for a city like Toronto, which has no accommodation of such a kind for its floating population. To that great number of non-resident citizens who can claim only the walls of one small room as a dwelling-place, whose horizon is bounded in many cases by factory, store or class-room, and a more or less comfortable bedroom the opening of the Public Library on Sundays should prove a decided boon. Rooms are seldom over-heated, and the clerk, the factory worker, the teacher or student who on week days, relies on the theatre or the street as an escape from the monotony of four bare walls will probably welcome the idea of a comfortable, easily-accessible reading-room on Sundays.

The Anniversary of St. Julien Is Being Celebrated Here To-day

The anniversary of St. Julien's Day, April 22nd., which is being celebrated by the ladies of the G.W.V.A. to-day with a tag day for the benefit of the organization, will be fittingly commemorated to-morrow.

St. Julien was the scene of the second Battle of Ypres, that great fight in which poison gas was used for the first time, the fight in which Canadian troops bore the brunt of the affray, when men realized that in the final and severe test Canada had proved herself a nation

As Lord Rosebery declared: "It is the supreme consecration of Canada to the Empire".

The annual church parade of the Great War Veterans Association takes place to the Salvation Army Temple, on Sunday, and all returned soldiers are invited to join, in commemoration of the Second Battle of Ypres. The noted Army Sextette of Toronto of which Commandant McElhiney is a member, will lead the musical programme. The ladies of the Auxiliary to the G.W.V.A. will attend in a body

Missionary Society

The convention of the Women's Missionary Society which meets here next week will call together in session between four and five hundred women from different parts of Ontario, who are interested in this work.

It is emphatically a woman's convention, and, over and above all a young woman's convention. The press secretary, Mrs. F. McL. Smith of Alliston, is most enthusiastic. She has written several interesting little leaflets which have been printed for distribution. The following is a synopsis of one entitled, "Even as Esther or Climbing the Highway.". This is beautifully written, and draws a parallel between the Jewish maiden, Esther who was the daughter of a despised and captive race, but rose to be the queen of he rcountry When the opportunity came to her to be God's instrument for the saving of her people she chose the way that was not easy, the way of Service, and because of her choice, right triumphed, and the world was blessed.

It says: "Canadian womanhood to-day dwells in the palace of the world. While the women of heathen lands suffer and die in ignorance and despair, while the women of many so-called Christian lands are burdened by unjust laws and stupid class distinction, while, throughout the world many are still classed with the alien and the idiot, the Canadian woman ranks as a citizen —She may choose and make good in all the learned professions. She may enter the business world, and while she meets its demands for efficiency may help to make business methods measure up to the standard of the golden rule.

Thus is Canada's woman called to dwell in the world's palace, called to do much for which she was not trained, for the last six years have carried her far and fast. But what of Canada's daughter? This girl of to-day, this woman to-morrow, stands as did Esther. The women of the world ,despised and captive, call to her. The child-wives and widows of India— ignorant, superstitious, suffering and degraded— are calling her. The women of Japan, crushed by great labour and industrial conditions, are calling her. The women of China, venturing into a new world, are calling to her for education and medical training and appealing to her for a literature in a land without books.

New Canadians from Europe and the British Isles, knowing not the customs and the language of this new land, are calling to her for help and training. Her own sisters going forth into the newer and harder parts of this great domain are calling other for comfort and help and guidance. The women and children of Canada's great growing cities are reaching out hands to her for sympathy and help and training. The wayward and straying girl, the foolish and faithless are calling to her for love and understanding and a second chance. It is in her power to choose. Shall hers be the climbing soul? Or the one that gropes its way? Or shall she be one of the drifters?

Choose she must, for "Who knowest but that for such a time is she come to the Kingdom?"

Spring Festival

The teachers and the students who are interested in the Spring festival to be held in the Grand Opera House next Friday, April 29th, are all working very hard to perfect final arrangements. About 450 pupils from the city Public and Normal schools are taking part in the concert, which is really an exhibition of the year's work in music in the schools. Everything will be done by the pupils and their teachers, even the musical accompaniments for the different drills and solos. Just now the children of the third and fourth forms are busy at posters to be displayed next week in the local stores, which are examples of the work undertaken in the schools. A Spanish dance and a Brownie drill in costume with a minuet in the old-fashioned way, are some of the offerings, and vocal and instrumental solos by student talent.

Forest Products

An elaborate exhibit of the unique uses of forest products is a part of the display of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, in its campaign to educate the people of the State to the necessity of preventing waste of the forest areas of New York.

Some of the uses of wood and its by-products are as follows:

"Silk" socks, made from wood fibre, which look and feel like silk, but are far cheaper than the real thing.

Sawdust sausage casings, in which wood, converted by chemical processes into viscose, is used instead of the old type of sausage casings, produced from the by-product of the slaughter house.

Tan bark shingles, made from waste hemlock bark, after it has been through the tannery.

Paper milk bottles, to help fight the high cost of living, by saving the breakage of enormous quantities of glass bottles in the kitchen and by the dairyman.

All of these unusual commercial articles are made from what was once waste of the sawmill, and their display is part of the campaign to show how close ultilization of wood will help to cheapen articles of commerce and at the same time end the enormous waste that has accompanied practically all the operations of lumbering.

In connection with waste in wooden containers, the question of cigar boxes is brought up. When cedar boxes were first used as containers for cigars, their cost was inconsiderable, and the fact that they were banned from a second period of usefulness was not much of a consideration. These boxes now represent a cost of about thirty cents each and the ban is a burden. The cigar manufacturers of the United States are spending nearly $55,000,000 for boxes, which are prohibited by revenue laws from being used more than once.

The New Rich

Sir Philip Gibbs, in his recent lecture at Massey Hall on "The Social Revolution in England," when speaking of "the paradox of the new rich and the new poor," told how the old aristocracy of England had been very hard hit. Their old pictures of ancestors were now "mostly hanging on the walls of New York houses." He related the remark of the new-rich woman who said that "we now 'ave three 'ouses, but no 'ome," and the tale of the much-overdressed school boy with the heel-length fur coat. The child protested against this last acquisition to his wardrobe, and was reminded that he should be proud of having a coat richer than others. "Yes, papa," sobbed the poor rich boy, "but they don't call the other boys 'Skunkic.'"

Women's Clothes

A woman who is an authority on clothes and makes the fashioning and fitting of them a life business, in a recent article on "One's Every-Day Clothes," advocates the habit of 'watching yourself" as a most interesting hobby. She says that "friendly costumes are a step above becoming ones." First, we must have our dress becoming even if it is "only a house dress." The dress should be right in color, line and texture, and then it is sure to be individually becoming. If, in addition to these things, it has a neck line that shields any ugliness one might have or caresses a little beauty spot, a waist line that emphasizes youth or conceals its absence, sleeves of a friendly length for the arms so that they will not seem unattached or awkward—then it is indeed a friendly dress, a dress that one will always like to wear and that will ever be pleasing to one's friends even though worn almost continuously.

So often we think, "Oh! this is for every day, so it does not matter."

But it is our every-day clothes that mark our good taste in dress—that give our most intimate friends pleasure in seeing us, who, after all, are the most important ones to consider. Matching every dress and what we wear with it is a good habit to form. When we plan a new dress, it is vital to consider its suitability to the need, whether it is in keeping with our other things, and then to make certain that it is friendly and becoming.

In determining upon friendly, becoming clothes, deliberation and a truthful mirror that is consulted frequently are, in my mind, the very best aids. When you have developed a becoming dress, have to go with it a friendly hat, that is, one that harmonizes with the dress and is becoming.

Advertising Club

The Women's Advertising Club of Chicago at a meeting on April 4th, gathered together 500 Chicago women, club women, business women, housewives, women representatives of every walk of life, to spend "An Hour in the Business World," a meeting arranged to point out to the women of Chicago the advantages of buying advertised merchandise and to foster a better and clearer understanding of advertising and its value in the home. This gathering was an impressive answer to the question often asked: "Is the stay-at-home, the 'lady of the house,' really interested in advertising and its influence on her home life?"

One of the organizers of the club, Mrs. Leona A. Krag (Jean Prescott Adams), food expert for Amour & Company, and a well-known magazine editor and feature writer, spoke on "Taking the Guesswork Out of Buying." "How many of our great grandmothers could come to this meeting on a Monday afternoon?" Mrs. Krag enquired, and went on to explain how not only the invention but the advertising of modern household conveniences and canned goods have freed woman from her household drudgery and given her the leisure for intellectual development.

"Advertising," Mrs. Krag said, 'has saved us time as well as money. It helps us to exercise judgment in selection. You will find the advertising columns, viewed with the critical eye of the home manager, teeming with splendid information, of far greater value, in fact, than the news of the latest murder trial. It was a wise man who said: 'Show me the advertising in your papers and magazines and I will tell you the condition of your country.' When you buy advertised merchandise you are buying dependable merchandise, for no article can profitably be advertised until it has passed the most rigid examination of experts."

Shopping Bureau

The establishment of a Tel-U-Where Bureau in Boston recently is "the final linking up of national advertising with the local dealer." This service, which is free, does exactly what its name implies, tells the enquirer where anything may be bought, and will do much in assisting the buyers of advertised and trade-marked goods in locating the particular stores which handle the products they seek. Many holiday visitors to large centres do not know who the local dealers of desired goods are, and ordinarily would lose much time in hunting around for them. Tel-U-Where, called on the telephone, gives them the information they seek.

The one demand made by the bureau of information is for the name of the enquirer. This is not done for the purpose of furnishing manufacturers with names for "follow up" purposes, but literature which is kept on hand at the bureau is sent out on the next mail to the enquirer.

When a person calls Tel-U-Where one of a staff of specially trained information women takes down the name on a printed slip, also the name of the article asked about. If the call be urgent, and the information readily accessible, it is given over the telephone, but the mail is more commonly used for the purpose of a more complete report. With the letter is sent a catalog of the firm making the article asked for, also the names of dealers handling the goods locally. In this way perplexed shoppers seeking a certain advertised article and its purveyor, are helped to a solution of their problem.

HOW RHEUMATISM CAN BE OVERCOME

NOT BY RUBBING, BUT BY ENRICHING THE BLOOD.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with acid and impurities, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but it is not the cause. The cause is in the blood. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles; these are the symptoms of poison in the blood, which will shortly leave the victim painracked and helpless. Liniments, hot applications and rubbing may give temporary ease, but cannot possibly root the trouble out of the system. That can only be done by enriching the blood. This new blood drives out the poisonous impurities, and the rheumatism disappears. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady, begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how soon the pains and stiffness of the joints fade away. Among those who have benefitted by the use of these Pills is Mr. Freeman Irving, Baxter Harbor, N.S., who says: "Some time ago my blood was in a terrible condition, leaving me very much run down, and with boils breaking out on my body. To add to my misery rheumatism set in, and I not only suffered greatly from the pain, but could only get around with the greatest difficulty. After trying several medicines without much success, I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, as they had been warmly recommended to me. I think I used nine boxes altogether, but the results met my every expectation, as both the boils and the rheumatism disappeared. Naturally I feel that I cannot praise the Pills too highly."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Even the collar band and cuff edges need only a light rubbing between your hands —

WHAT hard rubbing the old way of washing meant! Even though you boiled the clothes, the bad spots simply would not budge without a long session with the washboard. Now—with Rinso—you do next to no rubbing at all. RINSO not a cake soap—not a washing powder—but a new form of soap in granules, with power to cleanse the grimiest dirt just by soaking. Yet Rinso harms nothing—doesn't even redden your hands—safe as pure water itself. Here is what you do:

AT NIGHT—SOAK WITH RINSO
IN THE MORNING—JUST RINSE!

If you have a washing machine—
Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

The Fashions

Father Vaughan, the famous Jesuit preacher, has this to say about present-day fashions: "The exaggerated women's fashions are another blot on the age. I always understood that dress was intended for three purposes—warmth, beauty and decency. How many of the dresses that we see about the streets to-day fulfil any of these purposes? And they are so dreadfully ugly. They look from the back elevation like hold-alls.

"A lady one day asked me to comment on her dress. Did I think it becoming? I replied that I did not comment on habits which might be unfashionable before I had finished speaking, and that I reserved all my comments for evil habits which persisted and always remained in fashion. St. James speaks of a man beholding his natural face in the glass and straightway forgetting what manner of man he was. St. James was clever. He did not say this of a woman, because she stays long enough in front of a glass to find out what she is like."

Film Editors

One more avenue of work in which women are sharing with men has been added to the list of feminine endeavors by the employment in the United States of ladies as "film editors." The responsibility attached to work of this sort is by no means light, for to the lot of the "film editor" it falls to delete certain portions of a film production where the story may drag or the artistic sense weaken. This is a distinct department to that of film censorship, and may be termed a sort of literary or artistic criticism of the productions that come under their observation. It should appeal to the many bright women and girls of the Dominion who would take an interest in what might be termed the editorial section of film work.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

The breakfast went fast. Platters were passed without ceremony or delay. Her father and Bradley ate as Nancy had never seen men eat. There was little mastication, but much knife and fork work, with free libation of coffee, and Belle, Kate noticed, while somewhat left behind by the men, paid strict attention to the business in hand.

Conversation naturally lagged, but what took place had its surprise for Kate. Doubleday nsked a few questions of Belle—everybody seemed to know everybody else—and, learning she was headed for the reservation possibly to teach school, hired her on the spot away frojm the job, to go back to his eating house at Sleepy Cat Junction. No sooner was this arranged and Bradley told to take her luggage off the stage than a diversion occurred.

A horseman dashed up outside and presently strode into the room. He was tall and well put together; not quite as straight as an arrow, but straight, and not ungraceful in his height. This was Harry Van Horn, a neighboring cattleman, and he wore the ranchman's rig, including the broad hat and the revolver slung at his hip. But everything about the rig was fresh and smart. He looked alert and fit. His step was clean and springy as he crossed the room, and his voice not unpleasant as he briskly greeted Doubleday and looked keenly at his guests—last and longest at Kate sitting at her father's right hand.

Doubleday introduced him to his daughter. Van Horn nodded, without much deference, to Belle and to Bradley, neither of whom responded more warmly. He sat down near Kate and without paying attention to any one else, he set out to entertain her. When he talked his face lighted with energy. Every expression of his brown eyes snapped with life.

Barb broke abruptly in on the conversation: "What did Stone find out?" he asked.

Van Horn answered a question of Kate's and turned then, and not till then, to her father; "That's what I come over to tell you. Dutch Henry and another fellow—described like Stormy Gorman—sold ten head of steers to the railroad camp last week—that's where our cattle are going right along now. And Abe Hawk," he exclaimed, pointing his finger at Doubleday, and poking it forward to emphasize each point, "sold ten head of your long yearlings to an outfit north of the Falling Wall and never, by ———, changed the brands!"

Doubleday stared at the speaker. Van Horn, speaking to Kate, went right on. "There's a bunch of rustlers over in the Falling Wall, snitching steers on us right and left."

While Van Horn talked and Doubleday muttered husky aned bitter questions, Bradley and Belle paid continuous attention to about Kate. Completely absorbed by the ircoffee and griddle cakes.

Doubleday by this time had forgotten all reports brought in he rose from the table and followed Van Horn to the open door, where Van Horn turned and paused as he kept on talking so he could take in Kate, still at the table. The two men were now joined by a third who appeared at the door—and looked in to see who was at the table. Bradley glanced up at him only long enough to recognize Tom Stone, the new foreman; no greeting passed. Kate looked longer through when she saw the eyes of the new-comer were on her she gave her attention to Belle.

Belle had told her that a woman at the ranch would be a great curiosity and Kate resigned herself to inspection. When she got better acquainted with the men—there were good and bad among them—she liked them all, except Stone.

He was only tolerable at best and when even slightly in liquor he was irritable. His low forehead, over which he plastered his hair, and his straight yellow eyebrows and hard blue eyes were not confidence inspiring; even his big mustache was harsh and lacked a generous curve—his normal outlook seemed one of reticence and suspicion. Kate refused to like him. His smile was not good.

On this morning he showed the signs of a hard journey. He had brought the news from the Falling Wall and was just in after a troublesome ride. Bradley and Belle left the table together and Kate followed toward the door. Bradley tried to edge past the three men without speaking, but Stone not only stopped him with a cold grin, but followed the driver toward the stage: "Wouldn't that kill you," Kate heard him say to Bradley, and she saw his attempt at an ingratiating grin: "Abe Hawk rustling?"

Bradley gave him scant sympathy: "What did Doubleday discharge him for?" he demanded with a grim expletive. "What did the cattlemen blacklist him for? He's the best foreman this ranch ever had—or ever will have," added Bradley, summoning his scant courage to rub it in. "He fired him because he took up a little piece of land agin the Falling Wall and got together a few cows of his own. That's a crime, ain't it? Like ———. These cattlemen will learn a thing or two when they get old."

Stone flared back at him: "What are you over here eating their bacon for?"

"Not f'r any likin' I've got f'r 'em," retorted Bradley, "n'r f'r any o' their pets."

The old driver got away without a fight, but he had little to spare. Van Horn rode off presently with Stone, and Doubleday returned to the house where Kate was sitting with Belle. He told Belle he would send her over to the junction in the afternoon, and after dinner told Kate she had better go over and stay at the junction with her till they could get a room fixed up at the ranch.

Belle told her that her father spent most of his time at the junction, anyway, where he had a cottage. She explained about the little four mile railroad branching off the main line at the junction. Her father had built this to coal mines on the Falling Wall river. He was supposed to own this branch line and the mines, but she hinted strongly that his creditors had got evcrything there was of the railroad but the rust, and would sometime get that.

Kate wished her new acquaintance had been less candid.

Doubleday drove the two women down from the ranch. At the junction there were, besides the railroad eating house, a few houses and a few stores, and almost as many saloons as at Sleepy Cat itself—the place being, Belle said, a shipping point both for cattle and for miners.

Kate was relieved to find her father's cottage, on a hill across the railroad track, quite livable-looking. It was, like all the other houses, one story and square, being divided into kitchen, dining room and two bedrooms. The interior, its shiny furniture covered with dust, was dreary enough, but Kate knew she could make the place presentable, and after the first few days in her new surroundings began to recover her high spirits. Her father had not yet said she was to stay; but she thought he liked her—Belle told her as much—and she set about making her woman's hand felt. Her father took his meals at the eating house, and the cottage had been indifferently cared for by old Henry, the eating house porter. Kate, as a housekeeper, was a marked ijmprovement, one that even so absorbed a man as her father could not but notice.

Back of the cottage, Doubleday had a small barn, where Henry—an ex-cowboy—looked after Doubleday's driving horses. And the very first pledge from her father that she was to be tolerated in the strange household she had invaded in this far-away country came to Kate when he sent down for her use two saddle ponies. The fleeting suspicion of loneliness that she would not confess even to herself, all vanished when the ponies came. When Henry failed to appear, Kate took care of her pets herself. And after her father told her they were really hers, she would not let a man lay a hand on them.

When the evenings grew tedious she would go down for supper with Belle and sit with her in the small alcove off the office, where the two could see and hear without being seen; and Belle's stories had no end.

The only feature of her situation that would not improve was her father's aloofness. He seemed to try at times to thaw out but he persistently congealed again. One evening he got in late from the ranch, cold and wet, complaining of rheumatism. The driver went on with the team to Sleepy Cat and Doubleday told Kate he would stay all night. She had a good fire in the grate and made her father a toddy.

Next morning he could hardly get out of bed, but he was set on going to the ranch and Kate helped him dress and got him a good breakfast, with a cup of coffee strong enough to fell an ox. He softened enough to let her go up to the ranch with him. She wanted to make ready a room so she might spend the night there occasionally. Van Horn had promised to teach her sometime how to use a rifle and to take her out after antelope, and Kate was keen for going.

They drove out in the evening, but the minute they reached the ranch house Kate perceived something was up. Van Horn greeted her with a good deal of freedom, Kate thought—and after a long confab with her father and much preparation, he and Stone rode off, two of the men from the bunk house with them.

During the night she was awakened by voices. Van Horn and Stone were back and they were talking to her father in the living room. Kate thought at first some accident had happened. Van Horn, eager, pleased and rapid in utterance, did much of the talking, Stone breaking in now and again with a few words in his harsh, nasal tones—harsher tonight than usual. Her father seemed only to ask a question once in a while. Kate tried not to eavesdrop, but she could not occasionally help hearing words about wire, which Van Horn was sure somebody would never find. The men had apparently been somewhere and done something. The clink of glasses indicated drinking, and there was much cursing of something or somebody. Then the talk got loud and her father hushed it up and the party went to bed.

Kate spent a week of delight at the ranch, mostly on horseback, learning western horses and western riding. After her outing Doubleday brought her back to the junction. He went on to Sleepy Cat, but that night he came back ill. In the morning he was not able to get up.

Kate telephoned, as he directed, to Sleepy Cat, for Doctor Carpy. The doctor, when he came, looked Kate over with interest. He was a smooth-faced, powerfully built man, rough-looking and rough in speech, but he knew his business. It was an acute attack of rheumatism, he said, and he told Kate to keep her father in bed and to keep him quiet and nurse him.

"He's so active," said Kate, regretfully. "He seems to be on the go all the time."

"Damn him," retorted Carpy, with blunt emphasis. "He's nervous all the time—that's what the matter. He's got too many irons in the fire.'

Kate swallowed her astonishment at so extraordinary a medical outburst. She reminded herself she was really in the West.

Belle, when Kate saw her the following morning at the eating house, said much the same thing and added in her coldly philosophic way, "I reckong the banks have got him. And say, Kate, here's a telegram just come for your father."

Kate took the dispatch up to the cottage. It was from Van Horn at Medicine Bend, and it so upset her father that she was sorry she had had to deliver it. After an interval, unpleasant both for the disabled man and his nurse, jKate ventured to ask whether there was not something she could do. There was not. Litigation against him, long dormant—he explained between twinges—had been revived, papers issued, and a United States deputy marshal was on his way to serve him. "I thought," he muttered, with an imprecation, "the thing was dead. But nothing against me ever dies. If it'd gone past today it would 'a' been outlawed. You'll have to send some telegrams for me."

He gave her the substance of them and of a letter he wanted written—all of which she carefully took down. Then, putting on her hat, she hastened to the eating house to send the telegrams.

It was well past noon. At the lunch-counter desk Kate copied the messages on telegraph blanks, took them up to the operator, and came downstairs to write the letter for her father.

While she was doing this the 2 o'clock Medicine Bend train pulled in. It was the big through train of the day, the train which must bring the dreaded summons server from Medicine Bend, if he came that day at all. But Kate, absorbed in her letter writing, had forgotten all about this unpleasantness when something—she was never able to say just what—recalled her to herself. She became all at once conscious that she was writing a letter, and at the same time conscious that she was no longer alone in the little room.

She refused to look up, even though she felt eyes were upon her. A natural impulse of defiance at the uninvited scrutiny possessed her. She turned from the desk, and, looking straight toward the glass door conencting with the dining room and behind the end of the counter, she walked briskly past the intruding presence.

She reached the door without incide t when she heard two words: "Slow, Kate." She had already laid her hand on the knob and she turned it with indignation. The wretched door refused to open! It was Belle's afternoon off and she had locked the door.

A collected girl would not have surrendered to the situation. But Kate never could be collected at just the right time. She was usually quite collected when it made no difference whether she was collected or not. All she now did was to look blankly around. A man sat at the counter, a man Kate had never seen before. He was deliberately lifting a broad horseman's hat from a rather round, high forehead and disclosing a head of inoffensive-looking sandy hair, very much sun and wind bleached. His smooth face, his ears and neck and open throat, were colored by a strictly uniform pigment—tinctured by many mountain winds into a reddish brown and burnt by many mountain suns into a seemingly immutable bronze. The face was long with an ample nose, a peaceful-looking mouth, and unruffled gray eyes.

"Where are you going?" he asked as she stood looking at him.

Her resentment at his rudeness rose. Could a prophetic spirit have warned Kate that this was to be only the first more than one serious encounter with the eyes steadily regarding her, her astonishment and indignation might have been restrained. As it was, forgetting her own position and descending to western brusqueness, she retorted icily: "I can't see how that can possibly interest you."

If she had hoped that a frigid tone and utterance might abash her intruding questioner, they failed. He spoke again with surprisingly even impertinence—quite as if she were as friendly as he. "You're wrong," he said. "I'm mightily interested. I want some coffee and you don't act to me as if you meant to come back."

It was undignified and improper for her to bandy words with a heckler, but Kate had already breathed too much of the freedom of the mountains to resist a second retort, and said, almost without thinking—and certainly in a very positive manner: "I am not coming back."

"Give me a cup of coffee before you go."

"There is no service here this afternoon."

"Beg your pardon. There will be one service here this afternoon. You will serve me." His emphasis was slight, but unmistakable. She turned to the door and grasped the knob the second time. Her persecutor raised his left hand firmly. "You can't get out there," he said.

"Why can't I?" demanded Kate, indignantly.

"Because you can't open the door." She stood mute at his assurance. "Come, give me some coffee, like a good girl."

What should she do? She did not speak the question, but she weighed it pretty rapidly in her mind. What manner of man had she to deal with? If not actually threatening, he was extremely domineering. While she hesitated he regarded her calmly.

But there was only one way to do as he demanded and to punish him as well. She stepped to the two coffee urns, murmuring as if to herself: "I know nothing about these."

"I don't, either," he volunteered. From the nearer urn Kate drew a cup of coffee; it was very cold—but she pushed it with a jug of cream and a bowl of sugar, towards him.

"A teaspoon, please?" Kate's excitement had already heightened her color. She looked very much alive as she added, impatiently, a spoon to the equipment—expecting then to be able to get out of the room. It seemed as if this ought to be easy. It was not. Her tormentor professed to have had no dinner and wanted a sandwich. The sandwiches were rebelliously hunted up—a platfeul was supplied, but if he was surprised at a prodigality he said nothing, and every time she tried to open the obstinate door, some tantalizing word from him entangled her in another exchange; and at each encounter of wits, just enough fear tempered her resentment to make her irresolute.

She was malicious enough to observe at intervals the unobstrusive pantomime by which the enemy tried to coax a semblance of warmth into his cold coffee. He had poured cream into it, but the cream refused to assimilate and only made the mixture look less inviting.

"I'm glad I met you today," he said, while she was getting her breath. "Looks lonesome around here. Not much doing at the mines, is there?"

"Not a great deal," she answered, coldly.

"How about Barb Doubleday—is he up at the mines, or here?"

He was indifferently lifting matches from the stand at his hand, striking them and burning them patiently against the side of his cup of coffee. Like a flash came to Kate with his question, the thought that this disagreeable party must be the court officer. He looked up at her now as if waiting for an answer. "Why do you ask?" she countered.

"Mostly because 'Id like to hear you say something."

"Anything, I suppose," she suggested ironically.

"That's not far from it," was the reply. "Also I want to see Barb."

"What about?" she asked, borrowing his own assurance. It was time, she thought, for defensive strategy.

"Just a little business matter."

"He isn't hiring any men," she said adapting a set phrase she had often heard Belle use.

"And in spite of my looks," he returned, "I'm not hunting for a job—for a wonder."

But now that Kate wanted to hear more he took his turn at reticence. "Where are you from?" she asked, as unconcernedly as she could.

"Medicine Bend."

"From the marshal's office?" It was foolish of her to ask. She fairly blurted out the words. He looked at her for the first time keenly—and just the change in his expression, undefinable, but unmistakable, almost frightened her to death.

THE STORY.

KATE DOUBLEDAY has journeyed to the far west to visit her father.

BARB DOUBLEDAY, who deserted her mother years before, and whom the girl has never seen. This strange father she finds engaged in certain dubious enterprises which he does not see fit to explain, but he shows a furtive affection for the girl and establishes her in a cottage at Sleepy Cat Junction with

BELLE SHOCKLEY, a woman of the neighborhood, whom he has engaged to run his eating house in the town. Kate hears mystifying references to her father's affairs from

HARRY VAN HORN, a dashing cattleman, whom she likes, and

TOM STONE, foreman at Doubleday's ranch, whom she does not like at all. Also, she hears much talk of one

JIM LARAMIE, about whose character there seem to be sharp differences of opinion. One morning, when her father

Which Wins?

"I was in the marshal's office yesterday," he answered, picking up a sandwhich. Kate was no longer doubtful. This was the man to serve the dreaded summons. An instant of panic seized her. Fortunately her persecutor was regarding his stubborn coffee as he hopefully stirred it. Her heart, which had stopped, started with a thump. Her thoughts cleared. Instinct, self-preservation, asserted itself. She thought hard and fast and her pulses beat in usnison. The first step was to temporize.

He looked up in time to see the blood sweeping back into her cheeks, and almost spoiled the first really good breath she was drawing. In his lean, bronzed hands he clasped his cup of coffee as if trying to put a degree of heat into it.

"What would be the extra charge for a shot at that hot tank?" he asked, directing his glance first at the other tank, then at Kate's burning face.

With all his confidence he must have been surprised at the revul ion of manner that greeted him. Kate recovered her poise—her coldness vanished, a smile broke through her reserve, and her confused regret was promptly expressed:

"Did I give you coffee out of the cold tank? How stupid!"

"And never in my life," said her queer customer, as if continuing her words "did I ever do anything mean to you."

"O, yes, you did," objected Kate, coupling nervous haste with the declaration as she tried to take the cold cup from between his hands. The ease with which she assumed the role of a lunch counter waitress astonished her.

"What did I do?" he drawled, resisting her attempt to make amends.

"You said I couldn't go out that door," she answered, refusing to be denied the cup.

"I was hoping if you stayed a few minutes you wouldn't want to." A moment earlier she would have been indignant. Now she reconciled herself to necessity. She was, indeed, wildly hoping she might be able to coax him not to do anything. And she had to repress an absurd laugh at the thought as she set a fresh and steaming cup before him.

But there remained something stubborn in his dry manner and at times her heart misgave her as to the hope of dissuading him from his purpose. Yet with every moment she was the more resolved to keep him from carrying out his mission and resolved to make him pay for his Western manners. It was obvious he had mistaken her for a waitress. He should have then a waitress, and a coy one, until danger was past. All this was running through her head while the coffee was being sipped. She tendered her now tractable guest a second cup of coffee. It was accepted; he talked on, asking many questions, which were answered more or less to his satisfaction. Not that his inquiries were impertinent; they were mostly silly, Kate thought. He seemed chiefly intent on establishing a friendly footing with a lunch counter attendant.

When his third cup had been drunk and payment tendered for it and for five or six sandwiches, Kate decided her time to escape had arrived. She refused to accept his money. "No," she persisted, "I will not take a thing for your lunch. Positively not. O, you may leave your dollar on the counter if you like—it will never go into the register."

"Why not?"

"I've told you."

"Tell me again."

"You were very patient over my blunder in giving you cold coffee."

"To tell you the truth," he confessed with candor, "it didn't look to me altogether like a blunder."

"O, it was," she insisted shamlessly, but she did not feel at all sure he believed her. "And I won't take your money. I want you"—her eyes fell the least bit with her repentant words—"to have a better impression of this counter than cold coffee would give you. We're trying so hard to build up a business."

"Golly!" observed her calm guest. "I thought a few minutes ago you were trying to wreck one."

"You Medicine Bend men always make fun of this valley," Kate complained.

"Where do you?"

"In the Falling Wall."

"O! in that awful place?"

"Why knock the Falling Wall?"

"I never heard any good of it. No matter, anyway; you may put up your money. And some time when I am up in your country," she added jestingly, "you can give me a cup of cold coffee."

"We'll say nothing more about the coffee," he declared in blunt fashion. "Just you come!" He yielded so honestly to deceit that Kate was half ashamed at imposing on him.

"Tell me," he went on, spinning his silver dollar in leisurely fashion on the smooth counter, "how am I going to get up to the mines today after I look around here for Barb—where can I get a horse?"

Kate reflected a moment. "I can get you some kind of a horse," she said slowly. "But it would take you forever to get there on horseback—the trail runs around by the river. The train will get you there first. It goes up at four o'clock."

"What am I going to do till four o'clock?" he asked, making, without discussion, her subtle suggestion his own.

She lifted her eyebrows disclaimingly—even shrugged her shoulders. "What are you going to do?" he persisted. She was ready. She looked longingly out of the window. The un blazed over the desert in a riot of gold.

"It's ny day off," she volunteered, adding just a suspicion of discontent and uncertainty to her words. She fingered her tie, too; then dropped her eyes and added: "I thought I might take a ride."

He started. "Couldn't get two horses, could you?"

"Two?" echoed Kate, looking surprised at him.

He rose. "I'll turn up two if I have to steal 'em," he declared, reaching for his hat.

"That would be too much trouble for one little ride," Kate intervened ironically. "I'll see what I can do first. But," she added shamlessly, "if you want to be sure of catching the train I should advise you to stay right here. It backs down and doesn't stay but a minute—just long enough to hook on to the empties."

Her warning had no effect. It wasn't meant to have any. She knew if he got to the mines and learned that her father was at the Junction he would be back in no time to serve him. He was decently restrained now, but he swallowed her bait, hook and all: "Where do you think you can find horses?" he asked.

"Where I work."

"Where do you work?"

"Sometimes here and sometimes up at Mr. Doubleday's cottage. The barnboy gets up a horse for me any time."

He raised a strange difficulty. "I wouldn't feel just right today riding a horse of Barb Doubleday's," he said candidly.

The words only confirmed her suspicions. Her fears rose, but her wits did not desert her. "Ride mine," she suggested. "I've got my own horse, of course."

He drew a deep breath. "All I can say is, if you ever come over my way I'll certainly show you as good a time as I can."

She put up her hand. "Wait till you see how you like my good time."

He was quick to come back. "I'll agree right now to like anything you offer—and I don't care a hang what it is, either."

Looking straight at him, she asked a question quietly. "Will you stand to that?' He looked at her until she felt as if his eyes were going traight through her. "I've got enemies," he said slowly, and here was more than a touch of hardness in his voice; "most men have. But the worst of 'em never claimed my word wasn't good."

"Then," exclaimed Kate, hastening to escape the serious tone, "you can tend counter while I go and see about the horses."

"No," he objected, "that's a man's job. You can tell me where to go and I'll get the horses."

Kate was most firm. "If you're going to ride with me," she said, "you must do my way. Take a woman's job for a few minutes and see how you like it."

He regarded her with the simplicity of a child, but he replied like a case hardened cowboy: "I don't like a woman's job, of course. But I'm ready to do any damned thing you say."

"Do you suppose," Kate demanded with an air, "they would turn two perfectly good horses over to you at Doubleday's?"

She had put her foot in it. "I tell you," he protested, "I don't want to ride a horse of Doubleday's. I'm up here to talk to Barb Doubleday. And nobody can say just how it's coming out. At the ranch they swore he was at Sleepy Cat, I rode down there and they told me he was at the Junction, so I took the train up here. Now you tell me he's at the mines—that's where I'll say what I've got to say. But I don't want to take any advantage. And I don't want to impose on his properly rights so much as a single hair. That's exactly what's between us."

She tried to shut him off, but he was wrought up. "Barb swore to me once he had nothing to do with it," he persisted obstinately. "All I can say is, if a man fools me once it's his fault; if he fools me twice, it's mine."

"What about a woman?" asked Kate, trying hard to say one thing and think another.

He opened his eyes. "I never thought much about that. You can't fight a woman," he returned reflectively. "And I've yet to see one I could fool."

Kate started for the fron door. "Hold on a minute," he objected; "what's to do here while you're gone?"

"Serve coffee and sandwiches if anybody comes in. This time of day there's never anybody comes in."

He turned on his stool. "How soon'll you be back?"

"In a few minutes."

"Get a horse for yourself."

It did not take Kate long to get up the hill. Breathless, she encountered old Henry in the garden, asked him for the ponies, and almost ran into the house. Her father was asleep. There was no reason to stir him up over a situation that she resolved o handle and felt she could handle. She got into her riding clothes in a trice, all the time wondering whether she could hold her wild man in leash long enough to defeat him. Had he been more like anybody she had ever met and known, the problem would have been less confusing. But she determined to shut her eyes and win the fight if she could, and to this end she must draft every resource. So she thought as she caught up her little revolver and, dropping it into the scabbard she had belted about her waist, set forth.

She rode one of her own ponies back and led the other. Her enemy had good ears, for when she was half way to the eating house he walked out on the platform and silently surveyed her approach. Kate watched him narrowly and drew up before him to estimate the effect. She was disappointed, she had to confess, at his cool indifference, she thought her riding rig unusually pretty. It had seemingly failed to impress her queer Westerner. His eyes were all for the horses. "Clean ponies," he observed, taking the bridle rein from her hand as he looked the two over.

"I forgot to ask what kind of a saddle you like," she said indifferently. He was scanning the horses and his eyes not being on her she got her first real good look at her antagonist—whether he was to be her victim she was still in axnious doubt.

HIS LIFE RUINED BY DYSPEPSIA

Until He Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES" The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

MR. FRANK HALL

Wyevale, Ontario.

"For some two years, I was a sufferer from Chronic Constipation and Dyspepsia.

I tried every remedy I heard of without any success, until the wife of a local merchant recommended 'Fruit-a-tives'.

I procured a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and began the treatment, and my condition commenced to improve immediately.

The Dyspepsia ceased to be the burden of my life as it had been, and I was freed of Constipation.

I feel that I owe a great debt to 'Fruit-a-tives' for the benefit I derived from them."

CHANGE IN MAJORITY.

TORONTO, April 23. — (Canadian Press.)—New returns of the referendum show a change in the majority. Latest returns show gains to the "wets."

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

No rest day or night for those who are afflicted with that terrible skin disease, eczema, or as it is often called, salt rheum.

With its unbearable burning, itching and torturing, relief is gladly welcomed.

There is no remedy like Burdock Blood Bitters for giving relief to such sufferers; no remedy that has done, or can do more for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture.

Apply it externally and it takes out the stinging, itching and burning and proomtes a healthy healing.

Take it internally and it gets at the source of the disease in the blood,—for eczema is a blood disease—and drives it out of the system.

Miss L. M. Boutilier, 89 Victoria Road, Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I have suffered for years from eczema. I could not rest day or night. I suffered great agony, and was nearly crazy with the itching and burning. I used all kinds of salves, but nothing seemed to help me. I saw Burdock Blood Bitters advertised, and was advised to try a bottle. I found great relief, and I really cannot recommend it highly enough for what it has done for me."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has been manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RHEUMATIC PAIN

Rheumatism is "pain only."

Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub the misery right away! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly into the sore, stiff joints and muscles and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" conquers pain. It is a harmless rheumatism remedy, which never disappoints and does not blister.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old-time "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Get it! "St. Jacobs Oil' is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.

OMEMEE WOMAN'S INSTITUTE MEET

REV. MR. SCOTT GAVE TALK ON GARDENING—OMEMEE NEWS

OMEMEE, April 23. — The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Morcombe, on Thursday, with a good attendance of the members. The most important feature on the programme was a talk on "Gardening," by the Rev. Mr. Scott of St. Andrew's church, Omemee.

In the beginning of his address he spoke of the pleasure and profit of a good garden. "Good gardening," he said, is really a fine art.

He pointed out that good seed is a prime neecssity if the best results are to be obtained.

He advised the use of the hoe in dry weather rather than the use of the sprinkling can to which so many resort and usually with disastrous results; hoeing tends to keep the upper earth from evaporating. If water is found necessary, where there is no watering system, make a trench around the plants or along the rows, and fill with water until the ground is soaked, then draw back the fine dry earth. "Sprinkling," he said, "only wets the surface and brings the plant roots to the top, and they are soon left high and dry."

The use of a hoe as soon after a shower as possible was also advised. The diligent use of the hoe forms a dust blanket and prevents too rapid loss of moisture.

The speaker also spoke of the cultivation of the tomato and the sweet pea.

About the tomato he advised the amateur gardener to stick to well-tried varieties, those suitable to the particular locality. Chalk's Early Jewel, Earliana, and Bonny Best, were advised for this locality. Grow your own plants and then you will be sure of early ripening fruit, he said. In planting, the young plants should be put in a sloping hole and covered well to the top. This method gives a better root and prevents the plant being abused by the wind. The plants should be kept from growing to stalks by pinching out what are really new plants that grow from the axil of the leaves. One to three shoots will be plenty for one vine. This method gives more and better fruit, and ins res quicker ripening.

The sweet pea, he called "The queen of flowering annuals." It does well in any good garden soil. The soil should be well drained and dug deeply; trench planting is best, so that the soil can be drawn up around the growing plants, and still have a fairly deep rooting. Plant as early in the spring as possible. It is best to have the soil prepared the fall before. For best results get the best Spencer seed. Be sure to keep the flowers well picked. He strongly advised spending a little more money on the seed. The best always costs a little more than something less than the best, but the extra cost is well repaid. In sweet-peas the difference is this, three to five large flowers on a stem a foot long, rather than two or three small flowers on a stem a few inches long.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. Mr. Scott at the close of the meeting after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Kicked by a Cow.

A rather serious accident occurred at her home, when Mrs. Geo. McQuade was seriously injured by being kicked by the cow which she was milking. She did not think at first that her injuries were serious, being able to walk to the house but after a few minutes she was seized with a severe pain and was forced to lie down. Dr. Earl was called, and thought her injuries were of a serious nature and advised her removal to the hospital. She was taken to Peterborough on the evening train where her many friends will be pleased to hear she is recovering.

Mrs. Clarence Laidley of St. Catharines is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Doran, Sturgeon St.

Rev. Mr. Scott was a business visitor to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Hubert Cottingham of Peterborough attended the funeral of his aunt, Miss Margaret English.

Mr. Walter Elliott and Miss Blanche Elliott of Toronto, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. Stillman at the parsonage this week.

Miss Palmer of Peterborough, a saleslady in Mr. Charles Ivory's millinery department, spent the week-end at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Rehill motored to Peterboro on Tuesday.

Miss Jessie Lamb entertained a number of her girl friends at her home on Wednesday evening, the ocasion being her 12th birthday.

Mrs. R. J. Mulligan visited friends in Lindsay this week.

Mrs. M. Parsons has returned home after a pleasant two weeks with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. Charles Corneil of Peterboro, called on his many friends in town on Monday.

Mr. Dave Deyell, attended the wedding of his brother, Mr. J. W. Deyell at Bailieboro on Wednesday.

Mr. George Hart of Toronto came down to attend the funeral of the late Miss English.

R. J. Grandy, Charles Ivory, T. J. Parsons and William Stewart, of Lindsay.

Dr. Commiskey was educated at the Polytechnic Institute and was a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University in the class of 1904, beginning his practice in Brooklyn immediately after graduation. During the world war Dr. Commiskey was major of the U.S. Army Medical Corps stationed with base hospital at No. 37 at Dartmouth, England, and later in France, where he saw active service among the wounded soldiers in the Argonne and Chateau-Thierry sectors. After the war he was placed on the reserve list with the rank of Lieut.-Colonel.

Dr. Commiskey married Mrs. Commiskey (nee Miss Ann Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Black, Inkerman street) a little less than one year ago, the marriage taking place at the home of Mrs. Commiskey's parents here.

Cattle Shipped.

Kent and Scott shiped 180 hogs to the Canadian Packing Company on Thursday, for which they paid 11 1/2c. Also 15 fat cattle and 35 fine calves to Buffalo on Friday. For beef they paid 6 to 7 cents and for veal 5 cents.

To Address Lodge

The Right Rev. J. F. Sweeney, D. D., Bishop of Toronto, will address the members of Campbellford Lodge, No. 248, Independent Order of Forresters, who will attend in a body divine service in Christ church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. No doubt there will be a large turnout to hear this distinguished sepaker. On May 1 at 3 o'clock the members of the local lodge, I.O.O.F., are invited to attend divine service in the Anglican church, Stirling, with the Stirling members of the I.O.O.F.

Story Telling Class.

Miss Campbell, librarian who has been conducting "story telling classes' in the library for the children under 10 years, since the New Year, will discontinue these sessions for the summer months after April 30th. The children have been most enthusiastic over these morning classes, sometimes as many as 115 being in attendance, with an average of more than 45 each week. The children are all anxious that these classes be resumed again in the fall.

Delegates Named.

The Woman's Missianry Society of St. Andrew's church have appointed delegates to the Woman's Missionary Society Provincial convention to be held in Peterborough next week. Mrs. Robt. Bell, Miss E. Buchanan, delegates and Mrs. (Dr.) Haig, will attend as will no doubt many of the other members.

Miss McCormack, who has been in charge of the mantle department in the store of Carnahan & Co., is returning to Peterborough.

Funeral Sunday.

The funeral of the late Chas. Wesley Ibey, whose body was recovered on Thursday, will take place on Sunday. The True Blue lodges and the 40th Regiment will assist in the service.

Mr. A. E. Caddy spent yesterday in Peterborough.

Mr. Peter Buchanan, Rear street, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia and pleurisy, is improvin.

Mr. Geo. Ashton was in Toronto yesterday.

Miss C. Shannon spent a few days of this week in Toronto attending the mid-summer millinery openings.

Mr. C. Bush and Mr. G. Wilton of Castleton, visited friends in town on Thursday.

Miss Morton of Stirling, W. D. Thompson and P. Glover of Walkworth, and Miss Reta Greer and Miss W. Janeway of Peterborough, attended the High school conversat last evening.

BURGLARS BREAK INTO CANADIAN EXPRESS OFFICE.

Staff at Port Hope Found Premises Dry.

PORT HOPE, April 23.—Thieves broke into the Canadian Express office on Wednesday night, and when the staff opened up next morning they found the premises gone dry.

Entrance had been effected by the rear door, and it is quite evident that the thieves are familiar with the lay-out of the premises. Heavy iron bars run across the window panes; there is also a heavy wooden bar across the centre of the door and bolts at the top and bottom. The thieves broke the pane of glass and were able to reach the centre bar and upper bolt. The bottom bolt, however, still held, but the door was hammered until the staple in this bolt was forced out. The door leading to the main office was bolted top and bottom, but the removal of a wooden panel in this door gave the burgars a clear course.

Several cases of liquor were taken but other packages were not disturbed.

Two large cases of whisky in one corner evidently missed the eagle eye of the intruders.

Track Wizards Prefer Them!

TEARING around dirt, board or cement tracks—burning up the miles at "80 or 100 per," inflicts a gruelling punishment on any tire.

Yet "Goodyear Cords" stand the test.

More races have been won on Goodyears than any other make of tire. Wizards of the track prefer them!

Not only do they offer comparative freedom from tire trouble but their resiliency makes possible easy and comfortable riding. These same qualities urgently sought by speed demons, mean dependability and tire satisfaction for you.

Select your tire equipment from our stock of Goodyear Cords. We've "fabrics" if you prefer them, as well as accessories and "tire savers."

his business. It is said that he replied, "I've been a tin soldier long enough." In the quiet surroundings of his home he expressed his purpose with some modification. According to his sister, Mrs. Charles Macoun, his decision to his family was expressed in the words: "My country calls me and I'd be a coward not to answer the call." The earnest pleadings of his friends must have been reinforced by the unseen but powerful forces that clutched at him in his home, in his business, in all the familiar circles in which he had been a dominant personality and a commanding figure.

True to His Blood.

The sacrifice William L. Doxsee made need not be labored now, and yet in these days of the anniversary of the second battle of Ypres, with the proud, poignant memories they call up again, it should be noted that his was a very real sacrifice. In spite of his military activities, he could have excused himself from enlisting on the grounds of his family and business responsibilities and none would have questioned him. But W. L. Doxsee, the first Mayor of Campbellford, when the municipality was raised to the status of a town, was made of sterner stuff. His father had been a U. E. Loyalist and his mother was of an old Scotch family. And in enlisting he was true to his blood. To the town that had so generously honored and trusted him he left a sacrifice that should be fittingly commemorated for all time.

Col. Ackerman's Tribute.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. H. Ackerman, who was also a lieutenant of the Original 2nd Canadians, said recently: "Doxsee was good stuff. He was a big chap, about six feet five inches tall, and anywhere from 38 to 40 years old. He was a fine officer. I remember when he was first wounded early in April. We were in the trenches at Bois Grenier. One night Doxsee was out on an inspection of the forward lines. Returning in the dark to the trench he jumped down, and was impaled on a bayonet. He was badly wounded, and for a time we thought he was done for. Two weeks later, however, he came back to the battalion. In fact he had just got back in time for the German push."

He Paid His Score.

Col. Ackerman was uncertain as to how Lieutenant Doxsee was killed. The Germans shortly afterward occupied the trenches the Canadians had held, and there was no trace of the men who had fallen. His family, too, were unable to obtain definite information of his death, but Councillor J. R. Wilkinson of Campbellford told the Examiner that he had learned from a private overseas that Lieutenant Doxsee was shot through the head by a sniper. According to this story he was himself sniping from an old shed and had accounted that day for eighteen of the enemy.

Two days later he was posthumously honored by promotion to the rank of Captain. Some there are who feel now that it was all a mad futility, but an inner consciousness that senses vaguely the enduring values and varieties finds an assurance that all these sacrifices were not in vain, that history will give them a just appraisal, proving the truth and the righteousness of the cause that was their inspiration.

Brother Killed Too.

Prior to going overseas Lieutenant Doxsee had handed his business over to his brother, G. Ernest Doxsee, but after that April 24th, 1915, the brother lived for only one desire. He enlisted as soon as he could make the arrangements necessary to ridding himself of the factory. He joined up with the 59th Battalion, was transferred to the 2nd, and near the town of Albert in France he was killed on November 8, 1916.

The war wiped out the Doxsee men of Campbellford. One brother in California survives, with four sisters: Mrs. Jack Russell, whose husband has been an engineer on the Hunter Street Bridge, Peterborough; Mrs. Chas. Macoun, who lives near Campbellford; Mrs. Jas. Jones, of Meyersburg, and Mrs. Albert Lacroix, Prince Albert, Sask.

People Have Not Forgotten.

The deaths of the Doxsee brothers was one of the countless tragedies that touched the cities and the little towns the world over. Campbellford has not forgotten its own and will not forget. With the heavy enlistment of more than 500 men from the town and Seymour Township, Campbellford is proud of the part it played in the war. And it is this spirit of pride and gratitude that animates the citizens in their planning for a war memorial that will perpetuate in stone the names of Captain W. L. Doxsee and all the did not return.

IMPORT DUTIES

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, April 22.—The representative of the Guaranty Trust Company in Bombay recently cabled that from April 1 it was proposed to increase the import duties in India from 7.5 per cent and valoreum to 11 per cent, except in the case of machinery, metals and railway plant, which remains at 2.5 per cent. On certain articles of luxury, including automobiles, cycles, tires, moving picture films, clocks, watches, and silk piece goods the rate of increase is from 7.5 per cent. to 20 per cent; on foreign sugar from 10 to 15 per cent and on manufactured tobacco from 50 to 75 per cent.

At the burial of an English judge recently a man whom he had sentenced to imprisonment placed a floral tribute on the grave.

WORK SOON TO COMMENCE ON POWER HOUSE

HASTINGS, April 22. — Work will be begun in a short time, probably next week, on the new power house in connection with the electrical development owned by Mr. C. R. Fowlds. The material has been assembled and is all ready for the masons. It will be a stone building, 35 by 40 feet, housing the machinery which is being overhauled, and also providing office accommodation. Mr. Fowlds has a contract with the town to supply power for municipal purposes for a period of ten years at $1,500 a year, and with a renewal option for five years This contract conveys for that period a franchise of the streets and is regarded by both parties as a satisfactory agreement.

With a head of nine feet the plant will generate 200 h.p., of which the town requires from 70 to 73 h.p., leaving an approximate surplus of 125 h.p., which is offered at the price of $20 a horse power.

The new building will be laid out for the generation of an additional 100 h.p. should the need arise, and Mr. Fowlds estimates that a maximum of 1,400 h.p. could be developed at the dam if that quantity of power were required in the town for industrial or other purposes. The domestic rate for lighting is 5 cents a k.w.h. or a flat rate of 25c. a lamp for a month.

Mr. Fowlds has dismantled the old saw mill, of which the power plant was a section, roofed the machinery last fall and will erect the new stone building over the temporary structure which will be torn down when the construction work is nearing completion. The generating units are two turbines manufactured by Charles Barber and Sons, of Meaford, each with a capacity of 100 h.p. They are equipped with a Lombard clutch connection, the two wheels giving a flexibility to the generating machinery that is highly desirable. Two concrete flumes have already been built and the entire plant will be completed early in the fall.

Hastings has a supply of cheap power that is regarded as attractive to manufacturers, and as has been pointed out, the resource available from the dam has been barely tapped. Mr. Fowlds has laid his plans according to the present and prospective consumption of power, and it is generaly regarded as deeply regrettable that full use is not made of the existing development and of the full supply of power that could be generated at the local dam. It is a community asset that is not at present realizing a fraction of its commercial value, but Hastings clings to the hope that some day, not too distant perhaps, none of this power will be wasted but that it will be entirely harnessed and put to use.

Mr. Fowds told the Examiner that he might build a new saw mill next year. He has no definite plans under consideration at present.

BAILIFF SEIZES HAMILTON PLANT

SITS AT DOOR OF GUERNEY SCALE COMPANY

HAMILTON, April 22.—In pursuance of Mayor Coppley's explicit instructions that all arrears in taxes were to be paid, Tax Collector William Kerr authorised a bailiff to take possession of the Guernsey Scale Company, as the company, it is said, has stolidly refused to pay $1,134 in taxes for what is specified as an encroachment on the city's property at James and Colborne Streets.

It Is Embarrassing.

J. P. Steedman, who is head of the company, is president of the Stanley Mills Co., and also a member of the Board of Directors of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd. He is also prominently identified with the Loew Theatre enterprises. Mr. Steedman was in New York to-day, but J. L. Counsell, who is acting for the company, stated that the presence of a bailiff—firmly and aggressively seated on a chair near the front door of the office—was not only embarrassing, but would necessitate the company closing its factory. Worse still, the bailiff can sell the roof over the company's head, if the claim is not paid within four days; and the bailiff, be it said, is a man with a very firm mouth and chin.

Mr. Counsel expressed indignation on behalf of his client, as he felt that the city had adopted very summary measures in an effort to collect a few hundred dollars, which the Guernsey Scale Company had declined to pay, because its honest conviction was that its property did not encroach on the street line, and that it did not honestly owe the city any such sum.

Tax Collector William Kerr said that by reason of the by-law that passed a few years ago, providing that taxes on encroachments shall be paid, he had no other course to pursue, but authorise a bailiff to seize the company's premises, since Mr. Steedman, in the face of repeated warnings, had refused to remit the amount said to be owing.

Mr. Kerr said he wrote a final letter of warning to Mr. Steedman only a few days ago, but this communication had brought no acknowledgment from the latter.

Up to the Bailiff.

would do if the claim was not paid Questioned as to what, the city within the next four days, Mr. Kerr said the mater now rested entirely with the bailiff.

"Every bailiff who knows his business knows that within four days, if the claim is not paid, the premises and their contents are to be sold. I take it that the bailiff we have engaged knows his business," Mr. Kerr said, adding that he saw no reason why the company should close its factory, as the bailiff was not likely to interfere with any outgoing shipments.

So far as is known this is the first instance where the city has authorised a bailiff to seize property with a value of the Guernsey Scale Co.

Success and Health in a box of Milburn's

"FAINT heart never won fair lady," an old proverb, but certainly a true one, and it is equally certain that faint hearts accomplish very little in any other path of life.

Business Controllers, Statesmen and Professional Leaders are men of stout hearts. They are careful to repair the waste caused by continual strain upon their mental and physical system.

There are still thousands among our own population who ignore the heart, the most important of all organs. All toilet tables find room for some restorative—many find room for a box or two of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills. Their users are the wise ones who know the necessity of keeping the heart young—with a well heart there are no nervous complaints or ailments of any kind.

Grateful people all over Canada convey the facts of regained health through the use of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills. Read this one, chosen at random from thousands:

MILBURN'S HEART & NERVE PILLS

Mr. H. Maxwell, Woodhouse Alta., writes: "I was in the army when I got heart trouble. The two doctors told me there was little hope for me to get better. I have doctored with other doctors, but with no relief. A year ago a friend told me to try Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills. I laughed at him at the time, and told him they were only a fake, but as I got worse I thought I would try a box. I have taken six boxes, and can say that they are the first thing that helped me, and I feel as if I were a new man. I sure can thank them, and feel that with a few more boxes I will be well."

To your nearest druggist is but a short distance. He will hand you the key to good health and happiness—a box of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills, or send 50c, and they will be mailed direct by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—It is a fine thing to have a member like Mr Gordon, M. P., who can bring things into the light where we can all see for ourselves how things are. What has cursed politics in the opinion of all right-thinking citizens has been the little cliques that without principle or brains try to run the public for their own benefit and often for mere spite. For jealousy is an awful thing.

E. WARD.

SELLING KING EDWARD PARK.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Noticing an item in the Examiner of April 19th, stating that "many favor selling King Edward Park," I would venture to say that very few people in the south end of the city would favor this proposition. There are many arguments that could be adduced against doing away with the one and only park in the south end.

The Exhibition grounds are not in the city limits and are privately owned and leased to the Exhibition Board which, if the growth of the said Exhibition keeps up, will be compelled to seek larger grounds and in that case the owners, no doubt, would dispose of their property in building lots. These grounds with their high board fences and numerous sheds are not suitable for park purposes and we parents prefer that our children play in the open.

The grounds of King Edward school, which has the largest enrolment of any school in the city, are fenced in with wire fence and used by the pupils as playgrounds and are totally unfit for park purposes such as Central or Victoria Parks.

King Edward Park is used by a large number of young people of all ages every evening, weather permitting, for games, has a band stand and some of the finest elm trees in the county, besides numerous young trees planted some years ago.

The people of the south end have as much right to, and interest in, their one park as the people who live in proximity to the other parks in the centre or north end.

If King Edward park were sold for building lots it would be necessary to open up a street right through it and construct sewers and sidewalks and pavements, which undertaking would, owing to the nature of the under soil, take the largest part of the money received from its sale.

In closing I would like to offer a suggestion to our City Fathers that they arrange for the appointment of a Parks Commissioner with staff sufficient to properly look after all the parks.

Thanking you for your space, I am, etc.,

Yours truly,
W. W. YALE.

RIORDONS HOPEFUL AS TO THE FUTURE

SAY FINANCIAL PLANS TAKING SATISFACTORY SHAPE

MONTREAL, April 22.— After the annual meeting of the Riordan Pulp & Paper Company yesterday afternoon, the directors of the Riordan Company, including the new members of the board, met to discuss some new financing which the big enterprise deems it necessary to make at the present time.

New financing has been under discussion during the past week, and to-day's regularly quarterly board meeting was also for the purpose of reporting on the progress of the negotiations under way, after which the meeting was adjourned until the week-end. The management announced that the session was devoted altogether to the discussion of the new financial arrangements, and that these arrangements were getting into such satisfactory shape that it was hopeful of making a definite announcement next week.

Until final details were arranged it was impossible for the board to state in what form or when the financing would take place.

Carl Riordan, President of the company, stated at the close of the meeting that although business was still dull, since the beginning of the year it had shown marked improvement. Frank P. Jones, Vice-President, stated that in order to make the best use of the tremendous assets behind the company it was necessary to have a larger working capital, hence the reason for the financing under discussion.

RICHEST SUPPLY PHOSPHATES IN WHOLE WORLD.

Acquired By Britain As One Result of the Great War.

LONDON, April 22.—(By Canadian Press).—As one of the incidentals of war and the dividing up of the former German possessions in the Pacific, the British Empire has acquired what is perhaps the richest supply of phosphates in the world. Two tiny points in the South Pacific, the island of Nairu and the Ocean island taken over by Great Britain under mandate after the war have been found to be treasurers out of all proportion their size.

Up to ten years ago the names of these islands were unknown to any but the geographer and the specialist. They lie out in the lonely Pacific about 50 miles south of the Equator and some 3,000 miles west of the coast of South America. In 18851885 the two islands, then considered of no commercial value, were formally annexed by Germany. Some time afterward deposits of phosphate were discovered on Ocean island and latter still Nauru was found to have phosphate deposits.

When the two islands, with the remainder of the old German possessions in the South Pacific, were transferred to Great Britain under mandate an agreement was made on July 2, 1919, between the governments of the United Kingdom and Commonwealth of Australia and the Dominion of New Zealand for the allotment of British-controlled phosphates in the Pacific Ocean on a basis of 42 per cent to the United Kingdom, 42 per cent to Australia and 16 per cent to New Zealand.

It is stated that the formation of these phosphate beds has been accomplished largely through the agency of fish-fed sea birds which have left vast deposits of guano on the islands. The guano, mingling with the lime of the coral rock has practically converted the whole of the islands into great repositories of phosphate of lime. On Nauro these phosphate deposits run to a depth of 40 feet, and on Ocean island they are 57 feet deep.

Neither island has any harbor facilities and in order to load the phosphate it has been necessary to construct jetties of the cantilever type, running far out over the reefs. The material is taken out on cars to the jetty heads and thence lightseed to steamers, moored far out in deep water. Under good weather conditions, from 1,000 to 1,200 tons of phosphates can be loaded daily from the two islands. The present annual output is in the neighborhood of 350,000 tons.

So far the bulk of the phosphates has gone to Australia but it is understood that arrangements have now been effected by Great Britain for taking up her entire quota for home production. It is expected that some 180,000 tons of high grade island phosphate will be delivered to the United Kingdom each year and after mixture with basic slag will be distributed at farmers stations at something under 3 shillings per unit of phosphate of lime.

WOMEN FOOLISH AT 60, LORD HELP THE WHOLE RACE.

Frivolous and Flippant, They Are Flayed by Whiting.

WINNIPEG, April 22. — "The Song of Honor" was the subject of an address by Rev. Richard Whiting at Young Methodist Church here, following the anniversary supper. He denounced the modern grandmothers' tendency to transform themselves into children. "When women are so foolish at 60 years of age," he said, "as to act like flippant young girls of 16, the Lord help the whole race."

WESTERN RAILWAY ASKS EXTENSION.

WINNIPEG, April 23. — Asking for an extension of three years in which to carry on construction, an application is being made to the Dominion Government by Hough, Campbell and Ferguson, Winnipeg, solicitors for the Canadian Western Railway. This railway, which was authorized by an Act of Parliament in 1919, is planned to operate from or near Coutts, Alta., to Cardston, Pincher Creek, Crow's Nest Pass, and eventually to Calgary. There is also a line from the Livingstone range of mountains through the Rockies to Elk River Valley and to a junction with the C. P. R. and G. N. R. at Michel. Part of the railway is already constructed between Fernie and Calgary and the balance will be carried on during the year.

DANGEROUS CRIMINAL FOR TRIAL NEXT WEEK.

KINGSTON, April 24. — John Washkalis, the notorious convict of the Portsmouth Penitentiary, who attempted to escape last October by sawing the bars of his cell door, will come before Judge Lavell for trial, probably on Monday, and it is understood that he will plead guilty.

Washkalis was alleged to have been the leader of the gang at the Penitentiary who attempted to engineer the general jail delivery. It was discovered later that he had sawn the bars of his cell door, and he, together with other leaders of the gang, was put into solitary confinement. He is looked upon as a dangerous criminal, and is always closely watched.

Constipation
It is a disease-producing malady, and if not corrected may result in serious complications. In good health the bowels should move freely at least once every day, carrying away the waste products from the Blood and Liver. If this function fails or is irregular, the work of removing the poisons falls on the Skin and Kidneys, with the result of the latter organs becoming congested and clogged. The Blood becomes poisoned, indigestion sets in, the Kidneys become deranged, and a severe if not fatal illness is brought on. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS correct this trouble by its action on the Liver, causing a healthy flow of Bile, and exerting a soothing and toning influence on the whole Intestinal Track.
Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up in three sizes—25c, 50c, $1.00 per Box. For sale at Warne's Drug Store, Peterborough.

RESTORING BAGS.

To restore feather hand-bags or purses, buy a tube of ivory black oil paint and apply it to the feather by rubbing it in with a piece of old stocking. It should be used generously and rubbed in vigorously, so as to leave no noticeable residue. Let stand 24 hours, and if the surface of the leather is rough, polish with a piece of old Turkish towelling. Let stand another 24 hours, and the dye will be permanently set and none will rub off even on white gloves. This is to restore old bags or purses to their original beauty.

Nearly Insane From Leg Ulcers

Read these two letters from Sarah D. Lawrence of Roebuck, Ontario. "I can't sleep a night from leg ulcers. I am in pain most of the time. I have doctored but no use. A lady from Winnipeg says that D. D. D. cured her of a bad case of eczema. That her sores are all healed. Can you help me?"

Now a few words from a later letter. "I have used D. D. D. as directed, and my leg is completely well."

Why not be convinced and try this remedy today for any form of skin disease? One application and the itch is gone. Your money back if relief doesn't come from the first bottle. $1.00 a bottle. Try D. D. D. Soap, too.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

SAVE US FROM THE DEVIL, THE TURK AND THE COMET.

And now, having nicely recovered from the referendum campaign and prepared to settle down to make the best of conditions which a majority of some 140,000 Ontario citizens say shall be dry, very dry—decidedly so—along comes that stupid old comet of Winnecke's to disturb the peace of mind of this world's peoples. Then there seems to be another long-tailed celestial body heading for this earth, for press despatches say Reid's comet was discovered "at" Cape Town, South Africa, on March 13. My goodness! I never knew it was as close as that; the nearest it has ever been before was several million miles distant, and let us hope the unwelcome visitor will soon clear out of Cape Town.

It seems that Winnecke's comet comes along regularly every five years and eight months; quite regularly the query is, 'Will it strike the earth?" and equally as per schedule it never does. And why should such a bugbear be raised in some quarters to score gullable people, when our friend the comet has an orbit of its own to circle in, with a marginal allowance of millions of miles from earth, minimizing the danger of contact between that celestial body and our own planet away down to zero.

There are, according to astronomers, some 200 comets extraneous to our atmosphere, and Newton demonstrated that they are governed in movement by the same principle which controls the planets in their orbits, but the latter move from west to east, while the former travel quite often from east to west. The orbits of all planets are nearly circular; those of comets, however, are eccentric, some of them being ellipses or elongated closed orbits of various degrees of elongation, others by perbolas; while the majority have a form of orbit not differing sensibly from the parabola—the limiting form of curve to which both the ellipse and hyperbola approximate under given conditions.

One would judge that in the general scheme of creation there have always been comets from the inception of the universe, but the discovery that they are celestial bodies extraneous to our atmosphere was made by Tycho Brahe in 1557, and Haley was first to identify the comet of 1682 with one which had been observed in 1607, thus leading to the certain prediction of specific comets' return in a given year.

The celebrated comet of 1680, which furnished Newton with opportunity for proving that comets revolve around the sun and are retained in their orbits by the same force which regulates the movements of all planets, was the most brilliant of any of which authentic accounts are recorded. This comet is said to be the one which appeared about the time of Caesar's death in 44 B.C., also in the reign of Justianian, 531, and again in the year 1106 during the reign of Henry II., the period of revolution being about 575 years. This comet also approached nearer the sun than, perhaps, any other known in astronomical history.

Comets have been regarded with both "terror" and "welcome" in some minds. The appearance of Haley's comet in 1456, just when the Turks secured the mastery of Constantinople and threatened an advance into Europe, was received by Christendom with superstitious dread; and to the Ave Maria was then annexed the prayer, "Lord, save us from the devil, the Turk and the comet." Then their approach have fostered years of many kinds of disaster, sometimes (in France especially) extravagantly exaggerated in the public mind. But the utter groundlessness of such alarms, from the almost certain improbability of collision with the earth, has been made clear by the researches of astronomists. Still, it is quite likely that at times some of the vapor from a comet's tail has come within Mother Earth's attraction, and been absorbed by the atmosphere. This may have had some deleterious or salubrious influence on conditions here below, and then it may not. However, the salubrity of a comet's influence has been a popular idea; and the vintages of 1811 and 1858—years when comets might have been mentioned in the personal columns as "planets we have with us"—those vintages were such prolific seasons, and their beverages of so unusually high a quality as to be designated the "comet's wines." Should this comet of Winecke's be coming on a similar errand (to give an improved quality and increased produce of wines this year), there's going to be a hitch in its calculations, so far as "dry" Ontario is concerned.

Years ago superstitious peoples were wont to accept the advent of a comet as presaying trouble for this old world: and a good deal of turmoil followed in the trail of the comet of 1858. For blood ran thicker than water that year in the European Allies-Chinese war; there came an upheaval in Japan over succession to its throne; there sprung up a rebel rising in India; a reaction against Mexico's Government in which international complications arose; Abraham Lincoln, in his canvass for Presidency of the United States, issued his famous declaration that "the Union cannot endure half slave and half free," a policy which is declared to have resulted in the great American Civil War.

But in reference to world or national disaster, the year 1868—when no comet appeared, to be suspected of exercising a sinister influence—was a remarkable one for atmospheric phenomena, volcanic convulsions and disaster. Early in January Mount Vesuvius, Italy, sent forth an immense quantity of lava, and with some intermissions, continued to vomit a fiery stream for several months. Then Mount Etna broke out in volcanic display, and earthquake shocks were felt in Britain and elsewhere. Earlier in the year a terrific cyclone swept over the island of Mauritius, rendering 50,000 persons homeless; on March 27 the Hawaiian Islands were violently convulsed, and a tidal wave sixty feet high swept in from the sea, destroying villages and drowning the inhabitants and cattle. Then the great volcano Mauna Loa broke out in appalling eruption, ejecting fire, rocks, ashes and malten lava. In August a shock of earthquake startled Gibraltar, but the most fearful quakes were in Peru and Equador. On August 13 a disastrous earthquake occurred in those places, overthrowing numerous structures and taking a toll of thousands of lives. The earth rocked frightfully; crags fells from the summits of the Andes; immense tidal waves inimdated the land, sweeping whole towns from their foundations and stranding ships of war and merchant boats far above high-water mark. The undulations extended over the whole Pacific, breaking in huge rollers on the shores of California, the Sandwich Islands, Japan and New Zealand. On October 21 an earthquake damaged the city of San Francisco, causing considerable loss of life. On the night of November 14 a shower of meteors, which had been foretold, was seen at many points, and were said by astronomers to emanate from the castellation of Leo. Fully 5,000 meteors were observed from various astronomical stations.

THE NAUGHTY EGYPTIANS.

It is 231 years ago since the first bill was passed in the British Parliament—November, 1690, to be correct—imposing a duty on malt liquors. And this leads to the thought that, although a great many people attribute the origin of this to-be-criminal drink to the English and Germans, one finds that even the naughty Egyptians used to brew beer, according to the authority of Herodotus. Then Tacitus, speaking of the customs of the ancient Germanic tribes, refers to their great love of beer, a disposition not found wanting in their modern descendants. But did you ever hear of beer being sold by weight? Well, it was at one time, for at Kempsey, near Worcester, England, some years since there might be seen the following sign over the doorway of a very old inn: "The Severn Trow: Good Ale Sold by the Pound." This reads like an old joke with very little in it. But not so much of a joke, however, as the Scott Act and Local Option were in Canada, and it remains to be seen just how much less of a joke the enforcement of a "bone-dry" Ontario will prove. If we Canadians cannot make a better fist of the job than our American cousins are making, the boasted obsequies of John Barleycorn will be very much of a myth indeed, here as over there.

A MADDENING VISION.

Poor old man! 'Tis said, that having deprived him of all beverages which spell alcohol and unduly exhilirate, woman—lovely woman!—is now dead set on depriving him of his last hope—"Tobacco." Should they succeed in pulling off this last stunt, man will oft-times find himself troubled with such maddening visions as told in the following pathetic little poem, found in my scrap book, and amended in the last verse to suit the case:

What maddening ecstacy comes wildly o'er me?
I feel delirious and for mischief ripe;
Is this a briar that I see before me?
Enchanting phantom, canst thou be a pipe?

Oh! if thou art, I will not talk soft sawder.
Such twaddle 'mongst true smoker's not allowed—
I'll use the language of Thane and Cawdor;
"Come, let me clutch thee," let me puff a cloud.

It may not be! Ah me! I swoon, I stagger,
I wish I was a lady, and might weep.
Thou art unreal as the air-drawn dagger
Of him who murdered Duncan in his sleep.

Thou art no briar. Thou art but a vision,
A heartless mockery of true delight.
Sent by some demon in profane derision,
To tantalize me with a blissful sight.

Alas! from this reveament I discover,
That by woman I'm forbidden the weed—
By the Lord Harry, when this "craze" is over,
I'll smoke—yes, smoke! I will, indeed.

LEADER WILL SPEAK.

YARMOUTH, N.S., April 23. — (Canadian Press.) — Hon. Crerar, leader of the Farmers' Party, is to speak here April 29th and 30th in connection with York Sundry by-election.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

JAPANESE WOMEN AN DEDUCATION

There are six union institutions for the higher education of women in the East under the car of the "Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions f North America." Denminat onal representatives have visited their own fields, but in 1919 the Federation sent out a deputation representing the Boards to study the types and developments of the work, and to bring home recommendations for future use. The deputation was composed of experts, the chairman of the educational section being President Pendleton of Wellesley College. The reports of this visitation have been published, and will be of great value to missionaries and Mission Boards.

The Federation of Womans' Boards which a year ago set out to raise $2,840,000 for the adequate equipment of the six union colleges for women in the Orient, has been promised one-third of this amount from the "Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial". The separate needs are The Woman's Christian College of Japan, in Tokio; $610,000, Ginling College, in Nanking, China, $700,000; Yenching College in Peking, China, $830,000; The Woman's Christian College, in Madras, India, $200,000; Isabella Theburn College, Lucknow India; $200,000; The Vellors (India) Woman's College, $200,000.

A prominent official of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, returning from a commercial commission to the east, says: "Japan cannot enter the family of nations on an equality until she revises her ideal of womanhood This Woman's Christian College at Tokio is accomplishing just this. You might well put in millions of dollars to secure better international relations."

LEAVE THEM WHERE THEY LIE IN GLORY.

Leave them where they lie in glory,
with their buddies where they fell!
Mourning France to guard and tend them—she will keep her vigil well!
Crosses white stand at attention, silent sentries, row on row;
And in their returning seasons
France's fairest flowers blow;
Planted there to do them honour in the land for which they bled—
For their pain, the purple lilies; for their glory, poppies red!
There above them float the colours of the flag for which they died,
Emblem of their country's honour, symbol of their country's pride.
In their valour! Leave them sleeping, there on France's mourning breast, Heroes with a hero's honours—where they fell, ah, let them rest!

—Roselle Mercier Montgomery.

SEASHORE AND MOUNTAINS.

Portland is the gateway to all the favored points in the State of Maine. The attractions of this wonderful territory are manifold, there being innumerable natural beauties and cool retreats. Among these the seashore takes pride of the place. Casco Bay and its many islands washed by the restless ocean offers unlimited choice for a summer home. Scarboro Beach, Prout's Neck, Ocean Park, Old Orchard Beach, Bayview, Kennebunk Beach, Kennebunk Port and York Beach are among the most attractive of the Atlantic Ocean resorts. Back from the coast are mountains and forests, beautiful valleys and shimmering lakes. The Grand Trunk have just issued a handsomely illustrated booklet, telling you all about it, and giving list of hotels, boarding houses, etc. Copy sent free on application to Grand Trunk Agents, or C. SASKATCHEWAN VETS SAY UNEMPLOYED ARE SENT INTO PROVINCE

COMPLAIN TO DOMINION COMMAND, G.W.V.A.

OTTAWA, April 23.— (Canadian Press).—A complaint has been received from the Saskatchewan Veterans by the Dominion Command, G.W.V.A., that a large number of unemployed men from British Columbia were being shipped into the Province. These had been given $2 a day for mess allowance and a Rail way ticket to either Moose Jaw, Regina or Saskatoon. They were without money.

A LEGEND OF YPRES

(By Elinor Jenkins.)

Before the throne the spirits of the slain
With a loud voice importunately cried,
"O Lord of Hosts, Whose name be glorified,
Scarce may the line one onslaught more sustain
Wanting our help. Let it not be in vain,
Not all in vain, O God, that we have died."
And smiling on them our good Lord replied,
"Begone then, foolish ones, and fight again."

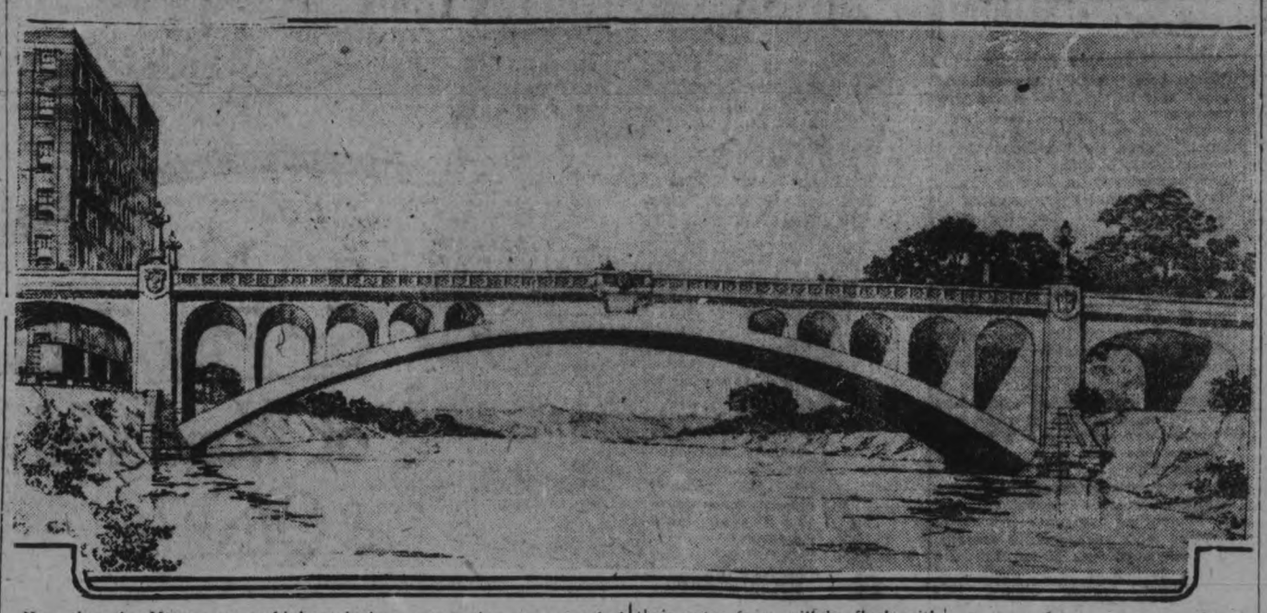
Our eyes were holden, that we saw them not;
Disheartened foes beheld—our prisoners said—
Behind us massed, a mighty host indeed,
Where no host was. On comrades unforgot
We thought, and knew that all those valiant dead
Forewent their rest to save us at our need.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost: Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh, and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

DESCRIPTION IN DETAIL OF PETERBOROUGH'S NEW BRIDGE



Now that the Hunter street high level bridge is nearing completion, the following concise and detailed story of its construction, published in The Canadian Engineer, will no doubt find interest for most of Peterborough's residents:

For the past nineteen months a new reinforced concrete bridge over the Otonabee River at Hunter street, Peterborough, Ont., has been under construction, and is now practically complete with the exception of the hand-rails, sidewalks and pavement. It is confidently expected that within two months the finishing portions of the work will be concluded.

The bridge connects the district on the east bank of the river that, up to the time of its incorporation with the city of Peterborough, was the village of Ashburnham, with the other section of Peterborough. In order to perpetuate the name of the village, it was decided that the new structure should be called the Ashburnham Bridge.

Prior to the latter part of 1919, traffic passing between Ashburnham and Peterborough was served by a double-span steel bridge of the through Pratt-truss type. The old bridge necessitated a level crossing over five railway tracks, and made no provision for street car service between Peterborough and the Ashburnham district. The present structure eliminates the level crossing, and in the design provision has been made for the construction of a street railway.

The original design was carried out with but few changes. It was at first intended that there should be seven arches on each side of the river, with a central arch-ring spanning the river and supporting fourteen spandrel arches. The bridge as built consists of five arches on each side of the river, with a central arch-ring supporting ten spandrel arches.

The original plan of the pivot joints at the crown and skewbacks showed wedge-shaped sections of concrete to be placed on the upper and lower side of the joints. It was decided, however, that it would be advisable to make these sections oval shape, so that there would not be any chance of these wedges falling out in the case of a faulty bond between the layers of concrete.

The width of the roadway was reduced from 42 to 33 ft., and the over-all width of the bridge was reduced from 58 to 47 ft.

The construction throughout, with the exception of the central or river arch, is of reinforced concrete; with the exception of the joints at the skewbacks and crown, there is no steel in the river arch. This arch is so designed that no possible loading can cause any part of the masonry to be in tension at any point.

The dead load line of resultant pressure (or more accurately the dead load plus part of the distributed live load), was designed so as to coincide with the neutral axis, which under these conditions is a transformed catenary. However, the neutral axis is only an imaginary line, and the approach arches as they appear to the eye (the soffits being the only part seen) are true semi-ellipses.

On the west side of the river there are five railway sidings leading into the plant of the Quaker Oats Co. The trackage could be changed only to a limited extent, so the design of the arches was governed accordingly. The spacing of the railway tracks permitted a rather symmetrical arrangement to be adopted. Starting from the extreme west, the first and third arches are 64-ft. span, the fifth is 60-ft.; and the second and fourth are approximately 25-ft. The east side presented no obstructions, but no account o the alternate spans on the west sides being so different, a somewhat similar arrangement had to be adopted for the east side in order that the symmetry of the structure might be maintained. The plan finally adopted was three 60-ft. and two 30-ft. spans.

The river arch has a clear span of 234 ft. This is the longest concrete arch in Canada, and the fourteenth longest in the world. As previously stated, the arch ring supports ten spandrel arches, five on each side of the crown. The span of all the spandrel arches is not the same; it is greatest for the end arches and decreases with the height. The central arch has a height of 37 ft. from the spring-line to the bottom of the arch ring at the crown.

On each side of the bridge there is a slab 8 in. wide and 2 ft. deep, running the whole length of the bridge, and supported by 12 by 12-in. concrete posts spaced at 10-ft. centres and resting on the concrete arches. These slabs will support the sidewalks when constructed, and their outer faces will be flush with the curbs.

At each pier, underneath the roadbed, are laid 3-in. weeping tile. These are drained by 5-in. pipes, which have their outlets about 6 in. above ground. Good drainage is thus provided for any pavement that may be constructed.

The railway facilities of the Quaker Oats Co. were used for receiving supplies. An old 2-story factory was rented and equipped as a woodworking plant to be used in the construction of the form-work.

The municipality purchased a gravel pit on the east bank of the river, immediately south of the bridge. A steam shovel was installed and sufficient gravel was obtained to supply all aggregate used on the job, and gravel for the roadway. The pit cost the city $13,000, and the only additional expense incurred in placing the gravel on the work was for teams, labor and steam-shovel operation.

A dumping platform was erected at the bridge site, and gravel was teamed onto it. A motor-driven conveyor belt supplied the gravel to a motor-driven rotary screen. All stone over 3-in. was rejected and the remainder separated into fine aggregate (up to ¼-in.) and coarse aggregate (¼-in. to 3-in.). From the screen the aggregates dropped into separate bins, which were provided with bottom doors for dumping into the measuring box of the mixer. The mixer was situated immediately beneath the bins, and was fed from the measuring box, which had partitions adjustable for any desired mix. The operator had merely to fill one side of this box from the fine aggregate bin, the other side from the coarse-aggregate bin, add a bag of cement and dump into the mixer.

Pit-run gravel was used on all mass work below ground level, but gravel was screened as outlined above for all concrete work above ground. The large stone was used as a base for the roadbed.

For all concrete work up to the spring line fo the arches, a 1:3:5 mix was used; above the spring line, a 1:2:4 mix.

Every effort was made to have the arches approximate their theoretical form as closely as possible. The engineers state that the contractors carried out their plans with admirable accuracy in this respect. Points on the arches were checked up after completion by means of a level, and in no case were the ordinates as measured by this means in disagreement with the theoretical ordinates by more than a ¼ in.

In one of the rooms of the woodworking plant there was a floor suitable for use as a ship loft; that is, for laying out templets for ship plates. By means of ordinates an aliquot section of the ellipses, depending on their size, was laid out to full dimensions. A templet of this curve was made, and wooden blocks, or outposts, were nailed to the floor at convenient intervals around the curve, located at a convenient distance from the curve. Wooden blocks were made so that when placed against these outposts the end of each would just touch the curve. Two planks, 2 in. wide, were nailed together and on them the ellipse was described by means of these blocks placed against the outposts. These planks were then cut to the proper shape and assembled in the yard. The templet was used to check the accuracy of these ribs. This assured a double check on the accuracy of the curve. It was necessary to cut nicks in these ribs in several places so that they would fit the posts of the centering.

The Ontario Municipal and Railway Board, whose approval of all designs in connection with the bridge had to be secured on account of the intention to construct street car tracks across the bridge in the future, permitted a stress of 4 tons per sq. ft. on the foundations.

Mud-sills were used to support the centering of the five arches on each side of the river. For the river arch it was necessary to drive piles. The material forming the bed of the river is very hard, but by the use of a 3-ton steam hammer little trouble was experienced in this respect.

Less trouble was experienced in securing satisfactory foundations than is usual in a bridge of this size. No obstacles were encountered that could not be overcome by the use of sheet piling and pumps, and the foundations secured are said to be satisfactory in every respect. The structure rests on very dense hardpan, with the exception of the foundation on the west bank, where rock was encountered at convenient depth. The elevation of the footings of the piers, from west to east, is as follows, No. 6 pier being the west abutment of the central arch, and No. 7 the east abutment:

Pier No.	Elevation	Pier No.	Elevation
1	635.0	7	598.0
2	625.0	8	617.0
3	622.0	9	617.1
4	623.4	10	620.8
5	620.3	11	621.3
6	591.5	12	624.6

In the case of the west abutment the foundations were carried 5 ft. into rock in order to secure a heel to take up horizontal thrust.

At first it was intended to place the concrete by means of a spout fed from a concrete tower. To this end a distributing system was installed, but this had to be abandoned after a few days' trial, because the coarse aggregate showed a marked tendency to separate out of the mix. A runway was then constructed over the form-work, and the concrete conveyed by means of buggies having a capacity of about 3 cu. ft.

All falsework for arches was allowed to remain in position for at least 30 days after the placing of the concrete. The wedges were then knocked out and no trouble was experienced in the removal of the centering and falsework.

With the exception of the river span the fill is mostly ordinary surface loam. Contractors working in various sections of the city were permitted to dispose of their surplus excavation by filling the arches. In order to decrease weight on the arch ring, cinders were largely used for fill on the centre arch, a layer of gravel 1 ft. thick being placed over all. It is not intended to construct a permanent pavement until sufficient time has elapsed to permit the fill to consolidate.

Ground was first broken about the beginning of August, 1919, and considerable concrete was laid that year. Toward the end of November, work was started on a temporary trestle bridge. This bridge was in use by the middle of December, and served all traffic passing between Peterborough and Ashburnham from that time until the new bridge was opened for traffic early in the present year. No work of any importance was inaugurated on the east side of the river until the end of January, 1920, when excavation was started on the east abutment. The greater part of the concrete was laid during 1920, and in that year practically all of the arches were completed.

Approximately 9,120 cu. yd. of hardpan were excavated, and 70 cu. yd. of rock. The fill amounted to 16,000 cu. yd., including 610 cu. yd. of cinders placed in the centre span. For falsework 800,000 ft. of lumber was used. Concreting required 20,000 bbl. of cement, 170 tons of steel, and 130 cu. yd. of granite for surfacing, not including the granite that will be required for the hand-rails. The completed bridge will include about 14,000 cu. yd. of concrete.

The design and construction of the bridge was under the personal supervision of Frank Barber, senior member of the firm of Barber, Wynne-Roberts & Seymour, consulting engineers, Toronto. The field engineer and chief of the staff of inspectors was Fred Christie. Claude Bragdon, architect, of Rochester, N. Y., was associated with Mr. Barber in the design. The contractors were the Russell-Townsend Co., Ltd., of Toronto. The contract, which was on a cost-plus basis, was carried out under the management of F. C. Townsend. The total cost of the bridge, including land damages, engineering, etc., will probably be approximately $550,000.

PETERBORO

$340,000 WILL BE THE TOTAL COST OF PETERBOROUGH'S FILTRATION PLANT

THIS FIGURE IS BASED ON CONTRACTS LET, AND LEAVES COMMISSION WITH $10,000 FOR UNFORSEEN EXIGENCIES,

Figures totalled by the Utilities Commission show that the whole cost of the water filtration plant to be constructed on the former Carnegie property north of the pumping station, will be about $340,000 allowing the commission $10,000 to draw on if exigencies arise. The exact cost as estimated by the commission is $338,763, and debentures will only be issued for that amount.

The three contracts for the filter beds, the 2,000,000 gal. clear water reservoir and the pumps have been let as follows:

For the construction of the filter beds and equipment, W. H. Yates Construction Company, of Hamilton, $198,387; the 2,000,000 gal. filtered water reservoir, Ramsey and Wilde, of Saulte Ste. Marie, $65,800; the pumps, Eschier-Wyss Company of Montreal, 88,950 plus sales tax. Each of these tenders were the lowest received. The waterworks department of the Commission submitted their own tender for the laying of pipes, and this tender of $31,126 was $2,000 lower than any of the others. The tenders received for the pipe-laying were:

Waterworks Department, $31,126.

Russell Construction Company, providing they built the plant, $33,433.

McCausland and Anderson, providing they built the reservoir, $33,433.

McCausland and Anderson, providing they built the reservoir, $33,995.

J. A. Grant and Company, if given contract for plant and reservoir, $39,250.

Archambault-Leclair Ltd., $42,000.

Atlas Construction Company, $48,900.

Yates Construction Company, $80,617.

The Utilities Commission will do their own pipe-laying at the figure submitted.

How Estimate Reached.

W. H. Yates, for filter beds and equipment, $198,387.

Ramsay and Wilde, clear water reservoir, $65,800.

Escher-Wyss and Company, pumps, $8,950.

Utilities Commission, pipes, $31,126.

Total, $304,263.

Incidental Expenses.

Property, $7,754.10. Engineering and inspectors' fees and general expenses, $15,245.90. Foreman's residence, $4,500. Fencing and improving grounds, $7,000. Total cost $338,763.

Guaranty Bonds.

Ample allowance has been made for all exigencies and binding contracts have been entered into with the several companies, who are advancing in each case guaranty bonds for half the amount of the contract that the work will be satisfactorily completed.

The Yates Construction Company have already shipped five cars of machinery to the city, and expect to start work next week. The filter is manufactured by the Permitit Filter Company of New York from the Jewel patents and is of the mechanical gravity type used in many large plants in the United States and Canada. The Ramsay and Wilde Company, of Saulte Ste. Marie, who will construct the large filtered water reservoir are expected to break ground next week.

Completed by December.

The contracts call for completion by Dec. 1. William Kennedy, Jr., of Montreal, has been and will continue to be consulting engineers of the Commission; Ross Dobbin will re resident engineer, with Angus C. Richardson as assistant.

The annual upkeep of the plant is expected to be about $33,000, which includes the interest on the debentures and the increase in the water rates, probably in July of this year.

The Commission desire that the ratepayers understand fully that the filtration plant will not be paid for in the way of taxes, but by the increase in the water rates, which are at present lower probably than in any city in the province. When completed Peterborough will have a valuable asset in this filtration pant, and a ultility which places this city on a parity with other modern American and Canadian cities who have seen fit to protect the citizens from contamination in drinking impure water.

Practically three times as much money was spent on cigarettes, cigars and tobacco in this country last year as there was on education, the latter amount totalling $763,000,000.

The Park-Tattersall Recital

The joint recital by Dorothy Allan Park and Frank Tattersall, given in the G.W.V.A. Hall last evening, was a veritable triumph for these splendid artists. The hall was filled, and every number received bursts of enthusiastic applause, both performers being recalled after their final solos with repeated, insistent encores.

Mr. Tattersall, who has been christened the English Paderewski, gave a marvellous exhibition of musicianship last evening. Flawless technique, interpretative power to the highest degree, memorization of difficult passages of the most difficult composer of all, Chopin, a clear, bell-like tone, fingers that seemed to be of steel in the heavy movements and yet caressed the keys with a velvet soft touch in the softer melodic intervals, all these belong in Mr. Tattersall's repertoire of musicianship. Chopin, whom Rubenstein called the "soul of the pianoforte," is evidently a favorite here. His Polonaise in C sharp minor, with its boldly-marked themes, a Berceuse, delicate and exquisite, and the Ballade in A flat were the first group offered, followed later by an Etude in E major, a composition regarded by Chopin himself as his masterpiece of beautiful melody, a Nocturne, dreamy and sweet, and the Scherzo in B flat minor, an impressive and enthralling creation of the master's genius.

"On Wings of Song," one of Mendelssohn's most beautiful songs, transcribed for the pinaoforte by Liszt, was a fine example of arpeggio work, with Saint Saens' Waltz Etude, a dashing, fantastic example of French music at its best. Two numbers by Liszt, an Etude in F minor, rippling and melodic, and the Rhapsody, Carnival de Pesth, a striking rendition of the grave and gay elements in Hungarian music, were followed by an encore of wonderful staccato brilliance which enchanted the player's audience.

Mrs. Maurice Park's beautiful voice was encored again and again. With its rare purity, sweetness and power, its resonnant timbre, its command of different registers, its high, bird-like tremolos and deep, vibrant undertones, it has a wide and varied range which is at once surprising and delightful. Two short numbers in Italian, with the soft, golden syllables rolling out in vibrant, sustained melody, and the last final note more like a violin harmonic than anything else one could imagine, and a flowery little French love song were the first offerings, followed by three songs of Old London, a dainty little roundelay: "Down Vauxhall Way," "The Nightingales of Lincoln's Inn," a difficult number with sustained high, bird-like measures, and the jolly, ringing "May-Day at Islington." Repeated applause brought "Comin' Thro' the Rye," sung with the dramatic rendition which forms part of this singer's attraction. A wealth of feeling was portrayed in the deep, sonorous wail of the stricken mother in "The Cry of Rachael," and the final group of songs was composed of melodies in the old English, Irish and Scotch styles. "The Toby Jug," a jaunty little ballad, and "The Last Rose of Summer," were beautifully rendered, and "The March of the Cameron Men" had the skirl of the pines and the sound of marching feet in its ringing delivery. A loudly-reiterated encore was answered by a dainty little verse which revealed yet another element in Mrs. Park's wide range of song.

Much credit should be accorded to the playing of Miss Ida Sanderson, who fills the requirements of an expert accompanist so well that one is conscious only of the perfectly-flowing music under the vocal melody.

HIS BACK HAS NOT BOTHERED HIM SINCE

WHY M. WASSIN KNOWS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS ARE GOOD.

New Brunswick Man Is Enthusiastic Over the Remedy That Brought Him Relief—Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sisson Ridge, Victoria Co., N. B., April 22. — (Special). — "I know Dodd's Kidney Pills are good."

These emphatic words come from Mr. Manzer Wassin, a well-known and highly respected resident here. "I had an awful lame back," Mr. Wassin continued. "I tried two good doctors and they could do nothing for me. So I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and before I had taken three boxes I was as well as ever. My back has not bothered me since. I cannot say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys and put them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities, the seeds of disease, out of the blood.

If you have any of the symptoms of kidney disease ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy you are looking for.

FOUR MEMORIALS TO WASHINGTON IN GREAT BRITAIN

Will Be Dedicated During Next Three Months.

NEW YORK, April 22.— (Canadian Press.) — Four memorials to George Washington will be dedicated in Great Britain during the next three months according to an announcement made by the Sulgrave Institution, an organization composed of prominent citizens of Britain and the United States. Three of the memorials are busts, presented by the institutions and the fourth is a statue which is the gift of the people of Virginia and to the people of England.

One of the busts which was executed by William Ordway Partridge, will be put in St. Paul's Cathedral, near the tombs of Wellington and Nelson. Another also by Mr. Partridge, will be placed in the towns hall at Liverpool. The third, a cast in Paris on an order from Tiffany and Co., will be unveiled at the dedication of Sulgrave Manor the ancestral home of George Washington. The statue will be placed in Trafalgar Square.

John A. Stewart, chairman of the board of governors of Sulgrave Institution, sailed for England on the Olympic recently carrying with him not only the Partridge busts, but also two bronze memorials of Abraham Lincoln, containing the Gettysburgh address. One of these will be placed in the old church in Hingham, England, where Lincoln's forebears worshipped and the other in a public building to be designated by the British government.

The Washington statue has already been shipped. It will be dedicated on June 30, in a programme arranged jointly by the Sulgrave Institution of America and Great Britain. The site for the statue was selected several years ago. An official Virginia delegation headed by Dr. E. A. Alderman of the University of Virginia and Col. John W. Williams secretary of the House of Delegates, will sale for England June 11 to present the statue which is a replica of the Houdin Statue.

Sulgrave Manor will be dedicated on June 28. The manor property originally cost about $60,000 and about $100,000 has already been spent renovating it and restoring it. It has already been furnished in the manner of the period with furniture presented by different persons.

The members of the Sulgrave board of trustees are Viscount Bryce, Lord Weardale, Lord Cowdray, Earl Spencer and H. S. Perris, representing Great Britain and J. P. Morgan, Charles Phelps Taft, Alton B. Parker, Major General Leonard Wood and Charles Stewart Davidson, representing the United States. President Harding is honorary chairman of the committee of presentation, of which Mr. Parker is chairman.

Hawaiian Isles

One of the interesting features about the group of Hawaiian Islands set down in the middle of the Pacific, is the nature of its population. Totalling 263,666, it is divided into four groups—the Asiatics, the Polynesians, the Latins and the group comprising Americans, British, Russians, Germans, etc. In a recent investigation, it was discovered that only half of the American men in the island married women of their own nationality, but practically all of the American women married American men. Only 13 American men and 3 American women married Asiatics; 15 American men married Chinese-Hawaiians, and 223 American men married women of Hawaiian blood. The figures also show that most Germans married Americans, most Spanish men married Spanish women, although Spanish women married generally outside their own nationality, the Japanese marry only Japanese, showing more racial allegiance than any other race in the islands, and the Korean women, without exception, married Korean men.

Miscellaneous

That gentleman who was arrested while on his honeymoon and charged with being in a conspiracy with 52 other men to steal from the United States Government, has a peculiar list of articles to his credit. A bird dog, which was stolen and kept for a year before being returned to its owner, a barrel of dressed hens, a little red bicycle, a string of shoes, some shirts, an art square rug and two bicycle tires, eighteen pairs of trousers and a wagon tongue are some of the purloined valuables chalked up against this man and his associates.

English is taught in the normal schools and colleges of the Argentine.

THE SATURDAY COLUMN

(By QUINTUS)

This column will contain an article each Saturday by Quintus of general interest and of educational value

Madame Tussaud's is the most famous place, probably, in the whole world for wax and plaster representations of celebrities of all kinds. Napoleon and all his works are there to the very life, and it is a common joke at the expense of the visitor to this great London institution that he mistook the wax figure for a live one. The Chamber of Horrors, which one pays an extra 6d. to get into, is where the figures of murderers and other horrible, but celebrated, criminals are kept. The exhibition is no mere emporium of mannikins ,of which we see such numbers in the windows of business houses to-day. It is an exhibition of art in wax. The Tussaud exhibition was instituted by Madame Tussaud, a Swiss woman, who lived amongst the celebrities of the French Revolution with her uncle ,an artist in wax, in Paris. She was often compelled to make wax casts of the victims of the guillotine while still the blood of the poor creatures was fresh upon their heads. When the French Revolution began, Lafayette, the famous French general, under Washington, during the American Revolution, was in command of the revolutionary forces, but as he had no further idea than the restoration of Louis under improved conditions he was lucky in escaping with imprisonment and his life. When to his mild regime succeeded the Jacobin clubs (so called because they met at first in a captured Jacobin convent) blood flowed freely beginning with that of the King and Queen. At last the leading revolutionaries themselves, such as Marat, Robespierre and Carrier met their fate, at the hands of furious and suspicious rivals, and many of much nobler and more deserving character. All of these were "caught" by Madame Tussaud and her uncle, and when in the course of human events she departed with it to England, her exhibition was of such a complete and artistic character, and public curiosity was so keen, that her exhibition drew an immense attendance of the highest and the humblest in the British Kingdom. Since then, and since the death of the original foundress, her nephews have established the exhibition in permanent quarters, and no visitor to London would think of missing it. Usually upon the death of a statesman, or other celebrity, a facsimile of him at once appears at Madame Tussaud's, and tens of thousands repair thither to get their first close view of one of whom they have so often heard. The Duke of Welington often used to visit the exhibition to contemplate the effigy of Napoleon who lay in state in an immense glass case, with his "martial cloak around him." Napoleon died in 1821 of cancer of the stomach, of which he displayed the first serious symptoms shortly before Waterloo. He was in a stupor most of that great day, but it was not known till afterwards what the real cause was. The policeman at the door of Madame Tussaud's is of wax, and the real article stands close by. It is needless to say that visitors rarely know "which is which." It is doubtful if the view of the nmates of the Chamber of Horrors s a good thing for anybody, but especially for the young. There is something so ghastly in being face to face with these creatures of almost flesh and blood that even the most hardened must shudder, especially when the diabolical cruelty of many of them is remembered. Those who prey upon the defenceless and young often in large numbers are bad but Burke and Hare who slew people in Scotland in order to sell their bodies for a few pounds to the medical dissecting rooms, are amongst the worst. These creatures rarely escape the toils of justice in the long run and it seems such a pity so much nnocence and sweetness can be made the prey and plunder of such revoltingly cruel and inhuman brutes. And yet what could be more cruel than the Red Indian custom of burning at the stake, also adopted throughout the "civilized" world to extirpate religious heresy. The human mind is, after all, most dangerous when it seeks to do good without mercy.

It is customary for those who take note of the private-life of the great to sneer at their weaknesses and we find that "historians" of that character find that many celebrated men look about for their own effigies when first they visit Madame Tussand's Those celebrities we may be sure are more notorious than really famous for if as Solon said to King Croesus, that it can really not be said of a man that he had a happy life until it had run its full course, it can as certainly be said of the greatest of mankind, that they are amongst the humblest. Most of our story books relate the story of Solon and Croesus as having wound up with the statement that "No man can be called happy till he dies" and a little boy being asked what that meant said it was because Croesus was married and could not be happy until he had escaped. But it is because a man's career may suddenly change and a high flight become a sudden downfall that people take a greater interest in the sight of the statue of a dead man than of one who is still "a going concern".

A book written by the Thousands recounts much behind the scenes in the horrible drama of the death throes of the French monarchy. Of course it is generally known even by the most unlearned of readers that the mob went to the wildest excess. Naturally we think of plunder in this connection, but it was not plunder, but revenge that produced the frenzy The "higher orders" had paid no taxes and the burden of taxes was extremely heavy upon the people. When the people seized power they repaid injustice with murder. But so besotted are those who become hardened in their determined ways that there seems to be is history no other way of ending them. If the principles of justice had been taught to the French people, high and low, it would not have required a revolution to secure their observance. It is still, however, one of our most serious if not dangerous repoaches, that we will shut our eyes and go it obstinately blind when we wish to carry out our purposes and in this respect as in all other, history never fails to repeat itself. The principles of justice are the basis of all government and when they are ignored under any pretence, the blind goddess demands vengeance. Nemesis is the servant of Justice, now as ever and it may be well for us to remember it. A last look at the wax figures would make the pessimist think how transitory is the glory of this world, but if that applies to the great dead it does not apply to the record of their lives. For it is they who make history and the profitable experiences of mankind. Is it then that after all they are really dead? O ye of little faith, if the world's pessimism is justified then are we all dead little and great already and not worthy of even the last passing glance. If that were so it is useless to build for but a few years. But it is not so and therefore we should teach not the passing character of life but its permanence here and hereafter and as the earliest of all philosophers has said then will our creation be justified and its purpose appear manifest.

The Dead

((By Rupert Brooke.)

Blow out, you bugles, over the rich Dead!
There's none of these so lonely and poor of old,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.
These laid the world away; poured out the red;
Sweet wine of youth; gave up the years to be
Of work and joy, and that unhoped serene
That men call age; and those who would have been,
Their sons, they gave, their immortality.

Blow, bugles, blow! They brought us, for our dearth,
Holiness, lacked so long, and Love, and Pain.
Honour has come back, as a king to earth,
And paid his subjects with a royal wage;
And Nobleness walks in our ways again;
And we have come into our heritage.

A SPLENDID MEDICINE FOR THE CHILDREN

Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine a mother can give her little ones. They are a mild laxative which quickly regulate the bowels and stomach and are guaranteed to be entirely free from any injurious drugs. Concerning them Mrs. A. D. West, Loreburn, Sask., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have given me more satisfaction than anything else I have ever given my children. They are easily taken, always work well, and though I have given quite a few to my baby, they seem to work as well now as at first, which is something other laxatives seldom do." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

——A Clean City always Decreases the Amount of Fire Risk.

BRITISH BUDGET ON MONDAY NEXT

NO SURPRISES EXPECTED WHEN HORNE MAKES FIRST BUDGET SPEECH.

LONDON, April 23. (Canadian Press.) — No surprises are expected in the budget speech to be delivered in the House of Commons on Monday next by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Robert Horne. This will be Sir Robert's first budget speech. It is forecasted that expenditures of nearly £1,020,000,000 will have to be met while other contingencies will bring the revenue required up to £1,128,000,000.

The excess profits tax is being dropped and no new taxation proposals are expected. A 50% ad valorum duty on imported cigars and an additional tax on sparkling wines are also being dropped both of them having proved unprofitable.

POLICE COURT

Total assesments of $5.10 were meted out to nine men and boys in police court this morning. Eight were charged with unlawfully bicycling on the city sidewalks and one man with having the number plates of his automobile obscured.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS

WASHINGTON, April 23.—(Canadian Press.))—Nomination of Ben Hooper, Samuel Higgins and W. L. McMenmen, representing public, railroads and labor, on United States' Railroad Board, approved by Senate Interstate here.

TO ELECTRIFY RAILWAY.

KINGSTON, April 23.—A decided innovation in railway service will be inaugurated on 1st May, when an hourly electric car service will begin between Belleville and Trenton over the tracks formerly known as the Canadian Northern, now a part of the Canadian National Railways.

A special modern type of electric motor will be used, with observation features so that it will be attractive from a scenic standpoint, as well as for facilitating traffic between Trenton and Belleville.

Upon the success of this experiment will depend the possibility of extending the service through Prince Edward County to Picton.

The service will be very convenient for Belleville residents who have summer cottages along the bay or wish to spend the summer months at the nearby resorts.

That it will be a big boon to the merchants of Belleville and bring in much additional trade is expected.

EXODUS OF AMERICANS TO CANADA SHOWN

WINNIPEG, April 23.— Immigration figures, obtainable thus early in the season indicate that the number of immigrants are entering Canada from the United States are entering the same proportion as in 1920, J. S. Wardrope, head of the agricultural resource department of the Canadian National railways reports.

Mr. Wardrope said it was too early in the season to predict how many would be coming in this year, but information supplied him by real estate agents who have been in toucr with United States farmers during the winter showed that a large number would be taking up land in western Canada this year.

WHEAT DESTRUCTION

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, April 22.— In an editorial advocating a campaign to rid the eastern sections of the United States of the European barberry bush, which is the cause of black rust, the Wall Street Journal declares that this drop disease in one season destroyed 300,000,000 bushels of wheat in the United States and Canada.

NEW DRUG MAKES YOU FEEL 100% BETTER

For Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatism, Headaches

People who have been suffering for years with headaches, indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, kidney pains, etc., will be pleased to know that they will suffer no longer if they will try the new drug. Doctors recommend that you take one tablet of Tanated Calomel before meals, or two at bedtime, and in 2 to 5 days you will feel 100% better, your head clear, appetite keen, vigorous, keen, bright, alert, and all aches gone. The success of the new drug is due to the fact that it is the only drug known that acts directly on the Liver. No salts, seidlitz, or castor oil are necessary to drive it out of the system, as it is self-eliminating. The next time you have any trouble, due to intestinal congestion, just try this from your druggist. F. C. Weber, Charlotte Street.

SPORT COMMENT

On 20th May the first Ontario championship meet for schoolboys under 15 years of age will be held at St. Catharines. The Peterborough schools may be represented by a team. The expenses of the members of the team representing Peterborough should be borne by the Board of Education.

On 29th May McGill University is staging an interscholastic track meet at the Percival Molson Stadium, Montreal. The programme is as follows:

Juniors, Class II.—Boys under 14 years of age, weighing 100 pounds and under—60 yards dash and 100 yards run.

Juniors, Class II.—Boys under 14 years of age, weighing 100 pounds and under—100 yards dash and 440 yards run.

Juniors, Class III.—Boys under 16 years of age, weighing 115 pounds and under—100 yards dash, running high jump, and 880 yards relay (four boys each to run 220 yards). The relay race is confined to public schools under the Protestant or the Catholic School Boards.

Seniors—Boys under 19 years of age, providing they are in or below the junior matriculation class—100 yards dash, 220 yards dash, 440 yards dash, 880 yards run, one mile run, 120 yards low hurdles, pole vault, running broad jump, running high jump, 12-pound shot-put, and one mile relay (four boys each to run 440 yards).

The development of athletics in the public schools is something which should be taken up in Peterborough. It is realised that proper physical development is just as much a part of the school programme as scholastic attainments. It is safe to predict, even now, that Canada will have a really formidable lot of lads available when the time comes for the selection of the next Olympic team.

George Sisler, American League batting champion, says: "Dempsey will win. Carpentier is a clever boxer, but he lacks the physique. Dempsey is rugged and a powerful hitter. He's fast and his blows carry more weight. The bout may go the limit, being as it is only 12 rounds. Carpentier might be clever enough to stay away that long, but it will be Dempsey's fight all the way."

"Arms and the man I sing"—began the late Mr. Virgil by way of starting his immortal epic.

"Whereas we sing of the arms of three men who, since 1900, have been the most dominant factors in the pitching industry of this vast commonwealth. There have been a lot of other good ones in these past twenty years, including Mordecai Brown, Ed. Walsh, Chief Bender, and Eddie Plank, but no three to compare to the record holdings of Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson, and Grover Cleveland Alexander, of whom, unlyrically, we sing.

The companion careers of Matty and Johnson at this point call for unusually interesting data.

Matty's pitching record, which comprised fourteen campaigns, is now a closed book, complete and final.

Johnson's last year was also his fourteenth season, so the territory these two have covered in points of time is precisely the same. They cannot be compared directly, as Matty worked with a winner in the National League, while Johnson worked a less successful club in the American, but the record built up by each shows that they belong well out in front of all competition.

They are, for one thing, the only two who began pitching since 1900 with a yield of more than 300 victories.

The next man in line who is still in the game is Grover Alexander, with 234 victories, after nine years of intelligent toil. So with five years to go Alexander has has chance to catch or pass both.

The veteran still has a lot of smoke left in his ancient wing. A heavy cold, which settled in his arm in the first few days of the race, came near completing his last long hike. He lasted long enough to pitch a no-hit game around midseason and then retire.

But we understand that he will be good for twenty-five or thirty games this season, and by being able to get more rest he should be good for manw a winning afternoon. He still needs thirty-three victories to overtake Matty, and as Johnson is only thirty-four years old, he may still be quite a jaunt from the end of the road.

It isn't generally known, but Alexander is only four months younger than Johnson. The Cub star will be thirty-four just a week from next Saturday, but he hasn't been over the major league route as long. Although born only four months apart, Johnson beat Alexander to the big tent by four years.

The big Kansan was an established star before the Nebraskan was ever heard of.

This late start may be the barrier in Alexander's way when it comes to overhauling his main rivals. He needs 105 more wins to catch Matty and 69 more to nip Johnson, even though the latter doesn't add on another marker. Which you can gamble he will, plus 19 or 20 this season alone.

As for shut-outs, Johnson has 90, Matty 69, and Alexander 64. So the Washington impressario seems to have this part of the industry pretty well tied up. Alexander can only overtake the Kansan by pitching twenty-six new shut-outs, and even this number won't suffice if the blonde shrapnel sticks in a few additional blanketing parties of his own.

SPORT FLASHES

Pitcher Peterson has been sold to Norfolk by the Leafs. The owners of the Hamilton team will not raise any objection.

Mark Purtell, shortstop with the Leafs in Mooney Gibson's regime, will play with Vancouver again this season. His brother manages the Millionaires.

Riggs Stephenson, star second-baseman with Cleveland, is leading the regulars at bat hith 14 hits out of 24 times up, and his fielding has been sensaional. Stephenson got his chance when Lunte was injured, and if he continues his all-around good work he will probably secure a regular place.

Stuffy McInnis of the Boston Red Sox and President Frazee have yet to agree finally to the tentative terms that brought McInnis into play after several weeks as a holdout, and the first baseman had announced that unless the club owner gives him the agreement in writing he will return to his home.

Tom Griffith, outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is probably the most versatile person in the major leagues. He is one of the best outfielders in the business, and a hard hitter. He is also a song writer and a singer. To this list of accomplishments he has added one more role. He has invented a portable knockdown baby carriage.

Hamilton Herald—The Canadian teams of the Michigan-Ontario League—Brantford, Kitchener, London and Hamilton—do not meet during the first month of the league season. For that reason, the directors of the Hamilton club are trying to arrange a series of home and home games with each club so that the fans in the different towns can get an idea of the strength of each team.

Ed. Paulette, placed on the ineligible list by Judge Landis, has just been released by a semi-pro team with which he signed, the result of protests from other semi-pro. organizations against harboring anyone outlawed by organized baseball. Punishment for the baseball offender is going to be harder than seemed likely at the beginning, and the action of the semi-pros. shows how highly Judge Landis' actions for the good of baseball are regarded, even outside the ranks of the big leagues.

Earl Sheely, who is playing first base for the Chicago White Sox, is the slowest runner in the major leagues, and thereby hangs a tale. Two years ago he broke a small bone in his right leg, but the fracture never was properly treated. When Sheely was able to resume work, therefore, his speed was gone, but he didn't lose his batting eye and fielding skill. So far, the former Salt Lake star has measured up to Kid Gleason's expectations as a slugger, and he seems to cover first base as well as Chick Gandil. Consequently, Gleason is willing to overlook Sheely's slowness of foot so long as he fills the bill in other respects.

CANADIAN TEACHERS SOUGHT IN NEW YORK

TORONTO, April 22.—Slightly changing the well-known slogan into 'What we have we ought to hold,' Mrs. W. E. Groves spoke to the Business Women's Club at its luncheon on the unfortunate fact that many of the highest minds in the teaching profession are going to the States. Going the rounds of the schools in New York recently, Mrs. Groves found again and again that the finest teachers were Canadians.

"We like to get Canadian teachers because they have the right social background," said the Principal of one of the largest schools. "By that I mean that they have the same language, the same tradition and the same viewpoint as the real American, whereas many of our own teachers, while exceptionally brilliant, are foreign-born, or are the children of foreign parents and so cannot instil into their pupils quite the ideals in which we have been brought up."

Mrs. Groves spoke also of the Adolescent Act, declaring that in its working out there will come more vocational and avocational training for the child, and said she hoped that the Government, which passed the Act, would see to it that a course is opened in Ontario for the teachers who will be called upon to assume higher-grade work because of it.

Miss McMahon presided and Miss Anna Smith moved the vote of thanks to Mrs. Groves, who brought with her as a visitor a Scottish educationist, Miss Duncan, of Inverness.

TO LITTLE SOPHIE HAGGIS

From far distant sunny Southlands, comes gentle Spring again;
Earth, from deep, death-like slumber, Sol's genial smile awakes,
And Winter's icy fetters from his prostrate captive breaks.

And myriad charms combine to make, each scene enchanting fair,
Forests and fields in verdue clad, serene the azure sky,
With breath of violets perfumed, soft zephyrs murmur by.

Trent Canal's tranquil waters lie, bright dimpling in the sun,
Pansies from the earth's warm bosom, shyly peeping one by one;
In the elm's spreading branches wee chattering chipmunks play
Hide and seek, with saucy blackbirds in the same old way.

On an apple tree, gnarled and knotty, blithe as the day is long,
To a cheery tune red robin whistles his classic song,
From, where in the East is breaking the first faint flush of dawn,

Well, I know, green grassy lawns and flowers are good to see,
And the songs of feathered warblers as gladsome as can be;
Yet in their gayest melodies, a plaintive under-tone,
Bespeaks a sadness, in their hearts, responsive to my own.

While all Nature is rejoicing, like me they miss the smile,
Of a little dark-eyed maiden with brown curls and winning wile,
And every day the absent elf, so bonny, sore we mourn—
Waiting, with deep love longing, the glad hour of her return.

Even 'neath the cloudless heavens, though unseen to other eyes,
Always to my weary vision, a dark sombre shadow lies,
But old Time is swiftly fleeting away on restless wing,
And holidays, and Summer, and sweet Sophie soon will bring.

MRS. A. F. CALDER.

The average school term provided in the United States is a little over 160 days, or eight months. Although the States provide 12 years of elementary and secondary schooling, the average American child goes to public school only 6.7 years.

OPENING OF NEWMARKET SPRING MEET NEXT WEEK OFFERS GOOD RACE SPORT

CLASS OF HORSE SEEN ON THE HEATH GENERALLY SUPERIOR TO THAT FOUND IN OTHER COURSES---THE TWO THOUSAND RACE ON WEDNESDAY.

THE SPORT OF KINGS

LONDON, April 23. — (Canadian Press).—The flat racing season normally enters on its more serious business next week with the opening of the Newmarket First Spring Meeting. Newmarket justly earns its title as "headquarters of the turf," and except at such meetings as Royal Ascot and Goodwood, the class of horse seen on the heath is generally superior to that found in other courses.

During the war, when racing was abandoned almost everywhere else, it was maintained at Newmarket, but owing to the threatened coal strike of last October the Newmarket Houghton meeting was cancelled. The labor crisis of the past fortnight again threatened sport at headquarters. Meetings at Newbury and other points were freely abandoned, as was also the opening meeting of the season at turf headquarters, known as the Newmarket Craven meeting, when the Craven Stakes for three-year-olds often throwns considerable light on Derby prospects.

At that time labor conditions were so threatening that it was feared that the important Epsom Spring Meeting of this current week must also be abandoned, which meant that the two big handicaps, the Metropolitan and the City and Suburban, could not be decided.

Hopes were entertained, however, that the situation would have so improved that next week's meeting, known as the First Spring, could be pulled off. In fact, from the racing point of view, its abandonment would be little short of a calamity, for it constitutes an integral part of the turf history of the year. Outstanding among its many important fixtures are the two "classic" races, the Two Thousand and One Thousand Guineas, both run over the Rowley Mile, so called after King Charles II., who was very fond of this course. The Two Thousand, for entire three-year-old colts and fillies, is run on Wednesday, and the One Thousand, confined to three-year-old fillies only, on Friday.

First Real Light.

These two races give the first real light on three-year-old form, and, generally speaking, the winner of the Two Thousand starts favorite for the Derby, run at Epsom on June 1 over a mile and a half. That is the third of the five "classic" races, the fourth being the Oaks, confined to fillies, and run on June 3, and the last being the St. Leger Stakes, run at Doncaster on September 7 over a little better than a mile and three-quarters. In the St. Leger the colts and fillies meet on equal terms, for it is rarely that a mare is at her best early in the season, as is shown by the few occasions a fill has won either the Two Thousand or the Derby, while mares who have won the St. Leger are by no means rare.

All the five "classic" races have been run continuously for well over a hundred years, the first to be instituted being the St. Leger, called after the famous Col. St. Leger, who founded it in 1776. Three years later the Oaks was first run at Epsom, and the Derby the following year. The Two Thousand Guineas, now worth about $25,000 to the winner, was started in 1809, and the One Thousand in the year before the Battle of Waterloo, 1814.

The Triple Crown.

The mythical "triple crown" consists in the treble win of the Two Thousand, the Derby and the St. Leger, and a horse succeeding in pulling this off has an assured place in turf history. First to achieve this distinction was West Australian in 1853, and it was not repeated until in the two consecutive years of 1865 and 1866 by Gladiateur and Lord Lyon respectively. The next occasion was in 1886, by Ormonde, generally regarded as the greatest race horse in history. Common pulled it off in 1891 and Isinglass in 1893. St. Frusquin and Persimmon divided honors in 1896, and then there came that remarkable succession of triple crown victories, Galtee More, 1897; Flying Fox, 1898; Diamond Jubilee, 1899; and Rock Sand, 1903. In 1902 Sceptre won the Two Thousand, One Thousand, Oaks and St. Leger, but the Derby of that year went to Ard Patrick. In 1904 St. Amant and Pretty Polly fought it out, the former winning the Two Thousand and Derby, and the mare the other three races. In 1909 King Edward's horse, Minoru, won the Guineas and Derby but was beaten in the Leger by that great horse, Bayardo. In the war years, 1915-1918, the Derby, Oaks, and St. Leger were all run at Newmarket and produced three triple crowns on the part of Pommern, Gay Crusader and Gainsborough, but the class of these cannot compare with the equine giants named above.

Lean War Years.

The lean war years had indeed a disastrous effect on racing stock, from which it has hardly yet recovered. Horses bred during the war, when food of the right description was not too plentiful, were at a disadvantage. Last year's three-year-olds were a poor lot, as was shown sufficiently by the fact that five different animals won the five "classics," as follows: Two Thousand Guineas, Tetratema, a brilliant gray that could not last the Derby distance; One Thousand Guineas, Cinna: Derby, Spion Kop; Oaks, Charlebelle; St. Leger, Caligula.

An impression prevails that the present lot are better than their predecessors of the past two seasons but it is against this that apparently there is little to choose among half a dozen of them. There was never a decided winter favorite for the 1921 Derby, what book there is giving the following prices: Leighton, 6 to 1 against; Monarch, 7 to 1; Humorist, 9 to 1; Allan Breck, 100 to 7; Grangly, 100 to 7; Graig an Erran, 15 to 1; Polemarch, 16 to 1; The Winter King, 20 to 1; Trash, 20 to 1; Thunderer, 25 to 1; and Our Prince, 33 to 1. Of this lot it may be remarked that Leighton is not in the Two Thousand, for which Monarch is a likely favorite. But it is quite possible an outsider who figured little in two-year-old form of last season may come along and beat them all. Of the fillies Pharmacie has the best credentials to "classic" class.

The problem of the three-year-olds is always a fascinating one, and even if this is not to be a "vintage year" among the classic candidates, it starts out with being unusually open in character. After the Guineas have been run a better line can be obtained on Derby prospects.

FENELON FALLS IN BASEBALL LEAGUE

FENELON FALLS, April 23. — Officers have been appointed to manage a baseball team here with the object of entering a league composed of Woodville, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and any other places that will enter a league. The officers elected are: Hon. Presidents, J. H. Brandon, J. H. Stanton, J. E. Smith, Dr. Johnstone and Rev. W. A. Beecroft; President, M. H. McCallum; Vice-President, M. Lansfield; Sec.-Treas., Jack Brandon; Patronesses, Mrs. Beecroft, Mrs. A. J. Gould, Mrs. J. H. Stanton, Mrs. M. H. McCallum, Mrs. (Dr.) Johnstone and Mrs. J. H. Brandon.

JAPANESE MYTH.

According to Japanese mythology, on one occasion the Sun Goddess was offended by her brother, Susa-No-O. Whereupon she took refuge in a cave, taking the light of day with her, and leaving the world in darkness. The other dieties sought in vain to lure her forth until, at last, someone fashioned a mirror which they hung upon a tree in front of the cave. Then they danced the Kagura, which is still performed as the temple dance, until they lured her forth to see what the noise was about, when, chancing to behold her reflection in the mirror, she was so pleased with her looks that she stayed to gaze, and never returned to her cave any more. To this happy ending of the affair and the power of the mirror, we owe the fact that we still have the sun with us.

Mrs. Orlando Crease, Jr., of North Wales, Pa., recently enrolled her 16-month old daughter Deborah at Wellesley College. Her name was entered on the school register as "Deborah Crease. Class of 1942" which means that she will enter a freshman in 1938.

AT THE ALLEN.

HE HAS MADE 200 COMEDIES; CALLS THIS ONE HIS BEST

When a comedian has appeared in more than two hundred comedies, it takes a whole lot of assurance on his part, and much responsibility, too, to say that one picture is the best one that he has ever made. But this is the statement credited to Lloyd Hamilton, one known to the motion picture public as "Ham" because he was in 134 single reel Kalem "Ham and Bud" pictures.

After scoring a great hit in Sunshine Comedies and then taking the greater part of the limelight in "A Twilight Baby," Hamilton some six months ago associated himself with Jack White in the making of Mermaid Comedies released through Educational. He has appeared in "Duck Inn," "Dynamite" and "The Simp," all of which have made new laugh records here. Now he is about to be seen at the Allen Theatre Monday in "April Fool," which is said to be even more laugh provoking than its title suggests.

Beatrice Monson, who has established herself in six months as one of the big women screen favorites, appears opposite Hamilton.

"DON'T NEGLECT YOUR WIFE!"

In the latest Eminent Authors production, which is the first original screen story written by Gertrude Atherton, patrons of the Allen Theatre, where "Don't Neglect Your Wife!" will be shown for 2 days, beginning Monday, will find the true story of an unusual situation that occurred in the social circles of San

Mabel Julienne Scott IN GERTRUDE ATHERTON'S "DON'T NEGLECT YOUR WIFE" GOLDWYN

Francisco which concerned the love of a successful writer and editor. Langdon Masters, for the neglected wife of Dr. Howard Talbot, an aristocrat from the South. The pair renounced ever seeing each other again when they discovered they were in love, but the neglectful husband, aroused at last, demands that Masters abandon his promising newspaper career and leave San Francisco. He accepts the sentence and drifts to New York's notorious "Five Points," where he is saved from utter degradation to a life of usefulness by Mrs. Talbot, after her husband had divorced her for running away from him.

An all-star cast, including Mabel Julienne Scott, Lewis S. Stone, Charles Clary, Kate Lester, Darrel Foss, Richard Tucker, R. D. MacLean, Arthur Hoyt and Josephine Crowell, gives an excellent interpretation of this remarkable story of Mrs. Atherton. Wallace Worsley directed it.

SOMETHING NEW IN COMEDY; ONLY ONE GIRL HAS A PART

In these days of motion picture comedies in which one always expects to see a group of bathing girls, chorus ladies or a mob of cabaret entertainers in each picture, "April Fool," latest of the Mermaid Comedies featuring Lloyd Hamilton, which comes to the Allen Theatre Monday, will be hailed as a distinct comedy. Except for a group scene at the start of the comedy showing the meeting of a missionary society in a small town, Beatrice Monson, Hamilton's leading woman, is the only female seen in the comedy. The greater part of the action takes places on the shipboard with setting such as are said to have never before been seen in a picture.

AT THE EMPIRE.

SOMETHING ABOUT "DANGEROUS TO MEN."

Viola Dana in the role of an ugly duckling school girl who transforms herself into a charming young woman with an audacity that enables her on occasions to pose as a wicked vampire, finds in "Dangerous to Men," a lively screen version of H. V. Esmond's stage drama, "Eliza Comes to Stay," an opportunity for the fullest display of her powers as a comedienne.

Eliza is orphaned when her father, on a scientific expedition in Afghanistan, is slain by bandits. His dying act is to leave his daughter as the ward of his dearest friend, Sandy Verrall, a serious-minded young scientist. Sandy, who has never seen Eliza, is prepared to receive a blue-eyed, golden-haired child of ten. He is astonished and chagrined to find that she is a hoydenish girl of eighteen, dressed in ill-fitting clothes of a style guaranteed to make her "safe" from men.

Sandy is engaged to a flashy and mercenary actress who begins to lose interest in him when she meets his wealthy uncle. At this point Eliza takes a hand in the game out of her loyalty to Sandy, and plays it with such adroitness that the entire complexion of events is changed. Incidents of the most intense interest follow in rapid succession, leading to a denouncement that is as unexpected and absorbing as it is unusual.

AT THE REGENT.

ALLAN DWAN'S GREAT STORY, "THE FORBIDDEN THING," HERE.

Director's First Screen Play for Associated Producers, a Vivid Love Story, at The Regent Theatre Monday.

The first of Allan Dwan's special productions for Associated Producers, of which he is a member with Messrs. Thomas H. Ince, Mack Sennett, Marshall Neilan, J. Parker Read, Jr., Maurice Tourneur and George Loane Tucker, will have its initial showing at the Regent Theatre Monday. James Kirkwood heads a cast of unusual excellence, including Helen Jerome Eddy, Marcia Manon and others.

"The Forbidden Thing," which is described as "the story of an all-conquering love," and "the story of a faith that would not die," is laid in a Cape Cod fishing village. It was adapted and personally directed by Mr. Dwan from a story of the same title written by Mary Mears for a recent issue of the Metropolitan Magazine.

AT THE CAPITOL.

MOUNTED POLICE NEVER QUIT THEIR TRAIL? HART DID!

But He Does So Only as Hero in Big Picture "O'Malley of the Mounted."

The Canadian Mounted Police are known for their doggedness. It is a trite saying that they never give up once they are on a trail and that the fugitive might as well give in for he hasn't a chance to escape.

Yet, in "O'Malley of the Mounted," the new Paramount picture in which William S. Hart stars and which he also wrote and produced it is logically shown how one officer of the Mounted caught his man and then let him go again.

Such a story cannot fail to compel the interest of the public which delights in deeds of heroism and romanic adventures in the wilderness country. Add to this the complete western "ropeo" or congress of wild riders, ropers and experts of the wild regions, and you have a combination that is irresistable. Eva Novak is leading women.

This big 6-reel Hart picture is the very newest and best production ever made by this popular star.

Also a brand new Mack Sennett Comedy.

Topics of the Day, taken from the world's brighest sayings appearing in the Litreray Digest. The popular Pathe News Weekly. A single reel Pollard Comedy. A Paramount Magazine.

This big 12-reel programme, combined with the splendid musical selections by the excellent 8-piece Capitol concert orchestra, completes a most enjoyable show at the usual attractive Capitol prices.

THE VIMY RIDGE LODGE CONCERT

GOOD PROGRAMME PROVIDED —THE PERFORMERS

A very nice little concert was given at Victoria Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Vimy Ridge Lodge of the L.O.B.A. when local talent put on a varied selection of well-rendered solos and recitations. The programme was as follows:

Selection by the Park street orchestra. Red, white and blue drill by 4 girls, vocal solo by Miss R. Gower, a monologue by Mr. Thomas, a comic song by Mr. F. Rowe, recitation by H. Porter, a piano duet by Misses P. Rehill and F. Saunder, a Highland dance by M. Rome and Mary Staples, recitation by A. Fife, bagpipe selection by D. Grant, and another selection by the Park street orchestra. The second part of the programme opened with a comical dialogue, "Pat's Matrimonial Adventure," with Mrs. Huffman, Miss Andrus and H. Freeman taking the parts of Mrs. Fielding, "in search of a hired man," Molly, the Maid, and Pat McGinnis, patron of a matrimonial bureau. This was followed by a baritone solo by Mr. J. Ridyard, a comic song by Mr. Markham, a skit entitled "Taking the Census," by Miss M. Andrus and N. Porter, a vocal solo by M. Ketchison, an instrumental number by Miss L. Ridyard and a drill, "Nearer My God to Thee." Mr. Markham closed the programme with another comic song.

The different numbers forming this concert were well rendered, and the performers, with the orchestra which played so excellently, deserve credit for a well-executed programme.

—January, 1915—
(By Iolo Aneurin Williams.)

A year hence may the grass that waves
O'er English men in Flemish graves
Coating this clay with green of peace
And softness of a year's increase.
Be kind and lithe as English grass
To bend and nod as the winds pass;
It was for grass on English hills
These bore too soon the last of ills.

And may the wind be brisk and clean,
And singing cheerfully between
The bents a pleasant-burdened song
To cheer these English dead along;
minds.

And may the circumstantial trees
Dip, for these dead ones, in the breeze,
And make for them their silver play
Of spangled boughs each shiny day.
Thus may these look above, and see
And hear the wind in grass and tree,
And watch a lark in heaven stand,
And think themselves in their own land.
For English songs and English winds
Are they that bred these English

SEPTETTE AT THE TEMPLE

This week end promises to be a time of outstanding interest at the S. A. Temple as it will be the occasion of a visit from the Territorial Staff Sextette of Toronto. This combination consists of Commandant McElhiney, formerly commanding officer of this corps, whom his many friends will rejoice to see, Ensign Beer, formerly bandmaster of the Temple Corps, Capt. Laurie, formerly of the International Staff Band, London, England, Capt. Keith of the Canadian Staff Band and Staff Captain Easton, a birlliant and talented pianist.

This will be the first occasion of the Sextette's visit to Peterborough and no lover of music should miss an opportunity of hearing them. Tonight there will be a programme of instrumental and vocal music, when Mr. Joseph Wearing will occupy the chair. Admission will be by programme at 25c. each, and this programme also gives admission to the sacred concert to be given to-morrow afternoon.

To-morrow morning the G.W.V.A. are holding their annual parade and will attend the Temple, where they will be addressed by Commandant McElhiney.

At night there will be a big Salvation meeting and at this service also theer will be abundance of sacred music and also addresses by members of the Sextette.

A cordial invitation is given the public to all these services. Come and bring some one with you.

OBITUARY

THE LATE JOHN JEWELL

John Jewell, the honoured veteran of the Oddfellows, and prominent in Masonic and Orange orders, in Eastern Canada, passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Wilson, 169 Eugenie streeet, Norwood, Winnipeg, on Monday, April 18th. He was a native of Clovelly, Devonshire, England, and emigrated to Canada with his parents when about 5 years old, in the year 1854. He had followed the business of a carriage maker in Lindsay, and later in Toronto, until about five years ago, when he retired and with his wife, by whom he is survived, came west and made their home with their only daughter, Mrs. Wilson. Mr. Jewell was esteemed by a large circle, especially for his patriotism. He had participated in the frustrating of the Fenian raid of 1886.

"THE CONFESSIONAL."
"The False and True Confessional," forms the subject at Murray street Baptist church to-morrow night. A recent writer says, "The soul grows hungry as well as the body, then it needs the confessional." This is quite true; the great question for such an hour is where the confessional of which Christ spoke to his disciples, is to be found.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.
Arrangements have been made for Mr. Alex. B. Miller, B.D. Ph.D., formerly Dean of Oskaloosa College, Iowa, to hold a series of studies in the Epistle of Hebrews, at Gospel Hall, commencing to-morrow evening. Mr. Miller is a young Scotchman of international reputation, some of his special writings include "Faith and Works," "The New Birth," "Why Did God Become Man," "What is God's Path for His People," "Christianity and Publicity." He also edited "The Collegian," and has in manscript ready for publication an exposition of Heb. 5 and 6, and the Church of God, its ministry and rule. It will be a great feast of sound ministry. All should set aside next week for this service.

A DUPLEX DWELLING.
The announcement of the commencement of work upon a new dwelling is a rare occurrence in Peterborough these days, so there will be more than the usual interest in the fact that Mr. T. J. Moore is to begin next week the erection of a duplex residence on Water Street, between Murray and McDonnel Streets. A couple of hundred of such dwellings would be a great boon to Peterborough

Society

Miss E. Dwyer of Lindsay, who has been visiting Mrs. M. Lehane for the last ten days, has now returned home.

Miss Antoinette Fontaine, whose marriage takes place next Tuesday, was the recipient last evening of a surprise shower, when about 40 of her friends called in a body at her home, 480 Aylmer Street. The party took the form of a miscellaneous shower of useful gifts, with a wagon wheeled in to the living room by little Arnold Brady. A very pleasant evening was spent in the enjoyment of dancing and games, with dainty refreshments.

WEDDING BELLS

DOUGHTY—TATE.
A quiet wedding was solemnized at Knox manse this morning at seven o'clock of Estelle May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tate, 495 Bolivar street, and William Frederick, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Doughty, 231 George street, Rev. J. A. McKenzie officiating. The happy couple left on the 7.35 train for Toronto, where they will spend a short honeymoon and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

BROWNING—MONTGOMERY.
A quiet wedding was solemnized in Oshawa on Tuesday, April 19th, when Marion, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, 25 Cowan Avenue, Toronto, became the bride of Earl F. Browning, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Browning, of Exeter, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Browning will reside in Peterborough.

WORTHLESS CHEQUE ARTIST VICTIMIZES COBOURG PEOPLE

COBOURG, April 23.—The man badly wanted by Chief Ruse here, under the name of Arthur M. Gibson, and styling himself, salesmanager, Cobourg, deposited a worthless cheque for $2000, supposedly signed by a Toronto firm in a local bank. He has been dropping into Cobourg for some time, and planned, to hear him talk for acquiring considerable land. On the strength of his $2,000 cheque deposit which turned out to be worthless, Gibson negotiated for the purchase of two handsome residences in Cobourg, rented a furnished house on Blake street, and purchased a car in Oshawa for $1,700, giving a cheque on the Bank of Toronto in Cobourg Later he stopped payment on the cheque and has now disappeared, although the car has been recovered. In Cobourg he worked a worthless cheque on a tailor for a $38 suit of clothes, another cheque for $50 was passed on Clarke and Booth and several other cheques amounting to $175 were also cashed by Gibson.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.
NEW YORK, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—Stocks were active and firm at the opening of to-day's session. Most leaders registered fractional gains over yesterday's final prices. Marked strength was shown by Mexican Petroleum and American Woollens.

There was further covering of short contracts, especially in oils and related issues. Mexican Petroleum added 1 point to yesterday's large advance. Tide Water rose 1½ and General Asphalt and Texas Company made fractional gains. Bethlehim Steel, New York Air Brake, American Woollen and several of the foreign sugar issues comprised other firm to strong stocks. Standard Rails and the better known equipments were inactive. Preliminary exchange quotations on London were unaltered from yesterday's final prices.

WHEAT SELLS UNDER DOLLAR MARK IN U.S.
NEW YORK, April 23.— (Canadian Press.)—A despatch from Kansas City to the Wall Street Journal says:

"Dollar wheat has returned to the southwest. During the entire crop year, forecasts have been made that the dollar mark in the bread grain trade would be reached, but such opinions were at times considered ridiculous. A loud cry arose from the trading pit in Kansas City when the board marker recorded a trade at 99 3-4 cents a bushel, but aside from that nothing unusual developed when the figure was reached.

"The market for wheat now at the lowest level since June, 1916, when both cash and future quotations fell slightly below the dollar mark. Previous to the war, dollar wheat was considered a comparatively high price and the interior south-western shipper manifested as much optimism when the word went out that a dollar a bushel was paid for wheat, as he doubtless manifested discouragement when advised of the level in the last few days."

ASBESTOS SLUMPS AT MONTREAL
MONTREAL, April 23. — (Canadian Press.) The local stock market was exceptionaliy active during the first half hour this morning. Asbestos, whost drop of several points was the feature yesterday, was down 4 1-8 points more this morning at 59 7-8 after closing at 64 last night. Abitibi was also weaker by half a point. Atlantic Sugar a nd Brazilian were both unchanged at 28 1-4 and 30 respectively. Bromnton was fractionally weaker at 32 1-4 while Laurentide sagged a half to 89. National Breweries was stronger by a quarter point at 43 3-4. Riordon was weak this morning selling at 36 after closing at 38. Spanish River and Wayagamack were unchanged at 70 and 67 1-4 respectively.

WHOLESALE TRADE OPTIMISTIC.
MONTREAL, April 23. — Bradstreet's Montreal weekly trade report says: There seems to be a more optimistic feeling in the wholesale trade. Dealers declare that they notice a slight improvement over the previous week.

Ocean traffic will open this week, when at least two ocean vessels will arrive. This in itself will help trade generally and also give employment to a large number of the unemployed.

Seeding operations in the West were somewhat retarded this week owing to snowstorms, but later advices state the weather is again fine and seeding is general. According to advices, the Western Provinces will increase the average under cultivation by one million acres; the average prepared for seeding in three Prairie Provinces for this year will be 12,785,750 acres.

The lumber industry is quiet, on account of limited building operations, while the export lumber trade is at a standstill owing to the large quantity of lumber held in the foreign markets.

The boot and shoe trade is showing more activity. In the dry goods trade, orders of an assorting nature are coming to hand fairly well. There is a fair movement in wholesale grocery lines, lower prices being quoted on canned lobsters, asparagus tips and olives, soaps, etc. Potatoes are offering at 80c to 85c per bag of 90 lbs., with holders finding it difficult to get rid of their supplies. Live and dressed hogs show a further decline. Cattle shipments to Europe from Canada are rapidly increasing.

All the accommodation on the passenger steamers leaving for Europe are fully booked up till the end of July.

Retail trade is fair. Collections are only fair.

MARRIED
DOUGHTY—TATE — At Knox Presbyterian Church manse, Saturday, April 23rd, 1921, Rev. J. A. McKenzie officiating, Estelle May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tate, 495 Bolivar street, to Frederic Doughty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Doughty, 231 George street.

IN MEMORIAM.
LEAL.—In loving memory of Pte. Douglas Leal, who made the supreme sacrifice at Langemarck six years ago to-day, April 23rd, 1915.
"It was hard not to be there in the hour of death,
To have caught the last sigh of his parting breath;
We little thought when we said good-bye,
That we parted for ever, and he was to die:
Six years have passed since the sad day,
God call'ed the one we loved away."

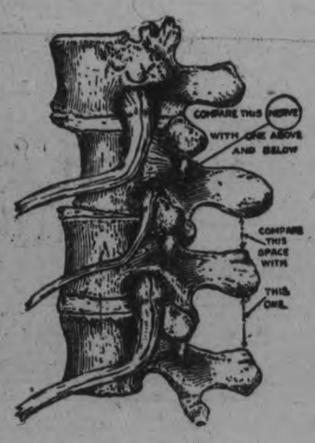
"WHEN YOU WERE YOUNG"



Did you ever see a youngster full of the zest and energy of Health and say to yourself, "I wish I felt that way; I must be getting old!"?

You CAN feel that way, for if you set your nerves free, they will keep every organ and part of you well and strong.

Your body is wired for Health and Energy, just as a house is wired for electricity. If the lights go out, you look for a bad connection—for the place where the current is broken.

When you do not enjoy Health, one or more of your wires (the nerves) has a bad connection. There is pressure, somewhere, which stops the flow of the Vital Force. Fortunately there is only one place where that pressure may occur, except through traumatism (injury). The place is found instantly by the competent Chiropractor. Then he relieves the pressure and the Vital Force flows freely as it should—YOU ARE WELL.

Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments will do this for you, and the result will be permanent HEALTH.

The Chiropractor will tell you whether you are well or not; and IF NOT, WHY NOT.

If you keep your spine in normal condition, you will always be young. The Health of Youth is within YOUR reach.

EMBARGO GETS NEW ADVOCATE IN COALITION

SIR CECIL LOWTHER TO CONTEST CUMBERLAND, DEFENDING EMBARGO AGAINST OUR CATTLE.

HIS BROTHER RESIGNS

LONDON, April 25.—(Canadian Press).—Speaker Lowther resigned his seat in Penrith, Cumberland, today, having been first elected there twenty-five years ago. The seat will now be contested by Sir Cecil Lowther, brother of the retiring Speaker, who will represent the Coalition interests, and Levi Collins, an Independent Liberal.

In his election address, Sir Cecil refers to the embargo on Canadian live cattle, and says it is a matter of great importance to the cattle graziers of Cumberland. He argues that with the long unguarded frontier between Canada and the United States, there can be no guarantee that Canadian cattle are protected against infection from American herds or that American cattle will not be shipped to England via Canada.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

REFUSE TO GIVE TO THE G.W.V.A. RELIEF BECAUSE VETERAN'S SMOKE AND SOME OF THEM VOTED "WET"

The ladies who tagged on Saturday for the G.W.V.A. Auxiliary had rather an exciting time of it. The proceeds, amounting to $342.58, although not extraordinary, were pretty fair with the bad weather of Saturday taken into consideration.

Comments were many and various. Many men, although shy of change, contributed some uncomplimentary remarks, one going so far as to swear at the holder of the proffered box, and, as the lady remarked, "he looked like a gentleman." Some, with glum faces, refused with an expression of the highest moral rectitude, for what reason it is hard to say, but no exception was taken to those who had the plea of "no work," which came from so many. Then there were the women who asked, why should they be expected to do more, having already given a husband or son to the cause, and there is no answer for this argument either. One woman remarked, "W should I give? I don't get anything out of it," a slight contribution to those who need the charitable attentions of these kind women not occurring to her as a worthy action.

One advanced the rather peculiar reason that as the boys had promised to get the liquor back, and had, on the contrary, ungratefully voted for its further prohibition on a recent blue Monday, she would therefore refuse absolutely to have anything more to do with them, while still another, evidently one of the terrible advance guard which is slowly advancing on the tobacco question, said that she could not conscientiously help men who smoked. So it looks as if, while the boys may have sworn off on the liquor, according to one of their calumniators, they still have their faults. Just why the contribution of a dime or a nickel to the charitable work which the ladies of the Auxiliary undertake should be hampered by the predilection of the returned men to a "dry" Ontario, or their preference for a friendly pipe now and again, was not explained, these high moral reasons evidently serving as a safeguard for many pockets.

However, the ladies are not complaining. They will still "carry on," and, as the holder of the highest box, No. 8, took in $36.34, and the other boxes held fair sums, they feel that their Saturday, while arduous, was still quite a success.

Temporary Agreement Proposed in British Coal Strike To-day

OWNERS SUBMIT SCHEME IN NATURE OF COMPROMISE TO BE EFFECTIVE ONLY TEMPORARILY.

CONFERENCE ADJOURNS

LONDON, April 25.— (Canadian Press.)— Renewed efforts to find a basis for settlement of the coal strike were made this morning when representatives of the mine owners and executive officers of the Miners' Federation met here in joint conference with government representatives. Adjournment was made till to-morrow when the Premier will preside over the deliberations.

The owners submitted a detailed statement of their proposals and it is understood were prepared to advovate a temporary agreement for a period of three months, after which a permanent settlement woud become operative, this embracing a standard wage and standard profit. The temporary agreement would be in the nature of a compromise between the national wage bases desired by the miners and the district basis desired by the owners.

CANTEEN PROFITS REACHED OTTAWA

ACCOUNTANT DOUBTS DISAPPEARANCE OF FUNDS.

OTTAWA, April 25 (Canadian Press).—Over one million dollars from Canada's share of the canteen funds profits has been received by the Government, and is deposited with the Finance Department until a decision as to its final disposal is reached.

The amount will be swelled when the final accounting of the fund moneys is made.

This information was given to the Special Committee on Civil Re-establishment of Soldiers this morning by the accountant of the fund for the Militia Department. He did not think it was correct that ten million pounds sterling of canteen funds could not be accounted for.

BRITISH SURPLUS IS 230,500,000

CHAMBERLAIN MOVES BUDGET IN ABSENCE OF HORNE.

LONDON, April 25.— (Canadian Press.)— Great Britain's surplus of revenue over expenditure during the last year totalled 230,500,000 pounds it was announced by Austen Chamberlain, government leader, in the Commons, in introducing the budget in the House this afternoon. Mr. Chamberlain moved the budget owing to pressure of other work on Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The foreign debt was reduced by 117,000,000 pounds to 1,151,500,000 pounds on 31st March.

The House leader said the total debt on 31st March was 7,573,000,000 pounds. He estimated the total sum available for debt redemption from the surplus this year would be 103,000,000 pounrs.

Mr. Chamberlain announced that there would be no change in direct taation, and that large sums would be collected in excess profits arrears.

More Hun Proposals; Allies Will Advance If Not Satisfactory

NO MORE SCOTCH AFTER THIS WEEK

There is just this week left in which liquor may be imported into Ontario from Quebec, as on 1st May the latter province puts a bann on the shipping of liquor from one province to another. However, the importation of Canadian whisky and beer into Ontario will continue, it is thought, till about 18th July.

One means of supplying Ontario with alcoholic beverages after 1st May will be found in the ordering of Canadian-made whiskies and beers from Niagara Falls and Buffalo.

After the 1st of May all such liquors as Scotch whisky, gin, etc., will be out of reach of Ontario "wets." Orders sent to Buffalo will ensure delivery of liquor made in Ontario only, and this also will cease about the middle of July.

The cutting off of the supply from Quebec in one week does not leave time for foreign imports.

$94.20 SLICE OFF OUR TAXES

SAME OLD EXCUSES

The week-end catch of the Police Department netted a total of $94.20 in the Police Court this morning.

Eight bicycle riders pleaded guilty to using the sidewalks instead of the King's highway, and contributed the sum of $2.00 each, and $3.10 costs.

Two drunks paid $19.10 and $24.10 and two motorists who failed to keep the number plates of their cars in a visible position admitted the charge, and added $5.10 each. The bicyclists, the motorists, and one of the two adherents of King Alcohol were not subject to the Police Court nightmare. The quietly pleaded guilty, and their dignity remains intact.

One of the drunks on a week's remand had to face Magistrate Dumble and Crown Attorney Hatton and tell where he got his liquor. His story of "a strange unknown man" who proved to be a friend in disguise when he passed the time of day a week ago on Sunday evening was adhered to firmly, and the examination had to be dropped.

Three youths, aged 15, 19, and 21, were unable to give a good account of their presence in the C.P.R. Station after midnight last night to a policeman, and the three spent the rest of the night in the lock-up.

They were charged with vagrancy to-day. Twenty-one is auburn-haired and nineteen is a veritable "Torchy." Both said they came here from Hamilton to visit. They were going to seek work to-day, and last night was their first night out.

Fifteen, a tousled-headed boy in short trousers, who lives here, associated himself with the pair from Hamilton.

"We've had him here a good many times. There are several charges of theft against him. He's got a bad record," Chief Newhall told the Magistrate.

"Where's his parents?" asked the Magistrate, looking benignly at the boy in the box.

"They've never reported missing him. They've never come near when he's been here."

The boy said he was an only child.

In spite of the ingenuous look on the childish countenance, Chief Newhall said he gave the officer a wrong name, and said he also was from Hamilton. He asked for a week's remand to investigate the Hamilton youths' antecedents and why they were in Peterborough.

The Magistrate remanded the two for one week.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.

Mr. A. B. Miller commenced his series of addresses last night to a fine audience. His text was Isaiah 52, "Behold my servant will succeed." Mr. Miller proved in a fascinating style the immense success Christianity was, first Christianity was Christ manifested, not mere profession but the real thing was a mighty success. Christ Jesus came into the world to die for sinners and succeeded, and is saving sinners. Many illustrations were given how Christ had changed men and women from a life of sin into lives of glory to God. Mr. Miller is a very convincing speaker. Tonight he will commence studies in the Book of Hebrews.

GERMAN OFFER IS TO PAY 200,000,000,000 MARKS ACCORDING TO SOURCES CLOSE TO GOVERNMENT.

NOTE'S TEXT WITHHELD

BERLIN, April 25. — (Canadian Press).—The payment by Germany of two hundred billion gold marks for reparations is, roughly, the proposal submitted by Germany for transmission to the Allies, according to sources close to the Government. The payments will be spread over a period from thirty to forty-two years or less, according to Germany's economic recovery. Economic pledges in the way of goods and participation in German industries are offered as guarantees, it is added. The proposals, it was learned to-day, refrain from proposing the assumption by Germany of the Allied debts to the United States.

The German Government is refraining from making public to-day its note to the United States on reparations in order to give President Harding, it is explained, the opportunity to consider and make enquiries concerning it if he desires before forwarding it to the Allies.

LONDON, April 25.—(Canadian Press).—Lloyd George stated in the Commons this afternoon that if the new German reparations proposals, which had not yet been received, proved unsatisfactory, Great Britain would support France at next Saturday's Allied Conference in her proposals for the occupation of the Westphalian coal fields.

The Allies under the decision reached in January in Paris, demanded that Germany pay 226 billion gold marks spread over forty years. An export duty of twelve per cent. would also be levied on German exports.

OUT OF WORK, MANY HUNDRED APPEAL GOV'T

DEPUTATION ASSURED BY PROVINCIAL CABINET MEMBERS THAT MATTER WILL BE TAKEN UP.

SUGGEST FARM WORK

TORONTO, April 25. (Canadian Press.) Several hundred men paraded to the Parliament Buildings this morning and placed their demands before the government.

The deputation was received by Attorney General Raney in the absence of Premier Drury. Hon. Walter Rollo, Hon. B. Bowman and Hon. Manning Doherty, were present.

In outlining his request for some solution of the unemployment situation, Thomas Dixon, the leader of the deputation, frankly stated that he knew the government could not provide work. He thought the provincial officials should take some action to see that the men had a place to sleep, and that they obtain enough to eat.

Mr. Doherty pointed out that there was a dearth of farm labour, but Dixon replied that there were no men with farm experience in the crowd.

The deputation was assured that the matter would be taken up with the premier on his return.

BASEBALL

The Peterborough Central League Baseball Club are having a practice on Wednesday night at Riverside Park at 6 o'clock. All players wishing to make good should turn out at this and all other practises.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(Canadian Press).—The week in the Stock Market began with a resumption of the recent recovery. Oils, Steels, Motor Specialties, Shippings and Coppers were especially prominent. Within the first half hour gains of 1 to 2½ points were made by Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums, General Asphalt, Royal Dutch, Crucible Steel, Kelly Springfield Tire, Atlantic Gulf, American International and Utah Copper. Rails did not fulfill their promise of last Saturday, sharing only moderately in the early movement, and mostly at fractional declines.

Rails had a brief spurt later, the transcontinentals gaining about one point on the Supreme Court Decision favorable to the Southern Pacific.

Elsewhere, however, the prices shaded materially on realizing sales. The closing was irregular.

Rails, excepting a few junior issues, continued to lag, but otherwise the list made general though irregular extensions to early gains. Oils, steels, and motors dominated the movement at extreme advances of 1 to 4 points. Mexican Petroleum, Huston Oil, Crucible, Studebaker, and Chandler were the outstanding features among the usual leaders. Sears Roebuck, Remington Typewriter, and Tobaccos were the foremost among the specialties, rising 1 1-2 to 3 1-2 points.

Call money opened at 6 1-2 per cent discount.

Trading slackened materially during mid-session, but the balance made further progress. Shippings, independent steels, and motor subsidiaries were most conspicuous. American International, Atlantic Gulf Preferred, Vanadium, Stromberg Carburetor and Bosch Magneto showed extreme gains of 2 to 3 1-2 points.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 25 (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange firm. Demand $3.94 5-8. Canadian dollar, 10 5-8 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 25. — (Canadian Press.) Predictions of increased movement of wheat this week in Kansas had a bearish influence on the wheat market to-day and so too did talk that cold weather coming eastward would fail to injure the crops.

Export buying helped to check a weakness in grain. Prices closed nervous with May 61 5-8 to 61 3-4.

The substantial rallies in wheat failed to last and notwithstanding the large decrease in the visible supply the market descended lower than before. The prices closed heavy with May 1.25 3-4 to 1.26 and July 1.04 to 1.05.

Furthermore the bears contended that the reaction was due after the persistent upturns of late absence of support rather than pressure to sell characterized the market. On opening prices, which ranged from 1-4 to 1 1-4 lower, were followed by a sharp additional decline.

Corn sympathized with the wheat decline. After opening 1-8 to 5-8 lower the market underwent a further sag. Oats were depressed by the action of other cereals, starting unchanged to 1-2 to 5-8 lower, and then continuing down grade. Lower quotations on hogs pulled down provisions.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 25. — (Canadain Press.) — The registering of a new low in Riordon was the feature of this morning's stock exchange. This issue sagged from its opening quotation to 31 1-2 at which figure it closed. Asbestos went down another point and closed at 58. Brompton lost it 1-4 point advance while Laurentide went down a point to 89 1-2. National Breweries made an advance of 3-4 of a point and closed at 44 3-4. Spanish River was stronger by half a point at 70 1-2.

TORONTO, April 25 (Canadian Press).—Pulp and paper issues proved the feature of this morning's otherwise dull session on the Toronto stock exchange. There was considerable irregularity in these stocks. Abitibi and Riordon being extremely weak. Laurentide was stronger, while Spanish River and Brompton sold at prices steady with Saturday's trading. Riordon dropped 3 points to 31 3-4 and Abitibi 2 3-4 to 31 1-4. Laurentide was up 2 1-2 at 90. Brompton sold at 34. Spanish River Common at 70, and Preferred stock at 77 3-4.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS

TORONTO, April 25. Canadian Press.) Cattle receipts were heavy; trade weaker; heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $9 to $9.75; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14; hogs, selects, $12.25 to $12.50.

A RICH FIND OF RADIUM IN ONTARIO.

PARRY SOUND, Ont., April 25—A rich find of radium-bearing ore is reported to have been made at the mica mining claims of J. C. and H. F. McGuire, with whom is associated Mr. Robinson, a well-known mining prospector of this town. It is said that the ore has been assayed by Provincial and Dominion assayers and tested at McGill University, Montreal and in New York, and in each case found to be radio-active in a marked degree.

TO BE TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION
THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS

If you do not feel well and go to your family physician, one of the first things he will do is to ask you to hold out your tongue. The reason for this is that the condition of the tongue shows the condition of the stomach and bowels.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, heartburn, water brash, etc, and those troublesome piles which cause so much annoyance and misery.

Keep ouyr bowels moving regularly and you won't be sick.

In Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills you will find just the remedy you require for this purpose. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Mr. James S. Harris, Box 9034, Halifax, N. S., writes: "For two years I sugered with constipation. I could not get anything to cure me, and hardly anything would give me even temporary relief. One day my uncle induced me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and even brought me a vial. I tried them without much faith, but I soon found that they were doing me good, and after using the second vial I was relieved of the trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CAMPELLFORD LODGE ATTEND CHRIST CHURCH

INSPIRING ADDRESS BY BISHOP SWEENEY — CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OF INTEREST.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 25.—Chrisft church was crowded to the doors yesterday morning, when Campbellford Lodge No. 248 Independent Order of Oddfellows and visiting brethren to the number of forty-two attended divine service in a body. The members were addressed in a very able manner by the Right Rev. J. F. Sweeney D. D. Bishop of Toronto, who preached from the words found in 1 Peter Chapter two, verse seventeen. "Honour all men. Love the Brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the King. This pithy phrase of St. Peter the apostle of circumsion, was addressed to large, scattered and persecuted congregations. It reminds us of other trusted precepts found in the scriptures such as James Chap. 1. verse 27. Pure religion and undefiled before God and the "Father is this "To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep him self unspotted from the world. We must look at the text as divine and practical. Honour all men, love the brotherhood, honour the King. We ask what they represent. This is the Apostles way of emphasizing true loyalty. The King is the representative of God and man. Consider the solidarity of the human family as a basis for first part of the text. We have all one father which is one of the fundamentals of your order. Saint Paul stands at Athens and says God has made of one blood all nations, in him we dwell and have our being. We are his offspring. His hand fashioned us like as a father pitieth his children so the Lord is merciful to them that trust him. When will the world learn the solidarity of the human family. When the world does learn, war will cease God made man in his own image, male and female made he them. In every form we should try to find the divine image. In the great, vast family, there is the great inner circle of children of God. These particularly are referred to in the compass of quadrilateralh.

In your society you do take cognizance of those who need assistance and loving special brotherhood to which you belong. The speaker was glad to learn that the homes of the order for the poor and aged and dependents and orphans were 56 in this continent and 12 more in construction at a cost $3,000,000 and the cost of maintenance $1,117,000. The number admitted was 1,314 and at present time there are 4,487 individuals. These homes are supported by a per capita tax and receive no money out of the order.

A Central Truth.

In the cluster of precepts another central truth —"To your God" surely this is the central truth of all. Reminds us of the words of wisdom uttered by Solomon expatiating on the human duty of man to man, "Let us hear the conclusion fear God and keep his commandments" Bishop Sweeney congratulated the order upon its creed, the belief of every member being one supreme bing who is creator and Saviour of all the daughters and sons of the race. None are admitted to your order, who dispute or deny this fundamental principle of the first of the thirty-nine articles of religion. There are vital points of contact between the church of Jesus Christ of which you form a part.

The fourth percept. Honour the King. The speaker said he supposed this Sunday was chosen of its being near the anniversary of the death of St. George, the Patron Saint of England, who suffered matyrdom, who stands to represent liberty and justice that you stand to promote these things in your community. What a splendid, truly, loyal king of this far-flung Empire! The speaker said he could say nothing but warmest praise of King George. How gracious was His Majesty when he with 252 Bishops were en-

CONVINCED OF THEIR POSSIBILITIES THE TRENT TOWNS ARE BAFFLED BY THEIR OWN RETARDED DEVELOPMENT

The towns along the Trent Waterway have a conviction that is common to them all. They believe with a singular unanimity that Nature planned a great and flourishing future for this section of Ontario, and in their puzzled wonderment at the seeming failure of that design they disclose a rather pathetic curiosity as to whether opportunity has knocked and passed on unheard, or whether she is yet to come bringing the fulfilment of hopes that have been only faintly realized.

Failure Has Dulled Initiative.

There has been initiative of a kind, occasional and spasmodic, in all these towns, and there has been a measure of achievement; but for the most part you find ambitions stunted, although not abandoned, doubt that has been bred of discouragements, and a spirit of apathy that has apparently been deepened by intermittent and empty efforts to check it. Business men and other citizens, taking example by what other towns have done, have formed Boards of Trade with fine resolve to "put their own communities on the map." It would probably be too sweeping to say that these associations have invariably failed of some accomplishment, but in the common experience they languished and lapsed. They were revived and reorganized as hopes rose up again, but at the present day only a flickering of energy and life remains in most of them. When work was to be done, especially the drudgery of these organizations, too many of the members "all began to make excuse." Enthusiasm wilted, the membership dwindled, and although some of these Boards still survive, others are in the condition alluded to by one disappointed promoter of the booster type who said, "We haven't held a meeting in so long that I have forgotten who the president was."

And yet the belief holds in these communities that Nature ordained for them a brighter and higher position than they have attained. Visit the neighboring towns nearest Peterborough, include Peterborough too for that matter, and a casual compliment to any of them ordinarily starts those baffling questions as to what has checked or restricted progress and why the outside world has not been more appreciative of local advantage and resource.

Co-operation Has Worked Elsewhere.

If the people's hopes and the community spirit were dead in these nearby towns, if the assets and the merits they can present were not persuasive, and finally, if the very fact that they are our neighbors should not convey a mutual appeal, their problems and possibilities would not be worth discussing. A glance over Ontario shows some sections, in many respects not so richly dowered as the Trent district, that occupy a larger place in the affairs of the province. There may be a reason for that prominence which could be utilized here if it could be discovered. One fact is certain, the Trent Waterway affords large quantities of electric power that are now going to waste, spilling over falls and rapids with an unceasing rumble that challenges thought and attention, and that may eventually arouse more concerted and intelligent action than has been employed heretofore. An answer to the question that perplexes and evades the Trent towns, a solution of their common problem, may be found by first regarding it as something that concerns the whole district. In other words, unity of effort may be the reason that explains, or partly explains, the development and expansion of the towns and cities in other sections of Ontario. At any rate, the Trent towns in their single-handed attempts to exploit their resources, have not won the success they expected, and which they believe is their due. Has the time come to try co-operation?

FIGHT LASTED TWELVE HOURS IN MAAMGROSS

REINFORCEMENTS NECESSARY BEFORE POLICE COULD REPULSE REPUBLICAN ATTACKING PARTY.

DUBLIN, April 25. —(Canadian Press.)—Fighting which lasted for 12 hours is reported from the neighborhood of Maamcross, County Galway. Fourteen policemen under the command of a district inspector, went at 4 yesterday morning in serach of a Republican flying column. The Republicans were found entrenched on high ground in the vicinity of home of O'Malley, member of Parliament. The police took to cover as best they could and a prolonged engagement ensued, in which Constable Boylan was killed and a sergeant wounded. At 3.30 yesterday afternoon reinforcements for the oplice arrived, bringing with them machine guns. They enveloped the position of the Republicans, who fled to the hills, taking their wounded with them.

WEDDING BELLS

McQUADE—JOHNSTON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Giles' Presbyterian Church, when Miss Mary Ann Johnston, of Apsley, became the bride of Mr. Ralph McQuade of Hastings. The bride, wearing a dress of navy satin and georgette with black picture hat and American beauty roses, was attended by her cousin, Miss Lulu McCauley, in navy georgette with pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Herb Johnston. The happy couple will reside in Hastings. The groom's gifts to the bride was a pearl sunburst and to the bridesmaid a necklace set with pearls.

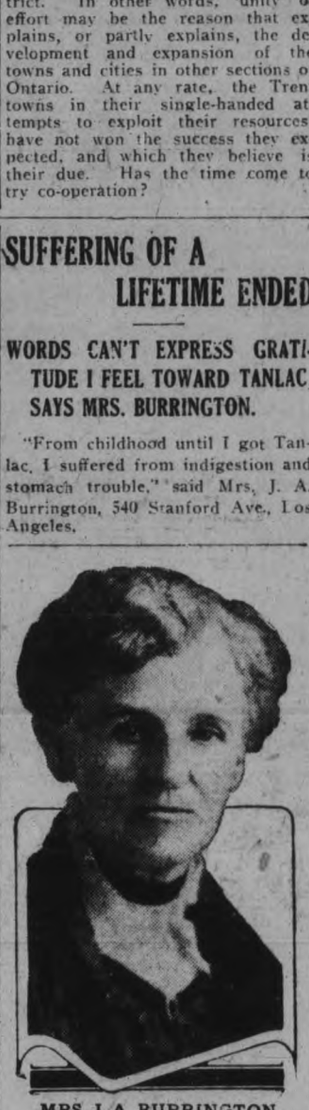
SUFFERING OF A LIFETIME ENDED

WORDS CAN'T EXPRESS GRATITUDE I FEEL TOWARD TANLAC, SAYS MRS. BURRINGTON.

"From childhood until I got Tanlac, I suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble," said Mrs. J. A. Burrington, 540 Stanford Ave., Los Angeles.



MRS. J. A. BURRINGTON
Los Angeles, Calif.

Calif., "and that's been a long time, for I'm now in my sixty-eighth year.

"I remember when I was a child I was kept on a strict diet of lime water and milk for weeks and I have been in constant distress all these years. I suffered terribly from bloating and had to be very careful of what I ate. I became so weak and nervous I could hardly go about my housework and was in a miserable condition.

"About two years ago my husband got such splendid results from Tanlac he insisted on my taking it and the medicine wasn't but a little while in ridding me of my troubles. It gave me a splendid appetite and I could enjoy a good hearty meal, even things I hadn't dared touch before ,without any fear of it troubling me.

"Then I had the influenza and became dreadfully sick and weak, but my stomach kept in good order and it only took four bottles of Tanlac to build me up again to where I'm now feeling better than at any time I can remember. I have gained eleven pounds in weight, too, and words can't express the gratitude I feel toward Tanlac. I keep Tanlac in the house all the time now, for I know it is a medicine that can be depended upon."

CODY REMAINS IN CANADA, HE TELLS CHURCH

REFUSES OFFER OF ARCHBISHOPRIC OF MELBOURNE AFTER "AGONIZING INDECISION".

TORONTO, April 25.—(Canadian Press.) —Archdeacon Cody is not going to Melbourne as Archbishop. At the morning service in St. Paul's church yesterday he told the story of three weeks of "agonizing indecision" which have resulted in his rejection of the signal honor offered to him.

Dr. Cody in announcing his decision said he was keenly conscious of the importance and opportunities of the service the Archbishopric of Meloourne afforded in matters spiritual and ecclesiastical, educational, missionary and imperial. But after long consideration he had decided that in view of the undertakings in which he was already involved and of the problems before the Canadian church and nation in the solution of which he was profoundly concerned, his present duty lay in Canada. He had therefore felt it necessary to decline the call to Melbourne. Spontaneous applause broke from the crowded congregation and the whole assembly rose to its feet and sang the Doxology.

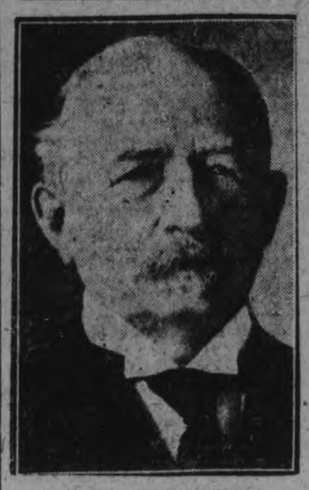
BEAUTY HINT.

The following recipe is given for green liquid soap, which is recommended by skin specialists for fine skins, or for those which have the pores extended.

Take equal parts of glycerine, water, alcohol and green castile soap. Shave the soap into the water and stir over the fire until the mixture is smooth.

Add the glycerine, and lastly, after the kettle is removed from the fire, the alcohol. Add a tablespoonful of eau de cologne, if perfume is desired.

Merging of National Lines With C.P.R. is Mooted Shaughnessy



LORD SHAUGHNESSY,
Who proposes the merging of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. virtually under government ownership.

PRESENTS MEMORANDUM TO PREMIER MEIGHEN SUGGESTING THIS IS ONLY SOLUTION OF RAILWAY PROBLEMS.

MONTREAL, April 25.—(Canadian Press).—The merging of the Canadian National Railway System with the Canadian Pacific Railway under what would be virtually government ownership with management by the existing Canadian Pacific Railway Executive is Lord Shaughnessy's solution of Canada's railway problems as offered by him in a memorandum submitted to right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister of Canada. This is the second time Lord Shaughnessy has offered his advice to the government In 1917 he prepared a memorandum for Sir Robert Borden, setting forth somewhat similar proposal. No action was taken and in the letter which accompanied this second memorandum Lord Shaughnessy explains that he has brought his original plan up to date.

The plan, in brief, is for the Government of Canada to take over the railway properties of the Canadian Pacific Railway operating in Canada and add them to the National lines. In return he suggests that consideration be given the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway in form of an undertaking by the Government to pay in perpetuity a fixed annual dividend on the share capital to be supplemented by a further payment when the whole property should yield a specified return.

With due deference to the views of Sir Henry Drayton and W. A. Acworth Lord Shaughnessy feels that their methods of management would not eliminate the danger of political interference because such methods could be changed by an Act of Parliament. Therefore he suggests that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company should be used under the terms of the contract approaching perpetuity in its duration to administer and operate the whole system for the people of Canada.

ALTER SCHEDULES TO CONFORM WITH GOTHAM'S DAYLIGHT SAVING PLAN.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Daylight saving went into effect here at 2 o'clock yesterday morning when all clocks save those in the Grand Central and Pennsylvania railroad terminals were moved ahead one hour. The daylight saving plan will remain in operation until Sept. 25. All railroads have altered their local and commuting train schedules to conform with the plan. Express trains will still operate under the eastern time schedule.

Wear Your Best Things Every Day

No need to save your pretty clothes—those specially becoming blouses and fine lingerie every woman loves to wear. No reason whatever to hang away your crepes and chiffons—wear and enjoy them and wash them.

A package of Princess Soap Flakes solves the cleaning problem for all fine materials. Satin and silk, crepes and laces can now be washed with perfect success—kept fresh and dainty as new with simple soap and water.

Makes them prettier

Princess Flakes were perfected for fancy washing—for cleansing delicate crepes and silks and laces without harming color or material. They are also the ideal soap for general laundry use.

This is because each curly flake is pure, whole soap, with no fillers and little moisture to rob them of cleansing power.

It makes them the practical, efficient washing machine soap. And it makes them a real economy because they go so much farther.

For woolens, too

Whether you are squeezing out a sweater or a pair of leggings and mittens or having a grand blanket washing, use Princess Soap Flakes.

No shrinking—no danger of drying harsh and stiff. Instead, everything soft, warm and wooly, just like new.

How to buy

Once you learn the value of Princess Flakes you will order by the 25-pound carton, which allows a big saving. You will use them for every laundry purpose and for general household needs.

THE PARK QUESTION.

In writing to the Examiner to oppose the suggested selling of King Edward Park, Mr. W. W. Yale concludes his communication with a suggestion that while perhaps not new, is worthy of consideration. It is to the effect that the city consider the appointment of a Parks Commissioner and a staff of men to look after the parks. There is no doubt that in the long run this would be by far the most satisfactory method of taking care of the city's breathing spots. The present system by which the contract is let each year and usually to a new man, may be cheaper, but a permanent staff in charge of a capable commissioner, would produce much better results and prove a more effective and a more business-like way. The parks should not be allowed to deteriorate or to lose a single bit of their attractiveness; in fact their appearances should be improving from year to year. Under the present system we are perhaps lucky that they have been as well looked after as they have. The appointment made this year should ensure good work being done, but sooner or later the city will be compelled to put the parks under a special department with a qualified commissioner in charge.

THIS WEEK'S CAMPAIGN.

Mayor McIntyre's proclamation to the citizens of Peterborough to enter heartily into the clean-up and paint-up campaign and the appeal of the Ontario Fire Prevention League, dovetail into each other neatly for a proper cleaning up means the removal of fire hazards. The League, indeed, declares that the first step towards effective fire protection is the removal of accumulations of rubbish, litter, paper, boxes and old furniture from attics, cellars and back yards. In complying, therefore, with the Mayor's request, the citizens will not only be making Peterborough a more attractive city, but a safer city, and the joint appeal should be endorsed by the community generally. The present week is set apart as clean-up week, and the citizens are urged to carry out the spirit of the campaign so that during the first week in May, when the school children are to act as deputy fire marshals and inspect their homes in order to make sure that causes of fires are removed, Peterborough will be in condition to meet the test and to make a creditable showing. The need of a general clean-up is shown by the official statement that the majority of fires are caused by carelessness and indifference, and with ordinary care could be prevented.

A MODEST REQUEST.

The deputation which waited upon Mayor Church in Toronto and wanted the city to provide $20 per week for every married man and $15 per week for every single man out of employment, is one of the fruits of the relief fund that has been distributed through the winter and is clear proof of the weakness of such a system in dealing with the unemployment problem. The trouble with an unemployment fund is that the deserving citizen will not avail himself of it until driven to it by dire necessity and after his resources have been exhausted, while on the other hand the parasites who never will work if there is any easy method of getting along, not only exploit the fund to the maximum, but having enjoyed the experience of getting something for nothing, now want to become life pensioners. It needs a very powerful imagination to picture any of the crowd which visited Toronto's City Hall on Saturday ever thinking of work, let alone looking for it, if they could rely on a benevolent municipality supplying them with funds each week. Most of the deputation seemed to be fervent in their admiration of conditions in Russia. It might be cheaper for Toronto to organize an excursion to the country they are so eager to eulogize and provide the advocates of Sovietism with one way tickets.

SCIENCE FOR NATIONAL SERVICE

News that Ottawa is to have a Federal Research Bureau will be received with satisfaction. The importance to-day of scientific research is everywhere apparent, and it is patent that, without this effective aid in industrial progress, Canada's growth in pace with the modern world is not to be expected.

It was on scientific research organized and exploited generously that Germany founded her industrial efficiency before the war. The Germans harnessed up to their industrial machine the most active intelects produced by their universities, and they found it profitable almost beyond estimation to keep men busy in well equipped laboratories. The silent scientist frequently made a discovery worth ten years' noisy hum of the factory wheels.

Canada's universities regularly are combed by representatives of big American corporations, and our best young men of science cross the border to add to the trading power of the neighboring country. Nobody will deny these men their chance to improve their positions in life, but it would be well worth while if Canada could retain them for national service. A Federal Research Bureau would provide a growing alternative field of usefulness.

No small part of the benefit to be derived from a Federal Research Bureau lies in bringing the value of scientific research to the attention of industries everywhere. Busy men of affairs do not always keep in touch with late discoveries. To call to their notice the ever changing aspect of science as it bears upon their activities and interests, is an important function of a bureau of the kind to be established at Ottawa.

In recent years Canada's Federal Research Council, patriotically conducted by certain eminent Canadian scientists, has performed excellent work with little or no public notice. It has prepared the ground for the larger development now projected by awakening Canadian industry to the help science can give. Its enquiry list has grown to thousands, and constant additions are being made of those who realize the economic value of scientific research.

Scientific researh covers all the fields of national activity, and it is therefore of the broadest national service. In propagating the idea in this country many public spirited agencies are active, and nobody has spoken in its favor more earnestly than His Excellency the Governor-General.—Montreal Star.

Peterborough's motor sprinkler seems to have gone dry simultaneously with the province.

That was a nice "write up" the Canadian Engineer gave our famous bridge. It'll take a lot of them, however, before we'll get our half million dollars back in advertising.

Who is asking for the McCrea Bill to be passed? Certainly not the municipalities. They are unanimous in their opposition to the measure.

It is appropriate that Peterborough's Sunday street cars should start moving on May Day.

Some of Toronto's unemployed seem to want to adopt idleness as a profession—at the expense of the taxpayers.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Remember the days in jog-rphy class when the teacher used to name a place and ask, "What, where, and for what noted?" We don't know whether teachers still ask the foregoing question, but in case they do, pupils have our permission to clip the following list and use it at examination time, pasted on a cuff (as their parents won't admit that they themselves ever did). Most cities are still cities, and to our knowledge haven't changed their location recently, so we include in our list only the things for which said places are now noted or notorious.

Montreal—Its former police force and for being the object of 99 per cent. of the "business" trips made in Canada.

Toronto—Its opinion of itself, its self-imposed appelation of "Toronto the good," its thirst, and its newspapers.

Hamilton—Led the wet totals in the Referendum of 18th March, 1921.

Ottawa—Its Governmental buildings, which are said to include a remarkably fine collection of ivory.

Windsor — Detroit's refreshment booth.

New York—"The Great White Way" (which is blue since Prohibition), well-ventilated divorce cases, girl-and-music shows, the number of people upon whom its Hearst mayor has conferred the freedom of the city, the reason according to best-selling novels of why girls and boys leave home, and its fashionable clothes made in New Jersey or New England.

Chicago—Holds world's record for murders, has a school superintendent who advocates murdering the English language, and has a strong perfume from the Union Stock Yards.

Los Angeles—Centre of the moving picture industry, but overshadowed by the reputation of its suburb Hollywood, home of most movie stars, due to activities of press-agents.

Mexico City—Objective of 90 per cent. of the world's revolutions until 1919, when an attempt was made to make peace in Europe.

We were going to continue to Europe with our list, but we find that we have missed several points of interest in North America, a few of which are:

Washington—Where the people of the U. S. send new representatives every four years in the gradually diminishing hope that some day they may by luck get a Congress which will think in sense instead of cents, and where Arthur Brisbane twists the British lion's tail on his typewriter for the Hearst newspapers at a reputed salary of $70,000 per annum.

Dawson City, Yukon—The scene of the action of novels written mostly by men who never wandered from a city pavement except in a motor car or railway train.

ELECTRICAL PLANT IN CANADA PLANNED.

English Combine Has Great Strength in Works and Capital.

MONTREAL, April 25.—Official particulars of the English Electric Company, Ltd., the $25,000,000 corporation which is to establish a plant in Canada, have now been received by Capt. Evan J. Edwards, senior British trade commissioner. About $10,000,000 of the capital has already been issued. The company has consolidated and operated under one management, the Dick, Kerr Works, Preston; Ordnance Works, Coventry; Phoenix Works, Bradford; Siemens Works, Stafford, and Willans Works, Rugby.

All these, except the Ordnance, were pioneers in the electrical industry. The Willans plant specialized in steam engines for electric generation; Siemens were pre-eminent in dynamo construction; Dick, Kerr, in electric tramways the world over.

Over 35 per cent. of the employees in the silk mills in China are women over 21 years of age.

ICE CREAM PARLORS ARE A BEAUTY SPOT

PETERBORO' ENTERPRISE EXTENDED TO BRAMPTON CITY

Here is what the Brampton Conservator has to say about Haggis' new ice cream store recently opened up in Brampton:

A visitor to the Haggis ice cream parlors this week is sure to have been struck by two things, the beauty of the decorative panels on the walls and the brilliancy and arrangement of the eelctric lighting. On the left wall of the parlor is a long panel, reproducing a Rocky Mountain scene, that will repay considerable study, so comprehensive is it. Above this panel are four smaller ones, showing scenes in sports and athletics, well known to Canadians. The effect of these scenes, when viewed in the long mirror on the right of the parlor is surprisingly entertaining. To the left on entering the store, the visitor sees a beautiful panel in colors, representing children at play, while further back in the store is a reproduction of a scene from Venice in soft sepia tints. Both of the pictures will compel the interest of customers. The lighting was the work of Mr. George Hall, the soldier eelctrician, and is a handsome piece of work. Seven inverted bowls are suspended from the ceiling, each covering a 300-watt lamp. Beneath the arch under which visitors to the parlor pass are three beautiful opaline globes, and these, with the larger lamps, raise the lighting units to 2,800 watts.

CHAPEAU'S ON LOCAL MARKET

Anyone who witnessed the efforts of a prominent member of the Fire Department to adjust his head to a number of the gentlemen's hats offered on the open market Saturday morning, for a quarter, would hesitate ever again to accuse that branch of civic industry of extravagance. Failure to be accommodated was not the fault of the member in question, for he certainly tried hard enough. All sorts of headgear for the small sum of two bits was going the rounds, and being tried on as carefully as the average woman tries on a twenty-dollar hat. Squashable effects in white straw, with black bands, round affairs with the conventional three-piece air-holes, a sample pronounced "very stylish" by the vendor, which, however, elicited little enthusiasm from the crowd, and "something new" demonstrated in person by the auctioneer, a black wide-brimmed soft straw which imparted a lady-like appearance to his auburn locks, were some of the offerings at this open-air millinery sale, in six and a quarter, six and three-quarters, and seven and an eighth. Whether it was the small price asked, or the novelty of purchasing a hat with little effort, or the impending rain which threatened to ruin the entire stock, or all these factors together, at any rate, there was a large crowd around the two hat vendors, and much enthusiasm was displayed over the merits of the different "lids."

"Fruit-a-tives" Conquered Nervous Prostration

R. R. No. 4, GILBERT PLAINS, MAN.

"In the year 1910, I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; dropping from 170 to 115 pounds.

The doctors had no hope of my recovery, and every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take "Fruit-a-tives".

I began to mend almost at once, and never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past eight years. I am never without "Fruit-a-tives" in the house". JAS. S. DELGATY.

Pineapple Snow Pudding.

A quarter of a box of gelatine, a quarter of a cup of boiling water, one cup of sugar, a quarter of a cup of lemon juice, whites of three eggs, one cupful of chopped sliced pineapple (tinned or fresh — if fresh pineapple is used it should be sweetened well with sugar). Soak the gelatine in the cold water until soft; then dissolve in the boiling water; add the sugar and lemon juice. Stir until the sugar is dissolved; strain and set in ice water to cool. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth. When the gelatine begins to thicken, pour it slowly over the whites and beat together until very light. Then stir in the pineapple. Pour into a mould and set on ice. Serve surrounded with whipped cream flavored with orange juice.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

INTROSPECTION—AND A GIFT

Chapter 36

After Dr. Mitchell left I got back into bed and stayed there for the rest of the day. Indeed, I was extremely glad to do so.

I tried to sleep but now it seemed impossible. The mental torpor which had hung like a lowering cloud over my brain all the previous day, lifted. In its stead came one consuming thought which burned its way into every atom of my mind. I kept saying it over and over to myself. Sometimes the words slipped past my feverish lips in a half audible mumble!

"It isn't true—it isn't true—I won't believe it." The words brought comfort to me.

In fact, I could not believe all that Mrs. Russell had told me. I could not see it as she had pictured it. That Leonard had been seen with Mrs. Darwood I never doubted for a minute. Had I not known it to happen before? Yes, many times. But to place the significance and the meaning upon it that Mrs. Russell had tried to—no, I could not—I would not! Not with Leonard, my husband.

Leonard had business interests, and necessities which demanded certain measures—measures which perhaps did not entirely meet with his own approbation, but which were absolutely a necessity. There need be nothing wrong in them.

Of course, of late Leonard had remained rather silent about his frequent evenings with Mrs. Darwood. I was sorry for that. But after all that was mostly my own fault. I had shown too plainly my disapproval of Leonard's client. One time I had even acted pouty because he had told me it would be necessary for him to remain down town late to talk business with her.

A man always hates to bring up disagreeable subjects, and he had refrained from telling me in the future. That has been my fault. I had failed as a wife, failed to display confidence and understanding for my husband.

The theatre, a roof garden, or dinner in a restaurant did not necessitate wrong-doing. Leonard was above reproof. I would stake my life on it.

About noon Leonard telephoned to see how I was feeling.

"Tell him I am lots better, Emma," I called downstairs. "Ask Mr. Allen if he will be home for dinner tonight," I called again. I wanted him, wanted him so very much right then.

"What did Mr. Allen say?" I asked, turning towards the door as I heard Emma come up the stairs.

"He said he was so relieved to know you were better, Oh yes, and he said he'd be home real early tonight," she told me, and the words brought joy to my heart.

I sat up in bed and ate some broth and toast which Emma brought me. Then I dropped off into a peaceful slumber.

At 4 o'clock, though against doctor's orders, I got up and dressed. My mirror reflected tired eyes and a trifle too white a transparency in my cheeks. I felt better though. A return of happiness was giving warmth to my blood.

I chose a simple little frock of soft peach colored pussy-willow silk. Its gentle coloring seemed to tone in with the paleness of my face. My arms were tired, and doing my hair tired me terribly. I decided to brush it closely back and fix it in a soft knot at the back of my neck.

I heard Leonard's step on the front piazza and a few minutes later he came bounding up the stairs to my room.

"How are you, Noreen?" he asked, sinking into a chair alongside of my dressing table. "Are you sure you feel well enough to get up, dear," he said as I tried to assure him that I was lots better.

"I have a little present for you," he said boyishly, placing a small oblong box in my lap.

"Oh, Leonard," I said my heart beating happily.

I cut the string with a pair of scissors and reached down into tissue paper depths. My hand brought forth the most wonderful imported beaded bag.

An Open Letter to Retail Merchants

Assuming people have money (Savings Banks Deposits, January 31st, were one billion three hundred odd million dollars), the great force in making them buy things is to stimulate a buying atmosphere.

This can best be done by newspaper advertising.

But we do not advocate Continuous "Slaughter" Sales Copy. In fact, we think this more of a handicap than a help to business under present conditions.

While the public is led to believe that prices are still falling, it will remain hesitant to buy until they reach rock-bottom.

Sound buying atmosphere can be created only by the persistent and sustained effort of merchants in all lines, indicating the utility and quality of merchandise, and pointing out that values are stable.

* * *

This, however, is the best possible time to create the buying atmosphere. Spring is the Opening-up Time. Impulses that have lain dormant for months are blossoming out.

Sunshine and the lengthening days make nature sunny and loosen purse strings. The doffing of the coat reveals Vanity. Vanity causes people to buy things. This is true not only of wearing apparel—it is true of the hundred-and-one things that are bought for the house, incident to the annual event known as spring cleaning.

Every merchant in this city should bring his big guns to bear upon advertising for the next few weeks. If all do it, the buying spirit will just as surely follow as day follows the night.

tertained at a garden party at Buchingham Palace. He inquired most interestedly concerning their diocese, and their work and shaking hands said you saw my boy in Canada. What did you think of him? The Prince of Wales stands at the top of splendid young manhood and he is working his way into the hearts and lives of his people. Four fold injunction and you stand for three-linked virtues in Christ, (1) Friendship like the friendship of Jonathan and David, James and Peter, or Barnabas and Paul. Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil law of Christ Linked with friendship is love. By love you serve one another. Your society is a beautiful practical ideal of the "Good Samaritan". Each man takes that command "Go and do thou likewise". Linked in Truth as the hands, is religion of honesty and heart purity. Multiply these various religious virtues and faculties, God has given finds its fullness and fruition. The speaker urged the men to go home, to their work, where they served God and the community and remember a little leaven leaventh the whole. Friendship, love and truth if these things be in you, you will be neither barren nor unfruitful in the day when all stand before the judgment seat of Christ Honour all men. Love the brotherhood Fear God. Honour the King.

A Large Funeral

One of the most largely attended and impressive funeral ever held in yesterday, when the remains of Charles Wesley Ibey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ibey were laid to rest in Mount Pleasant cemetery. As the military marched to the grave and the band played the "Dead March", every head was bowed. The pall bearers were members of C. Company 40th Regiment and during the lowering of the casket the farewell charge was fired and Bugler Geo. Salter sounded the last post. The True Blues of whom the deceased was a member then took charge of the ceremony.

Exhanged Pulpits.

Musterole Loosens Up Those Stiff Joints—Drives Out Pain

You'll know why thousands use Musterole once you experience the glad relief it gives.

Get a jar at once from the nearest drug store. It is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Brings ease and comfort while it is being rubbed on!

Musterole is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Millions of jars are used annually for bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER

NEW YORK NOT DRY, MORE ARID THAN BEFORE.

Credit or Blame Goes to The Volstead Act—Even Tonsorial Parlors Smell a Great Deal Too "Rummy."

NEW YORK, April 22.—(By Canadian Press.)—Not even the most enthusiastic "pussyfoot" will claim that New York City is dry, but it is a simple fact that the metropolis is a great deal more arid at present than it ever was before. Credit—or blame, depending upon the point of view—goes not to the Volstead Act, but to Governor Nathan Miller and the New York State legislature. By an act of the Legislature, the responsibility for enforcing the prohibition laws in New York has been placed on the shoulders of the city police, knowing that their jobs are at stake the city police have displayed unwonted activity in this particular direction.

Some say that the new State law is a political move in the battle between Republicans and Democrats. It is alleged that the Republican Governor is endeavoring to place the Democratic mayor of New York, Mr. Hylan, in a tight corner. In any event the speakeasies have been having a hard time of it these later weeks and the quest for a drink is not the snap it used to be when a few federal prohibition enforcement officers were trying to demonstrate the impossible by being everywhere in Greater N w York at once. The corner policeman can no longer be depended upon to guide the thirsty stranger to the nearest oasis. The bystander in the old place that could be relied on in an extremity has become supercilious and very exclusive. Many of the old standby saloons have shut down altogether since the new law came into force.

Seventy Arrests Daily.

Police headquarters announce that the city force has averaged seventy arrests per day since the state law became effective. Cops in uniform and also in plain clothes have been distinctly busy. Coney Island, a haven of delight in other seasons for those who do not agree with Mr. Volstead, has been invaded. The man with a bulge on his hip runs a chance of having the protuberance investigated. Shoe boxes are said to have become unpopular packages with the shopper, owing to their corresponding shape. The diner in a restaurant with a glass of ginger ale before him knows not the moment when an official looking person will come up and sample his drink. Those who have settled comfortably into the habit of securing their liquor easily under the Volstead Act have nhad to bestir themselves and seek new and safer sources. The law has been very unsettling to many people.

Confronted with a multitude of new cases, the police officials and magistrates have been compelled to go into executive session and discuss their policy in dealing with the problem. The first court test of the new State laws resulted in the discharge of a man arrested for having a bottle of alleged whiskey on his premises. Counsel for the defense showed what the possession of the liquor by his client was not proven. While the bottle was found on a table in a rear room of the defendant's saloon, the judge held that it was possible that a customer might have left it there.

Other and weighty questions have arisen. For instance there has been grave discussion as to whether a man's hip pocket is, under the law a "vehicle" when he is carrying a flask in it. It was the unanimous judgment of the conference of police officials and magistrates that, the pocket being a useless vehicle in itself and only being a vehicle in that it was attached to the pair of pants, the entire trousers became the "vehicle" and in their (more) entirety are liable to seizure. This decision adds new horror to the position of the man who is accustomed to transporting his supply on his person.

Bay Rum Too Rummy.

The humble but necessary barber shop has come into the limelight since the so-called Mullan-Gage bill (the New York State law) became effective. Leaving the beaten path of the liquor-hunter of former days the police have begun to said tonsorial parlors where the bay rum smells too rummy. There is no safe place from their attacks, it would seem. Dry goods stores have bee raided for the wet goods, and even private cellars have been entered by the prying minions of the law, with the most satisfactory results. The eyes of the force see far and their noses scent out the forbidden juice with unerring precision. The number of home brew plants and private stills captured in the campaign seems to indicate that the drinker of yesterday has become the brewer and distiller of today.

Another strange fact has been brought to light, despite the complaints of drinkers and the frequent assertions that "you can't buy good whiskey any more," most of the stuff now being sold in New York is of good quality and some of it is actually the unadulterated "best stock" of other days. This is on the authority of Frederick J. Kenney, director of the Central Testing Laboratories of the City Board of Purchase, where samples of seized liquor are taken for analysis. Not a drop of wood alcohol has been found in any sample yet analyzed and while "new whiskey" is among the seizures, it is not poisonous and is the exception rather than the rule. The same applies to the wines, brandies, gin and beers under examination. The samples represent liquors taken from saloons in practically every part of the city and include fine champagnes.

Serious Situation.

Another serious situation has developed in connection with the work of the city police. It is said that the officials engaged in looking for illegal liquor are using the "tasting" method most freely. Entering a saloon they ask for a drink and take it, if the bartender is kind enough to serve it. In other instances they see on the bar a glass that seems to contain whiskey and they sample it without asking "by your leave". Then they make the arrest. In the course of the day a policeman who has visited a number of places on this duty is said to become somewhat merry and bright. One city magistrate has declared that he will not accept the evidence of a policeman who has made more than five arrests of this sort in one day. Five "shots" of the stuff, in the magistrates view, must disturb the equilibrium of anybody, even a policeman.

The provision in the state law whereby each case must be tried individually by a jury is resulting in a grave congestion in the courts. Indictments are being brought in by the hundred, but the actual trial of the cases has hardly commenced. In the meantime the one of raiding goes forward daily, and before long the courts will have enough to keep them busy for many months.

The city detectives are resorting to all sorts of devices to snare the unwary. Recently Leo Busch, a porter, essayed so role of "good samaritan' and placed whiskey to the lips of a spotter who feigned collapse before the doors of a saloon, and was held in $500 bond for the Grand Jury, charged with violation of the prohibition laws. Busch told the magistrate that he thought the man was dying until the latter sprang to his feet and arrested him.

A porcupine when startled issues a squeaking sound.

CUT WAGES 20 PER CENT.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The New York Central Railroad Company is reported to have notified practically all classes of its skilled labor of proposed wage reductions of 20 per cent., to be placed in effect May 20.

Madame Petrova will soon appear under the banner of A. H. Woods in a play by herself with a Spanish atmosphere.

For the way that brings prettier teeth

Do as millions have done—make this ten-day test. See how film removal beautifies the teeth. Learn how it makes safer teeth. Brush your teeth in the modern way and watch all the good effects.

Film makes teeth dingy

That viscous film you feel is the teeth's chief enemy. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Old brushing methods did not effectively combat it. So very few people have escaped discoloration and decay.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Two ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two effective ways to fight film. They are combined in a new-day tooth paste—Pepsodent—made to meet modern requirements.

Each use of Pepsodent brings five effects which dentists now desire. It attacks the film. It keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

It increases the salivary flow, which is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which otherwise may form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus Pepsodent is bringing to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Leading dentists everywhere are now urging its adoption.

Results are delightful

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

All the effects are delightful. All are now considered essential. See and feel them for awhile. Read the reasons for them in the book we send. Then decide for you and yours between the old ways and the new. Cut out the coupon now.

Interesting Goods to Be Seen Here and There About the Store

A Reproduction of The Famous "Ardebil's" Rug

It is Oriental in design, and is the finest quality made on a high power loom. A heavy, deep pile makes it soft to the tread, and the Black ground almost obscured by Persian Blues, Pinks, and Fawns, in fantastic Oriental scrolls, make it pleasing to the eye.

An Outstanding Feature Is—It Is Seamless

Size 9ft. x 10ft. 6in.—Regular $180.00, for $132.00
Size 9ft. x 12ft.—Regular $210.00, for $155.00.

A Copy of a "Sarouk"

The size is 9ft. x 9ft.—Regular $92.00, for $70.00.

Both of these lines are woven true to the Oriental method, with the pattern worked through and through.

Chesterfield Comfort and Elegance

Are worthily displayed in a beautiful set on our third floor. It is the finest example of workmanship and beauty we have shown, we believe.

The arm is the roll pattern and has double springs and there is luxurious depth to the cushions. The covering is French tapestry with a black ground showing through the conventionlized flowers and foliage. Dull rose, gold and blue are the top colors with blue predominating. The Chesterfield is priced at $325 and the chair $170.

"Tallo-Ho," A Migel Silk

It is one of this famous series of Silks from a noted maker. It has a Crepe finish all its own, and comes in distinctive patterns. We present it in Platinum Grey, patterned with a one-inch Pekin Blue stripe, bordered with two smaller ones. There is a five-inch space of Grey between each stripe. A Skirt length is a yard and a half, and the price is $11.50 yard.

Another "Tally-Ho" is all white and the pattern is alternative rows of five inches of plain and five inches of satin. It is $9.50 yd

"Moon-Glow" crepe comes in platinum grey and the pattern is alternate rows of two inch satin stripes and two inches of plain. The price is $11.50 yard.

More Interesting Silks

Skinner's Taffeta—a guaranteed cloth stamped every yard; from one of the oldest and most reliable makers. Obtainable in light and dark navy and black. Thirty six inches wide and $3.85 yard.

Silk vestings in dull tones of blue and rich browns in Oriental patterns. Suitable for vestees, collars and cuffs and fancy bags. Twenty four inches wide and $3.00 yard.

A handsome Foulard with a navy ground patterned with small and large irregular white circles. The width is 36 inches and the price is $3.75 yard.

Travelling Goods

With Durability, Good Appearance and Convenience

No one would be ashamed to carry this Black Bag of solid Cowhide. It has a dignified appearance, and is made of a first quality leather. There is never a sign of a wrinkle where the ends are shaped. The lining, too, is of real leather. The frame is stitched on and the hardware is nickel-plated. Twenty-inch size, and priced at $33.00.

An eighteen-inch Bag of Dark Tan Cowhide, with Brass hardware, is $30.50.

Others are low as $4.75, and many at in-between prices.

We are showing a Lady's Bag of chocolate colored solid cowhide with a crepe finish. It is easily distinguished from a man's bag by the sharper angles of its shape. Leather lined and equipped with English locks. Price $26.50.

Few people who have never used a wardrobe trunk realize what a great convenience it is. After arriving at your destination there are no crumpled garments unfit for immediate wear and consequently there are no pressing bills to pay.

This wardrobe trunk at $35 contains a hat box, two drawers, and one spacious side devoted to five garment hangers. The end of this section is on a hinge and simplifies the removal of the garments. The entire interior is lined wth a blue and gray floral fabric.

Trunks from $10 to $55.

A very fine suit case that promises to hold a good quantity of goods is of dark brown cowhide. It is equipped with outside straps and a heavy lock on both ends. Inside there is a shirt fold and the lining is a durable brown Holland. Price $24.50.

Others commencing at $2.50, and going slowly upward to $24.50.

Pretty Neck-Fixings

Ecru lace for collars and cuffs in the fashionable and much wanted heavy pattern. The design is quite open and therefore in the forefront of good style. Price $1.75. yard

Filet edgings for collars and cuffs, in square shaped petals, is $1.75 yard. Petals of net edged with lace and very pretty, too, are only $1.35 yard.

A particularly pretty frilling for vestees is made up of a series of nine rows of fine lace. It is $4.50 a yard but of course you will not require that much. Another design for the same purpose is of alternate rows of lace and tucked net. Price $4.50 yard.

Collar and Cuff Sets

$1.75 will purchase this set of cream net with its small cross bar pattern formed of tucks. The edge is finished with lace.

A $2 set is of crisp white organdie with a deep hemmed edge with the inner extremity outlined with drawn work and patterned with a panel of the same.

Some Innovations in Veils

These are the greatly favored flowing veils that look so well with sailor hats and give an air of jauntiness and unconcern when flying loose at the back.

One series with a very open, four-sided mesh has a double border of fine stripes and is further adorned with chenille dots. They are priced at $1.50 and you have choice of navy with heavy dots; taupe with taupe, black with sand, black with henna, and black with deep blue.

Another is worth $1.75 (a little more) because the threading is heavier although the weave is just as open. Obtainable in black only.

Even at $1 we can show one in a pleasing effect. Its meshing is quite open and the border is formed of fine meshes. Obtainable in black or navy blue.

Quite the Finest and Largest Lot of Parasols
We Have Ever Shown

At $7.25 and $7.95 there is a series of pretty handles in the straight stem style, with coloured studded ends and Bakelite rings. There is one with a White Ivory handle and Black Cap or Stud, and is carried by a Cordelier of Braided Leather. The tops are all Silk and Wool, with taped edge. Each is equipped with an outside cover.

At $6.50—a fine variety of Handles, with Bakelite rings, in a rainbow of colours. There is one exception to the rule, and it is sterling silver. Silk and Wool tops, taped edge, and outside cover with each.

At $4.95 they have silk and wool tops and round and flat wooden handles with bakelite rings. Taped edges and outside cover.

At $3.95 they are much the same as the above but less elaborate but afford just as much protection from the rain.

At $2.95 they have long, round ebony finished handles and colored rings and taped edges.

At $1.98 the tops are of good quality umbrella cloth, the handles straight and of dark finished woods.

A pure silk navy blue taffeta parasol comes at $10.00. The handle is finished in color to match, and also the batelite ring. The end is studded with a white cap with a ring of blue.

There is a wisteria colored taffeta at $14. The edge is taped with an Oriental design. The handle is straight and is carried by a ring in mottled grey color.

There are other all silk tops in black, at $12. Some of these have white boned tipped ribs and black and ebony finished handles.

Boys' and Girls' Parasols at $1.89 and $2.25

They are miniatures of the Women's and come with pleasing colored rings and silk and wool tops, with taped edges.

The Boys' are miniatures of the Men's Umbrellas and have crooked handles.

Use A Barnet Refrigerator
If Only For Economy's Sake Alone

Easily perishable goods will keep for days in a Barnet, and they will retain their freshness. Furthermore, one food will not taint another. Baby's milk will keep sweet and pure, guarded securely from any invasion of disease germs or bacteria by the constant circulation of fresh, chilled, dry air. Women who own Barnets estimate that their refrigerators pay for themselves in a short time through saving in food alone.

Barnets have eleven walls to keep the heat out and the cold in. That means a slow consumption of ice — another saving. The temperature is always low, ranging from 36 to 40 degrees.

An Assortment of Sizes Now on Third Floor

We Recommend "Hurlbut Shoes" for Children

because we know they give you excellent return for the money you invest, and you do not have to invest so often when the Children wear "Hurlbuts."

The Wunx hide play slipper we are showing in this brand is excellent and is built to withstands lots of rough wear. Sizes 5 to 7 1-2. A white buck, strap slipper for dressier occasions can be had in sizes from 5 to 10 1-2.

Warner Rust-Proof Corsets

Are designed and fashioned by one of the foremost makers. They are built for wear and service; they give both month after month, without developing breaks, rips or tears; because every part is of equal strength, consistent with the strain put upon it.

Embroideries
Wide and Narrow

It is a pleasure to show them—they are so fresh and clean and so neatly patterned. We have only had them in our Store a little while.

An assortment of all-over patterns in an eighteen-inch flouncing. They are worked on a fine Lawn, and have firm edges. Price 75c yard.

At 60c there is a variety of patterns in twelve-inch width. The Embroidery workings are to a depth of about six inches.

At 25c the width is three and a half inches, and the quality just as good and just as fine as the wider ones.

There is also a range two and a half inches wide at 15c and also an assortment two inches wide at 12½c yard.

For Infant's Dresses

This is a 27 inch width and is $1.50 a yard. It is a genuine Swiss, worked on a fine Persian lawn. The patterns are particularly suitable for infants' Dresses for they are small and dainty.

Utility Bags of Leather

Some might call them overnight bags and they would be right for they will serve on such occasions.

They are of genuine split cowhide and are a convenient size and are carried by double handles like those on a club bag. A strap with the assistance of a buckle fastens over the centre to prevent articles falling out. Obtainable in black or dark brown. Priced at $5.25.

Martin-Senour Floor Paint

has a reputation for standing up well under constant use. It dries very hard with a high lustre and has sufficient elasticity to give under pressure, rather than crack. Its use on soft wood floors will permit of the use of rugs and enhance the beauty of the room.

ANNUAL CHURCH PARADE SUNDAY

WAR VETERANS ATTEND MEMORIAL SERVICE AT THE TEMPLE.

Yesterday witnessed the 4th annual church parade of the Great War Veterans' Association, and about 250 of them, in the largest parade in their history, assembled at their hall in the morning, and, accompanied by the G.W.V.A. Band, marched to the Salvation Army Temple, to attend memorial services for their fallen brothers. Between 30 and 40 of the ladies of the Auxiliary also attended this service, which was carried out with much impressiveness. A one-minute interval with bowed heads, followed by the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," preceded the opening prayer by Ensign Beer, and an address of welcome by Adjutant Bunton. "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was then sung, and a selection from the noted Staff Sextette of Toronto was very much appreciated, followed by a number from the Salvation Army Band. The hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save," was sung, and an exceptionally fine address by Commandant McElhiney, dealing with the heroes of the Great War, and the patience of the woman who waited and watched for their men, was given. "Abide With Me" and the benediction, with the entire congregation standing in silence with bowed heads, closed a most impressive and edifying service.

TURNS UP AFTER NINETEEN YEARS

DURHAM, Ont., April 25.—That John Jardine, formerly well-known in this neighborhood, where he was resident, and who mysteriously disappeared nineteen years ago next May, is now alive in Michigan, was revealed in a letter received here from William Burnett, who used to be a neighbor of Jardine's and who ran into him in Manistique City, Mich. Jardine acknowledged his identity.

DREW GUN ON OFFICERS, AND IS FINED $1,000.00.

PRESCOTT, April 25—For drawing a revolver on seven inspectors and provincial officers when they captured four cars containing liquor, and arrested eight occupants, Henry Marceau, of Ogdensburg, was fined $1,000.00, in addition to another $1,000.00 for breach of the O.T.A.

Two other claimed to be Hull taxi drivers engaged to transport thirty bags of liquor to Prescott, for which A. Binette, Ogdensburg, was fined $500.00, and costs.

In these arrests and convictions, the license authorities have struck hard at what is alleged to be systematic rum-running between Hull, Quebec, and Northern New York State.

WENT TO SLEEP AND CAR TURNED TURTLE.

COLBORNE, April 25.—While Government Milk Inspector C. Palmateer was driving his car on the highway in East Colborne, he was overcome by sleep, and while passing the Baptist Church, the car smashed through a railing and turned turtle in the creek. Palmateer escaped with a ducking and the loss of his hat and pipe, both of which were swept away in the current, but the car sustained enough damage to send it to the repair shop.

Growing Old Gracefully

Are you growing old gracefully? Who wins in the race of life? Is it the man who is thin-blooded, weak, tired all the time?

An athlete trains for every race. A man is as strong as his blood and as old as his arteries. Make your blood redder, your health better by taking that old fashioned blood tonic—sold fifty years ago and still "good as gold"—namely, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Sold by all druggists, or send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package.

CHATHAM, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble, and I tried many remedies, but they seemed to be a failure—I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came into possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it, and my stomach trouble seemed completely cured. I have great faith in this medicine, and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the 'Discovery' a trial. Once tried, you will never be without it."—C. TITUS, Jr., 23 Duke St.

TRACK WALKING ON C.P.R. DISCONTINUED

It was reported to-day around the C.P.R. Station that the company had dispensed yesterday with the customary track-walking on Sunday, a practice which has been carried on for many years as a precaution against possible damage to the tracks by traffic during the week-end.

According to The Examiner's informant, the section men understand that this suspension of inspection is aimed at reducing expenses, but they point out that the railway is unvisited by the usual supervisors from four o'clock on Saturday afternoon until eight o'clock on Monday morning, if the company's decision remains in effect.

There is something radically wrong when a bride on her wedding tour doesn't write home that she has the best husband in the world.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

This is a Short Letter, But It Proves the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bothwell, Ont.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. W. J. Brady, R. R. 2, Bothwell, Ont.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by women only.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

SERVICES AT GEORGE STREET

"Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God," was the text chosen by Rev. W. Harold Young for the Sunday morning service. Mr. Young spoke on the subject of "Life's Victory."

A man may adopt the religion of Buddhism, Mahommedanism, or Confuscianism and it may seem for a time as though the messages of these faiths meet his needs. Sooner or later, however, he comes to the place where they fail to speak to his real heart needs and he must pray for something better. Let a man follow Christ, open his heart to the truths of Christianity and the messages of the Master, and each changing experience brings a new conviction of the way Christianity can and does speak to a man in every hour and every need.

Christianity speaks to a man in his hour of gladness, his hour of doubt or bereavement. We have all perhaps experienced the adequacy of Christianity to meet our needs.

There is no experience which the Christian is called upon to face more often and more really than that of struggle. Christ faced His hour of temptation in the wilderness, No sooner had He met and conquered this temptation than He was called upon to face His enemies, the Pharisees and Saducees. This is but the experience of every Christian. The powers of evil are to be met, faced and conquered all about us.

A conflict we frequently have to face is that of pleasing God or pleasing our fellowmen and doing the things which will make us popular. Another conflict is the one with passion.

Still another conflict is with the spirit of cynicism. How often we have to fight that spirit which says prayer is simply self delusion and that life is merely a mockery and a jest.

The spirit of indifference is another very real conflict. "I wonder if there ever was a generation," said Mr. Young, "when the world was so much with us as it is to-day. So many seek to put aside the matter of their relationship with God and the things which are most vital. I believe the spirit of indifference is the greatest antagonist the church has to face to-day."

In these varied hours of struggle, however, we are met with the great ringing message of Christianity. It is not a message of compromise, defeat or delayed hope. It is a message of real balm—a message of a sure and certain victory. The text "Who is he that overcometh the world but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God," shows that the Christian message is one of overcoming.

Faith is a prime essential in the Christian life. Belief alone never gave a man victory in the hour of conflict. But we must not confuse belief and faith. Belief is an act of the mind alone—faith is more. Belief is only the intellectual assent. Faith is the dedicatory of the whole personality — the commitment of one's entire self to something or somebody. Our only guide on the path of salvation is when we commit ourselves and all we have to following Christ. "Jesus Christ gave us a definition of saving faith," said Mr. Young, "and I believe it is the only one that works." He said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all try soul and with all thy might."

If this is faith, can we not see it working out in many lives to-day. Mr. Young gave a very striking illustration in connection with this point when he told of seeing a young girl leaving Vancouver to take up missionary work in China. Her friends who were at the dock to say farewell were completely broken up. The only one in the little party who showed perfect composure was the girl herself. Why? In that hour she was giving herself completely and absolutely to her Saviour.

Then, too, we should remember that the power which kept Christ strong in the human side of His life was His complete surrender to the will of His Father.

Evening Service.

In the evening Mr. Young preached on Martin Luther, the founder of Protestantism and his stand for religious freedom. This subject was chosen in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of this great event, which occurs this month.

TRADE WITH U. S. CONTINUES IN HUGE VOLUME.

NEW YORK, April 25.—(Canadian Press). — "Canadian-American trade continues in relatively undiminished volume," says the Wall Street Journal. "Total trade with the United States in February, 1921, was $79,000,000, or $23,000,000 below February, 1920. Our exports to Canada amounted to $48,000,000, a decline of $18,000,000. Imports from Canada were $33,000,000, or $7,000,000 under year ago figures.

"But for 8 months ended with February, 1921, the total was $1,000,000,000, a gain of $106,000,000. It was made in a period of general decline of commerce with nearly all other countries. Exports to Canada were worth $418,000,000, a gain of $46,000,000, as against a fall of $93,000,000 in total volume of all U. S. exports. Imports from Canada were $418,000,000, a gain of $59,000,000.

"With the exception of French and German imports, the volume of U.S. purchases abroad has nowhere held up as well in the recent decline as in Canada's markets. In fact, in the 8 months Canada sold to and bought from the U.S. by an aggregate of $192,000,000 more goods than did all South America together. The balance against Canada for the period was $175,000,000, against $188,000,000 for the same period last year.

A REGULAR MEETING WELL BABIES' CLINIC.

The regular meeting of the Well Babies' Clinic will be held on Tuesday afternoon, April 26th, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the G.W.V.A. Hall. Dr. Eastwood will give an address on the feeding of infants and children in the "runabout" stage, and as this will be a valuable talk by an experienced doctor, there should be a good attendance. The Government nurse will be present and give a demonstration. Mrs. Kendry, president of the board of management, will occupy the chair. Refreshments will be served by the King's Daughters. Everything is free, and all women interested in the work of the Clinic are invited to attend.

CHURCH SERVICES IN MARK STREET

The congregations at both services were good, and the choir did well. Mr. Ingal of Normal School, gave a very helpful address in the Sunday School. The subject was "The Spring that feeds the Fountain," and was a development of John VII, 37, "In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink." The following is an outline of the message by Rev. G. E. Ross.

The Burning Sting of Disregard.

The soul of Jesus was as sensitive as the eolian harp, when fanned by the zephyr of the morning, and this instrument is so finely strung, that breathings of a little babe would awaken harmony among its chords. The finer the soul, the deeper the sympathy The more sensitive the spiritual make-up of the man, the easier it will be to wound him. Consider, then, the cruel blow that Jesus received right over his heart on the great day of the feast. He saw the priest pass by with the golden pitcher to be filled at the pool of Silsam; he heard him cry out as he returned, "With joy shall we draw water out of the wells of Salvation" This reference to the "wells of Salvation" was a direct allusion to Christ, but while he stands there in the temple 'mid the surging crowd, his soul is stung to the quick by this cutting regard. No wonder he cries out "If any man thirst let him come unto me and drink."

Jesus the Spring that feeds the Fountain.

Man thirsts for life, pleasure, activity, society, knowledge, power, esteem, and love. And man thirsts for God. God is the author of every good desire, and Christ is the fountain at which it may be gratified. "Papa", said a little girl, "is the sun at the other end of that sunbeam"? "Yes," was the reply. "How far away papa?" "Ninety million miles." "And its so light and warm papa?" Oh, yes, and Jesus, the Sun of Righteousness, is at the other end of every good desire, and thought, and impulse that ever touched the mind and heart of man. You are a bad man? And you have a good desire. Well I cannot explain the fact, but it is true nevertheless, God gave you that good desire; and the God that gave it is able to gratify the desire.

The Quality of our Desires Changes at the Fountain

Everyman thirsts for life and pleasure and society and love. And why not? Every creature in the world desires life, even the worm at our feet. But what is the character of the life we crave? Is it a fast life? Come to the fountain, and that unholy longing will be changed to a thirst for eterna life. Is it sensual pleasure we crave? Christ changes the character of the desire, and we seek pleasure of a purer nature. Certainly we want activity, who wants to be a mope or a recluse? But Christ changes our notion of activity, and we find pleasure in helping some one we meet by the way. Yes, we thirst for knowledge, but remember what this means. Education is four-fold training; the physical, mental, moral and spiritual, and the four are a beautiful combination. The spiritual, in a measure, governs the intellectual The reasoning powers guard the moral; while the spiritual, intellectual, and moral join to help the physical. What a glorious work then, is that of the teacher as he stands, like the potter, with the plastic clay of my child's well being in his hands. Teach thou no lesson whatever the subject may be, that shall tend to shock the moral instinct of that gentle pupil of thine, for one jar may affect the whole immortal being. So we see that Jesus is the fountain of knowledge. Come then ye thirsty to this fountain and drink.

Do Not Come Unless you are Athirst.

Have we longings that are known to none but God? Have we memories that must be locked in eternal silence? Oh, my friend, although that soul-craving be deep as eternity and wide as the universe of God. Come to the fountain. Deep as thy soul's demand may be, the fountain is deeper still. Does thy sin rest heavy? Is thy heart as hard as a stone? Has the world thrust thee aside, and wounded thee by disregard? Jesus lives for thee; and was it not for thee he died? He commands thee to come, and according to thy thirst, so shall thy welcome be to the "fountain opened in the House of David for sin and uncleanness." Art thou lonely for a dear one gone; while the violets are springing on the grave, and the heart aches, and the tears fall? Jesus knows thy sorrow; He bids thee come to the fount of his sympathy.

Our Thirst is a Measure of Our Welcome.

But some will say "I have no feeling", let me ask, what has our feeling to do with the fountain? It gushes, and ripples, and flashes in the sunlight, whether we drink or famish with thirst. Come to Christ and they coming will beget a thirst for the "living water." Others say "I have no faith in the church"; again I ask, what has your faith in the church to do with the fountain I am not inviting you to drink at the fountain of the church, its waters may be stagnant or bitter; bu Jesus defies earth and hell to find any fault in him; what the Church needs is a house-cleaning, and it is coming. But remember after all, the church is the best institution in the world ,and she has set the pace for every benevolent organization in Christendom. But some poor soul says, "If you knew what a miserable, wreched sinner I am you would leave me out." Not at all sir: Heaven itself dare not leave such a one out. 'Tis thee he calls. Hie to the fountain.

The Old Folks and the Stay-Ins

And so, you are tired with the weight of all the years? Jesus will give you rest And you are thinking of other days, and other faces; of the romping boys and girls that once made all hilarious in their wild whirls of Jay; but now they are scattered and far away. How you have longed and waited for that letter that has not come. "Come to me and drink", says the Master. And there is "Flanders Fields where Poppies Grow", and where your hero sleeps. Oh ye hungry hearts: there is comfort, and peace, and healing at the fountain.

SPORT CLUBS TO GATHER TO-NIGHT

FURTHER DISCUSSION IN EFFORT TO BOOM ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Indications point to a large attendance for to-night's meeting in the City Council Chamber, for the purpose of further discussing the question of an Athletic Association for Peterboro.

Members of some clubs seem to think that the sole purpose of an athletic association is to relieve the clubs of their gate receipts. It is this feeling that has brought about the breach between the present Association and several organized branches of sport.

This phase of the situation will be discussed to-night. If an understanding can be reached, to-night will be the time to bring it about.

All organized clubs have been notified of th emeeting. Any person interested in a branch of sport not organized, is invited. The meeting is called for eight o'clock.

BABE RUTH NOW HAS A RIVAL, IN LONG GEO. KELLY

NEW YORK, April 25. — Babe Ruth is 19 days ahead of his 1920 stride in the home-run swat-stakes, but not one minute or one blow ahead of Long George Kelly, old Bill Lang's nephew from the Pacific Coast, who pulls down high throws and scoops the low ones at first base for the Giants.

Long George, with his six feet seven of brawn, apparently has found the Babe's great secret of leverage which enables the hitter to get every ounce of force out of his system and into the blow. His third homer of the year, which cleared the right field wall and landed on the L tracks, Thursday, was one of the longest drives ever poled out of the polo grounds. Friday he kept pace with Babe, cracking out homer No. 4. Irish Meusel of the Phillies has three homers.

It was May 11, 1920, that Ruth got home No. 4 of his record-smashing total of 54, but he got away to a late start

Ruth is living up to his reputation for hitting big or missing big. In the first game of the season here against the Athletics, he clouted out five hits in five trips, and Thursday he almost equalled this feat with four smashes in four trips, including that homer and two doubles. His only hit Friday was that homer.

If Home Run Baker is to live up to his name with the Yanks when he gets back into the game he will have to climb way out of the class that he led in the years when a total of a dozen ro so homers for a season was considered something to write poems about. In fact it will be hard to find a groove for Baker on the Yanks either offensively or defensively, as the club now stands.

However, the season is young and by the time Ping Bodie runs into his annual calm there may be a shift in the whole clum, making room for all the able hands.

GOOD SCORES IN BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

The bowling tournament, which will finish to-night, when doubles of Mayneord and Lush and 3-men event between Elliott, Gilliam and Barette. The five teams, Gillespie, Freeman, Cummings, R. Elliott and Cookson, also Routley, Miller, Gilliam; Lush and Whittaker will play off to-night. The singles event is now leading with Pinette 773, and Curvin next with 716. Double, leading Pinette and Robinson with 1,311; Routley and Muskrat second with 1,114. Three-men leading with Mayneord, Arrowsmith and McDonald with 1,793; Craig, Robinson and Miller second with 1,738. Five men leading with Pinette, Roberts, Shaughnessy, Alexander and McGee with 2,752

In special prize given by McWilliams, Robinson is leading with 278; LeBrun prize, Miller leading with 277; Ed. Wright prize, King leading with 274.

Clean Up & Paint Up

TUESDAY

Weed Day

Rid the lawns and gardens of weeds and dandelions.

All citizens are requested to cooperate with the Horticultural Society in making the City Beautiful. A considerable amount of work is saved by destroying the weeds while young, and an hour's work at present may save a week's work later in the season.

Which street will be the most attractive in lawns and gardens this year? You can answer the question. Be a leader.

TRIS SPEAKER,

Manager of the Cleveland Indians, who piloted them to victory in the world's series last year, and under whose lead they have nosed past New York into the leadership of the American League race this year. Speaker is well known in Peterborough, where he comes frequently on hunting and fishing trips.

FOOTBALL NOTES

A special meeting of the Peterborough Football Association will be held to-night in G.W.V.A. rooms at 7.30 p.m. for the purpose of examining referees and official report.

All members of the Comrades' football team are requested to attend the practice game to-morrow night at Exhibition grounds.

A practice game will be held to-morrow night at Nicholls Oval by Canadian Woollens players. All books in connection with the drawing must be handed in on Tuesday evening.

All Scotsmen desiring to get into Caledonian team will get a hearty welcome at the practice game on Tuesday evening at Exhibition grounds.

The secretary of the C.G.E. football club requests that all players associated with the club turn out at the practice game to-morrow evening at Exhibition grounds, so as to give the committee an opportunity to pick the team for Thursday evening from members present.

The first mid-week game is scheduled for Thursday evening between Canadian Woollens and C. G. E. at NICHOLAS OVAL in Gordon Challenge Cup.

HAD AN ANNOYING HACKING COUGH

GOT NO REST AT NIGHT

Hacking coughs are wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest and keeps the lungs and the bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition that unless you get immediate relief the cough may become settled and serious lung trouble ensue.

There is no better remedy than Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for relieving all kinds of coughs or colds, combining as it does the lung healing virtues of the pine trees with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing and healing expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks

Mrs. E. J. Ross, Penhold, Alta., writes "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold, accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness. I was so hoarse that you could not hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. I finally saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised so I got a bottle, and after using four of them my cough had all gone. Now I always keep it in the house."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and only 60c a bottle. Manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Toronto, Ont.

De Laval—W. Thompson, goal; Arnold Pickles, R. Leach, backs; A. Nicholls, J. Long and Albert Pickles, half-backs; J. Cutmore, J. Conway, R. Dyer, R. Hanson and E. Abrahams, forwards.

Referee—Jack Clark.

First Half.

The teams took some time to settle and play at the start was from end to end. Comrades gained confidence and not long afterwards they opened the scoring through McDougall. Play was of an uninteresting character until Dyer equalized for the De Laval. Now that the both teams were even they tried hard to get the lead. From a nice combination between the Comrades' forwards, McDougall waited his chance to let drive with an unsaveable shot. After such a reverse the De Laval set a fast pace on the right wing to get an opening that gave Conway an easy chance to even up the score. Play till the interval was of an equal character, with Comrades slightly superior in the attack. Half-time, Comrades 2, De Laval 2.

Second Half.

Comrades started off prominently and only the stubborn defence of Leach and Pickles kept them in the minority. Time and again Dyer tried to open out the play, but he was lacking the necessary support when initiating any new move, but later he gained a beatuiful goal through slack play of Comrades' half-backs. Quick as a flash Lee tore down the wing to beat Pickles in a well-drawn move to give Thompson no chance to save. Having now found the measure of their opponents, the Comrades kept up a consistent pressure on the De Laval goal and added three more goals through Mulvihill, Lee and Dunkley. At the other end Poste had an easy day, and no doubt if the De Laval had a good goalkeeper they would make a better showing. Final, Comrades 6, De Laval 3.

THE CANADIAN GENERALS AND CALEDONIANS DRAW ONE EACH

POWELL'S WICKED SHOTS—MORRIS MUSSED OPEN GOAL—CALEY'S OUTPLAY C.G.E.—TURNER OFF HIS GAME—A QUESTIONABLE PENALTY—WRIGHT SAVED, THEN LOST—CALEDONIANS EQUALIZED—C.G.E. OFF FORM.

In spite of the inclement weather on Saturday afternoon, a very large number of spectators turned out to witness the Canadian General and Caledonians in local football fixture, that resulted in a draw, 1-1. The teams:

Canadian General — C. Griffine, goal; J. Waine and J. McDonald, backs; J. Williams, H. Turner and Anderson, half-backs; A. Powell, "Wag" Hotston, J. Ackland, J. Williamson and "Ted' Bartley, forwards.

Caledonians—A. Wright, goal; R. McFeat and Sam McMillan, backs; R. Brown, D. Moir and Alex. Morris, half-backs; W. Terrace, J. Dingwall, W. Calder, R. Hannah and A. Burgess, forwards.

Referee—J. Hensby.

C. G. E. Kicked Off.

C.G.E. kicked off, and at once carried the play to the vicinity of Wright, where S. McMillan punted into C.G.E. goal, but Turner lifted forward to Hotston who made an attempt to head the ball that met with Calder's boot. Play was stopped for a few minutes, but "Wag" resumed after intention. From the throw-up Hannah manoeuvred for a position to test Griffine with a hard drive that he cleared cleverly. Hannah went back again into C. G. E. goal and missed the cross-bar with a fast drive.

Powell's Rocket Cross.

From the gaol-kick, Powell got an opportunity to travel down into the Caley's area and sent a beautiful pass across the goal mouth, but it went to Brown, who gave C.G. E. a free kick for a foul throw. McDonald shot past. On mid-field play the Caledonians were the masters of the game, until Powell received a timely pass up the wing from Williams. The outside right let drive from the corner to miss the crossbar with a lightning drive. Burgess transferred the play to C.G.E. and compelled Turner to concede a corner. Hannah put past.

Missed an Open Goal.

Calder, at centre for the Caledonians, worried the C.G.E. defence to a standstill and repeatedly walked the ball into gaol for Griffine to clear. Morris accepted a pass back from Calder, beat Waine on a tackle and travelling in on Griffine, kicked the ground at the critical moment. McDonald intervened by placing Williamson and Bartley to advantage. McFeat mis-kicked the ball to let Williamson test Wright.

Caleys Outplay C.G.E.

The Scotsmen settled down to the game very quickly with the C.G.E. never finding form at any time, also McDonald and Turner trying to force the play, but Hannah was always conspicuous with his splendid efforts to save. Play was confined to C.G.E. goal area for a long time. Burgess playing a good game at outside left. He sent across a nice pass to Hannah, but Turner spoiled his intentions when a few yards from goal. A break-away by Powell on the extreme right was a splendid piece of football, but unfortunately the referee called him upon foul play that did not take place. Sam McMillan lifted the ball down into Griffine's charge, where Hannah let drive for goal, but McDonald stopped a sure goal with his head. Burgess sent across to Calder, who tested Griffine with a low ground shot. The C.G.E. goalkeeper made a nice cleraance when hard pressed. A spasmodic attack by the C.G.E. forwards looked very dangerous through Bartley's good play. Moir stopped his progress. Calder, who who was an anxious worker, had a couple of drives which tested Griffine. Nice football was being played in spite of the treacherous grounds and Calder and McDonald both put up a clean game. Half time —No scoring.

Second Half.

On resuming, the C.G.E. attacked, and Caleys' gaol had a narrow escape from Williamson. Clever manoeuvring by Moir gave Calder a chance, the centre missing the upright from close range. Wag tried to get ahead, but Morris robbed him nicely to let Burgess and Hannah play nice combination along with him. The left half carried the play into goal that resulted in McDonald checking beautifully. Then Waine gave away a corner that was fruitless.

Moir Outstanding.

Turner had to take a back place through Moir's great play in breaking up tactics, and placing the ball at all times. Time and again he robbed the C.G.E. forwards of great openings, thereby placing his forwards to greater advantage. From a well-paced position Dingwall beat McDonald on a tackle, but to his own surprise the ball landed in Griffine's arms from his parting shot. A few minutes later Terrace was called offsides. McDonald was again down among the half-backs trying to force the issue on the Caley's but they would not respond. Burgess broke away on the left to draw out the C.G.E., with Hannah anxiously waiting the pass. The ball crossed at a fast pace to inside left, which made Griffine stretch himself to save his charge. Burgess caught the rebound but was unfortunate in not a nice clearance when hard pressed, cleared to mid-field. Brown returned the ball to Terrace, who let drive from the corner that made Griffine stagger. Turner cleared with his head to Williamson, who passed out to Bartley. They went down into the corner that brought out a wrong decision of the referee.

A Questionable Penalty.

Bartley passed back to Williamson who was covered by Brown. The Caley player tackled the C.G.E. man just on the penalty line, with both men playing the game. Calder, coming to his assistance, ran against his own player, Brown, who fell over Williamson. All the players lined up to await the referee's decision, that was a penalty against Caledonians, who protested vigorously. "Wag' Hotston was given the pleasure of trying his luck. At this point the referee noticed Moir running backwards and forwards behind the goal and compelled him to come behind the line.

Wright Saved—Then Lost.

Just as Hotston shot, Alex. Morris stepped over the line, Wright saved in masterly fashion, but was surprised to know that the referee wanted it taken over again. The second shot was of the same style, but the Caleys' goalkeeper saved again to let it go through and no more.

Caledonians Equalized.

At this point the referee sent Calder off the field for some infringement. With ten men Moir re-arranged his team with Morris playing centre. An individual effort by Morris baffled the C.G.E. defence, beating player after player, went right in to give Griffine no chance. Play ran from end to end with offsides playing the most prominent part. Offsides robbed Dingwall of a goal he scored. The absence of Calder made a stimulus to the rest of the team, who made every effort to get the two points, but fate was against them, likewise the C.G.E., who have not found their regular playing form.

WITH LOCAL BOWLERS

The local lawn bowlers are anticipating a busy season. Already the various committees are making preparations to that end. The membership committee report quite a number of new applications, and it is expected the membership will reach at least seventy, as against forty-two last year. A capable groundsman has been secured, and the green is expected to be in good shape for the opening of the season, which will take place within the next two or three weeks. A decided improvement has already been made in the form of a ditch, which has been dug all around the green, to take the place of the ditch lines formerly used, and which were not considered satisfactory.

The club has decided to make their tournament this year a two-day event, the dates set being July 13th and 14th.

We have been unfortunate in previous years in that our tournament has clashed with other tournaments in the district, consequently the entry has not been so large as would otherwise have been. The change will undoubtedly be for the better, and we expect to have a very large entry for this annual event.

We are endeavoring to have the British bowlers (who are to tour Canada this year) pay us a visit. It has not yet been definitely settled, but we hope to have them with us for at least one day. If this can be arranged, we trust that the citizens will co-operate with us in giving them a real good welcome.

Members are reminded that their fees are due on or before May 15th, as immediately after that date the rinks will be formed, and handed to the games committee, who will then arrange their schedule. Kindly be prompt in this. The fees for this yvear are as follows: New members, $7.50; old members, $10.00. The following are the officers:

President—Dr. Hammond.
Vice-President—W. J. Oke.
Sec.-Treas.—T. McArthur.
Executive—J. W. Mayneord, R. Elliott, Alex. Dick.
Games Committee—H. R. Martin, A. Gilliam, A. Ross.
Green Committee—J. C. Read, W. J. Oke, J. F. Convery.
Reception Committee—J. A. McKone, J. W. Mayneord, G. F. Cairns.
Tournament Committee — W. J. Oke, Dr. Allen.

FOOTBALL RESULTS

COMMENT ON THE ENGLISH CUP GAME.

LONDON, April 25.—(Canadian Associated Press).—Tottenham Hotspurs won the Football Association (soccer) cup here Saturday by defeating Wolverhampton Wanderers at Stamford Bridge by 1 to 0. Dimmock scored for the Spurs eight minutes after the second half had been started.

The game was started in a deluge of rain, which had been in progress all morning. The grounds were, therefore, in a soapy condition which made concerted play practically impossible. The players slipped badly in their runs. In the first half Tottenham did most of the offensive work. The Wolves' defence was very strong, though their goal was in danger on several occasions.

Early in the second half Tottenham made its big effort. After eight minutes of superior work Dimmock and Bliss broke away and eluded Woodward, the Wolves' back. Dimmock netted the ball with a pretty shot. The rain let up during the second half, and conditions underfoot improved. The standard of play after the interval was better. With only a goal separating the teams, excitement was naturally at fever point until the end of the match. The struggle was carried on by both sides in the cleanest manner. The Wolves were without the services of Baugh, their regular back.

The match was witnessed by the King and his second son, the Duke of York, the latter presenting the cup to the winner.

The attendance was placed at 72,906, and the receipts amounted to 13,414 pounds. The receipts were a record for British football, the previous largest gate being £9,772, secured last year at the Aston Villa-Huddersfield cup tie final at Stamford Bridge.

Throughout the night many of the crowd had waited in queues for the opening of the gates, and at 10 o'clock, despite the cold rain that was falling, at least 15,000 enthusiasts trooped in drenched to the skin, but cheerfully prepared to wait five hours for the beginning of the match. Many people, either from love of walking or from lack of funds, have been tramping scores of miles from adjoining cities to the scene of the match during the past few days. Results:

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

YOUNGEST COMEDY MAKER SCORES GREAT SUCCESS.

Like a story from one of the old Horatio Alger books of how boys achieve fame and fortune by honest effort, perseverance and hard work, is the life story of Jack White, supervising director of Mermaid Comedies, who, at 22 years of age, is the youngest producer-director of motion pictures.

Starting in the movie game at 14, as an office boy, White gradually worked his way up until to-day, he stands on the pinnacle of success as one of the best directors of comedy in the business. "April Fool," starring Lloyd Hamilton, latest of the Mermaids, is at the Allan Theatre to-day and to-morrow.

"Don't Neglect Your Wife!" the Goldwyn picture now being shown at the Allen Theatre, is the first story written directly for the screen by one of America's greatest living women writers, Gertrude Atherton. As in her books, so in this photoplay, Mrs. Atherton gives us the problems of a beautiful, young married woman who has been disillusioned in her husband and has found herself caring for a distinguished editor. The domestic triangle is solved in a very plausible manner, but with a dramatic intensity impossible to attain when the characters involved are the usual flappers one sees too often on the screen.

After all, the mature woman, with her ability to cope with life, is a far more interesting screen subject than a girl whose sole appeal lies in her prettiness. But in Mrs. Atherton's story, the wife happens to be the beautiful Mabel Julienne Scott; the husband, that excellent actor, Charles Clary; and the other man, Lewis S. Stone; all three of whom give sterling performances which make the story take on the semblance of flesh and blood.

The action of "Don't Neglect Your Wife!" takes place in San Francisco and the old Five Points section of New York. The picture was mounted gorgeously by Goldwyn and directed splendidly by Wallace Worsley.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE FORBIDDEN THING" A STORY OF GREAT LOVE

The triumph of true love over false is the underlying theme of "The Forbidden Thing." Allan Dwan's first offering under the banner of Associated Producers, which will be the feature attraction at the Regent Theatre to-day.

Abel Blake loves Joan, a pretty girl of Provincetown, on Cape Cod, and is ready to marry her when she is called away to nurse an uncle who is ill. No sooner has she gone than Abel falls under the evil spell of Glory Prada, a dance hall beauty. When Glory realizes that she can entrap Abel in no other way, she contrives to marry him. Unhappiness is the inevitable result.

Joan, when she learns of Abel's faithlessness, gives her hand to importuning Dave Whorf, a young fishing captain. Before a little boy is born to them, Glory runs away from the disillusioned Abel and casts her precarious lot with the owner of a small circus. Abel's mother dies of grief and Abel loses his standing in the community.

Dave, meanwhile, is drowned and Joan is left a widow. Glory, trying to stab her circus lover as the result of a quarrel, is shot and dies alone on the sand dunes.

Eventually, through a fortuitous circumsance, Abel and Joan are reunited. Abel is forgiven by the townspeople and, with the two children of Dave and the woman he has always loved, Abel settles down to a life of long-denied happiness.

AT THE EMPIRE.

Viola Dana in "Dangerous To Men" is announced as the feature attraction at the Empire Theatre, for a run of three days, beginning to-day. "Dangerous To Men" is an adaptation by A. P. Younger from H. V. Esmond's stage drama, "Eliza Comes To Stay," which had a big run in London when it was produced there with Mr. Esmond and Eva Moore in the leading roles.

It is the most ambitious production of Miss Dana's career and she is said to have found her favorite role as the school girl Eliza, who is thrust at the age of eighteen into a bachelor's household, where, although she has taken every precaution to make herself "safe" from men, she suddenly finds that she has the power to make herself dangerous.

The screen version switches the locale of the story from England to the United States and the adaptation heightens the charm and dramatic intensity of the original play. The role of Eliza tests even the unusual versatility of an actress of Miss Dana's varied experience and she is reported to have scored her biggest personal success in it.

In her support are such well-known actors as Milton Sills, Edward Connelly, John P. Morse, James Barrows, Mollie McConnell, Helen Raymond, Marian Skinner and Josephine Crowell.

AT THE CAPITOL.

The programme for the first three days of this week at the Capitol Theatre shows the talented and versatile William S. Hart in the role of an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, known far and wide as one of the most intrepid and indefatigable organizations in the world. The picture is "O'Malley of the Mounted," and in the title role Mr. Hart has a part that suits him "down to the ground."

It is only in the beginning and end that he appears in the familiar uniform of the Canadian or Northwest Mounted. For in the body of the story he is disguised as a purely western plainsman, while he pursues a murderer. How he finds him and then lets him escape, is the subject of a gripping tale which will hold the audience spellbound by its suspense and thrill.

Eva Novak, who appeared opposite Mr. Hart in "The Testing Block," is again leading woman and there is an able company in support of the famous star. The settings are splendid.

A two-reel Mack Sennett comedy, "Dabbling in Art," will be shown with this picture, and the popular Topics of the Day.

BOARD OF WORKS INSPECTION TRIP

MEMBERS WILL MEET THIS EVENING AND COMPARE NOTES.

The annual inspection of city roads by the Board of Works Committee was made to-day, the party of eight members of the committee starting out at ten a.m. in several cars to go into the highways and by ways of the city and discover by what means the roads could be improved.

The inspecting party was composed of Mayor McIntyre, City Clerk Armstrong, City Engineer Parsons Street Commissioner Evans, Ald. White house, chairman of the Board of Works; Ald. Morrison, Phelan and Hamilton. At noon the party had lunch at the Empress Hotel and without undue delay meanderings concluded the tour late in the afternoon noon.

The Board of Works Committee will meet at eight o'clock to-night and the result of the inspection will be a discussion on road improvement and probably a definite program of work outlined and recommended to the Council for consideration.

Socialist Would Not Shout "Viva l'Italia."

PAVIA, Italy, April 23.—Socialist Deputy Maffi had a close shave today when he refused to cry "Viva l'Italia!"

A number of Fascisti (extreme nationalists), who had sought to compel him to make the patriotic utterance, seized him while one of their number cut off his beard.

With his nude features exposed, he was then escorted from the city.

CONVENTION TO OPEN TO-MORROW

SIDELIGHTS ON SOME OF THE VISITORS TO THE CITY.

It opens on Tuesday, April 26th., at 2 o'clock.

Don't fail to be on hand. You cannot afford to miss that fine feeling of freshness and expectancy. Everything lies ahead. Of course, you know the names of your own people on the programme, but do you know your guests? Who is Miss Garland? She is the secretary of Ottawa Presbyterial Society, for one year she was its president, and did you never read wee bits of poetry in the Church or Mission magazine which were signed "Edith Garland"? Now you have her.

Then see the name of the women who delivers the opening words. It is Mrs. John MacGillivray, the president of the General Council's Executive Board. She it was who for so many years edited our "Missionary Messenger". She comes with such an inheritance of missionary interest behind her, and she has the best of modern educational equipment. She is an hnor graduate of our Provincial University.

Next, the Provincial Reports: just a little whisper in your ear! They are not going to read them. The reports are to be printed, and the secretaries are merely going to speak of them. Let us hope they reveal to us their personalities, that we may know and carry with us, clear pictures of these women who do this work.

Then hold your breath for the Treasurer. She has always a "thing worth while", and so, with grateful hearts shall we be led in prayer by one of the best known of our workers, Mrs. Hamilton, Goderich, the sister of our Dr. Marion Oliver, who gave her life to India. Tuesday Evening:

Mrs. McQuestion, Hamilton, the honored Honorary President, will preside. She was a pioneer and is wondrously up-to-date. The president's address and the corresponding secretary's report always gives both letter and spirit of the society's achievement.

Then no one must fail to see and hear "The Editor of the Messenger" She will tell us how she does it, and we shall wonder that one small woman should do a work so wonderful.

Get ready for Wednesday afternoon;

This is Young Woman's Age and this afternoon is Young Woman's Session.

It is Miss Malcolmson's first appearance. She has held her office for one year. She is a pioneer.

Miss Lillian Oliver, Toronto, has a subject of utmost fascination and importance, and she knows whereof she speaks. She is filled to overflowing with the emotion of a great conviction. It is "The responsible privilege of the Canadian girl, and the longing necessity of the girl in other lands."

Wednesday night:

The public meeting.

The deep, strong cry of India, that wonderful jewel in the crown of our British Empire, by one who knows its need. Miss Florence Clearihue, on furlough from Karna, Central India.

The need of New China with its countless problems and lack of food voiced by Miss Agnes Dickson, on furlough from South China.

The see the need in our own land as seen by the president, Mrs. Robertson, last summer.

Thursday morning sees Forward Movement planning and election of officers for 1921-22, while the afternoon session sees the bringing in of reports. (Don'tattempt to miss them. They are interesting and necessary.) Among them the reports from the Summer Camps. Camp time is almost here again, and you are surely preparing to send your girls

Finally, wait for the summing up and driving home of these wonderful sessions, as Mrs Dyde of Kingston will do it.

ETHEL M H SMITH,
Provincial Press Secretary.

ADMIT MURDER.

DETROIT, April 23. — Deputy sheriffs announced early to-day that two Toledo men had confessed to the slaying, in a launch on the Detroit river, Wednesday night, of Arthur Janisse of Wyandotte, a suburb. Four Toledo men were being held in connection with the case, but the officers refused to divulge the names of those making the alleged confession until Janisse's body, which according to the reported confession, was weighed and thrown into the river, had been recovered.

In Canada, the fishing grounds of New Brunswick employ 22,000 men.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Might I add a few words of explanation to the very comprehensive little article by 'Jeannette' in your issue of Saturday re the opening of the Public Library Sunday afternoons.

It is only the reading room that would be open to the public. No books would be taken out or returned.

The supervision needed would be supplied by the volunteers from the different women's organizations of the city. The reading room is large, bright, airy and well-heated, in strong contrast with the rooms in which many of the non-residents of our city are located.

It was a kindly suggestion of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E. that this room be open on Sunday afternoons, particularly during the winter months. It was felt that many would enjoy a pleasant, quiet hour there with the magazines and other periodicals, or even a book brought with them.

As the resolution of the Local Council of Women has not yet been submitted to the P. L. Board, any further particulars at this time would be premature.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain,

ANNIE E. MOWAT,
Pres. Local Council of Women.

NO MORE WORK IN PRIVATE HOUSES

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 23. — By an agreement between the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the Rochester Clothiers' Exchange, which comprises all but one of the large clothing factories on the city, work on garments now done in private homes will cease on May 1st. The Rochester manufacturers claim to be the first in the country to take this step.

Lima Bean Soup.

Cover one cup dried lima beans with cold water and soak overnight, drain. Add one quart of cold water, two tablespoons onion, one sprig of parsley, one stalk of cut celery, and cook slowly for three hours, or until soft, then strain. Stir one-quarter cup of melted butter and two tablespoons flour together until smooth, add three cups milk, and cook for thirty minutes in double boiler, stirring until perfectly smooth. Add one-half teaspoonful Worcestershire sauce and one-eighth teaspoon pepper, combine mixtures, and bring to boiling point before serving.

Any white beans may be used in this way.

Cream of Green Pea.

Cook one pint of cooked peas, with two teaspoons of sugar, one slice of onion and one pint of cold water for twenty minutes, then press through a sieve. Melt two tablespoons butter, add two tablespoons flour, and gradually three cups of hot milk; cook twenty minutes or more in double boiler. Take two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, and one-third cup cream, whip until stiff, and add this just before serving. When the peas are in season, a spoonful of whole peas may be added to each serving as garnish.

ROSES

We have received a shipment from Europe of Fifteen of the Best Varieties of HYBRID-TEA ROSES — the kind that are practically in bloom all season. These Roses are all low-budded, and if planted now will prove very satisfactory this Season.

In Climbers we also have Dorothy Perkins in Pink and the Crimson Rambler.

All Roses are 75c each.

We will be pleased to show you this Stock at our Greenhouses, 436 Water Street.

Chiropractic

Is the knowledge of philosophy of cause or disease; the science of knowing how and the art or ability to adjust it. The human brain is the dynamo where life currents are concentrated. The spinal cord purveys this mental force. If the brain absorbs, spinal cord conveys, nerves transmit, and tissues, organs and viscera receive this life current, HEALTH is the product. Obstruct the transmission of current and disease is the product. Body plus life equals health. Body minus life equals death. Disease is the abnormal fluctuation between these two quantities caused by varying degrees of pressure upon nerves, interfering with transmission.

A Chiropractor knows how to remove the "pressure" thus permitting a normal flow of life current for the purpose of reconstructing dis-ease to health. If sick INVESTIGATE. Chiropractic may mean health and happiness for you.

France Considers the Immediate Infliction of Penalties on Huns

DECLARE INFRACTIONS OF VERSAILLES TREATY CAN NO LONGER GO UNPUNISHED AND MAY TAKE STEPS TO OCCUPY RUHR VALLEY AFTER NEXT MONDAY IN SPITE OF GERMAN QUIBBLING.

HUNS OFFER TO ASSUME ALLIED DEBTS TO U.S.

PARIS, April 26 (Canadian Press).—Premier Briand told the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon: "If, on 1st May satisfactory proposals, with acceptable guarantees, are not made by the German Government, Ruhr will be occupied."

As evidence of her good faith, says the note, Germany is prepared immediately to place at the disposal of the Reparations Commission one hundred and fifty million gold marks (silver and foreign exchange) and eight hundred and fifty million gold marks in treasury notes, redeemable within three months in foreign exchange or foreign securities.

Germany proposes the issue of an international loan, the proceeds to be placed at the disposition of the Allies. On this loan she would pay interest at 4 per cent., and provide for amortisation.

Germany, continues the note, takes upon herself the obligation to recognise as binding the decisions of the international commission of experts upon her capacities.

PARIS, April 26. — (Canadian Press.)—The possibility of applying penalties to Germany immediately after May 1, despite whatever propositions Germany may make regarding reparations in general, is being seriously considered, according to well informed French circles today. Such action would be because of the German refusal to transfer one billion gold marks to the Rhineland or hand over the equivalent of that sum as demanded by the Reparations Commission. It is semi-officially stated that the French feel unable longer to allow infractions of the treaty to remain without a penalty.

It is held in French official circles that the failure of the Germans to pay the balance of the twenty billion gold marks due May 1 under the provisions of the Versailles Treaty is entirely independent of negotiations regarding the sum of reparations she must eventually pay. The Treaty fixes absolutely this amount which, being unpaid, justifies the application of penalties according to this theory whatever course

EXTENSION TO ST. JOSEPH'S

HOSPITAL TO BE PRACTICALLY DOUBLED BY PROPOSED ADDITION, NOW A CERTAINTY.

HANDSOME AND MODERN

The proposed extension to St. Joseph's Hospital, which has been under consideration for some time past, has now become a certainty. Plans and specifications have been prepared, and tenders will be called for in a short time. The Hospital, which has been operating with very inadequate and crowded quarters for some years now, will be practically doubled in extent, and the entire building, when the proposed addition is completed, will be the very last word in an absolutely up-to-date hospital. The appearance of the general plans and appointments indicate a very handsome and modern establishment, in which nothing has been omitted for the comfort and convenience of patients.

The extension, which will be erected directly to the south of the present building, between it and the House of Providence, will be joined to it by a rotunda, and will contain a full storey basement with three upper floors, containing public and semi-private wards. The third floor will be devoted entirely to women, and above this will be the three operating theatres, two for regular and one for special work. Here also is the X-Ray room and laboratory. While the addition is in progress, the main building will be left untouched, and everything will go on as at present until the extension is completed. Then Peterborough will possess one of the most modern and best-equipped hospital buildings in the Province.

PRICE STREET OIL MORE NOW

CITY MUST PAY 2.2 CENTS A GALLON MORE THAN LAST YEAR FOR ITS STREET OIL.

BUY FROM NEW FIRM

This year the city will pay 2.2 cents per gallon more for its road oil than it did in 1920. The price paid the Dominion Tar and Chemical Company, last year was 11 1-2 cents a gallon. The same oil costs 15 cents now and the order this year goes to the Imperial Oil Company, who quoted a 40 or 50 per cent. asphalt oil at 13.7 an Imperial gallon F.O.B. Peterboro.

The following quotations were received by the Board of Works last night.

Imperial Oil Co., 40% or 50% Asphalt Oil, 13.7c per Imperial gallon F.O.B., Peterboro.

Sun Co., of Canada, 30% to 40% Asphalt Oil, 12.75 per Imperial gallon F.O.B., Peterboro.

The Barrett Co., Tarvia "B", 17.5c per Imperial gallon, F.O.B., Peterboro.

Western Oil Refining Co., 40% Road Oil, 10.90c per Imperial gallon F.O.B., Peterboro.

Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. Domtar No. 2, 15c per Imperial gallon F.O.B., Peterboro.

Several other firms were written to but were unable to quote prices.

"The Best Buy"

City Engineer Parsons when asked for his opinion on the oil said that the best buy on the list was the first. The oil last year was good but the price put it beyond consideration. The Imperial oil was practically the same as Tarvia, he said. "If I had my choice regardless of price I'd take the Tarvia but it takes just as much and would cost a great deal." Mr. Parsons said. The oil advertised at 10.90 a gallon he said was evidenty not asphalt oil and would not form a coat which is principal merit of asphalt oils. Mr. Parsons information that the first was the best buy satisfied the Board and Ald. Jones moved seconded by Ald. Hamilton that the required quantity be ordered of the Imperial Oil Company at their quotation. The City Engineer advised the Board that he believed almost immediate delivery could be secured.

Voice of the People?

"I don't think we should pay any attention to that as he hasn't signed his name," said Ald. Whitehouse of a letter that came to the Board signed R. R. a ratepayer, complaining of the condition of Park street between Albert street and the G. T.R. racks." Anyway we went over that to-day" added the chairman.

Wants Cement Walk.

"The snowplough man absolutely refused to come over it at all and one Board is broken so that a false step on a dark night might cause an accident". Mrs. John Taylor, 730 Bethune street so described the board walk on the east side of the street in front of her house when she wrote the Council asking for a

A May Day Proposal

A PLAN TO STIMULATE HOME BUILDING IN THE CITY—LOCAL INTERESTS ASKED TO CO-OPERATE IN THE SCHEME.

A prominent citizen of Peterboro submits the appended "May Day Proposal" to the readers of The Examiner. It is prepared in the interests of home seekers, of whom there are many in Peterboro, and with the firm conviction that its adoption will stimulate building operations of a kind that will benefit the workingman. The Examiner is in a position to state that the author of this "May Day Proposal" will not in any way benefit from the result of its adoption. His first and last interest is in the well-being of the community. The plan proposed eliminates the speculator, and if carried out will give hundreds of children in this city, who are now housed in so-called flats or apartments, located in the business section of the city, a chance to live in a home of their own surrounded by a plot of ground where they can play and grow to sturdy manhood and womanhood.

The proposal follows:

Synopsis of a May Day Proposal.

I crave space in your valuable paper to lay a "May Day Proposition" before the Building Trades, the Contractors, the men who handle lumdle lumber, building hardware, paints, oils, etc, and the people who have been looking forward for some years to the time when they could build a home for themselves. My proposition is this: Let us all frankly face the situation as it exists to-day, and admit that the outlook for this summer is not what any of us would like it to be, and let there be a wholesome rivalry as to who can make the largest and best contribution that will in the end, and even from the beginning, help everybody concerned. Would it be unreasonable in the face of the present situation to ask—

Each Interest Will Take A Part.

(1) The Building Trades to give a ten hour day or a 55 hour week for the wages earned last year by an 8 hour day or a 44 hour week, and to do their best to restore the rate of production per hour in vogue in 1914. They would still earn as much money in a week as they did last year, but would work 11 hours more each week in order to earn it.

(2) The Lumber Merchants and all those who handle building supplies, to come forward with a proposition that they will reduce all building supplies at least ten per cent. on present prices. The increased demand for their goods will leave them with more, or as much, profit at the end of the season as they will have, unless something is done to stimulate building.

(3) The men or companies who loan money on mortgages to come out with a declaration as to the percentage of the cost of a building and lot which they are prepared to advance on a mortgage on the same, and the rate of interest per annum.

(4) The City Council to pass a bylaw authorizing a special rate of assessment for 5 years, on all houses commenced before Oct. 1st, 1921, and completed before May 1st, 1922; say a reduction on the prevailing assessment of 20 per cent.

(5) The general merchants to come forward with a declaration that they will give a small discount on sales to the men and the families of men who will meet the requirements of items one and two in this proposal, and to the men and their families who commence the erection of a house and undertake to complete it before May 1st, 1922.

(6) the present owners of houses for rent to make a reduction of 5 per cent. to all tenants who accept the 10 hour day for the 8 hour day of last year.

(7) The contractors and architects to make a 10 per cent. reduction on their total account based on last year's charges.

(8) Those who would be interested in going ahead with the building of a house under the above conditions, to let their intentions be known to the building Trades and others interested.

Scheme for Working Ou the Details

The details connected with the carrying through of the above proposal, may at first sight look difficult and complicated, but it would not really be so. I would be prepared to help with the preparation of the necessary certificates and their distribution to the proper persons. The city Council and the Chamber of Commerce would, I feel sure, look after the expense of printing them.

Everybody concerned would be better off at the end of the year than they will be if something of this kind is not done. It would be putting into practice the principles of the Christian religion, which most of us profess. Don't knock this propositon unless you have somethng better to suggest and unless there is some prospect of your better suggestion being reduced to practice.

I was glad to see the Mayor calling a meeting of those interested in sports in order to get sports better organized. I am not a knocker. I cannot see where I will reap any profit for myself out of the above. I have no money to lend—do not pay rent—do not need a house other than the one I live in—work more than ten hours a day—and give my word of honor that I will not seek or take a percentage discount from the merchants under clause 5. The Mayor is the proper person to act after the separate interests involved have discussed this proposition among themselves. It would involve a certain amount of sacrifice all around at the start but the gains would more than compensate for the sacrifices.

Another Will Not Profit in Least.

The gains would be far-reaching indeed. It would put Peterborough on the map in a way and to an extent that nothing in her recent history has done—though this is by no means my reason for submitting the proposal.

As these matters can be better carried through when kept free from personalities, I crave the liberty to subscribe myself,

A CITIZEN OF PETERBOROUGH.

THE PROVINCIAL CONVENTION OF THE PRESBYTERIAN W.M.S. OPENED IN ST. PAUL'S TO-DAY

BETWEEN 400 AND 500 DELEGATES BEGAN THREE-DAY SESSION THIS AFTERNOON WITH RECEPTION OF REPORTS ON VARIOUS BRANCHES OF THE ORGANIZATION'S WORK DURING THE PAST YEAR.

PRELIMINARIES LAST NIGHT AND THIS MORNING

The Ontario Provincial Convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada opened officially to-day at 2 o'clock in St. Paul's Church. Last evening, a special meeting was held in the Sunday School Room, when about two hundred of the visiting delegates were present for a Round Table Talk on subjects connected with the convention.

The meeting was opened with a very inspiring prayer service, conducted by the president, Mrs. Chas. Robertson, of Toronto, the honorary president, Mrs. McQuesten, Hamilton, and the second vice-president, Mrs. R. Barbour, of Meaford. This morning a board meeting of the Provincial officers, Presbyterial presidents and corresponding secretaries took place to complete final arrangements.

Mission Bands.

The report on Mission Bands, submitted by Miss Agnes M. Rennie, New Hamburg, gave a total of 43 new bands, one in the far western Presbytery of Sudbury, and another at the School Home in Namur, Quebec. There are now 584 bands and 5 associate societies, an advance of 27 organizations, constituting a membership of 15,680, an increase of 175 over last year. Included in this members' roll are 56 life and 487 junior memberships. The givings total $27,155.78, with an increase over the previous year of $1,961.20.

WILL START STREET CARS NEXT SUNDAY

TWENTY MINUTE SERVICE, TEN CENT FARE FROM 9 A.M. UNTIL 11 P.M.

Sunday streeet cars will operate for the first time in Peterboro next Sunday, May 1st, giving a twenty minute service at a ten cent fare.

According to the understanding with the council as a result of the conference which followed the approving vote by the ratepayers last January, the Hydro-Electric Commision agreed to inaugurate a Sunday service at least during the summer months, and on the first runs next Sunday the cars will leave the barn at 9 a.m., and will continue until 11 p.m.

The service will be over the entire local system, and the only difference between it and the daily schedule will be an additional ten minutes interval between cars. Instead of a ten minutes service it will be every twenty minutes.

The men do not take kindly to Sunday work according to the statements of several of them, but they apparently see no escape from it, and are therefore resigned to this extra duty.

The continuance of the Sunday Cars will depend largely on the revenue they turn into the treasury. It may be anticipated that the Hydro will not operate them at a loss, and in that they would have the sanction of the citizens. Last Sunday the Highway leading from Peterboro, especially the gravel road, were lined with automobiles, carrying the well-to-do pleasure seekers of Peterboro for from the vision of the church spires. Next Sunday the average man who toils much, but does not "spin," will have the opportunity of getting out to Jackson Park, or to some place along the river, at the cost of a ten cent fare or two, and if enough of them take advantage of or desire this Sunday service, it will be provided throughout the summer.

WANT WEEK END TRAIN TORONTO TO LAKEFIELD

A special week-end train from Toronto to Lakefield, similar to the summer holiday train from Toronto to Bobcaygeon, is being advocated by the Chamber of Commerce, with the support of citizens of Lakefield.

It is believed that the week-end traffic to the Kawartha Lakes warrants this special accommodation, and the feeling prevails that the G. T. R. will accede to this request.

The train would probably leave Toronto at two o'clock on Saturday afternoons and leave Lakefield at 8 o'clock on Sunday nights.

TWO HUNDRED DOLLAR FINE FOR STEVENSON

Before Magistrate O. A. Langley to-day, William Stevenson, a blacksmith residing in Havelock, was fined two hundred dollars and costs for displaying a bottle of liquor in a public place. Mr. J. Wearing appeared for License Inspector J. Stewart and Mr. J. O'Brien for the defense. Stevenson was the man who essayed the role of an uninvited guest at a dance armed with a supply of redeye.

Government Must Not Allow Union the Use of Coercive Methods

BRITISH SOLDIERS' EVIDENCE AGAINST GERMAN OFFICERS

LONDON, April 26.—(Canadian Press.)— German lawyers were present this morning for the first time since 1914 in the Bow street court, when British soldiers, who were prisoners of war, gave testimony against German army officers accused of cruelty and atrocity. The evidence given will be used in the trial of German war criminals at Leipsic under the Versailles Treaty provisions. The men examined here this morning were unable to go to Leipsic. The British government counsel stated that the German government had accepted the charges against the accused officers and was acting in the role of prosecutor.

A riot was narrowly averted outside the Bow Street Court at the luncheon adjournment of the inquiry into the accusations of cruelty and atrocity against German army officers.

A great crowd of former service men had assembled, and several rushed towards the German counsel for the accused, Herr Schroder and his friends.

Constables succeeded in rescuing the Germans, and escorted them to the hotel, a crowd following the party.

GEDDES CHARACTERIZES REFUSAL OF RAILWAYMEN TO MOVE COAL A GRAVE STEP.

DANGER TO COMMUNITY

LONDON, April 26 (Canadian Press).—The National Union of Railwaymen has instructed its members not to handle coal from colliery sidings or from overseas, Sir Eric Geddes announced in the House of Commons to-day.

He characterised the order as a grave step.

SIR ERIC GEDDES.

Such coal, the Minister said, was absolutely necessary to the life of the community, as it was needed to provide a fair minimum for household use and to continue essential public utilities, such as sewage, water, gas, electricity, and transportation. To prevent the delivery of such coal, Sir Eric declared, was an attempt to starve the nation, and no body of men could allow a Government to be so coerced.

PLAN PAVING; MORE SEWERS

COUNCIL DECIDES TO PAVE SIMCOE FROM WATER TO QUEEN AND QUEEN STREET.

STEWART STREET SEWER

The City Council, before the Board of Works meeting last night, disposed of two matters without any hindrance. Notice will be given of the intention of the Council to construct a sewer as a local improvement on Stewart Street, from Smith Street southerly, under Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act, and of the intention to pave Simcoe Street from Water to Queen Streets, and Queen Street, from Simcoe to Hunter.

Ald. F. Whitehouse brought up the first matter, which was recommended by City Engineer Parsons, and also decried the present condition of the road on Queen Street. He recommended paving it, and linking up with Hunter and Water Streets.

Dividing the Cost.

"I can't see why you're so fussy about that little place," said Ald. J. Hamilton.

"It's the dirtiest place in town," rejoined Ald. R. Morrison promptly.

When asked as to the division of the cost of paving, City Engineer Parsons said the residents along the street were supposed to pay 60 per cent. frontage tax, but again the city allowed exemptions, paid for corners and flankings, the residents paid only about 40 per cent.

Receiving no opposition, Ald. Whitehouse moved the motion of notice, seconded by Ald. Morrison, and it was promptly adopted.

Mayor McIntyre presided, with Aldermen Phelan, Jones, Whitehouse, Crowe, Morrison and Hamilton present.

"TRIP TO THE MOON" A HAPPY OCCASION

SUBJECT HANDLED IN MASTERLY MANNER BY REV. F. E. MALOTT.

"A Trip to the Moon" was the title of a very interesting semi-humorous lecture given in Trinity Sunday School last evening by the Rev. F. E. Malott. It was a recital of the different theories held by the poets, astronomers, and writers about the moon, including such moderns as H. G. Wells and the witty French writer of the seventeenth century, Cyrano de Bergerac, and their flights of imagination regarding the celestial bodies.

Mr. Malott made his subject very attractive by the humorous presentation he gave of the 'Man in the Moon," and a delightful musical pprogramme helped to round out a very pleasant evening.

Vocal solos were given by Misses Given and Corbett, Mr. Cyril Rathbone rendered a selection on the 'cello, Miss Lillian Brown gave a piano solo, and a violin duet by two little pupils of Miss Palmer was very much enioyed.

Mr. W. D. Campbell was chairman for the concert, which was under the auspices of the Young People's Society.

ALL LIQUOR HELD AT THE BOUNDARY

FEARINC SMUGGLING TO U.S., SCREWS ARE TIGHTENED AT WINDSOR,

DETROIT, April 26.— (Canadian Press.)— Anticipating efforts by liquor smugglers to get immense quantities of whiskey into Detroit from Windsor before the ban is formally placed on its importation into Ontario, Canadian liquor license inspectors are checking up on every shipment sent to Windsor from Quebec. Two inspectors who arrived in Windsor yesterday, were said to have had instructions to seize all liquor shipments arriving there and hold it until the owners appear and prove it is for lawful use. Liquor said to be valued at eighty-five thousand dollars, was being held up to-day.

THE WEATHER

This has been a warm day. At noon it was up to 77 degrees in the shade, and still rising. A few days like this would soon bring the leaves out, and some of them have already shown signs of taking on their new dress. The spring is at least two weeks ahead of the average year.—W. P.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS EVENTS OF INTEREST

SEYMOUR WEST WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING—PERSONAL MENTION.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 26. — The monthly meeting of the Seymour West Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Brown's. The meeting opened by singing the Institute ode during the usual programme. Mrs. Macoun gave a very interesting report of the branch meeting of confederated women held in Toronto on March 25th, which consisted of social service work, Red Cross, child welfare, etc. Also a letter was read from the president of the Stratton Women's Institute asking for a donation in aid of a hospital in one of the newer parts of Ontario for the benefit of the settlers. A resolution was passed to donate to same. Miss M. Rutherford and Miss G. McCullock were appointed delegates to attend the Provincial convention to be held in Peterborough in May.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Curle was read expressing her gratitude for the kindness shown to her and her family in their recent sad bereavement, accompanied by a donation of $10 to the Institute. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in community work, making quilts for a member of the society who had the misfortune to lose all their household effects by fire. After refreshments were served all went home feeling that they had spent a very pleasant and profitable afternoon.

ROBBERS TAKE $260,000 GEMS

HOLD UP SALESMAN AND LOOP JEWELLER IN LATTER'S CHICAGO OFFICE.

THINKS "FRAME UP"

CHICAGO, April 26.—Diamonds valeud at $260,000 were stolen from a jewelry salesman and a Loop jeweler yesterday after the salesman had been lured to the buildings by a decoy letter. Two alleged bandits went to the office of Julius J. Reingold in the Kesner Building, at Madison Street and Wabash Avenue, at 11 a.m., while Leroy Present, jnuior member of the firm of Philip Present & Son, of Rochester, N.Y., was displaying his wares. They bound and gagged Reingold and Present and escaped with the unset diamonds.

"It looks like a 'frame-up' to me," Present said "Everything was too nicely arranged for it to have been a chance bit of luck for the thieves. I believe they were ready to rob me Thursday afternoon, but I had left my grip behind and had only one diamond."

Reingold was detained all day at the Detective Bureau for examination by Michael Hughes, Chief of Detectives. His brother, Leo, his clerk, was arrested. Julius was arrested in January for having unset diamonds identified as part of the loot of a gem robbbery.

Present's loss is fully covered by insurance. Reingold, who claims he was robbed of about $30,000 in gems, had insurance of $15,000.

"On Tuesday I made my first visit to Reingold," Present said. "He told me to call later, Thursday morning he said he could not use any of my stock, but he wanted a two-carat diamond for a customer, and asked if I could get one. I did, and returned in the afternoon, having left my other samples behind. I showed him the diamond. He did not take it.

"Last night a hotel envelope in my mail box had scribbled in pencil the message: 'J. J. Reingold. Call 9.30.' I was willing to try again to sell to him. This morning I took my sample case from the hotel safe. It is possile I was watched at the time and the robbers knew I carried the goods.

"In Reingold's office I opened my case. A man came into the outer office. Reingold looked up and said, 'I'll be with you in just a minute.' I do not know if that was a signal, but the man came right in, pointed a revolver at me and said, 'Don't get up, I don't want to kill you.' Reingold was a s cool as ice. I would have resisted if he had given any encouragement.

"Another man came in, looked into the open safe and said, 'Nothing but junk there.' They stuffed my diamonds into their pockets. Pearls worth $40,000 were also there, but they remarked that they were also junk. If they knew jewels they would certainly have taken them.

"I don't know when they robbed Reingold. He said they took a wallet out of his pocket and left another that was also filled with gems. We were then told to lie down on the floor face down while they tied us and gagged su."

The Heintzman & Co. pianos have a strong hold on the people in this part of the country." The firm's warerooms are at George and Hunter streets, Peterorough.

HOUSE PASSES G.T.R. BILL IN BRIEF DEBATE

HON. RUDOLPHE LEMIEUX ADVISES GOVERNMENT TO CALL LORD SHAUGHNESSY INTO CONSULTATION.

KING ASKS MORE TIME

OTTAWA, April 26 (Canadian Press).—After a brief discussion, the Government Bill, giving the Grand Trunk Railway Company until 16th May to enter into an agreement with the Government for the transfer of the cotnrol of the system to the Dominion and for the revival of the arbitration to fix the value of the Grand Trunk preferred and common stock, was passed in the Commons last night.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King complained that insufficient time had been given for the consideration of the Bill.

J. A. Ross of Chateauguay, Huntingdon, and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux declared themselves opposed to Government ownership and to the Bill. The latter said that, speaking for himself alone, he would advise the Government to accept the words of wisdom and advice given by one of the highest railway authorities in the world—Lord Shaughnessy. He said that the Government should call Lord Shaughnessy into consultation on the railway situation.

G. B. Nicholson, West Algoma, briefly put forward argument that the Grand Trunk Railway's Eastern lines and terminals were required to round out the Canadian National's system.

The Bill was then read a third time, and is now ready for consideration by the Senate.

THE NORWOOD CURLERS HELD ANNUAL DANCE

DELEGATES TO THE CONVENTION —NORWOOD NEWS.

NORWOOD, April 26.—Between three and four hundred invitataions to a dance at the government armouries on Friday night were sent out by the Norwood Curling Club.

On Sunday the two-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ford, Asphodel, passed away.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon to the Norwood cemetery.

LORD CHALMERS,

Secretary of the British Treasury, who began negotiations in January for the funding of the British debt to the United States, which were interrupted by the change in administrations at Washington and which U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced last night would be resumed.

ADAM BECK IS PAID FOR TWO HYDRO WORKS

GETS $12,000A YEAR AS HYDRO CHAIRMAN AND $6,000 AS PRESIDENT OF SUBSIDIARY.

BROUGHT OUT IN HOUSE

TORONTO, April 26. (Canadian Press.) The revelation was made in the Legislature yesterday that Sir Adam Beck, Chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, in addition to the twelve thousand dollars a year which he has been receiving, partly from the province and partly from the Hydro municipalities, has been drawing $6,000 a year as president of the Ontario Power Company, which is operated by the Hydro Commission.

This fact came out in connection with the governments bill to permit Hon. I. S. Lucas, former Attorney General for Ontario, Member of the Hydro Commission, and Hon. D. Carmichael, minister without portfolio ,also a member of the Hydro Commission, to receive $6,000 annually instead of their original salaries of $4,000 each.

It came out that these two since January 1, 1920, had been drawing $2,000 a year more than they were entitled to by legislation, and doing so with the Government's approval.

The bill before the House yesterday was to legalize increased salaries of Messrs. Lucas and Carmichael, as Attorney General Raney had concluded that the payments in question were not legal.

The bill, however, makes no mention of Sir Adam Beck's case, and according to the Attorney-General's view he is illegally drawing money as salary. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative Leader, without commenting upon the salary question itself, declared that the government should not treat the chairman of the commission differently from his two associates on the commission.

Attorney-General Raney stated that the Government had no official knowledge of the additional six thousand drawn by Sir Adam Beck, as it had been unable to get the records of the Ontario Power Company, but Mr. Ferguson ridiculed this explanation as a quibble.

Mr. Raney said the Hydro Commission had not asked to have the matter rectified and the Commission's legal advisor claimed that it was perfectly legal, when J. W. Webster, West Lambton, moved the adjournment of the debate.

H. B. Dewart, K.C., Liberal leader, objected to the matter being disposed of without a clear statement from the Attorney-General.

Premier Drury said that probably the payment had been made in good faith. He was confident that the Government had acted in good faith in increasing the salaries of Messrs. Lucas and Carmichael, but later had doubts as to its legality and so had brought in the bill to legalize the payments.

The Premier finally agreed to let the matter stand for a week to see if the situation could not be cleared up.

INQUEST INTO DEATH AT THE COUNTY GOAL

DEATH DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES WAS THE VERDICT RETURNED BY CORONER'S JURY.

TERM FOR VAGRANCY

A coroner's inquest as required by the Department of Justice was held in the Court House at 3 p.m. yesterday to inquire into the death of Asa Burton Downer, who died at 10 a.m. in the county gaol while serving a term for vagrancy. Coroner Dr. T. N. Greer conducted the inquest. The jurymen were: Frank S. Schnieder (foreman), Arthur W. Clydsdale, Stephen Fisher, George Brenton, William Scott, Bruce Patterson and Allan Rae.

The jury after viewing the body and hearing brief testimony by the governor of the jail, the turnkey and jail surgeon, returned a verdict that death was due to natural causes and there was no evidence of any negligence on the part of the officials.

Governor Henderson Nesbitt said that old age was the only cause of death that he could advance. Downer was 83 years of age, and the governor of the jail said that he had been drowsy and lethargic lately. Dr. J. A. Morgan, jail surgeon, said that death was caused by arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and old age. He had visited him a half-hour before he died and had seen him frequently since he had been confined to jail, the doctor stated. Dr. Greer found no evidence of negligence. The inmate had been given medical attention, the jail officials had given him every care, but the inquest he said was necessary to satisfy the Department of justice that proper care was given.

The death of Asa Downer is the first at the jail in several years.

The funeral took place at 2 p.m. to-day from the residence of his son, George T. Downer, 148 George street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

OAK LAKE NEWS

OAK LAKE, April 26.—Oak Lake sumer houses are getting considerable attention at present. Mr. Blain, Mrs. Munceaf of Montreal, and Mrs. Howden of Toronto are already in their cottages for the season.

Miss G. Poste, teacher of the Methuen School, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. Hubble, over the week-end.

The home of Mr. Fred Post was invaded by a big crowd of youngsters on Friday night, when they enjoyed the last dance and card game of the season.

PROFITEERING HIT RAILWAYS

SHOWS HUGE PROFITS

CHICAGO, April 26.—That American railroads were the victims of wartime and post-war profiteering to a degree that accounts for a large part of their financial troubles is the conclusion reached in an exhibit on the effect of price movements upon railway incomes filed yesterday with the Railway Board by W. Jett Lauck in behalf of the railway employes' department, American Federation of Labor, and twelve other labor organizations.

A summary prefaced by the exhibit says, in part:

"One of the striking features which this study brought out was that the two industries in which profiteering was most rampant were the two from which the bulk of the railroad purchases are made—i.e., the iron and steel industry and the coal mining industry. A conservative estimate of the amount which this profiteering cost the railroads from 1916 to 1919 is $75,000,000 a year in the coal bill and $200,000,000 in the amounts expended for iron and steel products, including equipment and repairs bought from locomotive and car companies. If another $75,000,000 a year is added as the profiteering toll paid in the purchase of other commodities, a total approximating $350,000,000 a year is reached. This amount, added to net railway operating income in 1918, would have raised the total from $693,000,000 to $1,043,000,000, and in 1919 from $516,000,000.

"Prices in 1920 were increased to such an extent that the proportion attributable to profiteering was unquestionably much greater, and would have totaled $500,000. It must be understood that these estimates are thoroughly conservative and are based upon information that is by no means complete.

Perfect Specimen.

ARLINGTON, Ore., April 26. — The remains of a mastodon have been discovered in Butcher Knife Canyon about four miles south-east of Arlington by a sheep herder. One of the tusks has been brought to Arlington. It measures nine feet from the base, which is 12 inches in diameter, to the tip and is a perfect specimen.

A "Report Charge" for Service Rendered

WHEN you ask the Long Distance operator to get Mr. Blank in a distant city, she establishes connection with his telephone.

If Mr. Blank is not there, or will not talk, the operator reports the fact to you.

To give you this report has required operating time and labor, and the use of Long Distance circuits, and for this service a Report Charge will be made.

Such a charge also applies when the right telephone address has not been given and the person called cannot be reached within an hour, or if the calling party is absent when the call is completed within one hour, or if he refuses to talk.

Only one Report Charge will be made on any call, regardless of the number of reports made.

No Report Charge will be made —

(1) When the telephone number called is reported "Busy," or "Out-of-order," or "Does not answer";

(2) If the call is completed any time during the day on which it is filed.

If there is anything about our rates and practices you do not understand, please call our Manager and he will be glad to explain.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

Make your money and your time go farther. Use "Long Distance."

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, APRIL 26TH, 1921.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

It is gratifying to find that during the past month building permits for the erection of seven dwellings have been issued in Peterborough. Compared to last year, this is a good showing, for only six residences were erected in this city during 1920, but, after all, seven houses will not begin to touch the outer circle of the house famine. There were four times that many people married in the same period and the majority of them were unable to find houses, but have to content themselves with doubling up with other families, or subletting two or three rooms. Peterborough needs not only seven houses, but hundreds of them before conditions will begin to approach normal, and while the increase over last year is a matter for congratulation, yet, after all, it only seems to call attention to the great scarcity of residences and to the need of a revival in building. The proposal outlined by a citizen in a communication to The Examiner and published elsewhere in this issue offers one solution of the problem—probably the most constructive reference to the matter that has yet been brought forward.

CANTEEN PROFITS.

It is announced that over one million dollars of Canada's share of the profits of the army canteens during the war has been received at Ottawa and that the Finance Department is in charge of it until a final decision as to its disposal has been reached. How this money is to be expended to the best advantage is a matter for serious consideration, but, at least, no difficulty should be found in arriving at the conclusion that the canteen profits must be used for the benefit of the men who fought overseas. It is their money, derived from the purchases they made while serving in the army, and nobody else in Canada has any moral right to share in any way in any decision that may be made. Some time ago the Peterboro branch of the G. W. V. A. by resolution declared their belief in the desirability of the canteen funds being used to establish scholarships for the benefit of children of veterans. There is much in that proposal that deserves commendation, and possibly no better way of disposing of the profits will be arrived at. The Government will find difficulty in hitting upon a plan that would please everybody, and the Peterborough suggestion may offer them a way out of the difficulty.

FIRE PREVENTION.

"Why do you newspapers waste such much time on all this faddish nonsense about fire prevention?" The Examiner was asked by a local citizen. Putting aside the fact that we do not regard it as waste of time or consider it "faddish nonsense," we might explain that fire prevention is more important than fire protection. The ratepayers contribute 40,000 or 50,000 a year towards the maintenance of a fire department and they pay large sized fire insurance premiums without much complaint, but when they are asked to take the few simple precautions that would prevent the majority of fires, some of them characterize the campaign of education along these lines as a fad. If there is a weak spot in the railing of a bridge it is a much saver proposition to repair it in order to keep people from falling through than it is to hire a man with a life-buiy and a pike-poke to pull them out of the river. It is exactly the same with fire prevention. Remove the hazards that cause flies and you have removed most of the danger, and the result will be fewer fires and lower insurance rates. It is a straight business affair this fire prevention campaign and should be entered into as such, instead of being ignored.

"A MAY DAY PROPOSAL."

The article unde the above heading, which appears elsewhere in today's issue, has doubtless already met the eye of the reader of this column, but, if not, it is to be hoped that the paper will not be laid down until the suggestions embodied in this proposal have been thoroughly digested. For a long time people in Peterborough and elsewhere have been talking about the necessity of a re-adjustment; the need of returning to a normal basis has been generally admitted. But the trouble has been that most of us have wanted the other fellow to do all the re-adjusting, to make all the sacrifice, to accept all the loss. And, as a result, we have got nowhere, and are not likely to get anywhere unless we recognize that the change in conditions must be mutual, that we'll all have to do our part in bringing about a return to normalcy.

The writer of "A May Day Proposal" has realized these facts and aware that the housing problem and resultant high rents are due to the abnormally high cost of building, suggests that everybody concerned in the solution of this problem get together. He asks the workers, the contractors, the architects, the lumber firms, the dealers in hardware supplies, the merchants generally, the City Council, every individual and everybody interested in bringing about a revival in building activity to make a common contribution to the cause, to make a sacrifice at the beginning that will be more compensated for later on. The workers in the building trades would be decidedly better off working ten hours a day at last year's wage scale than they would be in not working at all, the lumber firms would find it more profitable to sell a large amount of lumber at ten per cent. off the present price than to get rid of a comparatively small amount at the prevailing figure, and so on up and down the line.

In other words, he proposes that instead of each interest trying to hold on for the highest wages and the biggest profits, hoping everybody else will have to cut down first, that the whole operation shall be put through as a community effort to get down to business. It is clear that there must be a radical re-adjustment; why, then, instead of struggling on as we are at present seeing unemployment increasing and the housing problem becoming more serious, should we not accept the inevitable, and by making a general sacrifice put Peterborough on a normal basis and let us get away to a new start.

The wages paid during the war years and since have been abnormal, just as the prices of the necessaries of life were inflated beyond record because of the etraordinary conditions caused by the World War. The workers, the merchants, the manufacturers, all of us, will have to drop the swollen prices and wages of the years of upheaval and return to conditions more like those in 1914. The writer of the May Day proposal, which The Examiner has been very glad to publish, has shown us one way out. Will we take it?

THE RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

The Canadian Red Cross Society, a branch of the great world organisation which performed such marvellous service for the sick and the wounded during the Great War, and which rendered such magnificent aid to the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the entire period of their enrollment, following them across the seas, through the training camps, over the battlefields, through the hospitals, and back again to Canada, is making a nation-wide appeal during the months of May and June for an increased membership.

The purpose is to enlist the sympathy and support of the Canadian people in behalf of this worthy organisation.

This society has a glorious history, it is the product of the world-stirring example of Florence Nightingale, popularly known as the Lady of the Lamp, and her heroic band of twenty-eight nurses, who went to the battlefields of the Crimea to nurse the sick and wounded soldiers, who up to that time had suffered neglect and torture. Her splendid work was followed by that of Henry Dunant, a Swiss patriot and philanthropist, who having observed the terrible scenes of suffering on the field of Solferino, roused the conscience of Europe by his book, "A Remembrance of Solferino." The pamphlet resulted in the organisation of the Red Cross Society at Geneva in 1864, and its operations have been carried on under the terms of the Treaty of Geneva.

The nations which accepted this Treaty of Geneva agreed that volunter bodies should be organised to help the medical departments of the armies in time of war. It was also agreed that such volunteers and also the army medical services should be neutral and should wear on the arm the distinguishing sign of the Red Cross on a white ground,

In all subsequent wars in which any of the nations which signed the treaty were engaged the Red Cross rendered conspicuous service to humanity. Until the Germans ruthlessly violated the sacred sanctions of the Red Cross in the recent Great War, the conventions of Geneva had been faithfully honoured by all the belligerent nations.

Until the Great War it had been the custom at the conclusion of a campaign for Red Cross societies to cease their activities. After the Great War this was not done, because it was recognised that the world needed the services of the Red Cross societies in work for health reform in time of peace, and also for the discharge of works of mercy in great emergencies. It was the mature judgment of all concerned that the Red Cross can give as effective aid to the Public Health authorities in time of peace as it gives to the Army Medical Services in time of war. It was thought to be a supreme duty to organise the nation for purposes of Public Health.

The object is to ensure that every child born in Canada shall have ample opportunities to develop a sound mind in a sound, healthy body, and to so combat the causes of disease as to remove as far as possible, all menaces to the national health. The war revealed a shocking condition of bad health. In Britain out of 2,425,184 men examined under Conscription from 1st November, 1917, to 31st October, 1918, only three in nine were fit and healthy. In Canada under the Military Service Act, out if 361,605 men eaxmined, only 181,229 were found to be fit for service in the field.—Brantford Expositor.

Dog Stands Guard.

DULUTH, April 26.—Since it's canine pal was killed recently by a street car, a Scotch collie dog stands guard at a certain corner here each day, leaps high into the air as cars speed by and often manages to grasp the trolley pole rope with it's teeth, pulling the pole off the wire and stopping the car. Efforts of the dog's master and car crews to persuade the dog to cease the practise have been of no avail. The animal probably will be shot, it is said.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

CALM AFTER STORM

Chapter 37

"Oh, Leonard!" I exclaimed again, letting the box slip from my lap to the floor, as I reached over and drew his head down toward me for a kiss.

I held up the bead bag. It was of a marvelous shade of blue, with a sprinkling of tan and jade green.

"Leonard, dear, it's wonderful," I breathed. All the depth of our love seemed concentrated for the minute in the adorable little gift.

Leonard lay back and surveyed me critically with the well known little smile lines pushing gently at the corners of his handsome eyes.

"Did you know you are most wonderful yourself tonight?" he asked, bending toward me. "Your cheeks are a marvelously delicate shade—who—you remind me of a wild rose!" He laughed and rubbed his cheek against mine. "How's that for a compliment, little wife? Pretty good for me, eh? It isn't fever?" he said suddenly, holding his hand on my forehead anxiously.

I held the bead bag up, admiring its exquisite beauty. I peeped into its soft silk lined depths of creamy tan color. Leonard watched me with satisfaction.

"Do you like it as well as that one you admired in the little shop at Atlantic City?" he asked me.

"Don't be foolish," I laughed. "You know this one is a great deal more beautiful. Why, it's almost too wonderful to use," I said, holding it up so I could see its loveliness reflected in the mirror of my dressing table.

"Not much—I got this for you to use," Leonard said forcibly.

I could not eat much dinner, but it did not matter. Leonard and I were having a happy evening and my soul was devouring all the food that my body craved for just now.

Thoughts of Mrs. Darwood and of Mrs. Russell's painful visit were few and far between, and when they did intrude themselves for a minute they seemed powerless to bother me with Leonard by my side. His nearness took all trouble from my heart.

"Shall I read to you?" Leonard asked, fitting a soft pillow between my head and the back of his own big chair. He had insisted that it was more comfortable than mine. "There," he said, lifting my feet gently to the soft leather covering of the footstool. "That looks comfortable," he added, standing back and regarding me with approval.

He went over to the book case and selected a thin volume in red leather. I smiled for I knew what it was—and I was glad he had chosen without asking me.

He settled back comfortably in a chair with his pipe held loosely between his teeth He took a few puffs of satisfaction—and then he began to read. I loved to listen to the deep vibrating tones of his fine voice.

There was a small fire in the fireplace and I let my eyes move happily from its warm yellow glow to the precious profile of Leonard's face outlined against the deeper shadows beyond the rays of the table lamp.

Why, periods of doubt and fainting spells were worth while if they reacted into blessed evenings like this! How could I look at my husband over there across the library table and think that he would be unfair to me? Every atom of my being cried out against the lie that Mrs. Russell had tried to poison my love with. It was not true. Leonard tonight, with his devotion and attentions, was proof enough against it. I would not even think about it. Mrs. Russell had wanted to plant the germ of discord in our lives. I felt that Jack Russell was not as devoted to her as she would like and filled her with a spirit of envy.

My love reasoned with all the old doubts and fears and pushed them from my mind. Even the things that I had seen myself dropped into unimportance.

Pay your 'phone bill out of dividends

This is how you can do it:

...bly a subscriber to the ...he average cost of a tele... a year.

Bell Telephone Company of Canada stock pays 8%; therefore, the dividend on five shares is $40 a year.

If you buy five shares of Bell Telephone stock, at present market price of about 104 (total cost $520, plus 25c. a share brokerage), your dividends will be enough to pay for your telephone.

How you may be sure of the dividend

You may ask: "How may I be sure of the Dividend?" The answer is:

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada was incorporated in 1880. Its growth since then has been continuous. What in 1880 was an experiment is now a necessity.

Bell Telephone stock has paid 8% dividend continuously for thirty-five years. The Board of Railway Commissioners, which regulates telephone rates, in a recent judgment held that the Company be permitted to earn sufficient to pay this 8% dividend, plus a surplus.

The average market price, during a period of ten years prior to 1918, was about $145 a share. There is no reason why it should not sell at this price again.

We thoroughly recommend you to buy at least five shares of this stock immediately. If you wish to buy more, so much the better.

Even if you are not a 'phone subscriber this investment should appeal to you immensely.

CARE OF ROSES

Roses are prominent among the premiums to be given by the Hamilton Horticultural Society this spring, as in former years, they being favorites with nearly all flower growers and users, particularly those whose ground is clay. Retail florists, too, are anticipating a big demand for what is generally known as the queen of flowers. In view of the planting season being close at hand, the following hints on the treatment of rose bushes, prepared by George Pilton, the well-known rose grower, will, no doubt, be read with interest.

Planting—One of the most important things to keep in mind n planting new rose bushes is to be sure to "firm" the earth around the roots. The beginner nearly always plants too loosely, and stands no chance of success for this reason. In wet weather it is not always easy to plant firmly in stiff soil. It is a good plan to store under cover some dry friable top soil into which, however sodden the rest of it may be, you can firmly pack your roses roots and tread in solid as you go. Always plant so that in the finish the "work" or "collar" or "union" of the rose stock to the briar on budded stock will be below the surface, not less than one nor more than two inches. All summer the hoe should be kept going continuously, because the surface soil should always be pulverized like dust. The soil cannot be too solid round the roots or too loose on the surface. Remember, a hoeing is as good as a watering, and that you soon lose the benefit of water or rain unless the hoe follows it.

Pruning—The object of pruning is to keep our rose bushes or trees young. If a rose tree is practically pruned to within a few eyes or buds of the ground it will become a wider and wider bush every year, and will yield better and better blooms all the time.

Climbing roses want entirely different treatment, and for this reason very little pruning is done to them, merely trimming of the tips and cutting out old canes that have flowered in succession of two or three years. Right after planting, climbing roses should be cut right down. The following season you will just shorten the tips which the frost usually affects.

It is useless to expect much from a climber till its roots become well established, and it is especially a mistake to leave a lot of top growth for newly planted roots to support. You cannot prune a newly transplanted tree too severely its first spring.

General culture—Roses are rank feeders, and when they are established and doing well, can utilize almost any amount of manure with advantage. The rule is to assist growth with manure, but not to try to make growth with it, as this is fatal. To put manure beneath them with a good layer of earth on top of the manure, where they may find it when they start to grow, is first rate, but to plant them in manure is to see them die. All stable manures are good, bone meal is good, and so are many artificials if they are judiciously used.

It is especially important to start with the knowledge that all roses have briar roots. At times the briar is trying to reassert itself by forcing its way up through the earth. Any sucker from the roots is necessarily briar, and any growth from the stem below the union is briar also. In any case of doubt, trace the sucker to its source. Any shoot from or above the union is just what you want to see.

As the growth of your bushes proceeds get ready for battling with the green fly. Be ready for the pest in advance; one spraying then is more effective than a half dozen when they have secured a good hold. Soft soap and water in which quassia chips have been boiled make an excellent spray for the green fly.

A Tame Seal.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 26. —The tame seal that last year was seen six times along the shore of Lake Ontario has made his appearance at Sackett's Harbor. His antics led many to believe the seal escaped from a circus. Seals in Lake Ontario are unusual, though 20 years ago one was caught at Sackett's Harbor. None had been seen for many seasons until 1920.

VISITORS TO OMEMEE OVER THE WEEKEND

PLAY PRESENTED IN THE VILLAGE —PERSONAL MENTION.

OMEMEE, April 26.—Mr. J. K. Hughes, of Peterboorugh, was a business visitor in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilson of Dunsford, were the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Albert Ford, on Sunday.

Mr. James Bruce of Woodville, was in town on business last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fligg, of Peterborough, were the guests of the latter's brother, Mr. Ed. Jamieson, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mahood and son, also Mr. and Mrs. H. Nugent, motored to Lindsay on Sunday, and called on friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Peel and daughter, of Salem, visited Mrs. Peel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bannan on Sunday.

Messrs. Wilfrid and J. Havery, of Peterborough, motored through town last week en route for Fenelon Falls.

Miss Marjorie Adams, of Peterborough, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Adams, over Sunday.

Mr. Eli Williamson left last week to visit relatives in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Weir and family, motored to Keene on Sunday to visit friends.

The first baseball game of the season will take place on Tuesday evening on the athletic ground. All are welcome.

Play Presented.

On Friday evening a drama in four acts, entitled, "The Noble Outcast," was ably presented to a fair audience in Coronation Hall, the inclement weather no doubt having caused many to remain at home. It would be out of place to congratulate one character more than another as each person acted his or her part remarkably well. Miss Eva Rae was the pianist for the evening and she, along with Mr. Lowery Brooks, delighted the audience with their combined selections on the piano drums, etc., between the acts. The proceeds which are in aid of the Epworth League Forward Movement Fund, amounted to about $45.

A Celebration.

A meeting of the Omemee Athletic Association was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening last, when the annual celebration on the 24th of May was planned for. Those in charge are aiming at a bigger and better celebration than ever this year ,and that means a good deal when we consider the big celebration last year.

Fire Prevention.

Some of our town fathers are looking ahead to fire prevention having resurrected the old fire engine out on Monday to have it overhauled. Let us hope it may never be needed, as it requires a lot of hand power to operate it.

TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, April 26.—Rev. Ernest Cafley conducted the service at the Methodist church Sunday. There was a large congregation present.

Mrs. Christie and daughter, Miss Davey, are expected from Toronto this week to take up their residence for the summer at their cottage.

Mr. Salter from the American side, arrived last week to assist in management of the "Arcadia" pavilion.

Mr. E. H. Fairbrother of Toronto a few days last week.

Some visitors have called here to locate cottages for the coming season. Some enterprising party should erect a number of new cottages.

The usual prayer and praise service will be held Thursday night at the church, conducted by the pastor.

Mrs. Pymer, who has been visiting in Toronto with her son for the past few months, returned last week and will remain here for the summer.

FAT FOLKS BECOME SLIM EASILY, PLEASANTLY

Fat persons will be happy to learn that they might easily reduce their weight without starvation diet, drastic drugs, or strenuous exercise.

If you are overstout, are you lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden? Don't jeopardize your health or be a laughing stock any longer. Be happy!

Follow the simple directions of the Korein system. Safe and pleasant; recommended by many reliable women and men.

Surprising weight reduction reports come in—even after just a few days' treatment. With proper reduction the flesh becomes firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved; in fact, work seems easier and a lighter, more buoyant feeling takes possession of the whole being. It is a fine sensation—that of looking and feeling younger, supple, cheerful, active, alert and full of enthusiasm.

For the First Time.

BOSTON, APRIL 26.—A woman for the first time in the history of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Massachussetts, has been elected to the administrative office in the diocese, held by a member of the Bishops' Council, to which she was elected by the recent annual diocesen convention here.

Freak Golf Shot.

ROANOKE, Va., April 26.—Robert F. Stone, University of Virginia student, is a claimant for the 1921 freak golf shot. In a recent game he made a literal "birdie" with a drive shot and brought down a dove flying high in the air. The ball broke the bird's wing, but was hardly slowed by the impact and Stone made par on the hole.

Valuable Cow.

APPLETON, Wis., April 26. — The Holstein cow, Sadie Gerben Hengerveld de Kol, which attained a forty-pound butter fat production record in a seven-day test, and known to Holstein breeders throughout Canada, died here recently of milk fever. She was 9 years old. Officials of the Wisconsin Livestock Association valued the cow at $35,000.

"What's this 'Triplex' Stuff I Hear So Much About, Ed?"

"THAT'S it, right there on that bicycle.

"It's as simple as A. B. C.

"But it means as much to a bicycle as the whole alphabet does to the English language."

"How's that, Ed?"

"Just this way:—

"The crank hanger is the power plant of your bicycle.

"If your crank hanger turns just a little stiff or hard, that means more effort for you.

"If the hanger develops those mean 'tight and loose' spots, it means more friction and less power.

"But the 'Triplex' was designed and is built to overcome those faults.

"It is made of such fine steel and to such close limits of accuracy that it always runs smoothly. It makes your bicycle run so easily you'd think you were riding down grade.

"It takes a lot more time and better workmanship to construct such an accurate hanger."

"Well, well! I never thought a crank hanger was so important. I see now that it is really just as important to have a good crank hanger on a bicycle as a good engine in a car."

"That's right. The 'Triplex' is sure some power plant.

"Were you thinking of buying a new bike, Charlie?"

"Yes, I was thinking something about it, Ed. You know I bought a cheap one against your advice last year and I'm sick of pushing the old cart along. Besides, it's always wanting repairs."

"What you need is one of those new C. C. M. Bicycles. They're built to stay out of the repair shop. I know of many C. C. M.'s that are giving good service after ten to fifteen years riding over all kinds of roads."

An Earnest Plea For Canadian Unity.

KINGSTON, April 26.—Replying to the toast, "Canada and the Empire," at the second banquet here by the Army and Navy Veterans, in celebration of the battle of Langemarck, Mr. W. F. Nickle, K.C., made an earnest appeal for unity among Canadians. "Canada should not grow great through isolation of her parts," he said, "by accentuating class distinction, or by thinking Quebec was antagonistic to Ontario. He claimed that prices would not come down till every Canadian was working his best, which he did not think they were doing now."

Three Women Had Corns and this is what they did

One simply pared them and kept them. She never knew an hour without corns.

One used a harsh, unscientific treatment. It was inefficient and it often caused soreness.

The third applied Blue-jay, liquid or plaster. It was done in a moment and it stopped the pain. In a little while the whole corn loosened and came out.

Millions of people now use Blue-jay. It is ending at least 20 million corns yearly. Those folks never keep corns—never suffer corn aches.

Why don't you join them? Learn the right way to treat corns.

GROVE OF OAKS PLANTED IN ELGIN COUNTY AS MEMORIAL TO SOLDIERS

EACH OF THESE HARDY ENGLISH TREES IS NAMED AFTER ONE OF THE LOCAL BOYS WHO DIED IN THE WAR—ST. THOMAS HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY LEADS THE WAY IN CANADA.

Making better citizens with flowers! Rather a senseless sounding statement, isn't it? What connection can the proper adjustment of one's standard of living have with a few little blossoms?

"None whatever!" answers the average individual—and the average individual is wrong.

The statement, incongruous as it may seem at first glance, is a proven fact. The theory has been put into practice and the acid test of sound principles has assayed almost pure gold. The city of St. Thomas, Ontario, is a concrete example that flowers can plan an important part in the making of better citizens.

Not that St. Thomas is morally perfect or devoid of crime. A Utopia of that kind is not possible, no matter how good and law-abiding the natives may be; for court records show that a large portion of the offences committed in every municipality is the work of transients—the restless flotsamof the earth. But St. Thomas boasts, with just pride, of having less serious crimes committed by its bona-fide citizens, the men and women who own property and take an interest in their city, then the majority of cities of similar size in Canada or the United States. The reason is given in the one word "flowers."

St. Thomas enjoys an international reputation through its extensive floral activities. Over in the United States, St. Thomas is known as "The Flower City of Ontario," and the St. Thomas Horticultural Society, with a membership of approximately twenty-five hundred—all active workers—is considered the last word in efficiency and is held up as a criterion for other youthful societies to emulate.

Prominent men of the city, who five years ago would have scoffed at a rose or tulip as an effeminate nothing, today are expert culturists, devoting every spare moment to their recreation. Everywhere in St. Thomas its horticultural development is in evidence. On public boulevard and private lawn, in old vacant lots or backyard gardens, one sees pretty flowers and shrubbery. Friendly, but keen, competition starts among the residents in almost every street of the city early in the spring and continues until the very last green thing has gone in the fall.

The Miracle Man.

Perhaps the most wonderful phase of St. Thomas' horticultural development is the fact that the credit for that reputation, that progressive society and those better citizens, is largely due to the influence and untiring efforts of one man. A miracle man, one might safely call him. He requires little introduction. The name of Dr. Frank E. Bennett, of St. Thomas, the genial dentist who has sacrificed a lucrative profession in order to devote his time and attention to his real life work, is as well known as the fame of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society. The two names synchronize. They are correlated. When one thinks of horticulture, he also thinks of Dr. Bennett.

To encourage the children and instil interest in their work, he conducted a very successful short course on flower culture and home beautification in March of this year, being assisted by eminent lecturers from the Guelph Agricultureal College. The Dominion and Provincial Governments were sufficiently interested in the commendable undertaking to send numerous motion pictures, illustrating the tested methods of planting, cultivation and pruning.

Tackles Hardest First.

A native of St. Thomas, and a resident there all his life, Dr. Bennett's first interest naturally lies in that city. He has undertaken the prodigious task of making the city one hundred per cent. beautiful, and he is steadily completing that task. It has been by no means an easy job. St. Thomas is a railway centre the divisional point of three large American trunk lines in addition to two branch Canadian roads. Railways cut through the heart of the city and intersect its outskirts, and railway tracks invariably are noted for their rather slovenly surroundings.

With a determination to conquer, Dr. Bennett tackled this hardest part of his work first. He went to the executives of the different railroad companies and laid his proposition before them. He guaranteed, through the horticultural society, to beautify the railroad property if the companies would co-operate, morally and financially. He pointed out that it would be good advertising for their roads to have everything in spick and span condition, with flowers and grass swards taking the place of dirt heaps and tin cans. The executives jumped at the golden opportunity and within a month the renovation work was well under way. Today the railroad surroundings in St. Thomas are among the most attractive in the city. From an ugly, barren waste of white sand, fronting the Michigan Central depot, an eyesore that had remained neglected for forty years, there has been fashioned one of the most inviting little parks imaginable, the pride and joy of every citizen and the admiration of every visitor. This is undoubtedly one of Dr. Bennett's greatest achievements. It will remain a monument to his name for years to come.

Memorial to Soldiers.

Yet this is but a small part of what Dr. Bennett has gone, with the assistance of the horticultural society. There is hardly a boulevard in the city that is not under the society's supervision. Some three hundred flowers beds, of various sizes, dot those boulevards and are adorned at least six months in the year with tulips, cannas and other hardy annuals. To plant these beds with tulips alone, requires more than twenty-five thousand bulbs, all imported Holland stock. In lovely Pinafore Park there are flowers and shrubs of every kind, selected and planted by Dr. Bennett. A collection of one hundred different French lilacs spread their sweet redolence throughout the park every spring—they came as a gift from the city of Rochester, N.Y. On a commanding hill, a grove of hardy English oaks has been planted as a monument to the fallen heroes of St. Thomas and Elgin County. Each tree is named after some unreturned soldier. Dr. Bennett was the originator of this beautiful idea of perpetuating the memories of the boys who died for democracy.

Superintending all this beautification work and attending to the innumerable executive details of his office, makes Dr. Bennett a very busy man indeed; and yet he finds time every day in the summer to do a little real philanthropic work. He doesn't hoard the beauties that he brings from the earth. Rather he distributes them with pleasing prodigality among the sick and aged and unfortunate of the city.

Early in the morning, Dr. Bennett may be seen carrying his choicest roses, gladioli or peonies to the hospitals and churches. He takes them into the homes of penury and spreads a wealth of floral cheer and optimism wherever he goes. In his unassuming way, Dr. Bennett is performing a most important duty in the great reconstruction period that is on in Canada. He is helping thousands of citizens to get better acquainted with Nature and in so doing is assisting in freeing the country of much of the materialism that is the foundation of Bolshevism and bloodshed. He has been responsible, in a large degree, in the securing of those twenty-five hundred active members of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society. So, after all, the title of this article is not so inconsistent or ridiculous as it first appears.

WHY MANITOBA MAN PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

His Pain in the Back Is Also Gone After Taking One Box of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

SIFTON, Man., April 25th.—(Special.)—Mr. John Yallowega, a well-known resident here, is a new addition to the army of Canadians who sing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Like all the others, he has tried Dodd's Kidney Pills for kidney trouble, and found them good.

"I took half a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mr. Yallowega states, "and they made me feel much better. When I had finished the box the pain in my back had disappeared. I was also much troubled with pimples on my face. It was as rough as poplar bark. Now the pimples are gone and my face is smooth."

Dodd's Kidney Pills strengthen the kidneys and put them in shape to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. With pure blood there is good health all over the body. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney pills.

A BRIDE OF EIGHTEEN GETS $10,000 A YEAR.

Married Freshman Secretly, From Whom She Must Live Apart For One Year.

NEW YORK, April 26—Papers filed with an order signed yesterday by Surrogate Albert A. Wingate in Brooklyn, allowing Mrs. Jessie I. Stevens, of Bensonhurst, $10,000 for the support of her daughter Kate Stevens Fagan aged 18 years, and an heiress, revealed the fact that the girl was secretly married last Thursday week to Richard Fagan, 19 years, a student at Dartmouth College.

The girl is a granddaughter of Calvin Stevens, who died several years ago, and the daughter of C. Armory Stevens, who died on March 20 last. The estate of Calvin Stevens amounted to mourn than $1,250,000. His will provided that C. Amory Stevens was to receive the income from one-third of this estate during his life and that at his death the principal was to go to his daugher.

In a supplemental affidavit accompanying the petition of Mrs. Stevens to the Surrogate, the petitioner says "That after said petition was prepared and executed, her daughter Kate Stevens, the infant mentioned therein, was married to a young man now a student at Dartmouth College. While deponent recognizes the seriousness of this step she alleges that the marriage was contracted in a foolish youthful escapade.

"Notwithstanding this marriage, however, the program for the said infant as outlined in the petition herein, is to be carried on and said infant is to go to school as therein stated and is not to live with the young man she married for the ensuing year, and not until he is through with his college education.

"This young man is a respectable person and one of high social standing, and there is, therefore, all the greater need for the allowance asked for in order to fit said infant for the position she is to assume as his wife. Said infant join in the petition hereby presented and has signed the same in her married name."

The young couple met at a social affair in one of Manhattan's big hotels. She was a student at a fashionable school for girls near Philadelphia. A civil marriage was performed in New Jersey and this was followed by a religious ceremony in Hanover, N.H.

Information as to the whereabouts of the girl at the present time was refused at Mrs. Stevens's. Little was told there about Fagan, oher than that he is he son of a New York stock broker.

HANOVER, N. H., April 26. — Richard Fagan of New York, a freshman at Dartmouth, was married on April 14 to Miss Kate Faith Stevens of Brooklyn by the Rev. John Dallas of Trinity Episcopal Church in Hanover. The following day an announcement credited to Mrs. Calvin Amory Stevens of Brooklyn, mother of the bride, was printed in the student daily here. There was no talk of secrecy connected with the marriage.

THE BIG FREIGHT TRAIN

This article deals with the advantages to a railway system of handling its freight tonnage in large train loads. It will set out the position in this respect in which the Canadian National Railways stand and indicate the prospects of future development.

It will be recalled that the last article dealt with the density of traffic on the C.N.R. and endeavored to show how, by merely lengthening the average haul of its freight by 10% per annum, without even anticipating any increase in tonnage at all, the C.N.R's. traffic density would be increased to a point where the government-owned system would be within measuring distance of the C.P.R. as it was operating in 1920—987,313 tons per mile of line on the Canadian National in Canada (20,089.67 miles) as compared with the C.P.R. with just a little more than a million tons per mile of line in Canada.

It is difficult for a line of light traffic density to handle its traffic in large train loads. An annual tonnage density of 730,000 tons is only 2,000 tons per day. Under favorable conditions this would represent only one large freight train each way per day. It can be understood readily, however, that for purposes of service to the public this tonnage would have to be split into two, or even three, trains each way. In 1910 and 1911 when the tonnage density on the C.P.R. was 751,000 and 759,000 ton miles respectively, its freight train load was only 340 and 336 tons, respectively. Moreover, these two years marked a great advance on that system over previous years as its train load had been increased from only 233 tons in 1902 to 299 tons in 1909; and then, as stated, it went up to 340 tons.

That the tons-per-train-factor is of great significance will be clear from a study of the following table giving the Canadian Pacific freight train performance in 1913 and 1920:

Canadian Pacific Railway

Year	Frt. Carried Tons	Aver. Distance each ton was hauled. Miles
1913	29,471,814	389.18
1920	30,160,134	464.01

	Revenue Ton Miles per Mile of Road	Tons of Frt. per Train Mile	Earnings per Frt. Train Mile
1913	989,081	381.12	$2.99
1920	1,066,401	529.25	$5.50

It will be observed that the increase in the actual number of tons handled in 1920 as compared with 1913 was but 2.33% and when the C.P.R's. 15.4% increase in mileage (11,601.7 to 13,388.5 miles) is considered, the tonnage per mile of line on that system actually decreased. The ton miles per mile of line increased by 7.8% whereas the actual ton miles (when worked out) increased by 23.25%. The train load increased by 38.8%. From this table, also it will be seen there was an increase in earnings per train mile of 84% and a great saving in expense in the operation of train miles. To illustrate this point clearly it might be shown that if the ton miles of 1920 had been handled by the C.P.R. in their average train of 1913, additional train miles to the number of 10,175,973 would have been required. It could not have cost less than one dollar per train mile to have run these additional train miles in 1920 so the extra mileage would have represented a loss in net to the Canadian Pacific of an amount nearly equal to that Company's fixed charges.

Striking Example.

This is a striking example of the benefit in operation that may be obtained by increasing the train load. A number of railways in United States had, prior to the war, increased their train load to a point which would not allow their position to be sustained by effecting an advance in this position during the war period. Lack of density prevented similar action in the case of Canadian National Railways. The advantage to the government-owned lines in this direction, that may be expected to accrue as a result of the thorough consolidation of the National System, loom up, therefore as substantial in character.

National Railways.

The National Railways as constituted at present—not including the lines of the G.T.R. in the east—have a freight traffic density of 576,500 tons per mile of line. The management succeeded, however, in handling this during 1920, in 379 ton trains, which was a larger average than that of the C.P.R. prior to 1913, in many ways a record year, and one in which the privately-owned company got its average load to 381 tons when it enjoyed a freight traffic density of 989,000 tons per mile of line. This proves, then, that the train load—a most essential factor in efficient operation—has been given the serious consideration by the C.N.R. management that the subject warrants. The low density of freight traffic and the necessity of competing in relative frequency of service, have been limiting factors in the progress possible in this direction.

When it is possible to lengthen the average haul and at the same time increase the train load, a most favorable set of operating conditions is established and without doubt the relatively good showing of the Canadian Pacific since 1915 is primarily due to the opportunity to do this which presented itself to the management of that System, which, prior to the war had good density of freight traffic and a relatively light train load compared with lines of similar density.

Improving the System.

Summarizing, then, the prospects for improving the consolidated National System's freight traffic situation are bright as the Government-owned lines, although having but 50% more mileage than their privately-owned competitor, originate twice as much traffic in tons and to raise the density it is only necessary to increase the average distance haul. As the freight density increases the opportunity to increase the train load becomes greater and this, of all factors, is the one most certain to bring about a substantial reduction in the relative cost of moving freight traffic.

As to character of traffic, those classes of freights in which the present National System is deficient, will be made up by consolidation with the Grand Trunk which serves the manufacturing sections, and more fully developed industrial districts not previously reached by the National Lines; and the Grand Trunk also provides the United States connections which are essential from a competitive point of view.

As regards passenger service, the Canadian National Railways are now at a great disadvantage compared with the C.P.R. and even when the Grand Trunk Lines are consolidated with those of the Canadian National Railways, the consolidated System will start quite a bit behind, but the prospects for improving the situation are good, as will be pointed out in another article.

RECOVER BULLION FROM LAURENTIC.

Was Mined and Sunk Off Ireland.

LONDON, April 9.—(Associated Press, by Mail).—Another attempt is to be made this summer by the Admiralty to recover the remainder of the bullign lost when the armed liner Laurentic was mined and sunk off the north coast of Ireland in 1917.

The salvage vessel, Racer, together with the Canadian drifter No. 1, will undertake the salvage work for the fourth summer.

The Laurentic went down in 20 fathoms (120 feet) of water four miles off the coast of Donegal carrying gold bars to the value of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Four years of pounding by Atlantic gales have reduced the wreck to a shapeless mass and each year the work has been more difficult. Last summer the divers found that about 250 tons of hull and deckplates had settled on the strong room, where the gold was stored, breaking it in. The result was that only about $25,000 was recovered, compared with $1,250,000 and the previous year.

After the winter storms the divers expect to find the wreckage covered with gravel and silt, which to be cleared away with pumps. Then the steel plates and girders must be cut away.

The Racer is now equipped, in addition to every possible contrivance for aiding divers, with a "recompression chambers." A diver can reach the bottom in half a minute, but after prolonged immersion at 20 fathoms below the surface, half an hour has to be allowed for raising him, because if brought up too quickly he is likely to collapse. The great pressure at 20 fathoms saturates the system with nitrogen gas, but in the recompression chamber the nitrogen can be eliminated gradually.

THE TYPEWRITERS WOULDN'T WORK.

Over - Zealous Janitor Hardened Up the Rollers.

The Portland, Oregon, Journal, like any other paper that follows an aggressive policy, makes some enemies. On a recent morning the reporters, sitting down at their desks found to their dismay that their typewriters failed to operate. More than a dozen were out of commission. An investigation was at once started and various threats against the Journal were remembered. A consultation was at once held to trace down the perpetrator of the outrage. The superintendent of the building was summoned to see if by any chance he had seen anyone skulking around the editorial rooms He could give no light on the matter.

The Journal is the lucky possessor of a janitor who hails from Virginia, and who, strange as it may seem, has an insatiable desire to keep everything spick and span. He was summoned to see if he could tell anything about it. The investigation ceased right there, for it developed that in his zeal to render efficient service he had washed each rubber roller with what he thought was alcohol; but which turned out to be jap-a-lac, and which, hardening, had put every typewriter so anointed out of commission. —Editor and Publisher.

METHODIST PASTOR ACTS AS SLEUTH.

Trails a Woman to Gather Divorce Evidence.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Rev. William F. Coffey, pastor of the Freeport, L.I., Methodist Episcopal church, testified before Justice Squiers in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, that he had been employed by the law firm of Scudrer & Levy to gather evidence in the action of Charles Hochstater of New York, for a divorce from his wife, Maud. The clergyman said that he found Mrs. Hochstater living at 148 West street, Brooklyn, with another man, under the name of Mrs. Gallatly, and that he had served her with a summons and complaint there. Mrs. Hochstater was in court, and stood up to be identified, but entered no defense. The decree was granted in Hockstater's favor.

The Rev. Mr. Coffey gave his address as 12 Henry street, Freeport. He said that he had trailed Mrs. Hochstater, since she and her husband separated, and found that she had been living for a month at the Brooklyn address. On one of his visits to the house, he said, he was accompanied by Miss Susan Hochstater, sister of the plaintiff. He said that he had found the man described as Gallantly sitting in a chair in his shirt sleeves, and the apartment fitted up for housekeeping. Mrs. Hochstater had admitted to him, he testified, that she was living with Gallantly as man and wife.

THE STATE COURTS MAY TRY PONZI.

Judge Holds That Sheriff Should Surrender Him.

BOSTON, April 25. — The proposal to bring Charles Ponzi, now a Federal prisoner, before the State Courts for trial on charges of larceny growing out of the collapse of his get-rich-quick scheme is favoured by Judge Fessenden of the Superior Court.

The Judge said he was inclined to order Sheriff Earl P. Blake of Plymouth County, Ponzi's jailer, to obey a writ of habeas corpus issued by the Superior Court to produce Ponzi, as a Federal prisoner, should not be surrendered on a writ issued by a State Court.

Judge Fessenden intimated that if Sheriff Blake refused to comply with the writ he would be adjudged in contempt, but added that before imposing sentence he would give him an opportunity to seek relief in the United States Court by applying for a restraining order. In that way, the Judge said, an interesting question might be settled.

William V. Riter, of Washington, appearing as a Special Attorney-General of the United States, said that so far as the Department of Justice was concerned, it did not object to the production of Ponzi before the Superior Court.

Vegetable Soup.

One-half cup chopped carrots, one-half cup chopped turnip, three-quarters cup chopped celery, two cups cut potato, one-half cup chopped onion, three pints boiling water, one-half cup butter or substitute, two tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Salt and pepper to taste.

Wash and peel the vegetables, and chop coarsely or cut in small pieces; the latter is the better method for potatoes and celery. Measure vegetables after cutting. Mix carrot, turnip, celery, and onion, and cook in butter ten minutes or until butter is absorbed and vegetables are turning yellow. Add potatoes and water, and cook an hour or more; the vegetables should be quite soft. Add salt, pepper, and parsley. Serve boiling hot.

USE VEGETATION OF FORESTS FOR AUTOCAR FUEL.

Contains Abundance of Alcohol, But Difficulty Lies in Finding Means of Manufacturing Properly.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 26.—(Associated Press).—H. N. Whitford of the Yale School of Forestry told the American Chemical Society in its annual meeting here to-day that alcohol could be manufactured from the moist vegetation of tropical forests and jungles could be utilized to avert a future scarcity of fuel for driving automobiles.

There is an abundance of alcohol in tropical vegetation, he said, but the difficulty lies in finding the means of manufacturing it profitably.

"The evidence is conclusive," said he, "that the tropical sun has the power of store up more energy in the form of cellulose in a given time than has the temperate sun. If this is in a utilizable form it remains for the ingenuity of man to overcome the difficulties of profitably applying it. With the increasing needs of the nation, it is reasonable to expect that sooner or later it will be necessary to utilize more fully the plant resources of the tropics.

"The future scarcity of the country's liquid fuel supply," continued Mr. Whitford, "is now so apparent that the question of its early replacement has become a vital problem in natural economics. The problem, however, is of such magnitude that only from a consideration of new sources of energy and the discovery of new raw material would it seem that any solution could be effective. A question involving the synthesis of some 4,000,000,000 gallons of feasible substitute annually calls for the development of new ideas and new sources of energy. Our one great source of energy is undoubtedly that of the sun. How can this source best be utilized? Obviously in the growth of plant life from which, in turn, alcohol and other fuels may be made."

Mr. Whitford said that the annual production of alcohol from the nipa plant in the Philippines is now nearly 1,000,000 gallons and that one distillery there had produced 93 per cent. alcohol at a cost of about 20 cents a gallon and, if operated to full capacity, could make it at a cost of 15 cents a gallon.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

DIAMOND ROBBERY.

Jewellery Salesman Held Up in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Leroy Present, a jewellery salesman, was robbed of a wallet containing $200,000 worth of diamonds in a downtown office building.

Present, son of the owner of the Philip Present Company, of Rochester, N.Y., and Buffalo, N.Y., was showing his jewels to Julia Reingold, employee of the J. J. Reingold Company.

Two bandits entered, and at the point of guns, bound and tied Present and the girl.

The bandits took 30,000 worth of Reingold's jewellery also.

They made a clean getaway.

"Listen, Mother"

"HERE is a letter from Bessie, and she says she is feeling fine again after using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"I knew it was just what she needed to build up her system after baby's coming.

"She says she is sorry she did not take your advice long ago instead of worrying along as a semi-invalid for so many weeks."

"What else does she say?"

"I will read you the rest. She says: 'My nerves got so upset that I could not sleep scarcely at all. Digestion was bad and I had palpitation of the heart. Baby got cross and irritable, and at times I got terribly discouraged.

"'When I got mother's letter urging me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was about ready to give up, and decided to give the Nerve Food a trial on the strength of what it had done for her.

"'I cannot begin to tell you how thankful I am for that advice, for I am now well and happy, baby is doing fine and I know that the credit is entirely due to the use of the Nerve Food.'"

CALLS UPON U.S. FOR DECISION AS TO GERMANY'S INDEMNITY

UNTIL THIS SUBJECT IS REMOVED FROM FIELD OF CONTROVERSY THERE CANNOT BE A RETURN TO NORMAL CONDITIONS OF TRADE AND COMMERCE—DEPLORES SPECTACLE OF AMERICA'S IND

HON. J. W. DAVIS' SPEECH TO-DAY

NEW YORK, April 26.—(Associated Press).—The Hon. John W. Davis, in his address at The Associated Press luncheon here to-day, spoke as follows:

"I am flattered by this invitation to address you. Notwithstanding the fact that I have received from the generous hand of your General Manager your annual reports for the years from 1900 to 1920, inclusive, two thick volumes alleged to contain all the law you have enacted for yourselves or persuaded others to enact for you, and sundry articles from the pen of the General Manager himself—all of which, for the purposes of the present argument, I ask you to assume that I have read with minute and exhaustive care—notwithstanding all this, there is still much concerning your activities which it will be my pleasure to study and to learn. And yet one would confess himself ignorant past all hope if he had not some acquaintance with The Associated Press and its work, for verily there is no speech nor language where your voice is not heard; your line has gone through all the earth and your words to the ends of the world. Day unto day you utter speech, and night unto night you show knowledge. Yours are the eyes of Argus, and into your ears are breathed the secrets of princes and peasants, of prophets, priests and kings. Carrying the classical figure a step further, yours is the voice of Stentor at whose sound the earth itself trembles.

Remarkable Endowment.

"Manifestly, such an endowment provides opportunities not enjoyed by ordinary mortals, and equal and correlative responsibility for their proper use. It is the rubbing of your lamps that calls out of the void that great and powerful genie whom we call Public Opinion, lord and master in this democratic age of the lives and destinies of men. Whether he comes as a benevolent despot or as a blind and destructive tyrant depends primarily—I had almost said entirely—upon the Press. The newspaper is the great educative institution before which even colleges and universities must bow, and the immeasurable company of your readers are the voters whose education is imperative if self-government is to survive. Upon the information you give us we must order our lives. Nor does it detract from the devoted labors of editorial sanctums to say that their considered comment, great as its influence may be, is secondary in its influence upon public opinion to the news column. The decisive factor is the kind, quality, quantity and form of the facts which are fed into the public mind in the guise of news. To be the purveyor of so vital a commodity is a very great and a very solemn responsibility. I congratulate The Associated Press because, by the general verdict of mankind, it has performed this duty without bias, without prejudice and without partisanship, and in an earnest pursuit of the truth where it might be found. On this rests the general respect and public confidence which The Associated Press enjoys.

"It takes an experience in public life to drive home the vital connection between governmental policy and daily news. On the personal side, of course, politicians shrink from publicity, even as the modest flower shuns the sun, and although sometimes they succeed in overcoming their aversion to the lime-light, it is not without a struggle. But the essential and indispensable thing when any line of action is proposed is to get the facts to the people. That done, the majority under our theory of government must decide, and I, for one, believe they can be trusted to decide with wisdom.

Foreign Relations.

"Naturally, in view of past and present events, I am thinking at the moment in terms of the foreign relationships of the United States. To a large and increasing extent these lie in the keeping of the daily press. History, I think, will show that occasions are rare when those in charge of foreign relationships can blaze out an independent path. In the words of Lincoln, they do not control events, but are controlled by them, and they must adapt their course to events as they unroll and to the public opinion of those whom they are called upon to serve. In this opinion is fed with distorted facts, unworthy suspicions of alarming rumors; if every careless utterance by thoughtless and insignificant men is to be given prominence in print; if every casual difference of view is to be magnified into a crisis, sober judgment and deliberate action become impossible. It is far easier, as most of us know, to raise a storm than to quell it.

A Good Omen.

"It is a good omen that American newspapers unquestionably are giving more space to foreign news than in former times and much more space proportionately than are their foreign colleagues. Perhaps at no time in our previous history was it more necessary that we should accurately know and understand what is passing in the rest of the world.

"This is neither the time nor the place for any discourse on American foreign policy. Certainly those on whose shoulders the burden rests are entitled to every opportunity to formulate their policy without premature criticism or unqualified advice. It is clear, however, that among the problems which beset us the moment the session opens stand easily in the front rank. The first of these is the German indemnity. Until this subject is removed by rational agreement from the field of controversy, there neither can be nor will be any return to normal conditions of trade and commerce, and no permanent return to international peace. The second is Russia, where 178,000,000 people, occupying some of the most fertile areas of the globe, are slowly sinking under the weight of an intolerable despotism into political and social anarchy. It is a catastrophic process which outside interference is powerless to affect, but whose world-wide results cannot be computed. The third undoubtedly is America, whose attitude toward the problems that have followed the ending of the great world war still awaits definition, although two years and a half have passed since the guns were stilled. What that attitude is to be America alone has the right to decide, but the rest of mankind is well within its right in calling upon us for decision.

Deplorable Spectacle.

"Please understand that I have no desire either to suggest or introduce any controversial question which might disturb the prevailing harmony of this harmonious gathering. Least of all do I desire to rake over the embers of past contention. I am thinking entirely in terms of the future. But the spectacle of a great nation, unable in a time of real crisis to take decisive action, and powerless because of divided counsels to move either forward or back, is one which should give us food for serious thought. A tiny sailing craft whose steering gear is out of order is of little consequence in its trouble to anyone but itself; but when a great liner lies wallowing in the waves along frequented lanes, with its fires banked and engines stopped, while captain and crew debate, it is not only in peril itself, but a menace to all who travel on the sea. One cannot but wonder whether the fathers in their excess of caution did not go further than modern reason should demand. John Hay, when Secretary of State, despairingly exclaimed that the fathers in their wisdom had decreed that for all time the 'kickers shall rule,' and that a treaty entering the Senate was like a bull entering the arena: one could not tell when or how the blow would fall, he could only be sure that the bull would not come out of the ring alive.

"The constitutional requirement of a two-thirds vote in the Senate to ratify a treaty had its origin in the jealousy of some of the thirteen original States toward their neighbors; but Rhode Island is no longer afraid of New York and Maine does not shudder at the thought of Texas. Is there any reason to-day why the same Senatorial majority, which can adopt a declaration of war and pass the most far-reaching and important statutes, cannot be equally trusted to advise and consent where treaties are concerned? What earthly excuse is there for giving to one Senator opposed to a treaty as much weight as to any two who favor it? In the era of broader national and international interests, upon which, willingly or unwillingly, we are undoubtedly entering, it is of paramount concern to make certain that our vessel will answer to the helm.

The Open Door.

"That we are entering upon such an era, who can doubt? With our far-flung insular possessions, our new merchant marine, our foreign debts and investments, and our expanding trade, with our rightful insistence upon the 'open door,' and our eager desire for peace, it is quite conceivable that foreign policy may become not merely an important, but the most important factor in our national life. It can be safely based only upon information transmitted with exactness and digested without prejudice.

Newspaper Reports.

"This leads me to say a word on a subject which lies very near my heart, and in which I can no longer be suspected of a personal interest. I think you will agree that no matter how diligent or faithful the agents of The Associated Press may be, or how many are the outposts from which they watch the passage of events, the Government cannot act upon newspaper report alone. It must have its own staff of trained correspondents and agents. Notwithstanding an opinion which seems to have prevailed, the diplomatic and consular service is not and never was a merely ornamental branch of the Government. On the contrary, it is our first line of defense. The trenches, therefore, should be manned with troops who are both well-trained and, what is equally important, well-equipped and well-fed. They should not be required while they are in service to forage on the contrary or to act as their own commissaries. Nothing is less democratic in our democratic country than our refusal to compensate those who serve us. The nation has the right to the services of all her sons, rich and poor alike, but she should not ask it upon terms such that none but those with private means can afford to serve. She should maintain her representatives abroad, not in luxury or ostentation, but in such manner as her own dignity requires. The only truly democratic rule is that no public office should be a source of private gain; on the other hand, it should not impose upon the holder a personal loss.

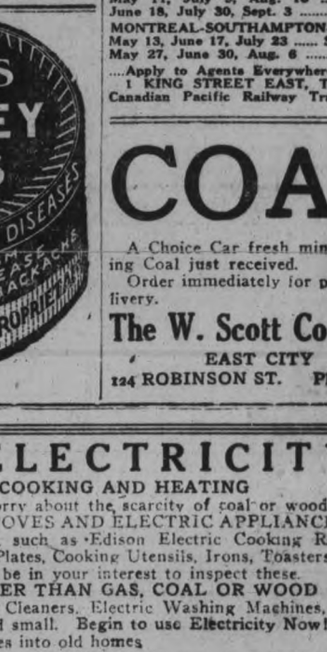
Diplomatic Service.

"I am speaking not only of Ambassadors and Ministers, but equally of the trained personnel of our diplomatic and consular service, without whose efficient aid no chief of mission can hope to discharge his duties. I know many of these men and I am proud of them. By and large, they are an able, devoted and efficient body of public servants. As one after another has come to me in recent years to confess his discouragements and has asked whether I would advise him to spend more of his life as a diplomat, it has been a source of keen regret that I could not more sincerely urge him to do so. The average salary, I am told, paid to officers of career in the diplomatic service is $1,802. For this they are expected to abandon all private pursuits and to maintain themselves abroad under circumstances that render many personal economies impossible. If we are to hold these men, as we must hold them, three things seem to me to be imperative: First, adequate compensation and maintenance for themselves and their families so that they may work in contentment; second, a retirement system which will relieve them from the fear of a useless and dependent old age, and third, a reasonable possibility of promotion for merit to the highest posts so that each man may go hopefully, like Napoleon's soldiers' feeling that he has a marshal's baton in his knapsack. And behind them we must station at all times a State Department adequately and completely manned to digest and act on the information it receives. Men do not gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles, and we shall not reap a harvest in foreign fields unless we are willing to pay the cost of sowing. We should either support our foreign service—which is but simple justice—or abandon it, which would be criminal folly.

"I know of no reason why I should longer convert a semi-social meeting into an occasion for airing my individual views. Let me thank you again for this opportunity to address you and close with words descriptive of your function which deserve to be written in letters of fire:

"'No great and lasting wrong,' says the gentleman I am quoting, 'can be inflicted upon the sons of men anywhere so long as this fierce blaze of publicity is beating upon the scene. For in the end, the world must know, and when the world knows, justice must be done. The most absolute and irresponsible authority must finally yield to the demands of a great public sentiment.'

"This language from the pen of Melville E. Stone is at once the creed, the shibboleth and the justification of The Associated Press. Long may it pursue its lofty errand."



Give This to a Constipated Baby

Why Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the Favorite Constipation Remedy with so Many Mothers

YOUNG Mothers in the midst of bringing up a family of small children should consider it a duty to investigate the action of the various remedies for constipation. This is the ailment most common among children, and it often leads to serious diseases. It is important for the mother to know the right remedy to give, for they differ widely in action.

Children do not take kindly to drastic drugs, salt waters, calomel, physics, castor oil, carthartics, mercurials and such things, and they find difficulty in swallowing these harsh medicines even when disguised in sugar-coated tablets or pills. It is not only that the child doesn't like the taste, but these drugs are so violent that they wrench the little system. They should not be given to children.

Thousands of wise mothers, after having tried many things, give only a combination of simple herbs with pepsin, known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. The formula is on the package. It is a mild, gentle remedy, free from all narcotics, that relieves constipation and its symptoms, such as headache, biliousness, colds, fever, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, and it does it without griping or weakening. A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin can be bought at any drug store for sixty cents and is enough to last an average family many months.

Last year over eight million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin were sold in drug stores, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, and as the preparation has been on the market over thirty years the second generation of mothers are now giving it to their babies. No careful, well-regulated home will be without a bottle for a mild, safe constipation remedy like this may be needed by someone in the family any minute. Every bottle is guaranteed to do exactly as claimed for the ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels or your money will be refunded.

TRY IT FREE!

There are heads of families who will want to prove to their own satisfaction that my Laxative Syrup Pepsin is as effective in constipation, as mild and gentle in action, as pleasant-tasting and safe, as I claim. Let such write me for a free sample. It will be sent postpaid. Simply say "Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front Street, Bridgeburg, Ont.: Send a free trial bottle of your Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to—" and give your name and address. I will see that the rest is attended to promptly.

ASKS THAT TAX BE PUT ON CATS.

Hamilton Bird Protective Society Would Eliminate Stray Pussies.

HAMILTON, April 25. — The members of the Hamilton Bird Protective Society have concluded to petition that a tax be placed on all cats, in the same way dogs are taxed, so that stray felines may be gathered in some city official appointed for that purpose. They would also limit the number of cats for one household to not more than two. A boy was recently fined $10 by the police magistrate, for killing a robbin, and now the members of this society are attempting to solve the problem of just how much a woman should be fined whose pet pussy carries home a robbin nearly every day.

Cambria Linen Writing Paper 4-quire pkgs. 29c.

$3.50 All-Wool Homespun, $1.69 Yard

It sounds old-fashioned, but it is not, for it is greatly favored this season for women's suits, coats and separate skirts. We have two pieces of grey in different shades. The width is extra wide.

New Shipment Bungalow Aprons, 69c

A new assortment of these useful Aprons of striped percales. Blue and black stripes on light grounds, strap belt, useful pockets and neck piped with white.

Women's Pink Balbriggan Bloomers, 39c

These Bloomers are wonderful value, as so many women know. They have elastic bands at the knees and waist. The surprising thing about them is that they can be made to sell at such a small price.

3000 Yards of White Wash Goods in Remnants, 23c Yard

These are not our own Remnants—they come from the wholesaler—and wholesalers, like the retailers, sell their Remnants at greatly reduced prices. To-morrow will be no exception to the rule.

The assortment is made up of Gabardines, Middy Twills, Beach Cloth, White Dimity, Crepes and Vestings. The lengths are from 1½ to 10 yards, and the regular prices were 35c, 45c, 50c and 65c yard.

Table Damask, 79c Yard

A wonderfully good Damask that is sufficiently fine for every-day use. The width is 58 inches and it comes in such particularly desirable patterns as fleur de lis, pansy, floral, rose, etc. It has a linen-like finish.

50c White Pique at 33c Yard

This is a new line for the Annex, and we have no less than 600 yards of it. There are three widths of cords—fine, medium and wide. The quality is extra good and suitable for women's skirts, middies and children's dresses and rompers. The width is 27 inches.

600 Yards, Indigo and Butcher's Blue Prints, 19c Yard

They are not first quality goods, but the imperfections are in the printing of the patterns; not in the weaving of the cloth. The indigo blues are navy and the butcher's a lighter medium shade. A selection of floral and polka dot patterns.

Table Cloths, $1.95

A shipment of sixty of these Cloths just arrived. There are six different designs to choose from, but the quality is the same. The size is 58 x 70 inches. Excellent in every respect and the price is low.

Novelty Dress Ginghams, 23c Yard

You will find nearly every color combination in this assortment, at least every desirable one. The width is 27 inches and the quality unusual for such a price, except in the Annex.

Lenox Laundry Soaps, Large Bars, 10 for 69c

Made and guaranteed by Proctor and Gamble. It is well seasoned and will ,therefore, last longer. The bars are a good size, the Soap is a good quality and tne price is certainly low.

No 'Phone Orders

Large Bars Castile Soap, 19c Bar

It is a real large size bar that measures 11½ x 1¾ x 1½ inches. The brand is "Le Parfait" and is known for its purity and lasting qualities. Not long ago, in some places, the price for this bar was 35c. Two hundred and fifty bars to sell on Wednesday.

Women's Fine Nainsook Gowns, $1.19

Most women will approve of the style of these Gowns. They have a round neck and short sleeves; the latter are finished with torchon lace. Across the front is a yoke effect finished with embroidery and beading. The lengths are 58 and 60 inches. Good liberal sizes.

THE TRENT WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION SHOWS THE POSSIBILITIES OF UNITY

The Trent Waterways Association —now in the second year of its existence and showing no decline of interest—affords proof of the contention that the Trent towns can co-operate in an enterprise that promises one and all of them equal returns.

It was formed for the definite but rather limited purpose of advertising the water route and resorts along the Canal from Orillia to Belleville. Grants have been ungrudgingly given by the various municipalities who have joined together in this organisation, and the funds are used to pay for advertisements in magazines that appeal to tourists in the United States and Canada, particularly to those owners of motor boats who can afford the leisure of a holiday spent in idling along the lower waters of the Trent and the lakes of the Kawartha district.

Not Merely a Pleasure Ground.

Only one phase of the aspirations of the people of the Trent towns is expressed in this Association. They do not wish to convey only the idea that this is a playground of Ontario as attractive as Muskoka or the Ridcau. This consideration appeals to themselves, perhaps not so strongly as it should, but it takes no account of the material assets of the same scenic waterway. Tourists may be potential manufacturers, and some of them may be actual manufacturers seeking rest, but the Trent towns nearer Peterborough want a more definite connection than that with the heads of prospective or possible industries. They regard themselves as more than a break in the scenery. They have an abundance of electric energy to sell, and some of it is the cheapest in the Province. They emphasise their central location in Ontario, and they seek a serious hearing of their claims. Here, as elsewhere, industry comes first, and the Trent towns not only offer advantages they deem desirable for factories, but also a great natural garden affording diversified and simple recreation after labour at the smallest expense.

The lakes, rivers, and canal are at the very doors of many homes throughout this district, and it is no exaggeration to say that many garden plots abut on the water. In brief, the Trent towns believe that they have more than the average gifts of nature easily accessible to their people, and they want publicity for them.

The Trent Waterways Association is giving this district a measure of publicity that may not bring direct tangible results in the form of industrial inquiries. Its purposes do not range so widely as that; but it is leading tourists to the Trent and Kawartha waters in increasing numbers—and who can determine the accumulative effect of this modest venture in publicity? Looking at it in a more general sense the establishment of this association demonstrates that the Trent towns have a community of interest, that they can work together and in harmony in an undertaking that requires financing without the assurance of large returns.

An Example and Perhaps a Nucleus.

It is a bond of unity which, if it endures, may lead to broader and larger activities. Public spirited citizens of these towns come to know one another forming personal contacts that represet community contacts that represent community conto community sympathies and a mutual understanding and appreciation that have been too long absent in this district, to differentiate it from the highly organised sections of Western Ontario, for example. In other words, the Trent towns are starting rather late to get together, that is, on attempted permanent basis, and with confidence in themselves and in the resources they wish to exploit, there is nothing to prevent them broadening out in their co-operative efforts whenever they feel the impulse that demands a stronger and more extensive concerted action. The Trent Waterways Association evidently realises this fact that if these towns don't boost themselves, no one else will.

PREMIER HUGHES SAYS AUSTRALIA BEHIND IMPERIAL DEFENCE SCHEME

WILL PLAY HER PART AND CONTRIBUTE DUE QUOTA TO EMPIRE'S NAVAL FORCES—PREMIER'S SPEECH IN AUSTRALIAN PARLIAMENT

NEW YORK, April 26.(By Canadian Press).—Australia's stand in regard to the naval defense of the Empire was definitely stated by Premier Hughes in his recent speech in the Australian parliament in which he dealt with the questions to be discussed at the forthcoming Imperial conference of the Dominion prime ministers to be held in London in June. "For Australia," he said, "there is no alternative but participation in a scheme for Imperial defense in which we will play our alloted part and contribute our due quota."

The text of Mr. Hughes speech has been received by the Australian commissioner here. Premier Hughes dealt with several problems in which Canada is vitally interested and which are expected to come up for solution at the gathering of representatives of the Empire in London. Following are extracts from his speech dealing with matters, inter-Imperial, which have not been reported in Canada by cable:

"There seems to be an impression that they have special claims as experts on all things pertaining to the constitution, that the forthcoming conference has been called to consider the question as to how to effect some great constitutional changes. These critics protested against the Australian representative being armed with plenary powers without giving parliament a change of approving or disagreeing with my views.

Actual Position.

"The actual position is somewhat cruel anti-climax to these self-appointed constitution mongers whose burning desire is to substitute for the present system a brand new constitution framed by themselves. The conference has not been called to even consider constitutional changes. That matter will be set down for consideration at the earliest next year—but probably at a later date. It is painfully evident from articles which have appeared in the press and in magazines—which have occasionally been enshrined in more permanent form, that to a certain type of mind the constitution of the British Empire is far from what it should be.

"One object of these enthusiastic but inexperienced persons, is to redraft the Empire constitution and substitute for the present empirical allegical structure fashioned by time and the circumstances under which we have lived and flourished, a constitution built according to some logical plan which they have devised. When challenged they repudiate any desire to establish some kind of Imperial parliament. They want to gild the pill. Falling short of a grandiose scheme for an Imperial parliament they hint at a central council endowed with powerw over various parts of the Empire. They seem to think it necessary for the Empire to be held together by some Imperial council or by some legal formula. They forget that it has existed for centuries without any of these things. They fail to realize that a thousand formulas of Imperial councils would not keep the Empire together if either Britain or various Dominions desired to drift apart."

Surest Way to Destroy.

"I think that there is nothing more certain that the surest way of destroying this mighty Empire which is one of the chief bulwarks of civilization, is to tamper with it's constitution. The complete autonomy of its parts is the foundation upon which its unity rests. Neither Britain nor the Dominions are prepared to yield one jot or tittle their perfect freedom to govern themselves in their own way and from this assurance of perfect freedom for each of the several parts, ensues the spiritual unity which binds us together.

"The relations between Britain and Australia today are as differenttas those existing a hundred or even fifty years ago, as is the world today different from the world then existing. The strength of the ties binding us together lies in this fact. There is no rigidity yet bars of triple steel are as wax compared to the tenacity and strength of the ties binding the different portions of the Empire together. The June conference has been called to deal with the Empire defense—particularly naval defense, with the question of renewal of the Japanese treaty, with the foreign policy in regard to wireless, etc. The Japanese question involves foreign policy in general and renewal of the Japanese treaty in particular. This being so the question of constitutional changes does not arise, and no good purpose can be served by mere academic discussion.

Foreign Policy.

"Until quite frequently the foreign policy of the Empire was shaped entirely by Great Britain. The Dominions had no power over it. No doubt, any other course was practically impossible. Britain was and is still the predominating partner. She was the mother to whom all her children looked. These, although sturdy youngsters have not reached maturity. Since any foreign policy for the Empire must depend upon naval power and the British by the Dominions to a voice in the Empire foreign policy was hardly justified. Time and circumstance have changed the position. Five years of war have done more than a generation of peace to develop the national spirit of the Dominions. The manner in which the Dominions equipped and maintained armies larger than Great Britain had ever before put into the field put the seal upon the new status, which not only Britain but the world has now acknowledged.

Consult Dominions.

"The statesmen of Britain were the first to recognize that Dominions should be consulted on such acts of foreign policy as right in future involve them in war.

"For another reason too, besides that of their increasing population wealth and importance, the relations of Great Britain and the Dominions regarding foreign policy have been materially changed. It is out of foreign policies that wars are hatched. Before the war the great burden of Empire naval defense rested upon the shoulders of Britain, but the debt and sacrifices resultant from the war made this no longer possible. The Dominions have claimed the status of nations. They have earned the right to be so considered by their war efforts. They have lost tens of thousands of men, incurred debts amounting to hundreds of millions of pounds but neither in men or money, are their losses as heavy as Britains. The British navy is not needed for the defense of Britain alone but of the whole Empire, including the Dominions. Britain has told us plainly that she cannot longer bear the expense of maintaining this great navy and that the Dominions must share this burden. No request could be more reasonable, and for Australia, there is no alternative but participation in a scheme of Imperial naval defense in which we play our alloted part and contribute our due quota. I am of course, dealing with the question of naval defense from the standpoint of Australia. I think the position of New Zealand is for all practical purposes the same.

Safety in Naval Force.

"The safety of Australia rests upon and adequate naval force. The commonwealth cannot provide this from her own resources. Britain on the other hand can no longer afford to bear the burden of a navy sufficient to ensure the safety of the whole Empire—and has therefore informed her Dominions that she expects them to bear their fair share. This is the position and it leaves no room for argument except as regards the details of the scheme to be adopted. Any scheme of Imperial naval defense must necessarily provide for the defense of the Pacific Ocean, as it is there that the present and future of Australia is to be decided. Whatever the splendour or greatness, menace or trial, the future has in store, good and evil alike will come to us from the Pacific. Naval defense is for us a Pacific question, and our foreign policy must concern itself closely with the aims and aspirations of the peoples and countries surrounding that mighty ocean.

Republic Impossible.

"In considering this question of naval defense we must remember how far the Empire itself is dependent upon sea power. From the constitutional point of view the thing which holds the Empire together is the Crown. The fundamental truth is that the Empire is impossible under a republic government. As the Dominions have developed their legislators have claimed wider and wider powers which Britain with her traditional policy has always granted. Today while the Dominions are accorded a place in the family of nations and take seats in the assembly of the League of Nations on a footing of equality with all other countries, constitutionally they are one by virtue of having one King. We in the Australian commonwealth now call ourselves a nation. So we are but in the same breath we declare ourselves part of the British Empire. These apparently inconsistent declarations combine at once our history and our circumstances. Whatever material prosperity or greatness we have, have come because of our partnership in the British Empire, which in turn depender for it's very existence upon the Britis navy.

"When we speak of the British Empire there is no delusion as to that upon which it's existence and greatness pend. It depends upon naval po and Australia's exitence depends upon adequate naval defense. The navy what the people of Britain make it It is vital to us that it shall remain great navy.

"The conference is therefore important because we as Dominions may express our opinion as to what it is to us. The question of a satisfactory scheme of Imperial naval defense is literally of life and death to Au

Clothes for Fee.

(Canadian Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., April 26.—The suit a penniless prisoner wore into Police Court here recently was accepted by his attorney as a fee. The lawyer procured a pair of overalls and gave them to his client to wear.

Luncheon Veal.

For a nice luncheon dish of veal have the butcher cut five cutlets of veal, four of them beat flat and even. Mince fine the other cutlet, and add one tablespoon of minced suet, six minced anchovies and season with salt, pepper and mace. Spread this mixture over the four cutlets and roll them up; dip in beaten egg and then in bread crumbs. Let stand a few minutes and dip in egg and roll in bread crumbs again. Stew in rich gravy with a tablespoon of walnut pickle and a half cup of orange juice.

LESS THAN 24 PER CENT. OF OUR WHEAT EXPORTS GO FROM CANADIAN PORTS

REMAINDER SHIPPED OVERSEAS THROUGH UNITED STATES—INTERESTING FIGURES SHOWING VARIOUS ROUTES TAKEN TO REACH ALL COUNTRIES.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 22.—(Canadian Press Limited.)—In the half year which ended with February last, less than 24 per cent. of Canada's exports of wheat to overseas countries was shipped direct through Canadian ocean ports. Of the total export business to all countries about seventy per cent. was done from Western Canada. These are striking statements from an article in the Grain Trade News, a daily market paper issued in Winnipeg, which gives details of the exports of wheat from this country during the six months from September 1, 1920, to February 28, 1921.

The article says: If the figures for the Canadian ocean ports are picked out of the general list it is found that the direct exports of Canadian wheat to overseas countries from our own ports for the six months totalled only 14,936,022 bushels. These are the revised official figures. Vancouver shipped 466,328 bushels, and of the Eastern ports Montreal shipped 11,943,564 bushels, St. John, N.B., 2,484,544 bushels; Quebec, the insignificant quantity of 41,186 bushels, and North Sydney 400 bushels. These are very small shipments from Eastern Canadian ports and it will be noted that no shipment at all is reported for the port of Halifax. Less than 24 per cent. of Canada's exports of wheat to overseas countries was shipped direct through Canadian ocean ports. This is below the average percentage and may perhaps be partly accounted for by the fact that an unusually large proportion of our wheat exports during these months was destined to central and southern European countries for which there was liner accommodation at United States ports. Tabulated, the figures are as follows: Exports from Canadian Ocean Ports:—Vancouver, 466,328 bushels; Montreal, 11, 43,564; Quebec, 41,186; St. John, 2,484,544, and North Sydney, 400. Total from Canadian Ocean Ports—14,936,022 bushels.

For Overseas.

Canadian exports of wheat shipped to the United States to go out through United States ports to overseas countries totalled 48,086,190 bushels, or more than three times the direct exports. The greater part of this intransit business was done from Fort William and Port Arthur, which together shipped intransit 33,422,315 bushels. Nearly all of this wheat was shipped to Buffalo and from there would go through New York, Phildadelphia and Baltimore. Across the Niagara frontier 1,333,600 bushels were shipped intransit, and robably the greater part of this was from stocks at Port Colborne and this quantity would probably go out through the same ocean ports as the water shipments to Buffalo. From Prescott, including a few cars from Cornwall, 1,241,264 bushels was shipped intransit, and probably this quantity would be routed through New York. From the Quebec border 12,089,011 bushels was shipped intransit and of this quantity all but 18,464 bushels was entered for export at Coaticock, on the direct Grand Trunk line to Portland, and with these relatively large figures may be contrasted the 2,484,544 bushels of direct export through St. John. These intransit shipments by districts were:—Export Intransit Through United States—From: Fort William-Port Arthur, 33,422,315. Niagara frontier 1,333,600. Eastern Ontario 1,241,264. Quebec province, 12,089,011. Total—48,086,190 bushels.

For U. S. Consumption.

Of the wheat entered as exported to the United States for consumption in that country over 94 per cent. was shipped from the Western division and two-thirds of this from Fort William and Port Arthur. Some 40,000 bushels crossed the border at British Columbia poitts and 21,797 bushels went south from Lethbridge. From Saskatchewan points, nearly all through North Portal, 2,898,822 bushels crossed the border, while from Manitoba points, including Fort Francis 9,152,040 bushels was exported to the United States. Southwestern Ontario exported 570,932 bushels, the greater part of this passing out through Windsor, and it is probable that this would be wheat grown in Ontario. The Niagara frontier reported 1,477,514 bushels exported to the United States and while some of this might be Ontario wheat it is probable that the bulk of it was western wheat from Port Colborne or from other lake port elevators. Only small quantities were exported from points east of Niagara, the total being less than 150,000 bushels. According to districts the exports to the United States were as follows: From British Columbia 40,520 bushels; Alberta, 21,797; Saskatchewan, 2,898,822; Manitoba (Including Fort Francis, Ont.) 9,152,040; Fort William-Port Arthur, 24,635,132. Total Western Division—36,748,311 bushels. South Western Ontario, 570,932; Niagara frontier, 1,477,514; Eastern Ontario, 59,769; Quebec, 89,253. Total Eastern Division, 2,197,468 bushels. Grand Total to United States 38,945,779.

Of the tota export business to all countries about 70 per cent. was done from the Western division, which means that the ports and railways of Eastern Canada handled only 30 per cent. of the export and only about 14 per cent. used the Eastern routes right through to the Canadia seaports.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

Editor of Examiner:

Sir: This is an open letter to call the attention of our aldermen that make an annual inspection of our streets and to show them where they can make "A City Beautiful."

When they reach the corner of Douro and Armour Road they will notice the large ditch filled with all kinds of old stove pipes, rags, paper, old tin cans and dirt generally. Then as they proceed up north of Woodbine avenue there is a rotten plank sidewalk with holes in it. In places it is but 3 feet wide. A baby carriage sweeps off the pedestrians being on a high bank. It is a menace to the large number of Auburn operatives, and others that daily use it. Prompt attention will save the city damage suits.

These conditions do not fit in well with our handsome $600,000 bridge that is now nearly finished.

Yours truly,
ED. COURTNEY.

WAS SUFFERING FROM INDIGESTION

NO FEAR OF PAINS NOW

Indigestion is one of the worst forms of stomach trouble, and many people suffer terribly after every meal they eat. The rising and souring of the food, pains in the stomach, heartburn, water brash, belching of wind, vomiting shortly after eating, etc., are some of the symptoms.

There is no need for any person to be troubled with indigestion, dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble if they would only take Burdock Blood Bitters, which contains a combination of nature's roots, herbs, barks and berries; a combination that cannot help but put the stomach right.

Mr. H. H. Collins, Norton, N. B., writes:—"I was with the overseas forces for four years and two months, and in October, 1916, I was unfortunate enough to be wounded and taken prisoner. I was a prisoner for 2½ years, and the food they gave us was not good, at times, and after a few months I found I was suffering from indigestion. When I came home in July 1919, I was nearly a wreck. I was told to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did so and found great relief, and can now eat without fear of pains and sickness. I would recommend B.B.B. to all who suffer from indigestion."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for over forty years, and during that time has made a reputation second to none for relieving all stomach troubles. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

cement one. The request was referred to the city engineer.

Downi Street Creek.

D. W Dumble wrote the Council asking curtly why he had heard nothing more of his offer to the Council last year of the right-of-way over several lots through which the creek passes. He styled it "the pet little creek." He never received an answer to his letter, Magistrate Dumble claimed. "I am anxious to see this job completed while I am here to see it," stated the veterans magistrate in his letter.

"We want to treat Mr Dumble courteously and show that we appreciate his offer", said Ald. Whitehouse.

"I think it was a very fair offer," R. H. Parsons said Ald. Jones moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan that Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Whitehouse and Mr. Parsons meet Magistrate Dumble with reference to his offer. Mr. Parsons said that financially the city was not able to go ahead with the proposed work on the creek bed this year.

Lower Boulevard

A petition signed by G. B. Richardson, Robert Mulligan, T. Milburn, W. Smithson and William Ferguson asked that the boulevard on the north side of Sherbrooke street betwen Bethune and Stewart be lowered so that the water will be properly carried off.

"I think it's up to them to lower the boulevard", said Ald. Hamilton We don't fix boulevards. The request was left with the chairman and Mr. Parsons for a report.

Damage to Cellar

J. A. Robinson, 505 King street, reminded the Board in a communication dated March 21, that the surface drain intake at King and Thomas streets was not functioning properly. "On both Saturday and Sunday last so much water came out of this intake that all the surrounding cellars were flooded and in my cellar, 505 King street, the action of the water has forced up the cement floor in several places. City Engineer Parsons declared this alleged trouble could not be rectified till the C. G. E. storm drain was constructed and there was little hope of this as the bylaw was defeated. "I bet he voted against it" the Examiner heard someone pungently remark. The letter was received.

Protect Crossing.

When John Crane, secretary of the Nicholls Hospital Trust in a letter called the attention of the Council to the bad crossing at Argyle street, the Board of Works took a long shot. On motion of Ald. Hamilton seconded by Ald. Crowe the G. T. R. will be asked to put an electric alarm bell or some other protection at the complained-of crossing. "Thats' a bad crossing. There's been several close shaves there" said Ald. J. Crowe.

Want Sidewalk.

The Board of Education requested in a resolution forwarded by G. H. Thompson, the secretary, that the city built a concrete sidewalk on the north and east sides of the Prince of Wales school property and that he city engineer confer with the building committee of the Board before the work is begun.

Mr. Armsrong said the city would have to bear all the cost.

"I dont' see how we can get out of that", said Ald. Hamilton.

"I'm not in favour of it. One side walk is sufficient like the other schools", said Ald. Crowe.

No action was taken, the city engineer being instructed to confer wkth the Board.

Can't Do it.

Harry C. Huffman, 311 Elias avenue, wrote asking that the city build a curb and fill in Elias avenue as previously discussed. Mr. Parsons said the residents were undoubtedly right in wanting a curb for it would greatly improve the street, but there was a question if the city should pay for it. Mr. Armstrong said if the city did the work it would have to be done by by-law and debentures issued. There would therefore be a high overhead attached to the cur and the residents would have to pay more than if they did the work themselves. The alternate plan that the city build it on a contracting basis was not favoured by the City Engineer and it was decided that the Elias avenue residents will have to put in their own curbing, while the city will do the required filling. This by Ald. Crowe and Ald. Morrison was embodied in a motion.

With unaccustomed elerity the Board of Works went through the accumulated matters awaiting their attention and the meeting was concluded at 9.30 p.m

Lemon Souffle

A nice lemon souffle is made by beating until thick the yolks of three eggs with six tablespoons of powdered sugar and the grated rind of one and a half lemons. Add slowly one tablespoon of lemon juice and fold in quickly the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Pour into a shallow dish and bake for twenty minutes in a medium oven.

A Danger Warning —Bleeding Gums

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

ANDREW WILSON & CO TORONTO AND MONTREAL

Mrs. R. J. McLean, of Toronto, reported for the Costume Department, that the costumes supplied for the "Pageant of India" were greatly appreciated. 25 Mission Bands throughout the Province availing themselves of the opportunity of securing them. As the pageant work had appealed to the children, the country chosen for the work of the coming year, is China, and for this year, the Board decided that in place of the ready-made costume, paper patterns of Chinese dress would be supplied. The Province of Ontario is a large area to cover, the cost of Chinese costumes in sufficient numbers to meet the demands would be heavy.

Banner Department.

The Banner Department, with Mrs. J. Cranston of Toronto as Provincial secretary, is one of the newest branches of the work, and the aim is to place a banner in each of our churches throughout the Province, in the hope that it may serve as an introduction to our work and that its presence may be a silent but distinct call to enlist in our world-wide work. The Provincial banner is not for competition, as the purpose would be defeated should it be made competitive. Some bands have earned money to it themselves, and in some cases; it has been presented by members of the auxiliary or some friend.

In the Library Department, of which Mrs. J. J. Bell, of Ottawa, is secretary, had a red-letter year in 1920. "for though we are far from overtaking all we would like, we are beginning to come nearer the ideal of what is possible." This year more specific work has been undertaken, there has been better care in selection, and a better understanding of the fitting of the supply to the need. Giving the best is the secret of success, as a missionary in Northern Ontario puts it: "Send us the same books and papers you like at home, that is what helps us here." Last year, Toronto offered us a fine lot of books formerly in use in an Institute. Other collections from Ottawa and Hamilton were sent to the Vegreville Boys' Home and to Northern Ontario. From Algoma came a library for girls which went to the New Girls' Home, Prince Albert. Rev. Dr. Herridge, Ottawa, gave a part of his library, which was divided among several missionaries.

The Papers.

Miss Mary A. Hopkirk, of Toronto, acting Provincial secretary of Exchange, reported that many more papers had been loaned out this year, 225, as against 56 last year, and 110 in 1918. It is hoped to double this advance next year, if the papers can be secured. The names of the papers published in "The Messenger" have helped very much, and Mrs. Smith's reviews of them in "The Messenger" have done even more. Sixteen new papers have been issued during the year, and still there are not enough for the actual work of the Society. There are more needed on the work being done, and what should be done. What is needed is short, graphic, interesting papers on every Mission carried on by the Church throughout the world.

The annual report of the Young Women's Department was submitted by Miss Ida Malcolmson, of Hamilton, Provincial secretary for this branch, and celebrated its first birthday by a very interesting resume of the year's work. As a result of a circular sent out early in the year, drawing attention to the fact that the young women of the Church were not entering the Senior Auxiliaries, of which 81 had already been formed, 14 Presbyterials have appointed secretaries. The membership is now 2,346, and these, with 195 Home Helpers, have made a total contribution of $14,181.95 for general purposes, besides $1,125.01 for supplies. Of this amount, 49 Life Membership Certificates brought in $1,225, 21 Junior Memberships, $105, and three "In Memoriam" donations $75, making an average of $6.52 per contributor.

Press Secretary.

Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith, of Alliston, Provincial Press secretary, reported a development in press work during the year beyond the status of doubtful experiment into that of actual living force. Although two of the twenty-seven Presbyterials have not reported, the work has developed and grown by leaps and bounds. "Your secretary could wish that all Presbyterial presidents took the interest in the department that some do, then there would be relief from that listlessness and apathy that is so discouraging. It would give place to a living executive power, gathering the valued treasure of the missionary world into its great cleansing house and then by means of its press fleet sending forth again the great and glorious story to a waiting, watching world."

The report for Ontario Provincial Literature, given by Mrs. D. Inglis Grant, of Toronto, was very comprehensive. The Provincial secretary wished that she might "wireless" the following message to each of the 878 auxiliaries in Ontario: "Will you not assist the publication office, uphold the Provincial and Presbyterial secretaries, and make for efficiency in your own Auxiliary, by sending in your next subscription list on time?" Twenty-three secretaries report having tables of literature at Presbyterial meetings, with sales ranging from three and a half to fifty and sixty dollars. The Publications Office furnishes the statement that Presbyterial sales amounted last year to over $1,000. Several literature secretaries express discontent with the present organization, which they claim does not tend to co-operation between the Presbyterial officer and the Auxiliary, and that the Presbyterial secretary, to do effective work, should not only recommend, but supply literature, to her Auxiliaries. In the opinion of the Secretary, the most satisfactory solution of this problem lies in the hands of the Presbyterial Executive.

Membership Report.

The Ontario Life Membership report, by Miss H. Little, gave the number of Senior Certificates issued, 871, $21,775; Junior Certificates, 480, $2,400; In Memoriam, 54, $1,350, making a total of $25,525.

The annual report of the Supply Section, by Mrs. A. McMillan, of Toronto, gave the work of this department as being even more satisfactory than that of former years. Though the share of Ontario was a little heavier than ever before, the supplies suffered no diminution. A visit to some of the far western schools, homes and hospitals last summer was a privilege and a pleasure. In one of the Indian schools the building was fitted up with the most modern equipment. Every facility is afforded the children for learning the different kinds of manual labor, both inside and out. As the principal of one of our largest schools writes: "The Indian parents are becoming more and more willing to help buy clothes for their children, and after vacation this year the pupils bought quite a number of dresses, boots, etc." Here should be emphasized the necessity of more books being included in the gifts to the children, who love to get them. This year bales were sent out weighing 29,920 pounds, and valued at $36,767.74. A large amount was sent to our own missionaries and their fields, some to Bansward, India. Two Presbyterials sent in sums of money to be devoted to buying records for the home or hospital fortunate enough to possess a gramophone.

"Wherever possible, each Presbyterial, when its allocation is filled, should send to the Provincial Supply Secretary a small supply of money. It is well to have on hand a fund from which to draw for special cases that frequently arise, and which are sometimes the most urgent of all."

Strangers' Department.

The report of the Strangers' Department, by Miss E. L. Mowat, of Kingston, gave the removals reported to head office as almost doubled in number, being 1,261 in 1919 and 2,165 in 1920. Several Presbyterials have done nearly double the amount of visiting, and many report teaching English to foreigners, including Ruthenians, French, Italians, Belgians and Chinese. It is recommended that prompt replies be sent from Auxiliary secretaries to the Presbyterial secretary and from Presbyterial secretaries to Provincial secretaries, to ease the labors of these various officials as much as possible. Some suggestions made by secretaries and individuals that it may be wise to pass on are as follows:

1. Show hospitality and try to induce to do so. A little home life is greatly appreciated by those away from home.

2. Pay a second visit even if the first did not seem a success.

3. Try to secure accommodation for friends of patients in your hospitals, who cannot afford hotel prices, and yet long to be with their dear ones as much as possible.

4. Offer to write home letters for patients who are not well enough to write for themselves, or who may be unable to write.

5. Speak to strangers in church; often they are longing for a friendly greeting.

The Home Helper.

The Home Helper report given by Mrs. I. M. McEvoy, of London, opened as follows: "The Home Helper reports for 1920 reveal a strange mixture of surprises and disappointments. In some cases showing remarkable steadfastness and unselfish service and in other cases what seemed like grave laxity and indifference."

Four hundred and fifty-three Auxiliaries reported this year, as against 398 of last year, with a membership of 9,516, an increase of 282 over last year: 634 Home Helpers joined the Auxiliary this year, and the total amount of money contributed this year was $12,105.33, an increase of $822.76 over last year. Different secretaries report different methods for encouraging enthusiasm in the work, and one always leaves "The Messenger" on her visits and tries to have some interesting bit of missionary news to relate. "Herein lies the secret of our success, the personals touch and the individual effort, and it is for the pressing forward of this very essential feature that we earnestly pray that the Lord of the Harvest would "thrust out workers into the field."

To-night's meeting will include the president's address, by Mrs. Chas. Robertson, of Toronto, the report by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. H. Ross, of Toronto, and an address on the "Making of Our 'Messenger'," by Miss M. Fraser, Toronto.

TRY PHOSPHATE IF YOU ARE THIN AND UNDER WEIGHT

Nothing like Bitro-Phosphate, says Dr. Harringan, of New York, to make thin, delicate, nervous, discouraged men and women take on needed weight and quickly exhibit a nerve force that radiates health, energy nd ambition.

It is known to be such a wonderful aid to frail and tired out people that McDermid and Jury and other leading druggists, who have a large demand for it, are glad to guarantee Bitro-Phosphate.

CAUTION: Although Britro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous conditions its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT BY ST. LUKE'S CHOIR

LARGE AND APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE IN TEH PARISH HALL.

"Yes! it was good!" was the general consensus of the good people of Saint Luke's congregation who appreciatively filled the Parish Hall attached to their Church in Ashburnham, or East City, on Monday evening, April 25. I suppose I ought to use the latter name for the place nowadays; yet to my mind its ancient village name is by far more euphonious.

And what was the occasion? Simply this, that the members of the choir of the East Peterborough Anglican Church had, with the help of some of their friends, put up a miscellaneous concert, which—to use some of the vernacular of the present day—"was none too bad." There was only one fault—one easily remedied—and that was that really one got too much for one's money. In other words, the programme might have been a little shorter, or encores should not have been permitted, for it was rather late when the time-honored National Anthem, God Save the King, was heartily sung by the highly satisfied audience.

The following was the programme offered, which was adhered to with but slight variation. In instance, in Part 1, the quartette allocated to Part 2, No. 7, was substituted for Jack Spratt, which was eventually eliminated as a sacrifice to the lateness of the hour.

The Programme.

Part One.

Part Song: "The Old Brigade"—(Oduardo Barri.)

Pianoforte Solo: Selected.
(Miss Margaret Flowers.

Bass Solo: "When You Come Home"—Mr. Hope.

Quartette, "Jack Spratt" (G. A. Blackburn)—Messrs. Jones, Legon, LeBouttillier and Hope.

Recitation, "The Life Boat"—Mrs. Arthur Knott.

Mezzo Soprano, "Come to the Fair" (M. A. Brabe)—Miss Mildred Green.

Violin Solo, "Andante Religioso" (T. Gillet)—Miss Dora Brown.

Baritone Solo—Mr. Herbert Rush.

Part Song: "When Evening's Twilight" (Hatton.)

Part Two.

Part Song, "Come Sweet Morning" (A.L.

Tenor Solo, "All That I Ask" (Coleman)—Mr. Ernest Legon.

Recitation, "The Fireman's Wedding"—Mrs. Arthur Knott.

Mezzo Soprano "Mary" (Richardson)—Miss Mildred Green.

Violin Solo— Mr. Frank Whitehouse.

Tenor Solo—Mr. H. Jones.

Quartette, "Kentucky Babe" (Giebel)—Messrs. Jones, Legon, LeBouttillier and Hope.

Baritone Solo—Mr. Herbert Rush.

Part Song, "The Skippers of St. Ives" (Roeckel.)

The various numbers were all well received and nearly every one was encored. What greater proof of the reception and appreciation. Space at my disposal will not admit of any detailed criticism of each number, but I may mention that such tried and trusted favorites, such as Miss Margaret Flowers, Mr. Herb. Rush, Miss Mildred Green, Mr. Hope, received ovations. Mrs. Arthur Knott charmed the audience with her recitations, which were encored. There is a refreshing absence in this lady of the exaggerated melo-dramatic style so frequently affected by amateur reciters; there was an entire negation of self-consciousness which added greatly to the effect.

Mr. Frank Whitehouse, naturally, met with a great ovation. His skill as a violinist is well-known in this city and surroundings; and his rendering of Haydn's hymn, "Austria" (more generally known to the words, "Glorious things of Thee are Spoken"), in its simple majestic form, and then with variations, brought down the house, and an encore was demanded. Mr. Nichols was an able accompanist for this number.

In No. 7, Part 1, Miss Dora Brown, a mere child, made a wonderful showing on her violin. Evidently the love of music is inborn, for she played her allocated piece—by no means an easy composition—so well that an encore was rapturously demanded, which the youthful instrumentalist responded to by a still more difficult morceau, and the beauty of it was there was such a naturalness, such an absence of self-consciousness about the child as to be positively refreshing.

Miss Mildred Green possesses a fine mezzo-soprano voice of good range and good clearness. Her enunciation is particularly clear and distinct. Judging from the reception she got, she is evidently a local favorite, which fact is not surprising.

Mr. Legon and Mr. Jones, the tenor soloists, were pleasing, were well received and, like all the others, received encores.

Attention may here be called to a sweetly pretty thing which comprised the first number in the second part. It was a deliciously tuneful composition, but appears to be little known. It is well worth cultivating.

The whole of the musical arrangements were carried out by Mr. W. C. Thomson, the organist of St. Luke's Church, who appears to be indefatigable in his efforts to raise the tone and quality of the musical services obtaining at his church. Mr. Thomson is an artist by profession, but he has also shown us that he is an artiste in the preparation of a musical programme and the carrying out of its many details. He was the accompanist throughout (with the exception of one number), and his sympathetic work as such showed him to be an able man in such a position. For, be it known, an accompanist can easily make or mar the success of the performers. The choir was about twenty-five strong, and the members responded loyally to the evident pains bestowed upon them by their conductor. The time was good and crisp—all that the lover of good time could wish, and the aggregation is to be commended for the result of their labors.

Between the acts, or rather between Parts 1 and 2, Mr. J. J. Turner was called up for a speech. He made a humorous one, well to the point. He wanted further assistance in the choir; he eulogized Mr. Thomson for his care, attention, ability and exertions, and thanked the audience for their presence and support. His remarks were apropos of the times. The trend was—let us all individually do what we can for the general good.

After the concert was over the artistes and their friends were invited to visit the land of cakes and ale I was going to say, but, to be more correct, of cakes and coffee; for a dainty and plenteous supply of coffee, sandwiches and cakes was served out by fair and willing hands in an adjacent room; and, speaking from my own experience, it was very good.

Frank Russell.

MOTHERS, BE CAREFUL

Much of the trouble in weaning the baby is developed by the use of a cheap and unsanitary nipple. The NOBILITY nipple is sterilized and is sanitary, transparent and non-collapsible. It is put up in a separate box with a red band on each nipple. You will meet with the doctor's approval if baby uses NOBILITY nipple. t t s.

WHEN the SCULPTOR TURNS DETECTIVE

Solving CRIME Mysteries by BUILDING UP the SKULLS of UNIDENTIFIED SKELETONS

AIDED by the skill of the sculptor the science of solving crime mysteries has advanced another step. While it has long been a matter of the most common knowledge that the shape of the face is dependent upon the skull, it has not been until recently that investigators of crime have made good use of this fact in determining the identity of unknown skeletons, which is very often a most necessary step in solving a crime, prosecuting the guilty and settling property claims.

Today, however, the practicability of making the skull tell its own story is now recognized by police officials.

Prof. Harris H. Wilder, a noted anthropologist who has made a great success of his work of restoring the faces of extinct Indian tribes, has worked out a table of measurements by which the identity of a murder victim, for example, may be established with a skull. The following are Prof. Wilder's directions as quoted in the Illustrated World:

First, set the jaw in a natural position by putting a little plastelina where the jaw should articulate, and a strip of it on the back of the teeth, to hold the jaws so that the edges of the teeth do not quite meet. Then take a narrow strip of writing paper, bend it at right angles, measure out on one's arm the exact length of one of the measurements to be made, and cut it off accordingly. The other part is used as a foot and fastened to the skull. The measured arm must be perpendicular at the point for which the measurement was made. Build it up on both sides with pellets of plastelina, but be careful not to bend it. Do this at several adjacent points and fill in the spaces between them until the skull is covered.

The eyes need not be a matter of guess-work. For each orbit construct a plastelina eyeball of the proper size to allow for the eye muscles, glands and other surrounding structures. Fix this upon a little bed of cotton previously packed in the deepest part of the orbit.

From observations upon living people you can see that in most cases the edge of a ruler placed up and down over the closed eye will come in contact with the eyebrow, the lower boundary of the eye socket and the surface of the lid covering the eye. As the eyelid is but a little thinner than the skin covering the other parts named, the plastelina eyeball set in the skull and tested this way should be barely cut by the ruler. Build out the surroundings of the eye and fit on lids which have been given somewhat the normal shape. The two angles that form the corners of the eye opening can be located by their relation to certain marks on the skull, and their location indicated by pins or toothpicks before the lids are fitted on.

Much of the profile of the nose is underlaid by bone, the width of the bridge is given and that of the nostril is indicated by the outer edges of the conspicuous nasal opening on the skull. The base of the nose is also part of the skull, so there is only left unknown the slight variations of the tip. Similarly, the size and fullness of the lips is determined indirectly from the skull, and the width of the mouth from the position of certain teeth. The ear alone is left in doubt, excepting the location of its opening, and should not be finished beyond an indication of its probable mass and general shape.

From this brief outline it can be seen that the general proportions upon which recognition is, to a large extent, based are fairly accurately determined, but that the subtleties of individual expression, as well as coloring, wrinkles and degree of fleshiness are lost forever. Therefore, there is little danger of facial restoration being used as a substitute for the skill of the photographer or the art of the sculptor, excepting when the use of these is out of the question. This is gratifying to those who do not wish to see started the sentimental and morbid practice of unearthing the departed to obtain their likenesses.

However, there are cases where this might be excusable, such as when a statue is to be made of a celebrity remembered for his deeds rather than his physiognomy. It is exceedingly doubtful, for instance, whether the bust and paintings of Dante have any greater claim to accuracy than that, having been created by artists who never saw the poet, they have nevertheless satisfied mankind. It would now be possible, the Italian government willing, to determine whether or not the traditional portrayal of Dante is erroneous—but perhaps it would be more to the point to study his works instead.

The importance of all this, in the eyes of the average man, lies in its relation to criminology.

In his book entitled "Personal Identification," Prof. Wilder cites the following case as an example of his method of building up a skull to establish the identity of the victim:

In excavating a cellar, a skeleton was found of a man, apparently 25 years of age, with two gold teeth in the lower jaw and a little dark brown hair attached to the skull. It looked as if he had been somewhat bald. There were four fractures in the skull.

At 9:30 A. M., Lt. Williams, together with Dr. Pacini and Dr. Pacini's father, who had some experience in this line of work, started to rebuild the face on this skeleton. The father brought some clay with him, and with this they built up the face. Some clippings from hair cut in a barber shop were secured and several pairs of glass eyes were requisitioned from a nearby glass eye factory. It was then necessary to have a neck. Lt. Williams took a coffee can, and the necktie found on the skeleton just fitted the can. A roll of newspaper served as a spinal column, which was cut to the depth of the can and made rigid with soft paper and clay. Lt. Williams figured that an Italian with dark brown hair would naturally have brown eyes, and a pair of the brown eyes that were best suited to the sockets were selected out of the stock. The eyebrows were trimmed and a small quantity of hair was placed over the right ear and continued down the neck to meet the natural hair at the base of the skull.

A few days later a second skeleton was found near the place, and when the remains were searched a check was discovered payable to Rosario Passorella. The Missing Persons Records were searched and it was found that Passorella had been reported missing by his sister, who was located. The remains were identified by the clothing, and the suspected murderer arrested. Thinking it likely that the two murdered men had been associates, Lt. Williams took the restored head to the relatives of Passorella. One of them pointed to the head and exclaimed:

"That's Dominick, Dominick La Rosa!" Another cried, "That's Dominick's necktie, only more red." The first then lifted the hat and said, "Dominick a little bald, and had two gold teeth." And he tried to push the lips apart to see the gold teeth.

To one not knowing the methods used it seems improbable that a restored face could be so accurate, and yet twice such restorations have been depended upon to determine the remains of celebrated men. The first was made by the anthropologist Welker on the supposed skull of the German poet Schiller. The skull turned out to be that of someone else, but the information acquired in the process proved useful in 1895 to Wilhem His, who had the task of determining whether a skeleton unearthed at St. John's in Leipzig was that of John Sebastian Bach, the composer. The community desired to put the musician's remains in a more suitable resting place, but had no intention of raising an expensive monument to some unknown neighbor of Bach's. Wilhem His found available the bodies of 24 men who had committed suicide, and measured the thickness of the flesh over 15 important points on the face. He found individual variations very slight, but averaged up the measurements for each of the 15 points and made a table of them. Then he made a plaster cast of the skull, located on it with great accuracy the 15 points and took it to a sculptor, whom he instructed to build a face on it by using the exact measurements. Although he did not tell him that the skull might be Bach's, the result was a face of Bach similar to the best of his portraits.

The SENSE of SIGHT Discovered in the SKIN

PROF. LOUIS FARIGOULE, fellow of the University of France, announces that he has discovered the existence in the human epidermis of microscopic organs of vision, and has developed in certain blind subjects a latent supplementary sense of sight (termed by the professor "paroptic vision") by which they were enabled to distinguish the form and color of objects.

The results of Prof. Farigoule's experiments are described in a small brochure, "La Vision Extra Retinienne," which, perhaps largely owing to the astonishing character of the claims made, failed to be taken with the seriousness which, to the layman, it appeared to deserve. Critics of this French scientist's book, who are expert in the medical profession, declared that he had raised false hopes which were doomed to disappointment.

Since then another French investigator, though at first he entirely failed to obtain any such results as those described by Prof. Farigoule, has achieved similar though not equal success.

Prof. Farigoule is now receiving inquiries on the subject of his investigations from America and many other parts of the world, and by way of answering these he has authorized publication of the following:

"In order to understand how the discovery of the paroptic sense was possible, and to see it in its proper relation to biological science as a whole, we must first grasp what is meant by the terms 'latent function' and 'regime of consciousness.'

"We all know that man at the present day makes very little use of his sense of smell; compared with primitive man, or the dog, he is in this respect a defective. This is explained, not by any spontaneous degeneration of the sense of smell, but by the fact that civilized man has been less and less compelled to use his sense of smell, and to give attention to its indications in his daily life.

"One can easily imagine man after a hundred centuries entirely losing the habit of using the sense of smell and being compelled, in order to distinguish an odor, to make a considerable effort of attention and even being unable to do so without a special re-education.

"The sense of smell would have fallen to the level of a 'latent function' in his case, which does not mean at all that the physiological organs of smell would have become atrophied. (On this point the evolutionist biology of the 19th century has made more than one mistake.)

"A comparison will now help us to see what is meant by the 'regime of consciousness.' Imagine a cotton mill containing 12 different looms—that is to say, each turning out a special kind of thread.

"Owing to lack of power only seven looms can be running at a time, say Nos. 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 9 and 11; or 1, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12, and so on, for a large number of different combinations.

"Each of these combinations might be called a 'regime' of the mill — regime A, regime B, regime C and so forth. It might be also that one of these combinations would meet the ordinary everyday needs of the firm—the first, for example—and if so, then 'regime A' would be spoken of as the ordinary 'regime' of the mill. Our psychological consciousness may be compared to such a mill. Only a certain number of the mental functions possessed by us are working at the same time. The others remain latent. And each regime of consciousness is almost always in one of these 'regimes,' which may therefore be called the ordinary 'regime,' but which I call regime A to show that it is only the first in a series.

"Thus, even if we have in our bodies all the organs and instruments necessary for the functioning of a sense, for example, that is not enough to enable us to make use of it, nor even to make us aware that we possess it.

"Indeed, anatomy is led to seek for and to identify such organs only if it knows that sense already to exist. If man had lost the sense of smell 40 centuries ago anatomists would be writing beautiful descriptions of the mucous membrane of the nose without in the least suspecting that it might serve to furnish sensations of smell.

"The paroptic sense, or sense of vision independently of the retina, is a case absolutely in point. Man at the present moment does not suspect that he possesses it, and in consequence has never been led to look for its organs and to study its functionings."

An EASY WAY to FIND Fish WORMS

EVER want to go fishing and couldn't catch enough worms? "Many's the time," you say. Well, right here is something new and original in fish worm enticers, as described in Science and Invention.

Townsend Brown recently found that by driving a piece of iron pipe down in the ground a few feet (and, by the way, it should be good, damp ground), and then connecting a wire to the house electric light circuit (with a 110 volt lamp or two in series), the current passing over this wire to the earth and spreading through the soil about the pipe, will tickle Mr. Worm and his fellow reptiles so that they will come out of the ground helter skelter and post haste—not by ones and twos, but by the dozen!

"The worms are so glad to get out of the ground," says Mr. Brown, "that they fairly jump out of their holes into your hand. Don't believe me, I suppose, but go ahead and try it. But before you start, be sure and get a sufficient number of large 40 quart milk cans, in which to put the worms. With this remarkable electric worm catcher, you can safely invite the whole neighborhood to go fishing, for there will be plenty of worms to go around. There is only one bad thing about it, and that is when the office boy finds out how beautiful it works, he will be out fishing five days a week, and will be in on Saturday to spend those immortal three hours between 9 and 12 o'clock with us.

"One more word of caution before you try out this stunt. You may find that in order to have a current pass through the lamps and down through the pipe to earth, that you will have to reverse the wire where you connect it, owing to the arrangement of the electric light circuit, one side of which only is grounded, while the other is not. It is to the ungrounded side that you will have to connect the wire, and you can immediately tell when you have the right side of the circuit hooked up, as the lamp or lamps will immediately light up as soon as the connection is made."

Stick a Charged Electric Light Wire in the Wet Earth, and See the Fish Worms Come Wiggling Out, Oodles of Them.

HOW to Make ICE Boiling HOT

DID you ever hear of five different kinds of ice? Perhaps not. The only kind of ice that you have ever seen or heard of before is the good old-fashioned, common, ordinary ice. But of late, many new things are happening in the world of science and the discovery of the existence of five different kinds of ice is one of them.

In Science and Invention H. Gernsback describes some of the very remarkable discoveries, due entirely to extraordinarily high pressure, made by Prof. P. W. Bridgman of the Carnegie Institute at Washington. Prof. Bridgman investigated a great many substances which he subjected to tremendous pressures and under such conditions a number of surprising things happen. Take, for instance, water. If we subject it to a pressure of about 300,000 pounds to the square inch, water first becomes solid, turning into ice, although it is nearly boiling hot!

At ordinary atmospheric pressures water turns to ice at about 32 deg. Fahrenheit. But as we compress it to very high figures, we find that water is indeed a highly compressible substance—a thing that was not known before. Thus Dr. Bridgman has compressed water to 80 per cent. of its volume! During such compression the water turns to ice at all sorts of temperatures, and the four new and different kinds of ice that were discovered are all considerably denser than water. In other words, such a cake of ice would sink in water, instead of floating as ordinary ice does.

Water, however, is only one of the substances that behaves strangely under high pressures. Take phosphorus, for example. Ordinarily this substance is known in two forms, namely, the ordinary yellow or white phosphorus and the red, allotropic variety, both, however, having practically the same general physical characteristics. White phosphorus is highly oxidizable and cannot be left in the open air without danger of ignition. It is a non-conductor of electricity and as soft as wax. If, however, we subject this phosphorus to the enormous pressure of some 175,000 pounds per square inch we obtain an entirely new substance which is neither the usual nor the allotropic red phosphorus, but something entirely different. We obtain black phosphorus which is very hard and which only oxidizes at a very slow rate. It is also 15 per cent. denser than the white variety. It can be handled with the fingers with impunity and the material is a good conductor of electricity.

EARTHWORKS to Eliminate FLOODS

DAYTON, Ohio, situated as it is on a plain, suffers periodically from floods. The Miami river, which flows through the heart of the city, regularly overflows its banks and the water spreading out over the plain, thoroughly saturates the city, as well as the country for miles around. In 1913 Dayton had a disastrous flood in which thousands of lives were lost and property damage to the extent of millions was incurred.

Some time ago, the city decided to get electrically driven shovels to throw up protecting earthworks, much in the manner the Hollanders protect that portion of their country below sea-level. So for many months the huge shovels have been busily at work damming up the flat lands, through which the Miami river winds. It has been necessary to build dikes for long distances running from each side of the river banks. When the river again overflows, as it is expected to, the overflow of water will back up on the flats outside the city, and by means of the dikes will be confined within the natural banks of the Miami, on its flow through Dayton.

The edges of the dikes, adjoining the river banks, have been lined with concrete, to prevent their wearing away in flood times, and also better to enable them to guide the excess of water into the Miami's bed.

KEEPING to the RIGHT

THE custom of passing to the right of people when meeting them in the street dates back many years, to the days when the sword and dagger were generally worn.

The sword was carried on the left side, and the dagger in a sheath on the right, where it could so easily be unsheathed furtively. In course of time the dagger became the favorite weapon of the assassin.

Passing on the left of the men you met rendered both of you open to a stab from a dagger, the blow being delivered with the right hand at close quarters. Passing to the right, the dagger was out of action, and it was easy to see if the man meeting you meant to draw his sword, in which case you had ample time to retaliate.

Though the days of daggers and swords have long since gone, the rule of passing to the right still survives.

Do ANIMALS Spread DIPHTHERIA?

THE day has passed when the diphtheria patient was looked on as the only source of contagion of diphtheria. The menace of the human "carrier" of the infective microorganism is becoming so well understood that provision against it is taken in the procedures of preventive medicine and in measures to maintain public health. Furthermore, there are many instances in which domestic animals, especially cats and dogs, have been considered to have spread diphtheria.

"It is obviously important to know whether or not we are continually surrounded with these unsuspected sources of danger," says a writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association, "for our animal enemies must not be treated in the same category with man's animal friends. The difficulty in the way of accepting the charge against the dog and the cat, or even the horse, which has also been incriminated, lies in the lack of dependable information. Most of the instances of natural diphtheria in animals have lacked demonstration of the presence of the true etiologic agent of the human disease.

"Recently, however, Maj. J. S. Simmons has isolated diphtheria [illegible] for guinea-pigs from two [illegible] animals of the same species caught in the environment gave negative cultures.

"These bacteriologically controlled observations, including the suspected human victim, lend a greater probability to the long heralded impression that cats may contract diphtheria from human subjects and that, in turn, these animals may communicate the disease to man."

Empty Tanks Dangerous

EMPTY gasoline tanks are always more dangerous than full ones. In most cases some residue remains in the tank or can. The remaining gasoline vaporizes and is explosive. As the tank is being filled this mixture is forced out and will explode if ignited by a spark held near the opening.

To guard against accidents, a writer in Popular Science Monthly suggests that all openings should be blown out with compressed air. If this method cannot be used the cover should be removed and the vapors fanned out. Unless a current of air is circulating, gasoline should never be used for cleaning engines or other machinery and if air is passing, lights should be kept at a safe distance on the intake side of the engine.

HAVE ALL CLUBS REPRESENTED ON DIRECTORATE FOR ATHLETICS

The various branches of sport were well represented at the meeting held in the City Council Chamber last night for the purpose of making a report on the question of an Athletic Association for this year, this report to be presented at a general meeting.

The meeting agreed that it is desirable to have an Athletic Association, and also that the name of the present organization, the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, should be retained.

A motion was passed that the representatives present be a temporary council for the association, for the purpose of formulating a plan of procedure for securing new members, appointing a permanent council, and devising ways and means of securing funds.

It was further decided that the chairman appoint a committee to communicate with all sporting organizations in the city, asking them to send representatives to meet with the clubs already represented, at a meeting to be held in the City Council Chamber on Wednesday night, May 4th.

It is proposed to have every club represented on the directorate of the association, by one of its most active members. Without this representation, the meeting last night deemed it inadvisable to proceed further with organization plans.

HILLCRESTS HERE MAY 7TH

FAST TORONTO CREW WILL BATTLE WITH MANAGER SOLOMON'S AGGREGATION.

The Peterborough Central League Club are arranging to open the season with a game with the fast Hillcrest team of Toronto here on Saturday, May 7. The Hillcrests, with Cannonball Scott and Hennessy as battery and the majority of the stars of last year's St. Mary's club enrolled, are one of the strongest amateur ball teams in Ontario and their coming will give the fans a good chance to get a line on the Peterborough team's chances for this year.

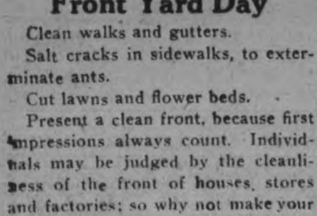
All ball players are asked to remember the practice at Riverside Park to-morrow at 6 o'clock.

NEW CLUB HOUSE FOR KINGSTON SOON

KINGSTON, April 26.—Work will be started on the new club house for Kingston's Golf and Country Club as soon as weather permits. The plans and specifications are now in hand.

ASPIRIN

"Bayer" only is Genuine



Warning! Take no chances with substitutes for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin." Unless you see the name "Bayer' on package or on tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all. In every Bayer package are directions for Colds, Headaches, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few packages. Made in Canada. Aspirin cents. Druggists also sell larger is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

WEDNESDAY Front Yard Day

Clean walks and gutters.

Salt cracks in sidewalks, to exterminate ants.

Cut lawns and flower beds.

Present a clean front, because first impressions always count. Individuals may be judged by the cleanliness of the front of houses, stores and factories; so why not make your first impression a good one.

A little effort now in cleaning up the front will give immense satisfaction to yourself and have a pleasing effect on others.

FOOTBALL EXECUTIVE SEECIAL MEETING

REFEREES' REPORTS CONSIDERED —CALDER WAS ACQUITTED— CUP TIE TO START AT 5.45 THURSDAY EVENING.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Football Association was held last evening in the G.W.V.A. rooms, with President Cooke in the chair. Also present were Mr. J. Cairns, C.G.E.; Geo. Coleman, G.W.V.A.; J. Haw, Comrades; R. Dingwall, Caledonians; Mr. J. L. Howarth, Sid Whatley and Mr. Fred Sutcliffe, secretary. The Woollens and De Laval were not represented.

Notice to All Clubs.

The following motion was carried: "That the secretary write to all local football club secretaries advising them to reprimand their players re their conduct with regard to arguing with the referees on the field of play, and that this executive will not tolerate any more such conduct of any player in the future."

The following amendment only received mover and seconder: "That Calder be acquitted in regard to incident on the field of play, but that he receive seven days' suspension for causing a disturbance after the game.

A new rule submitted by R. Dingwall and seconded by J. Haw was carried unanimously: "When a player is ordered off the field of play he immediately becomes suspended until such time as he appears before the football executive.

Cup Tie on Thursday Evening at 5.45 P.M.

The executive decided that the duration of the Cup Tie shall be no less than 70 minutes and the game for Thursday evening be started at 5.45 p.m., when the Canadian Woollens and Canadian General meet at Nicholls Oval. Mr. Alex. McKinley is the official referee and Mr. Jack Clark and Mr. J. L. Howarth are the neutral linesmen.

Games Postponed.

The officially postponed league game between the Caledonians and Vets for Tuesday evening, May 3rd, was again postponed to a later date that will be fixed by the executive, owing to the Caledonians having four games in a row.

Belleville Team Wants to Play Peterborough.

A letter was received by the Association from Belleville from Mr. C. J. Hichin of the G.T.R. football team, who wanted a game at home and away with any Peterborough team, but the secretary was instructed to inform him that they would have to affiliate with the Ontario Football Association first.

Frank McKinley Passed.

The examination board successfully passed Mr. Frank McKinley in his theoretical work with high percentage, but will have his practical test to conform with O.F.A. rules.

Official Referees.

The executive accepted the examination board's report as read, which proved that Jack Clark, Alex. McKinley and J. L. Howarth were successful in both examinations. The secretary was instructed to invite W. J. Hensby and W. R. Thompson that they were not successful with an explanation of their decisions.

Referees' Reports.

Mr. Jack Clark, in his official report of Comrades vs. De Laval was satisfatcory, but Mr. J. Hensby, the official referee in Caledonians vs. Canadian General game reported to executive as follows: "Calder ordered off the field for using bad language and attempting to strike the referee, also causing disturbance after the game."

The flicker often uses its nest a second season.

The longest word in the English language is "disestablishmentarianism."

LACROSSE PRACTICE WEDNESDAY EVENING

There will be a practice of the local lacrosse team in Central Park Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. All players and prospective players are expected to be out.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT FINISHED LAST NIGHT.

Barrette, King, and Elliott Rolled 1870.

Last night, at the Water Street Alleys, in the bowling tournament, a big score was put up by Barrette, King, and S. Elliott in the three-men event, rolling in first place with 1870, and putting Maynard, Arrowsmith, and McDonald in second place. Following are the winners:

For the singles—A. Pinette first place, score 773; F. E. Curvin second, 716.

Doubles—Pinette and Robinson first with 1311, Routly and Muskrat second with 1114.

Three-men — Elliott, King, and Barrette first with 1870, Maynard, Arrowsmith, and McDonald second with 1793.

Five-men — Shaughnessy, McGee, Alexander, Roberts, and Pinette with 2752, Craig, Arrowsmith, Cummings, King, and Barrette taking second place.

In the three men event, LeBrun's prize was won by T. Barrette, rolling 288.

The five-men team prize donated by Ed. Wright was won by P. King, rolling 274.

THE CAMBRIDGE STROKE.

One of the best rowing critics in England complimented the stroke of Cambridge because he know how to handle his boat when he was behind. "Hartley's work," he says, "was magnificent. Never for a moment did he worry or fluster his crew, even when Oxford was doing the unexpected. Keeping them at a long, hard stroke he rowed with the absolute confidence of a man who knows that he will wear his opponent down. Had he tried any chasing tactics when a length back at Chiswick the result of the race would have become very doubtful.

SCHOOL LEAGUE SCORES

In a game in the Junior Series of the Public School League yesterday afternoon, the South Centrals defeated King Edward by the score of 12 to 11. In the Senior Series, Central and Queen Mary School nines played a game postponed from Friday afternoon, Queen Mary winning by the score of 20 to 13.

WILL EMPLOY AS MANY AS POSSIBLE

It is the intention of the contractors of the filtration plant to employ as many men as they can handle and to rush the job through as rapidly as possible. The work was begun today, although it was chiefly in the assembling of tools and machinery for the first operations. A big steam shovel ambled up Water sreet this afternoon under its own power and will probably be set to work in the morning. The construction of the filtration plant has been patiently awaited by men out of work, to whom the despatch with which the contractors have started things, will be a welcome activity.

FRANCE CONSIDERS

may be taken regarding the fixing of the total amount.

Germans Quibbling For Time.

The French are convinced, it is declared, that the Germans are only seeking to delay the execution of all clauses of the Treaty in the hope that the Allies may divide among themselves and make the bargaining easier for Germany later on. Therefore it is semi-officially indicated the French are considering the necessity from their viewpoint of occupying the Ruhr Valley regardless of what Berlin may propose through Washington.

BERLIN, April 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Germany, in the event of the United States and the Allies so desiring, is willing, according to the extent of her ability and capacity, to assume the Allied obligations to the United Staes, says a clause in her counter proposals, it was definitely learned here to-day. With this exception the counter proposals forwarded to Washington, including the offer of two hundred billion gold marks, are virtually as forecast in yesterday's Associated Press despatches from here.

ODDFELLOWS AT TRINITY CHURCH

On the 26th of April, 1819, at Baltimore, Maryland, the first lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was instituted. The 102nd anniversary of this occasion was celebrated by the local lodges of this Order by a parade to Trinity church on Sunday evening, where they listened to a sermon from the pastor, the Rev. F. E. Malott.

The church was filled to overflowing, and the service was most impressive. The music was furnished by the Oddfellows' male voice choir, who gave two anthems and a quartette during the service. Three well known hymns were sung, in which the entire congregation joined with great heartiness.

The sermon was based upon the parable of the Good Samaritan, Luke 10:25-37. The minister gave a graphis account of the experience of the traveller who was robbed on the road leading from Jerusalem to Jericho; he told of the hard-hearted indifference of the Priest and Levite which contrasted so sharply with the kindness of the Samaritan merchant. The indifference of the Priest and the Levite was all the more marked because the wounded traveller was a fellow countryman, while the neighborliness of the Samaritan was more than could have been expected from an alien, a member of a hated race.

Five great lessons were deduced from this parable by the speaker. It rebukes the legal spirit, the spirit that narrows down a man's obligations to his fellowmen to the smallest possible number and obeys the letter rather than the spirit of the law.

The parable is a rebuke, too, of the exclusive spirit that bars men from our circle because of differences of race or creed, or social standing.

The parable teaches us what true neighborliness is. It costs something to be neighborly. To be truly neighborly as the Good Samaritan was, one must be willing to give of one's time, one's money and oneself. No one can be neighborly by proxy. The Good Samaritan performed the offices of a neighbor in person.

The parable also teaches the nature of religion. The truly religious life is the Christ-like life, a life of love and mercy and good deeds.

"But the greatest lesson of the parable," said the speaker in closing, "is this, it points us to Him who became a neighbor to all men. The Good Samaritan is a type of Him who came after the Priest and the Levite to do what they had neglected. He came to staunch the bleeding wounds of humanity for which there was no remedy in the law and to reach out the hand of help to all who need assistance and sympathy.

After the service the members of the Order returned to their lodge rooms where a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Malott for his able and eloquent sermon, and to the officials of Trinity church for opening their beautiful church edifice to the Order for this service.

BOARD OF WORKS' RECOMMENDATIONS

STREETS TO BE REPAIRED THIS SUMMER.

On yesterday's inspection trip the Board of Works Committee decided on improvements to be made this year to the roads and sidewalks of the city and recommended to the Council as follows:

That Sheridan street be graded from Hunter street northerly and that a wooden sidewalk be built on the east side.

That the contractors of the Ashburnham bridge be requested to construct steps at the east side of the bridge to give access to the Riverside Park.

That Benson street be repaired.

That Park street south of McDonnell street be repaired.

That North Monaghan be asked to repair Monaghan Road south from Charlotte street.

That sidewalk on west side of Mark street north of James street be repaired.

That the sidewalk on James street at 84 be made level and street repaired west of Mark street, east of Burnham street and each side of sidewalk for drainage.

That gravel be placed in the ditches on Cricket Place to improve drainage.

That Ross street be repaired.

That Park street from Lansdowne street to Charotte be graded and gravelled.

That Perry street be graded and gravelled from Park to Aylmer.

That Armour Road be repaired south of Smith street.

That the sidewalk at the northwest corner of Park and Albert streets be rounded.

That the sidewalk on the east of Park street from Albert street north to Rink street be rebuilt to take out curve.

That a drain be placed across Murray street at the corner of Bethune and Murray.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

The Ladies' Aid Societies of the three Presbyterian churches of the city, St. Andrew's, St. Paul's and Knox church, are entertaining the visiting delegates at tea at 6 o'clock in the Great War Veterans' Hall.

The ladies of Murray street Baptist church are catering for the Womens' Missionary Society Convention during the three days of their stay in the city.

There is a very business-like air about the proceedings of the Women's Missionary Society Convention. Immediately on arrival, they settled down to business. There is evidently no time going to be wasted in this gathering of feminine missionary workers.

"Isn't this a pretty place," and "Everything is so nicely arranged here," were some of the comments from the visiting ladies this morning, whose cheerful, smiling faces seemed to be in accord with the fine morning and the good work which brought them here.

AGAIN NEGOTIATE FUNDING BRITISH DEBT TO THE U.S.

U.S. SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY ANNOUNCES INVITATION.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Negotiations with Great Britain for the refounding of her five billion dollars war debt to the United States will be resumed soon, Secretary Mellon announced yesterday. The secretary said he did not know just when the negotiations would begin, but that invitations probably would be sent from the State Department shortly for Great Britain to send representatives to Washintgon for that purpose. Negotiations for the funding of the British debt into long time obligations, the secretary explained, were halted by the change in administrations, but Great Britain has been ready to resume upon an invitation from the United Staes.

IMMIGRATION HAS BEGUN TO CANADA

SUMMER FLOW FROM BRITISH ISLES SETS IN.

OTTAWA, April 26.— (Canadian Press.)—The summer flow of immigration from the British Isles to Canada will begin this week. The first big trans-Atlantic liner with some five thousand people aboard is expected to dock at Quebec on Thursday or Friday and she will be followed by four others in rapid succession. Practically all of the homeseekers who are shortly to arrive are farmers, domestic workers and people coming to Canada to engage in farming.

PETERBORO MOTOR CLUB MEETING

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Motor Club will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Board Room of the Chamber of Commerce over the Dominion Bank.

Few of the Motorists realize the good that a live motor club can be in the city. There are many matters that are looked after by the parent organization in Toronto, that are of inestimable value to the motorist, such as the interest taken in good roads. The marking off of the different roads throughout the Dominion, and other matters of a similar character.

Then again the Motor Club itself can be a power for good in the community when properly organized and active. One of the big features in other cities is that the organization takes care of a great many under-privileged children during the summer months; short country trips are organized and taken in the interest of children and others who are sick.

There are many ways in which a Motor Club can be of direct service to the community and it is hoped that all motorists who can, will be present this evening at the annual meeting.

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING

No matter what particular merit a preparation may possess, if you wish to bring it before the public, it is necessary to advertise it.

For instance, Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills were just as good a year ago as they are to-day; and while they had a steady sale due to one friend telling another of the benefits derived from them the proprietors recognised this was a rather slow way of introducing them, and for the year 1921 they have placed a contract with this paper for 10,000 lines of advertising.

On Page 6 of this paper you will find their large advertisement, and with merit and advertising we feel confident they will meet with success.

COMMITS SUICIDE, DUE TO SICKNESS

BELL TELEPHONE MANAGER AT SMITH FALLS HANGS HIMSELF.

BROCKVILLE, April 26.—(Canadian Press)— While temporarily insane as a result of illness, Maynard L. McBain, aged forty, until Saturday last local manager for the Bell Telephone Company at Smiths Falls, took his own life by hanging in his residence in that town last evening.

McBain suffered an attack of influenza recently and has been in poor health. Doctors, however, assured him that he would be himself again at the end of six months. He entered the service of the company at Cornwall 14 years ago. His wife and four children survive.

He was a nervous wreck as a result of the sickness, being in charge of a nurse who made the discovery of the body in the attic. He left a note saying that he was afraid that he would do harm to his wife and children. An inquest was unnecessary.

LOOKS LIKE HOT TIME IN ULSTER

ELECTION CAMPAIGN JUST GETTING UNDER WAY.

BELFAST, April 26.— (Canadian Press.)— It was said yesterday in official quarters that the writ for the Ulster elections will be issued May 2 and that balloting will take place May 16 or May 18. All parties now have completed their nominations and campaigning has begun in a small way. It is expected soon to be in full swing. The majority of the Sinn Fein candidates already are in jail or are on the run. It is said the Nationalists, like the Sinn Feiners, will adopt a plan of holding their meetings behind closed doors, at least in districts where open air meetings might lead to disorders.

"SAW-OFF" FOR EARLY ENDING THIS SESSION

PREMIER DRURY MEETS OPPOSITION LEADERS THIS AFTERNOON TO PROPOSE A COMPROMISE.

TO COME "HALF WAY"

TORONTO, April 26.—(Canadian Press).—In order that the Legislature may be drawn to a close if possible on week from to-morrow Premier Drury, Hon. G. H. Ferguson and H. H. Dewart, K.C., will confer at the Parliament Buildings this afternoon. The Prime Minister will suggest a "sawoff" He will undertake to withdrawn certain unimportant Government bills on condition that the opposition will allow certain to motions drop. No hint is yet available as to what either side is ready to sacrifice.

The Government has abandoned the idea of increasing the workmen's Compensation Board to five members this session. The vacancy on the present board will not be filled until after the session.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Is quite common, gradually becoming more severe, and if prompt action is not taken, serious results will follow. The symptoms are headache and pain in the back, sleeplessness, ashen complexion, white coated tongue and frequent urination. If a puffy swelling is noted in the feet or ankles the disease is well established and you must give the kidneys all the help possible by stirring the liver and bowels into action. Take Henderson's Herb Tablets every night according to directions, watch the digestion carefully, drink plenty of cold water between meals.

Mrs. T. Bevington, 303 Wilton ave., Toronto, Ont., says:

"I wish to express my gratitude for the great benefit I have received through Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment. I suffered for a number of years with kidney and liver trouble and at times could scarcely do my work with the pain in my back, and cramps in my muscles. I am now 67 years of age and after using one box of Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment, I feel like a new person.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Treatment can be purchased at Warne's Drug Store. Price 25c., 50c. and $1.00.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(Canadian Press).—Gains and losses were impartially distributed at the broad but hesitant opening of to-day's Stock Market, but the trend soon became reactionary. United States Steel, whose directors are to hold their quarterly meeting after the close of to-day's session for action on dividends, rose a large fraction at the outset, but this was almost immediately cancelled. European Oils, especially Royal Dutch and Shell trading, were strong with Cosden, but Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt eased a point each. The only noteworthy change among Rails was in Atchison, which fell one point. Exchange on Paris was strong, demand bills rising to the highest quotation since last August, presumably in connection with the latest German indemnity negotiations.

Steels featured the broader movement of the final hour. Bethlehem Crucible, Republic, Vanadium and Replogle recording extreme gains of two to four points The closing was strong.

Reversals became more extensive during the first hour, because of increased pressure directed against Crucible Steel, U.S. Steel Preferred, Mexican and Pan-American Petroleums and General Asphalt; in which losses ranged from 1 to 2 points. This was off-set to a degree by the strength of Atlantic Gulf Common and Preferred, Bethlehem Steel, Chandler Motor, and further gains by Dutch Oils. Before noon the rallies were general. Baldwin Locomotive and Junior Steel issues contributing substantially to the recovery.

The bond market was heavy, however, especially the railway group. Liberty 3½'s featured the war flotations at a low price of 88.80. Call money opened at 6½ per cent.

Sugar sold off sharply at mid-day, losing two to seven points on adverse trade conditions. In most other respects, however, the market retained or increased its advance. Shippings, Conners, Equipments, Textiles and Tobaccos showing gains of one to two points.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Receipts medium, trade draggy. Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10; butcher steers, choice, $9 to $9.75; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14; lambs, $12 to $14; hogs, selects, $12.25 to $12.50.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 26.—(Canadian Press).—Spanish River issues were affected to-day by the pessimistic sentiment regarding pulp and paper stocks, both Common and Preferred being subjected to pressure during the morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Abitibi and Riordon showed slight gains. Spanish River Common lost 1 1-8 at 68½, while Preferred stock lost 2½ at 75¼. Abitibi gained 1 at 31¼, and Riordon was fractionally higher at 32¼. Transactions in other stocks brought about few changes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 26.—(Canadian Prtss).—General selling in small lots tended to weaken prices to-day for wheat. On the decline, however, houses with seaboard connections became fair buyers. This purchasing was regarded as a sign of export business and was made the occasion of rallies, though apparently not of a lasting character. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figerus to 1½ lower, were followed by a moderate general sag before the upturns began.

Corn paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to 1 cent lower, the market recovered most of its losses. Oats were governed by the course of other cereals, starting ¼ to ½ off and then reacting somewhat. Provisions were dull but firmer in line with hogs.

Subsequently the wheat market scored gains, owing more or less to assertions that export in the last 48 hours had totalled two million bushels The close was unsettled with May 126 1-2 to 1.26 3-4 and July 1.05 1-2 to 1.05 3-4.

Further export demand counted later as stimulus to an advance in corn, part of which, however, was soon lost. The close was nervous with July 62 1-4 to 62 1-4 to 3-8.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange steady; demand, 3.94¼. Canadian dollars, 10 11-16 per cent. discount.

SPORT COMMENT

When Babe Ruth made a home run with two men on bases on Wednesday last, he was given credit for breaking up a game, but behind the screen a story was unfolded which shows that the mighty clout was not altogether appreciated by the manager of the New York team. It seems that Ruth was given a signal to sacrifice, but instead he walloped the ball into the stands and three runs resulted; enough to win the game. For disobeying the signals Ruth was fined $200 and the owner of the club upheld Manager Huggins and declared that Ruth must pay.

Connie Mack is so engrossed in the business of developing a ball club that he is not interested in anything that is said about him or his club by either Harry Frazee or Colonel Huston of the New York Yankees. Mack was informed recently that Frazee had declared Mack's team had been a disgrace to the league for the past few years, and that if Ban Johnson wanted to perform a real service for the circuit he should compel Connie to bolster the club or get out. "I don't believe Mr. Frazee had better commit himself until the 1921 pennant race is over. He should remember that anybody with money can buy ball players, but it takes brains and work to develop them. I am too busy to listen to such piffle from Frazee or Huston. I'll attend to my business and they can or should do the same," says Cornelius McGillicuddy.

George Gibson, manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, has made a discovery. He has found the reason why his athletes do not sport as large batting averages as some of the other teams in John Heydler's circuit. The reason assigned by Gibson, is that Forbes Field, the Pirates' park, is too large. Gibson says the averages of other National League players proves the contention because none of them hit the ball for as many safties when in Pittsburg.

"The small park is a great encouragement to the batters," said Gibson, in discussing the discovery. "When a player stands at the plate and realizes that he has to hit one a mile in order to get a safety, it is not likely that deduction will be any great encouragement to him. We are not sorry our park is large, however. In fact, we are not offering it as an alibi, but the truth remains that the Pirate yard is one of the very biggest, if not the biggest, in the league.

Gibson declares the Pirates show much better hitting ability in some of the smaller parks. For instance, he says, in Philadelphia his team last season invariably hit better than .300 as a machine. The Philadelphia park is one of the smallest in the majors, having an especially short right field fence.

Gameness and that thing known as "heart" are most generally associated with the ring. But they have just as much importance in the constitution of a ball player as a boxer. The case of George Kelly, present hero de luxe of the New York Giants, is a good illustration.

Minus superlative qualities of courage, Kelly probably would be back in the International League, from whence he came for a crack at the big time.

Had Kelly lacked gameness he might have been razzed clear out of baseball by the fans who "couldn't see" him last year, the same fans that give him the ovation of a Ruth this year when he steps to the plate.

Kelly delivered, but he came through only after one of the most severe trials that any major league ball player ever underwent.

Larry Doyle did the same thing with the same club.

Kelly was called everything last year that a ball player doesn't like to hear from the stands. When he came to the plate with two down the stands would roar with—"three out!"

With four home runs to his credit, Kelly is being accepted and acclaimed as another home-run king by the New York fans. They rank him close to their idol, Babe Ruth, and they are letting him know it.

No one predicts that he will out-Ruth the Babe this year, but any one with the heart of Kelly should be able to do anything in fair weather when he fought the storm so long.

One of the main details which helped to lift the faded laurel from Willard's badly battered brow was lack of active competition. Willard stopped Jack Johnson in 1915. Previous to that engagement he had fought with at least a fair amount of regularity. But between March, 1915, and July, 1919, Willard engaged in but one ten-round contest. In a period of four years and four months he boxed only thirty minutes against an opponent yearning to hammer a number of splinters from his block. Thirty minutes in four years isn't quite close enough application to one's chosen profession to get very far.

The Same For Carpentier.

The same, for different reasons, is true of Carpentier. He indulged in his last pre-war contest early in 1914.

After that he permitted the war to interfere a trifle. He took khaki and gun in place of boxing gloves.

But the fact remains that for a period of seven years and five months Carpentier has known less than thirty minutes of actual ring competition. His last two encounters, with Beckett and Levinsky, were both tremendous fizzles, as neither Beckett nor Levinsky could or would fight. Any last remnant of the Beckett myth exploded when Frank Moran stopped him in less than two rounds.

For that matter, Dempsey hasn't been romping around like a roaring lion. Since stopping Willard he has boxed a matter of some sixteen rounds against Miske and Brennan in two years' time. But it is more competition than Carpentier has known for seven years.

Early Guesses.

In spite of this, several shrewd judges who picked Dempsey to beat Willard are now picking Carpentier to beat Dempsey.

They like Carpentier's combination of speed, skill and hitting power. And they seem to have found a slump in Dempsey's mental attitude since the latter discovered that he was far from being a popular idol. They don't believe that the chorus of boos which greeted him at Madison Square Garden after he beat Brennan has left him any too buoyant in spirit.

They also believe that Carpentier will be the big public favorite when the two meet, and this, on Dempsey's side of the water, will not be especially cheering or uplifting.

It is this difference of opinion that will provide the gate receipts, which we don't believe will reach any million-dollar mark by several bags of gold.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

Josephine Crowell, who plays Mrs Abbott in the latest Gertrude Atherton film play, produced by Goldwyn, "Don't Neglect your Wife," which comes to the Allen Theatre for the last time to-day is a character actress of ability and experience as the film fans will recognize from her previous work in Goldwyn's "Bunty Pulls the Strings," in which she played Miss Simpson.

Lionel Barrymore in "The Master Mind," will be the attraction at the Allen Theatre Wednesday. This is the first of a new series of Barrymore photoplays to be presented by the Associated First National and it is claimed to be one of the sensational screen masterpieces of the season. Mr. Barrymore is himself authority for the statement that he has never had a role which provided a wider latitude for his talents. He is capably supported by such well-known artists as Gypsy O'Brien, Ralph Kellard, Bradley Barker, Charles Brandt, Marie Shotwell, Bernard Randall and Charles Edwards. The picture was directed by Kenneth Webb under the personal supervision of the producer, Whitman Bennett. The story concerns the workings of the remarkable mind of a brilliant psychologist bent on reaping revenge on a district attorney who had sent his brother to the electric chair. A beautiful girl, innocent and unsuspecting, is used as the pawn and a gang of dangerous criminals, completely under the control of the master mind, weave the nets of vengeance around the victim with thrilling skill. Just at a time when the master mind has finally achieved his purpose, something happens to stay his hand, and it is said the ending is one of the most unusual yet projected on the silver-sheet.

AT THE REGENT.

DWAN PRODUCES PERFECT FILM IN "FORBIDDEN THING"

Every Technical Detail of New Production Merits Great Praise.

"The Forbidden Thing," playing this week at the Regent is perhaps the most humanly interesting and absorbing photoplay of the season. It is an Allan Dwan picture, and the fine hand of the director is seen throughout its several reels of entertainment. Lighting effects are excellent, while the technical details, the atmosphere, types and all that enters into the picture are virtually perfect from every standpoint.

James Kirkwood heads a notable cast which includes Helen Jerome Eddy, Marcia Manon, King Baggott, Gertrude Claire, Jack Roseleigh, Arthur Thalasso, Newton Hall and others. The interpretative work, always guided by the master hand of Allan Dwan, is always sincere and convincing.

The scenes of the story are laid in the Cape Cod fishing district, and all the human joys and sorrows of a happy or unhappy people run with astounding interest from the first reel to the last. The work of Mr. Kirkwood, Miss Eddy, Miss Manon and Mr. Baggott is especially effective. The central theme of the story revolves around the eternal contest of the physical woman against the spiritual woman for the possession of a mn's soul.

It is a remarkable production and one that will boost the stock of Allan Dwan as one of the real screen documents of the year.

AT THE CAPITOL.

A regular William S. Hart picture, with hard riding, rapid shooting and lots of out-of-doors atmosphere is "O'Malley of the Mounted," the feature picture at the Capitol last evening, to-night and to-morrow. This picture presents the popular star as a member of the Canadian mounted police who goes after a murderer, and falls in love with the sister of the criminal. The wild ride to gain sanctuary with the "Hill Gang," the presentation of a western rodeo, with its wild riders and broncho busters, the night's vigil while the waits in bound expectancy for the hangman's rope, all offer tense situations in which Hart is seen at his best, and the realistic element which this true artist always maintains as a background for his pictures, is never lost sight of. The attention of last night's audience was held from the minute "O'Malley" appeared on the screen until he lifted his hand in a final salute to the officer of the Mounted from whom he was parting, perhaps forever.

The Mack Sennett comedy, "Dabbling in Art," was very funny, and the Topics of the Day round out a well-balanced programme.

WEDDING BELLS

LAPLANTE—GOODWIN.

A quiet wedding was solemnised this morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, Rev. Father Costello officiating, when Miss Mollie Laplante, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Laplante, 230 Rubidge Street, was united in marriage to Mr. Mark C. Goodwin, of this city. Miss Gertrude McFadden and Mr. M. Hogan were the attending parties. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present. After a dainty wedding breakfast the happy couple left for a short trip, and on their return will reside at 230 Rubidge Street.

COLTON—FONTAINE

A pretty wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock this morning in St. Peter's Cathedral, by Rev. C. J. Phelan, when Miss Antoinette Fontaine, daughter of Mrs. E. Fontaine, Aylmer street, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Lorne Colton, of South Porcupine. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Jos. Fontaine, was very charming in a suit of navy tricotine, with beaver furs, the gift of the groom, and a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Alma Fontaine, wore brown with mink furs, and carried carnations. The groom was supported by Mr. M. McGinty. After a bounteous wedding repast the young couple left this afternoon for Toronto and points west. They will reside in Havelock.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.
Last night Dr. A. B. Miller dealt with Hebrews, chapter 1, which sets forth in detail the Lord Jesus Christ as the Eternal Son of God. Hebrews is a difficult book. There are no direct specific references as to either who wrote it or who received it. There is, nevertheless, evidence which points to Paul as the writer. In the first place the salutation at the end of the epistle is exactly the same as that of all the Pauline epistles, namely, "Grace be with you all." We learn from 2 Thess. 3, 17-18, that the salutation of Paul in all his epistles as a proof that it was written by Paul, consisted in the words, "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ." In the second place we find in Hebrews 13, 23, mention is made of Timothy, and Paul is the only writer in the New Testament who speaks of Timothy.
The epistle divides into two unequal parts. First, "The word of exhortation," and secondly, "The letter in a few words" (see chapter 13, 22, for this division, noting that the verse should read. . . . "the word of exhortation; for also I have written a letter in a few words"). So, according to this the letter in a few words is found in the few final verses, chap 13, 23-25, and all that precedes is "the word of exhortation." In chapter 1 the Son of God is set forth in a sevenfold manner: (1) The heir of all things. (2) The maker of the worlds. (3) The brightness of His glory. (4) The express image of God. (5) The upholder of all things. (6) The Purger of sins. (7) The one who is at God's right hand. These seven points were considered at great length. A splendid audience gave the message a reverent hearing. To-night Dr. Miller's subject is "Incarnation and Propitiation." Service begins at 8 o'clock.

Provincial Meeting of W.M.S. Proceeds to Second Session

RECEPTION OF PRESBYTERIAL REPORTS THIS MORNING FOLLOWED BY ADDRESS ON "THE MESSENGER", THE SOCIETY'S PUBLICATION, AND ITS WORK.

LARGEST WOMEN'S BOARD CIRCULATION

The second day of the Womens' Missionary Society Presbyterian Convention opened this morning at 9 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Chas. Robertson, of Toronto, in the chair. A hymn and prayer offered by Miss M. McMillan of North Bay, opened the meeting, and then, the minutes being passed as read, Presbyterial reports were read by the following ladies: Mrs. McAlpine, Algoma report; Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith, Alliston, Barrie report; Mrs. Fulford, Brockville; Mrs. Lane, Bruce; Mrs. McCarroll, Chatham; Mrs. Tanner, Glengarry; Mrs. McKerrachnr, Guelph; Mrs. Langford, Hamilton; Mrs. Hamilton of Goderich, Huron; Mrs. Mowat, Kingston; Mrs. Wilson, Lanark; Mrs. Denoon, Lindsay; Mrs. J. M. McEvoy, London; Mrs. Glennie, Maitland; Miss McMillan, North Bay; Mrs. Cramm, Ottawa; Mrs. Douglas, Owen Sound; Mrs. Burkholder, Orangeville; Mrs. Haddow, Paris; Miss A. W. Erskine, Peterborough; Mrs. Foster, Sarnia; Mrs. Robinson, Saugeen; Mrs. Murray, Stratford; Mrs. F. H. Ross, Sudbury; Mrs. Dawson, Superior; Mrs. McKnight, Temiskaming; Mrs. Smith Fox, Toronto; Mrs. Hare, Whitby. These reports were very interesting, and showed progress all along the line of missionary endeavor in the different districts reported from. The speaakers were congratulated by the President, Mrs. Robertson, on the conciseness an brevity of their reports and the progress indicated by them. Minor announcements and transaction of some routine business occupied the remainder of the morning session.

Last evening, a strong resolution of thanks was tendered by the ladies to their Peterborough hostesses in following words:

"We the members of Ontario Provincial Society, now in session, desire to place on record our appreciation of the cordial invitation from Peterborough Presbyterial and the splendid enthusiasm of the ladies of Peterborough, even at the eleventh hour, in entertaining this large gathering and doing everything to further the success of our annual meeting."

An address of exceptional interest, considering the important part played in the life of the Women's Missionarw Society by "The Messenger," was the one given last evening by Miss M. Fraser of Toronto, on "The Making of 'Our Messenger'." This was well handled, and was a review of the work accomplished by this little publication, which may be called "the medium of communication between the 81,200 members of the W.M.S. and the numberless missionaries who at home and abroad seek to make known the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ." The prayers which grace the cover of this publication are the work of the women of the society and the missionaries, its 30 pages contain each month articles written by members on prayer and the study book, articles of a general chaarcter, letters from the field, material for the use of Mission Bands, a Bible reading prepared by a member of British Columbia Provincial, a Bible study on "Stewardship," and about 500 words from each Provincial Society. Every issue of the magazine contains some 27,000 words, which are read over about four times before publication. This means a great deal of work, and another difficult feature to make the public realize is that on the first of the month prior to the date of issue, the material goes to the printer. Two weeks later the proof sheets return and the process of correction begins. Keenness of sght, knowledge of type, punctuation, capitalization and spelling is necessary here, and much care must be taken that the information given is accurate. Then the order is decided upon, with places for pictures indicated, and the material despatched to the press. Two or three days later it is returned for a final reading, and when it finally reaches our readers, we wait in fear and trembling for the opinion of a critical public.

The rules that govern the order of the material, the variations in headings, types and frames to obbviate monotony were all explained carefully by the sepaker. The difficulties, lack of space and wealth of material, copy that comes in too late, obituaries, much too long, poetry, the use of superlatives for ordinary occurrences, all these were dwelt on in a semi-humorous manner.

"The Messenger," which has the largest circulation of any magazine published by any of the womens' boards in the world, sends 42,441 copies monthly to every part of the globe.

Criticism of the constructive and the destructive varieties is showered on the editor of a publication of this sort ,and is delivered very freely. The different sources of information from which material is drawn, magazines, books, newspapers, letters, circulars, advertisements, conferences, committee meetings, the wealth of material which may be drawn on for the interesting reading mater in a publication of this sort were all pointed out by the speaker, who gave her audience a very instructive insight into the making of their official publication.

This afternoon's programme includes an interesting address on "C. G.I.T. Method of Affiliating with the W.M.S." and a talk on the "Young Women's Auxiliary," while this evening a very interesting programme is promised in addresses from two missionaries to the foreign field of India and China.

ST. JAMES' EPWORTH LEAGUE BANQUET.

At seven o'clock on Monday evening about sixty of the members of St. James' Epworth League gathered in the Church Parlors for their annual banquet, and election of officers.

After the good things which had been provided by the ladies had been disposed of, the toastmaster, Mr. Reginald Cuffe, asked for a toast to "The King," which was honored by all present singing the National Anthem.

A toast to "Our President," Mrs. W. Wright, was very ably proposed by Mr. G. H. Cutmore.

Mr. Cutmore spoke of the continuous growth of the League since Mrs. Wright had taken office, and mentioned that St. James' League had never been in such a flourishing condition as it is at the present time.

Continuing, he said that this condition was in a large measure due to the fact that the League had been fortunate enough to have Mrs. Wright as their directing genius.

As the president rose to reply, everyone sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mrs. Wright referred to the pleasure it had given her to work for the League during the past year, and thanked each member of the Executive for the loyal support they had at all times given her.

The toast, "Our League," was then proposed by Rev. J. F. Chapman, who reviewed the activities of the League during the year, and made helpful suggestions for even better work next year.

Mr. Wm. MacLaren then proposed a toast to "Our Orchestra," speaking very eloquently of the place music held in our lives, and of the splendid service given the League by the Orchestra.

Mrs. Gilchrist, on rising to reply, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses, as a token of appreciation of her services as leader of the Orchestra.

In a few well-chosen words, Mrs. Gilchrist thanked the League for their kindness, and assured the League that it was only a pleasure for the Orchestra to do anything they could to help make the services attractive.

Then followed the election of officers for the ensuing year, the following being elected:

Hon. Pres., Rev. J. F. Chapman; President, Mrs. W. Wright; First Vice-President, Mr. Geo. Robinson; Second Vice-Pres., Miss Mabel Sollitt; Third Vice-Pres., Miss Ruby Young; Fourth Vice-Pres., Mr. Reginald Cuffe; Secretary, Mr. Will Prest; Treasurer, Mr. Edwin Rowe; Cor. Secty., Miss May Ritchie; Pianist, Miss Mary Wood; Orchestra Leader, Mrs. Gilchrist.

ANGLICAN BISHOPS FAVOR A RE-UNITED CHURCH SAYS ONE

LONDON, April 27.—(Canadian Press).— Adressing a meeting of the Baptist Union, the Archbishop of York declared that the Anglican Bishops confessed their share of guilt in dividing the church and believed the time had come when they should forget the past and reach out for a united Catholic Chuch. This being the first time in history an archbishop of York has addressed the Baptist Union. His remarks have createdd widespread interest in Church circles.

REICHSTAG TO DECIDE STAND ON INDEMNITY

CABINET POLICY LIKELY TO BE APPROVED---BRITAIN WANTS MORE PARTICULARS.

U.S. AWAITING REPLY

BERLIN, April 27. — (Canadian Press).—The German Cabinet faced to-day the vote by the Reichstag on the Government's policy in its reparations moves, including its appeal to President Harding for mediation and the new reparations proposals, just submitted to Washington. The approval of this policy was forecasted in political quarters as an approving resolution was to be presented by the German People's Party, Democrats and Clericals, and was reported also as likely to have the support of the majority of the Socialists. Just what the Cabinet's fate will be, however, if the effort for settlement made through President Harding should fail is another question.

WASHINGTON AWAITS WORD.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—Word from the Allied capitals as to the acceptability of the German reparations offer was awaited to-day by Secretary of State Hughes before he framed his reply to the latest Berlin communication. The views of the Allied Governments were expected to be transmitted through their Ambassadors here, with whom the State Secretary conferred yesterday after the meeting of the Cabinet.

Up to noon the United States Government had no authoritative information as to the attitude of the Allied Powers. Since the receipt of the German proposals yesterday there have been no further exchanges between the United States and Berlin, it was officially announced.

LONDON, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—The British Government to-day requested its representatives in Berlin to inquire informally regarding the new reparations offer for the purpose of clearing up the ambiguity concerning the terms of years in which payments would be made under the offer.

MOTOR LEAGUE HELD MEETING

MR. R. COTTON ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR THE YEAR.

An enthusiastic and well-attended meeting of the Automobile Association was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening, the President, C. R. Banks, occupying the chair.

Before proceeding with the election of officers, the offer of the Chamber of Commerce was considered, namely, to supply the use of rooms and do the clerical work for $100.00 a year. After some discussion this was agreed to and the election of officers was then proceeded with:

Hon. President—H. O. Fisk.
President—R. S. Cotton.
Vice-President—R. H. Turner.

Council with power to appoint the standing committees for the year as follows—J. I. Allen, E. W. Borbridge, D. R. Wren, J. W. Brightman, A. W. Blade, R. J. G. Sutherland, W. H. Bradburn, J. J. Duffus, Bruce Fowler, C. R. Banks, C. A. White, F. R. J. MacPherson.

It was further resolved that a meeting be held once a month at the call of the President and that the first one be held on May 10th.

Some discussion was held with regard to the activities for the coming year, and it was suggested that at least two banquets and one picnic be held. This was left open until another meeting.

There seemed to be some misunderstanding in the minds of some of the recent members of the benefits that accrue from membership in the Automobile Association. It was explained that the fees are only $3.00 instead of $5.00, which is the usual charge in other cities. This entitles a member to full membership in the Ontario Motor League and to a copy of The Motorist, one of the brightest and most valuable magazines of its kind. The O. M. L. maintains a legal department for the benefit of its members as well as an information bureau, and has also arranged with hotels and garages in the United States to accept Canadian money at par. It has placed thousands of road signs all over the Province and has warded off undesirable legislation, obtained license exchange with neighboring Provinces and States and many other things which space will not permit to mention here.

The enthusiasm displayed by the members present augurs well for the Association and should result in a large membership for 1921.

FELL INTO WATER AT AUBURN DAM

Frank Leader, an employee of the spinning department of Auburn Mills, met with a peculiar accident which might have resulted seriously although he very luckily escaped with some bruises and a very severe shaking up. He was wheeling over the cement dam at Auburn last evening, just after 5 o'clock, when he collided with a pedestrian crossing in the same direction resulting in Leader being thrown from his wheel and falling off the dam, to the foot of the slide, a distance of some 14 feet into the water. He gained hold on a rock between two of the slides with quite a force of water flowing either side of him. Mr. F. J. Redpath secured a coil of large hose and throwing the end to the man in the water told him to wind it around his body, and with the assistance of others drew him up to safety.

ENDS OWN LIFE NEAR LINDSAY

RICHARD JAMES OF CAMBRAY HANGS SELF FROM RAFTER IN SHED.

LINDSAY, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—Richard James, a resident of the village of Cambray, aged 87 years, ended his own life Tuesday afternoon, his lifeless body being found hanging from a rafter in the driving shed. He had been in good health, but worried over the death of his wife a year ago. Fifteen minutes previously he had been talking with Dr. Ray, and commenting on how fine he felt.

REPRESENTING THE NAVY LEAGUE HERE

CHAPLAIN SAMUEL BOAL IN THE CITY—TO HOLD A MEETING.

"The Navy League, which I have the honour to represent, stands today for a better Canada and a great merchant marine," said by the citizens of this country. There are now 42 ships in Canada's fleet, manned by Canadian sailors, and we are hoping in the near future that Canada will take her place amongst the great shipping countries of the world."

Chaplain Samuel Beal, who is in Peterborough for several days in the interests of the Navy League of Canada, was the speaker. Chaplain Beal's tall and well-built figure in the blue uniform, brass buttons, and braid of the Navy, made him conspicuous in the Empress Hotel rotunda this morning.

Chaplain Beal played a prominent part in recruiting Britain's volunteer army from 1914 to 1916 he enlisted over 10,000 men. For his work he was presented with an illuminated address by the citizens of London in December, 1916, and was given the personal thanks of Lord Kitchener—no mean honour from the man of few words.

Meeting Here.

Chaplain Beal told The Examiner that he would hold a meeting here if possible, and would show his motion pictures of the surrender of the German fleet, and the series of slides that show perhaps better than any other set prepared, the British Navy's part in the world struggle.

Everywhere these pictures have drawn immense crowds, and as some of them are copyright, and the picture of the sinking of the Lusitania is said to be the only one saved, an interesting evening is assured if a meeting is held in Peterborough.

"There is no other country can show such an expansion of trade and commerce as Canada, although she passed through a terrible struggle," said Chaplain Beal.

"The war cost Canada 1,800,000," he said, "yet she is going on to prosper. In 1920 her imports were $1,064,516,000, and her exports were $1,239,492,000. Total deposits in the banks in 1919 were $1,746,878,000. Great Britain went into the war with the strongest Navy, and she came out of it stronger than ever," he said. "It was the Navy, after all, that made it possible for victory."

From 1914 to November, 1918, 842 warships of all types were completed, making a total tonnage of 1,603,000, and in the same period auxiliary vessels manned by the mercantile marine were built to the number of 671, with a total of 754,111 tons. "This was a great achievement for the British Isles," he said. "During the war the British Navy suffered losses of 30,940 officers and men, and the Royal Naval Reserve lost 33,060 officers and men."

SYMPTOMS.

When the head is tilted, when the lids are inflamed, when styes appear, when squints or frowns are noticeable, when you feel dull, when headaches are frequent, then is the time to have your eyes examined. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

PEAT AS FUEL THE SOLUTION OF SITUATION

SO A. HARRINGTON, FORMER FUEL CONTROLLER, TELLS COMMITTEE--SITUATION SERIOUS.

DEPENDENT ON U.S.

OTTAWA, April 27 (Canadian Press).—From its geographical position, Ontario is now absolutely dependent upon the United States for its coal supply, said A. Harrington, former fuel controller for Ontario, before the House Fuel Committee this morning.

The Province burns annually three million tons of anthracite and ten millions of bituminous coal.

The United States supply would gradually decrease as the mines become exhausted and the population increased.

The solution of the problem lay, not in bringing Canadian coal from the West or East, but in the use of peat. He declared that the situation at present was most serious.

Mr. Harrington urged the fullest possible investigation and the education of the people in anthracite coal conservation. Ontario people had been brought up on the anthracite coal bottle, he said, and they refused to use anything else. He thought it was economically impossible to deliver Nova Scotia coal to Ontario unless there was first a development of trade. He did not believe that Western briquetted lignites would appeal to Ontario consumers, and favoured Federal inspection of all coal brought into Canada.

This ancient placard, the thin paper browned with age, was found on the wall of the Bank of Toronto, concealed by paper, by labourers pulling down the walls this morning. No evidence is at hand that the cow was ever found. If anyone finds a bovine answering the description wandering on any of the main thoroughfares the law will allow him to keep it.

CONDEMNS MOVE AGAINST FREEDOM OF CANADIAN PRESS

J. F. Reid, M.P., Would Stop Manipulation by Advertisers.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(Canadian Press.)—J. F. Reid (MacKenzie) is asking the House of Commons to adopt a resolution condemning any attemot to control the press of Canada through manipulation of advertising. The resolution follows:

That in the opinion of this House the organized schemes of certain parties, interested in maintaining the customs tariff, including what is known as the Murray Bureau, Toronto, the manager of which was formerly employed by the Manufacturers' Association to influence the editorial opinions of the press by with holding or withdrawing advertising, is contrary to the national interest, and tihs House condemns any such movement against the freedom of the press of Canada.

British Government Offers to Pay Part of Wages of Miners

WOULD CONTRIBUTE 590,000 POUNDS MONTHLY TO PREVENT CUT OF OVER THREE SHILLINGS.

CONFERENCES RESUMED

LONDON, April 27. — (Canadian Press.) — Conferences held in an endeavour to reach a settlement of the coal strike were resumed this morning. Sir Robert Horne met the representatives of the miners first and then the mine owners. It is understood that he told the miners' delegates the government had made a further offer to meet their position to the extent of contributing five hundred and ninety thousand pounds sterling or more monthly during the transitional period so that the reduction in wages would not exceed three shillings.

Coal for hospital and household use and for public utility purposes however, will not be moved by the members of the union.

TENNANT REMOVED TO INSANE ASYLUM

BROCKVILLE, April 27. (Canadian Press.) Derrick Tennant, who shot and killed Robert Wood at Caintown on February 7th last, and who was afterwards acquitted of murder on the grounds of insanity, has beeen removed to the Ontario hospital for the insane here. Since his arrest he has attempted to take his life three time, and latterly has been in the general hospital receiving treatment.

PART PAYMENT CANTEEN FUND

PENDING FINAL SETTLEMENT OF TOTAL PROFITS 130,000 POUNDS PAID IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(Canadian Press.)—The Militia Department announced that information has been received from the Army Council that pending final settlement of the total amount of the expeditionary force canteen profits avaliable for allocation among the various interests concerned, it has been decided to make a further interim payment of a hundred and thirty thousand pounds sterling in respect of profits due the overseas military forces of Canada.

WILL ELIMINATE MINING TAX ACT

GOVERNMENT TO SLICE LEGISLATION TO SHORTEN SESSION.

TORONTO, April 27.—(Canadian Press.)—When the Ontario Legislature meets this afternoon, Premier Drury will make a full statement concerning the bills which the government is prepared to drop in order to ensure that the second session of the fifteenth Ontario Legislature ends on Friday. The latest bill to be added to the elimination list is the Mining Tax Act.

UNEMPLOYMENT ON INCREASE IN CANADA

G.W.V.A. Points to Figures Issued by Department of Labor.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—The unemployment situation is described as intolerable in a report issued from Dominion headquarters, G.W.V.A., to members of the Dominion Command Executive. Statistics secured from the branches of the association and the Federal Department of Labor, it is stated, reveal the startling fact that fully 25 per cent. of the workers of Canada are now unemployed.

Under the continued contraction of payrolls returned soldiers, as a class, are the most severew affected, mainly on account of junior status, in employment. Reduction of staff invariably results in the prior release of those most recently employed. Moreover, the situation holds no promise of immediate recovery, as would ordinarily be expected at this season. In other years, the employment situation has shown improvement with the last week in February.

This year the downward trend of employment statistics has been continuous since the beginning of the year; the Labor Department figures for the week ending April 2 showing 13,396 less workers employed than in the previous week.

The present ratio of unemployment in Canada is 16 per cent. over January, 1920, the report states. On that later date 8 per cent. of the workers were jobless, so that the employed to-day total practically one-quarter of the workers of the country. The most optimistic estimate of midsummer expansion in employment does not offer hope that normality will be regained this year. In addition to the present distress disclosed, prospects for next winter are not at all comforting.

$3500 DAMAGES THE RESULT OF AUTO ACCIDENT

TORONTO, April 27. — A C P. R. train on the Kingston road, Thurlow township, struck an auto carrying Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Robertson of Belleville and the wife died of her injuries. The husband was hurt too and the motor car was wrecked. Under a recent judgment at Osgoode Hall, Dr. Robertson receives $2500, including $1500 for the auto, and his three children get the remaining $1000. The total paid by the C. P. R. is $3500.

GOOD CONCERT AT PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

Park Street Baptist Church choir gave an excellent concert in the church last evening, assisted by the Sunday School orchestra. Considerable commendation is due to B. G. Robinson, choir leader, and to W. C. Ford, orchestra leader, for their able arrangement of the program. Rev. W. E. Morrow was Chairman, and in his address made reference to the important part music plays in church work and church life and commended the development of the musical bodies under their present leaders. The church was well filled for the concert. The numbers were repeatedly encored and the members of Park Street Baptist Church expect great achievement of their musicians and vocalists in the future.

The following is the program:

"Grant Us Thy Peace"—The choir.

SEASON OPENS EARLY OTONABEE BOATHOUSE

The first liveliness of the season on the water is found at H. B. Rye's boathouse, where the launches are being slid into the water well ahead of the average season. Some of the motor boat owners have already been down to the lake, and a few of the enthusiasts have had their boats out for two or three weeks in spite of the high water.

Weather that of mid-summer heat is bringin an early attraction to the boathouse and it is likely that the usual livery business will be opened up earlier than usual.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

AN OPEN LETTER TO MAYOR CHURCH.

The action of Mayor Church of Toronto regarding labour will be found to be very dangerous to the peace and safety of the public of Ontario. Labour demands that the doctrine of no private rights in the face of public need as established at the late referendum shall be allowed to apply to all evils and not to one alone.

Labour argues that drink is not to be compared with unemployment and all its dire consequences involving, as it does life itself. If there is no private right that can stand against the merits of the prohibition of drink. There is surely none labour says that can stand in the face of much more terrible evils. Labour is met by a refusal to lower rents, but with a demand for lower wages.

It would be well for those who have the security of private property at heart to get to work and find a solution for the difficulty instead of making threats.

BRAND NEW GRAFT.

CHICAGO, April 27 (Canadian Press).—A new type of graft in connection with building was brought to light recently by the committee which is investigating the building situation in Chicago. The proprietor of a North-side residential hotel told the Commission that after paying large sums in graft during the construction of his hotel, he had to pay a sum to the Waiters' Union.

"The business agent came to me and said that the dishes I had bought could not be used by Union waiters because they were not Union-made," the hotel owner said. He explained, however, that for a certain sum of money he could instruct the waiters that they could use the non-union made dishes. I paid him, and everything was all right.

TAX RATE IN CAMPBELLFORD IS UNCHANGED

TOWN COUNCIL HELD A SPECIAL MEETING — CAMPBELLFORD NEWS OF INTEREST.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27.—The Town Council held a special meeting on Monday evening, at which it was decided the tax rate for this year should be 42 mills, the same as for 1920.

A Presentation.

The choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church asembled at the home of Mr. John Scott, and presented Mr. Henning with a pipe and pouch, as well as a purse. Mr. Henning has been the organist of St. Andrew's for some time. He is leaving shortly for Saskatchewan.

New Construction.

Mr. A. Scott, together with seven men from the Hydro works here, went to Walkerville, Ont., on Tuesday, where they will be engaged in the construction of a tower.

Dodds Versus Ketchum.

The assault case of Harry Dodds, of Hastings, against Harry Kethcum of Hastings, came up before Magistrate Payne yesterday. Mr. Charles Payne, of Belleville, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. I .A. Humphries for the defendant.

After considerable evidence had been given, the case, which was for assault and biting, was laid over for the Assizes in Cobourg.

Bowling Club.

A meeting of the Tennis and Bowling Club was held in the Library on Tuesday evening, with a large number of members present.

President Brewster occupied the chair.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and adopted.

The secretary-treasurer, Mr. Allan, read the financial report for 1920, which was adopted.

A letter from Dr. Hammond, the president of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, offering assistance whenever needed, and asking for a game whenever convenient, was read.

The procuring of a pump was discussed, but was laid over until next meeting, along with the purchase of a roller.

Other business was dealt with, and the meeting adjourned.

Fair Board.

The Seymour Agricultural Society met last evening, with the following directors present: President A. Hume, F. J. Horkins, J. N. Stone, F. Keller, Wm. Abernethy, Mr. Cole, Mr. Bennett, and Mr. Owen.

General business and various ways in which the 24th of May can be made one of Campbellford's biggest days, were discussed.

Will Remain.

Friends of Mr. Frank Nancarrow, who has recently returned from overseas service, and who has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. H. Harris, will be pleased to learn that he has decided to remain in Campbellford.

Funeral To-day.

Mrs. R. N. Grills, aged 77 years, passed away in Brighton Township on Monday as a result of a paralytic stroke. The funeral will take place this afternoon from the home of her son, Mr. Nathan Grills, Centre Street, and the remains will be laid to rest in the English Line Cemetery. The family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Entertainment.

The choir of the Methodist Church, under the very able leadership of Mr. R. T. Cowell, A.R.C.O., are preparing an excellent programme for their entertainment on Friday evening, 6th May. The choir has been augmented by a large number of the leading musicians of the town, and a rare musical treat is in store for those who attend.

Gipsies on the Move.

A band of gipsies passed through the town yesterday.

Died This Morning.

Dorothy Ilean Haig, aged three and one-half years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Haig, Garry Street, died this morning. The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m., to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The deceased was ill but a few days.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Joseph Page, of Trenton, manager of the local Business College, was in town yesterday.

Mr. W. H. Wrigley, of Campbellford, game and fish inspector for North Hastings, spent yesterday in Peterborough.

Miss Verna Hay and Miss Mary Stephens, delegates from St. Andrew's Church, are in Peterborough this week attending the Provincial Women's Missionary Convention. Mrs. (Dr.) Haig and Miss Eliza Buchanan are also delegates to the above Convention.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton is in Toronto this week as delegate to the Board of Managers' Convention of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church. The Convention is held in the Deaconess' Training School. Mr. Ashton accompanied Mrs. Ashton as far as Peterborough.

CAPT. W. J. DOXSEE,

Who, as first Mayor of Campbellford and a trusted and efficient public servant for years, set an example in loyalty and duty by enlisting in the 2nd Canadian Battalion at the first call for volunteers. He was killed near St. Julien in the Second Battle of Ypres on 24th April, 1915. Captain Doxsee gave up business, family, and the assured position he held in the town of Campbellford for a cause in which he also gave his life. He is shown above in the uniform of the 40th Regiment of the Canadian Militia, with which he was long identified.

NEW DWELLING IN SOUTH END

Rev. J. J. O'Brien, rector of the Sacred Heart Church, went to Toronto yesterday on business connected with the building of his new house in the south end of the city. Plans and specifications will shortly be called for in connection with this building, which will be erected on the ground to the east of the Sacred Heart Church, on the site of the old skating rink.

TWO MEN MAKE ESCAPE WHILE WAITING TRIAL

USING SMALL SPIKE TWO PRISONERS DUG THROUGH WALLS OF NORTH BAY JAIL.

THEN STOLE CANOE

NORTH BAY, April 27. (Canadian Press.) — Patrick Dubord awaiting trial for the murder of Victor Collette, last December, and Mike Malnyeaux, awaiting trial on a charge of rape, escaped from the county jail here on Monday night.

During the night a canoe belonging to Clarence Raycraft was stolen from its boathouse, and the police suspect that the fugitives are responsible for its disappearance.

Dubord occupied the cell next to the rear wall of the prison and Malnyeaux was in the cell next to Dubord.

Using a small spike wrenched from his bed, Malnyeaux removed about 20 bricks from the wall, which separated him from Dubord.

Through this hole, about 15 inches square, Malnyeaux entered Dubord's cell and the pair worked together at the outer wall. The wall between the cells was about four bricks thick and the outer wall was about six bricks thick. A small yard separates the outer wall from the fence that skirts the building. The fugitives dug a hole under the fence and soon made their way to freedom.

The men were locked in their cells at 6 o'clock on Monday night and it was not until the following morning that their absence was discovered. The guard here says that none of the jail officials would enter Dubord's cell alone, as he was considered dangerous.

Malnyeaux immediately before his escape had been on a hunger strike and had not eaten anything for three days.

GRILL SUSPECT SLAYING CASE

JAMES DONOVANT, UNDER ARREST, WAS FELLOW-CLERK WITH MURDERED GERMAN COUNT.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 27.—James Donovant was held without bail in the Atlantic County Jail last night for investigation in connection with the murder here ten days ago of the hotel clerk who later proved to have been Count Heinrich von Pickler, exiled from Bavaria by his family. He was crippled and not eligible to serve in the army.

Donovant, a young man who comes from the South, worked until five weeks ago as coffee man in the room in the St. Charles Hotel in which Von Pickler under the name of Buelow performed his duties as store room clerk. Von Pickler habitually carried considerable sums of money and the cashiers of the hotel frequently asked him to change bills of large denomination.

County Prosecutor E. C. Gaskill refused to disclose his reasons for holding Donovant, but to-night after a grilling of several hours, the Prosecutor and his detectives again were closeted with the suspect and they tried on his head the cap found near the body of the murdered man. Donovant's arrest followed a lengthy examination by Mr. Gaskill and his assistants of two women, one of whom was said to be an intimate of Donovant, and two men from north side resorts where Donovant and Von Pickler were said to have been frequent visitors. Mr. Gaskill said that important developments might be expected.

The authorities believe they are nearer a solution of the mystery, but they still are uncertain whether Von Pickler was killed with robbery as a motive or whether he was the victim of a plot that matured from the same causes which led to his banishment from his own country. The Count is known to have repudiated the Fatherland because of the treatment he received at the hands of his family and to have refused to become a tool of the propaganda machine that flourished here during the war.

That his conduct in that respect may have brought him threats of reprisals appeared still more plausible to-day when George F. Maisch, who had known Von Pickler twenty-five years, disclosed that the Count refused to accept any foreign mail at his place of employment. Von Pickler, however, is known to have received mail at another address.

CANADIAN GIRL IS CHOSEN AS BEAUTY

NEW YORK, April 27.—After weeks devoted to a process of elimination in quest of the most beautiful debutante of New York, destined to be acclaimed in song and picture as "The New York University Girl," first honors have, to the amazement of the New York University special pulchritude committee, gone, not to New York, but to Sherbrooke, Quebec.

The beautiful girl, who is hailed as the feminine ideal of University heights, is Miss Allison McBain, of the Canadian town.

The preliminaries, held at the various Varsity dances during the winter, extended through the winter months under the direction of Mr. Cole S. Philips, artist, illustrator and a creator of ideal women in magazine form.

IMMIGRATION BEFORE HOUSE

CALDER FAVORS IMMIGRATION BUT NOT WITH PRESENT CUNDITIONS.

OTTAWA, April 27.— (Canadian Press.)—The problem of Canada's immigrant tide was that before the Commons yesterday when the House was in committee of supply on immigration. Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration, opened the discussion by outlining the present difficulties and how the government had sought to meet them. He agreed that people should be encouraged to come to Canada, the barring of immigration was impracticable. But in view of present unemployment was it wise to bring more workers into the country? Yet Canada had huge areas of land ready for settlement and the railway problem could be met only by more traffic. As to land settlement it would, in Mr. Calder's view, be no solution of the problem till the State was prepared to step in and make loans to settlers. It was probable, however, that the time for adoption of such a course had not yet come. During the ensuing debate H. H. Stevens, member for Vancouver Centre, made a vigorous attack on Oriental immigration. The Premier stated that the budget would be brought down in the immediate future.

SUGAR STRIKES NEW LOW LEVEL

NEW YORK, April 27.—Sugar prices reached the lowest level since 1917 yesterday, when another decline of one-quarter of a cent in the price of refined sugar was announced by two New York refiners.

The reduction brings the cost to the basis of 6¼ cents for fine granulated sugar.

ASHPLANT HAS MADE APOLOGY TO COMMITTEE

SORRY FOR STATEMENT THAT M.P.P.'S COULD BE BRIBED RE LONDON BILL.

SESSION NEARS END

TORONTO, April 27. — (Canadian Press.) Ex-Alderman H. B. Ashplant equiry before the Privileges and Elections Committee of the legislature, ended yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Ashplant tendered an apology. His apology was worded for him by Mr. Curry, and acknowledged that if he did say anything at the London council meeting of March which was capable of the interpretation that had been put upon it by members of the council, he desired to withdraw it, and was sincerely sorry for having so expressed himself.

J. W. Curry suggested the apology, and J. M. Ferguson, committee's counsel, acquiesced in its being made.

According to the newspaper reports the ex-Alderman was said to have made the statement in a speech that members of the Legislature could and might be bribed to put through the bill of the City Gas Co. of London.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was the warmest day of the present season, the thermometer going to a trifle over 80 degrees in the shade. Last night was also the warmest night to date, the lowest point being 57 degrees. If the reader watches the trees these days he will see some quick change transformations—one day the buds forming, and in a day or so the delicate green leaves appearing. By the way, what makes the sap in a tree defy all the laws of gravitation and rise upward?—W. P.

ESKIMO MURDERER ESCAPES MOUNTED

THE PAS, Man., April 27 (Canadian Press).—Ouangwak, the Eskimo murderer who, to secure a wife, killed two of his fellow-tribesmen, has escaped from the Mounted Police at Chesterfield Inlet, and is now at large in the Arctic region, according to word brought here by trappers.

Ouangwak was brought out to civilisation a year ago to stand trial for the murders, but was ordered back to the scene of his crime to be tried where witnesses were more easily available.

DROWNED IN TRENT RIVER

BODY OF ALEX. WHITE, OF HASTINGS, FOUND LAST NIGHT AFTER AN HOUR'S SEARCH.

WAS IN POOR HEALTH

HASTINGS, April 27. —A very sudden shock came to the people of this village last evening about 8 o'clock, when the alarm was given that Mr. Alex. White, a well known and highly respected resident, had been drowned.

Mr. White, who for some weeks has been in very poor health, had been missed only a few minutes, when a search was made for him, and within one hour his body was found in the Trent river right opposite his home. A hard working man all his life, his last illness was about the only time that he had been off work since a boy.

Deepest sympathy is extended to his wife and an aged mother, who resided with him. Mr. White has also two brothers, both residing in Peterborough.

TRENT BRIDGE BAD NAME FOR MUNICIPALITY

SO SAYS MAGISTRATE DUMBLE, WHO THINKS IT SUGGESTS INHABITANTS ARE FISHES.

TRENTON A PARALLEL

Magistrate D. W. Dumble is tired of reading in the paper about Trent River, an unknown place on the river of the same name.

"People are enquiring where this place called Trent River is," he told The Examiner. "There seems to be people in it, and it reminds me of the time when the town now called Trenton was called River Trent. It was thus called till Lord Monck's time, when a petition from the inhabitants went to the Dominion Government to change the name, and with a deputation of citizens it came before Lord Monck. He began to slowly read the petition: 'We, the undersigned inhabitants of River Trent,' it began. Looking up, he examined the deputation with keen and sparkling eyes. 'By gad! you're queer fishes,' he remarked dryly.

"The deputation returned and reported to their people the remark of Lord Monch, and they suggested it was time the name was changed. Accordingly, a citizens' meeting was called and they decided to change the name. Happily, they changed the name to Trenton, and as Trenton it has flourished and become a nice little town.

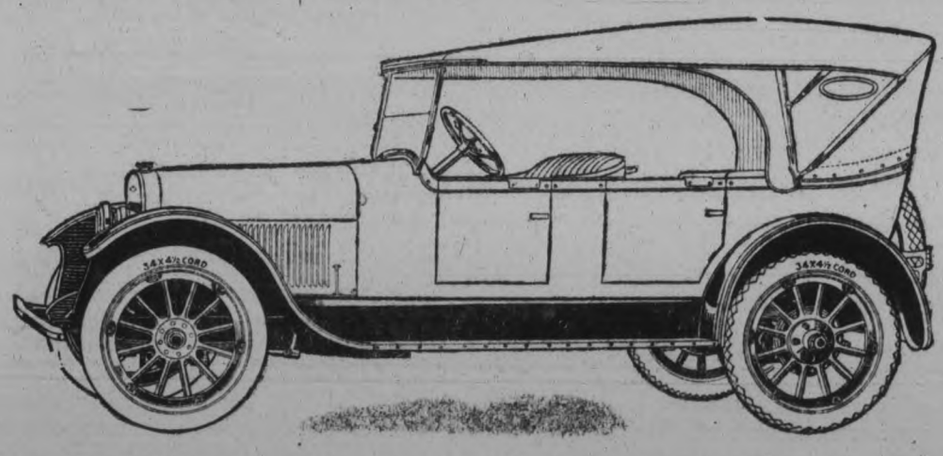
"Now, I respectfully submit that the people of Trent River should look for a new name and get rid of the suggestion that they are suckers, or carp, or mud-pouts." Magistrate Dumble smiled broadly when he made this statement, but he declared he meant it.

He said that he lived in Trenton when the change of name was made and in that day it had felt few moralizing influences. At any rate, the town flowed with liquor and was filled with drunken, murderous lumber-jacks. That Trent River is nothing like River Trent is His Worship's fervent hope and belief, but he believes that a change of name would not be amiss and remove any imputation that the characteristics of the old and the new are the same.

FREAK BABY PIG

A freak in domestic animal birth was brought to light when Vincent Cutmore, a farmer living west of Apps' Mills, reported that a sow belonging to him had given birth to five young pigs. Two of them were of natural physique, while two others had withered hindquarters with no feet. One of the pigs has but two feeet which wre growing from the centre of its body and the back of the animal was shaped like a duck. All five pigs are living and healthy.

McLAUGHLIN



CONFIDENCE in "Canada's Standard Car" is most clearly shown in its absolute leadership in the market. McLaughlin "Master Six" has become the "known factor" among motor cars —a guage by which to judge not only values, but style, finish and design.

This is what makes the McLaughlin such a sound investment—that gives it its established re-sale value—that makes it the accepted car among men of substance.

It is a fact that out of all the McLaughlin Cars sold in the Peterboro District during the past five years, only six of the large number are driving any other make of car to-day. Strong evidence of the popularity of the McLaughlin.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1921.

ONE WAY OUT.

"The May Day Proposal" outlined in last evening's Examiner has doubtless been read with interest by the majority of our readers and has been the topic of discussion in many circles. Some citizens claim the plan is not feasible. It is not feasible unless every interest concerned in the matter does its part—unless there are concessions made by everybody. The strength of a chain is the strength of its weakest link, and in this particular instance every link must bear its share of the strain. There are difficulties, but are they insurmountable? Is there any other plan that can promise such results? Can anything comprehensive in the way of a building programme be carried out under present conditions? These are questions that enter into the discussion of the unusual proposal. The situation seems to be, briefly, that scores of families are living in two or three rooms who want and should have a house of their own. Hundreds of workers who should be engaged in building the houses that these families need are idle. Hardware and other supplies that should be utilized in house building are clogging the stores. The whole stream of trade and activity that should be at full flood is clogged, because everybody is reluctant to take the first step towards normal conditions. Why not all take it together? That is the simple plan that the writer of a May Day proposal suggests. It sounds reasonable: why can it not be put into effect?

THE TOBACCO TAX.

If, as some people fear, the next move in the "reform" campaign is to be an effort to eliminate tobacco, the smokers are not to be caught unprepared. Instead of waiting around for the development of the supposed-to-be-coming anti-tobacco fight, the lovers of My Lady Nicotine are beginning a warfare of their own. Petitions to the Dominion Government are being circulated everywhere in Canada urging not only that no more taxes shall be placed on tobacco, but that the last levy made as a war tax be done away with. Needless to say, the petitions are being largely signed. The smokers, and that includes naturally a very large percentage of the population, have always regarded that tax on tobacco as more or less of a personal affront, although they have gone on paying the increased prices and smoking their usual quantity. The fate of the petitions, copies of which are now in circulation in Peterborough, is doubtful. Canada needs money and the tobacco tax brings in an appreciably large sum each year. Sir Henry Drayton is not likely to be keen on surrendering this source of revenue, especially as he doubtless imagines that the smokers have been paying the tax so long that they should be hardened to it by this time. But the smoking portion of the public will doubtless consider the effort well worth making.

THE COMMISSIONERS' SALARIES.

In adopting a method of increasing the remuneration of the members of the Hydro Electric Commission that was in any way doubtful or open to criticism, the Ontario Government was guilty of a grave mistake in policy. It would have been a much more satisfactory transaction if the Government had decided in the first place to increase the salaries of the Commissioners in the ordinary way if it deemed an increase justifiable or advisable. Instead, it allowed Messrs. Lucas and Carmichael to be paid $2,000 a year by the Ontario Power Company, a concern operated by the Hydro, which has been paying the Chairman, Sir Adam Beck, the sum of $6,000 a year since 1917, when the company was taken over by the Hydro Commission. The Attorney-General doubts the legality of such payments by the Directors of the Ontario Power Company, and to get over the difficulty the Government proposes that the salaries of Messrs. Lucas and Carmichael be increased by $2,000, the increase to be retroactive to Jan. 1st, 1920, when the payment of these sums by the Directors of the Ontario Company began. It would have been much better for everybody concerned if the Government had not countenanced the payment of these extra sums in the first place, but had itself increased the salaries of the Commissioners if it was of the opinion that their services deserved larger remuneration. The course now taken leaves Sir Adam Beck in an awkward position and throws the whole transaction open to suspicion and criticism that would not have been created if a straightforward way of handling the matter had been adopted.

AN UNFAIR SUGGESTION.

The Examiner heartily agrees with The Toronto Star in its contention that it is far too late in the day to consider the policy of placing all ranks in the Canadian Army on the same footing as regards pay and allowances granted to them while under treatment. This might have been the proper thing to do early in the war, perhaps, indeed, should have been done, for Canada's Army was a democratic one and the spirit of democracy should have been carried out in adopting a pension scheme. But the point is that it was not carried out. The vast majority of Canada's soldiers, who were returned home disabled as a result of injuries or illness, have passed through hospital and been discharged. They received pay and allowances according to their rank Now, when only a remnant is left under the care of the Government, men suffering from tuberculosis and other lasting diseases, the proposal is made that the few officers and non-com's who are still in hospitals struggling to win their way back to health should have their pay and allowances reduced to the same scale as that of privates. When thousands of officers and non-com's have had the benefit of the higher rates it would be a most unfair plan to discriminate agains tthe few invalids whoare left.

"It is late in the day to introduce this reform," declares The Star, and we are in entire accord with our Toronto contemporary. "It is too late. There is in it an indefensible discrimination against the ill and the bed-ridden officers and non-com's, whose illnesses are worse and whose misfortunes have been so long protracted, that they are few in number and lacking in influence. There is ingratitude in it, and injustce, and we believe there is open illegality in it if these sick men could go to the courts."

The Examiner believes that any effort that should be made towards changing the rates of pay and allowances of the soldiers still under treatment should be directed towards increasing the allowance of the private soldiers rather than towards robbing the few remaining invalids of higher ranks. Let the agitation be for raising the allowances of the rank and file, and there would be a large measure of public sympathy behind the effort. But the other plan is too unfair to be considered.

A WORD TO OUR MANUFACTURERS.

Figures given in the Senate last week by Sir James Lougheed showed that Canadians last year bought 100 million dollars worth of goods in the United States that could have been bought at home. Why was this? Why should a Canadian want to buy an article from the United States that he can buy in Canada? Only two reasons suggest themselves: (1) knowledge that the American article is cheaper; and (2) belief that it is superior. There may, of course, be exceptions, cases where United States' goods are bought where, so far as the purchaser knows, the Canadian price and quality are just asf good; but in the main, price and quality are determining factors.

The matter is one which deserves more attention. It deserves attention, because no "Buy in Canada" campaign can ever prove successful unless and until it be backed by indisputable evidence that Canadian articles are as good and as cheap as the products of our neighbor. Nor is there much reason why they should not be. Canadian manufacturers are perhaps not as well organized as their American rivals, and our industrial units are smaller, which, taking into account the fact that mass production is always cheaper than limited production, is a big consideration. On the other hand, however, our Canadian manufacturers enjoy water-power which is infinitely cheaper than coal, mostly used by Americans, Canadian labor is just as cheap and just as efficient as American labor, and the Canadian market is protected by a substantial tariff. In plain truth, considering that they are hedged by an average duty of 20 per cent. there does not appear to be much ground to blame anybody but our manufacturers themselves if their American rivals steal 100 millions of their trade.

Unfortunately, the matter is one which goes far beyond manufacturers. For the addition of tens of millions of dollars to our imports not only means that much labor has been diverted from Canadain to American workingmen; it means also that the unfavorable balance of trade against us is unduly increased, the consequence being that our dollar is placed at a discount both humiliating and injurious.

Nor is it a matter that can be remedied by the Government. Many appear to think that Governments can apply magic wands to all our ills, when the truth is that often as not the blame lies elsewhere, and Governments are powerless to help. And while The Journal does not wish to be too dogmatic or critical in the matter, it suggests to our manufacturers that they give a little more attention to this 100 million dollar market they arfe losing. A great deal is heard about expanding trade abroad. We are urged without ceasing that we must strive to sell more to West Indians and Rumanians and Greeks. Surely a much more profitable market is our own market here at home, which foreigners are stealing under our noses!—Ottawa Journal.

LOCAL HEBREWS ARE OBSERVING THE PASSOVER

CHIEF OF POLICE NEWHALL AUTHORIZES NECESSARY IMPORTATION OF WINE.

The Hebrews of this city are this week celebrating the Passover. The celebration commenced at sundown on Friday last and continues until Saturday evening. The first and last two days are observed as whole holidays by the Orthodox Jews, while the first and seventh days are kept as whole holidays by the Reformed Jews.

All of the local Jews belong to the Orthodox Church, and keep the Passover Feast accordingly.

The Preparation.

Great preparations are necessitated for the Passover. Houses have to be thoroughly cleaned and all traces of leavened bread removed. The celebration of the Feast to-day differs in some respects from that of early years, but the main principles are the same. All leavened bread must be removed after a thorough examination of the house, and during the summer, whether in synagogue or in the home, the story of the deliverance of the Israelites from the Egyptian yoke is recalled by many symbolic practices.

In the home the father of the family presides. Unleavened bread is on the table. A shank of lamb represents the paschal lamb, of the Jewish forefathers, a root of horseradish the bitter herbs, and parsley the bunch of hysop with which the door posts in Egypt were sprinkled with blood as a sign to the destroying angel that within dwelf members of the faithful.

The old custom of keeping a separate wine glass, into which wine is poured for the prophet Elias, expected to revisit the earth as the precursor of the Messiah, is still retained, and the tradition that the youngest son of the house should ask why the celebration of that night should be different from any other, in order that the father may give full explanation of the deliverance of the people, is strictly observed.

All food used in the homes during the Passover season is purchased and prepared with the utmost care in order to ensure that it has in no way come into contact with leaven. The "matzoth" or unleavened cakes are manufactured under supervision.

On this continent the cakes are usually square in shape. In various European countries the people retain the circular cake, which more closely resembles that of their forefathers, when they left Egypt so hastily that they had time to take with them only the unleavened dough.

The Wine Used.

Thirty-six bottles of wine ordered by the local Jewish minister with the permission of S. Newhall, Chief of Police, and J. Stewart, license inspector, will be used by the Jews in celebrating the Feast, as Orthodox faith requires. The wine has been distributed by the local minister, L. Rosenfield, and in this respect while the wine can not be secured as readily as in pre-Prohibition days, the Jewish residents of Peterborough have fared better than their brethren of New York City. Police Commissioner Enright refused to sanction the selling of red wine to the Jews. A delegation of Rabbis who visited police headquarters in protest were told that "there is so much contraband stuff going out in the guise of sacramental wine that policemen must live up to their orders to seize every drop of the stuff they see being transported."

Banking Service for All

AS the majority of the first directorate of the Bank of Montreal, formed in 1817, were Scotchmen or bore Scotch names it was but natural that they should seek in Canada "to extend and to perpetuate for the farmer and the merchant the benefits and stimulus of a system the worth of which Scotland's prosperity could abundantly prove." One of the outstanding features of the system was the maintenance of numerous branches by banks of large capital.

The Bank of Montreal, in adopting this feature from the outset, laid the foundations of a service by which branches have been established throughout the entire Dominion.

At each of these branches the full service of the complete organization is available.

Through this service the Bank of Montreal offers to all classes of the community, from the smallest savings depositor to the largest commercial organization, good and adequate banking facilities. Each customer whether his account be large or small is welcome as a client of the institution.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

CONFLICTING EMOTIONS

Chapter 38.

The next morning I felt much better. Leonard insisted that I stay in bed for breakfast so I consented. But by 10 o'clock I felt restless and got up and dressed myself. I felt much stronger and busied myself with little duties.

The house seemed lonely and strangely unsympathetic. Venomous thoughts had been completely put to rout the night before, crept back like hungry wolves. When Leonard was by my side it was different—but now, when he was away—how could I be sure? Where was he this very minute?

My mind went back and hunted up memories and incidents that opened up wounds again. I could see Mrs. Darwood, fascinating and alluring, hanging on Leonard's arm when we had met that night after the theatre. If it had been distasteful to him, why had he not resented it so openly? He was always blunt at other times and very strong in his dislikes. I remembered the time when my old school chum, Dorothy Hudson, had visited us soon after our marriage, and how Leonard had shown decidedly his dislike for her. He had been actually rude without realizing it.

Of course, that was very, very soon after our wedding. Did time make the difference, I wondered? Was it just married life?. Did every couple settle into this state of terrible do-as-you-please, even to the extent of being fascinated by other men and women? Was that old promise of ours to be different from other married couples age-worn since the time of Adam and Eve?

Once my mind started searching through past events for little unhappinesses, it gathered circles of them that went cutting and turning corkscrew-like down through my heart.

Why had Leonard failed that time to give me my allowance, and then remained suspiciously silent about it? What had the money gone for? But I was soon to learn.

If his relations with Mrs. Darwood were strictly business, surely they could be finished by 11 o'clock in the evening? One did not stay out until 2 and sometimes 3 o'clock in the morning for business purposes, even if one did live 45 minutes from Broadway.

The more I thought the worse I felt and the more concrete became my reasoning. I could see little tendencies and qualities which I loved in Leonard changed and hardened. So my thoughts ran rampant through my tortured brain. The face which last night I had looked on with love and admiration, today seemed changed and I could discern lines of weakness which my mad frenzy placed in today's memory picture.

I even thought wildly of running away, leaving Leonard, whither I had no idea. If only my mother was alive now—but I did not have her to go to. I had a few thousand dollars of my own, but after that was gone, what then? Granting that I was not stupid, what chance would I have in the business world, untrained as I was? Pride, however, could force one into doing many things, and I would not let lack of money or ability stop me from going.

I was not unmindful of the part Mrs. Darwood played in my unhappiness. Reason and my love for Leonard made me know that hers was the bigger wrong. I had always known that no force was worse than the power of an evil woman. And evil I believed her to be. Hadn't I sized her up at our first and only meeting? She was what the world would call an unchastened woman. But for myself I would greatly prefer the wrong doer without pretense.

Must she always rise up between Leonard's and my love like a malevolent force separating us. Oh, how I hated her!

The telephone bell rang and I hurried to answer it.

"Hello!"

"Hello! That you, Noreen?" Leonard's voice rumbled out on the other end of the wire.

"Yes, it is I," I answered, happy in a minute. The very sound of his voice dispelled my anguish. The cloud of doubt dropped from me again as if words had cut the very cords that bound it.

"You're better, are you, Noreen?" he asked. "Just thought I'd like to hear how you felt. Be careful—yes. I'll be home to dinner," he added and then said goodbye and rang off. That was all—but it had been enough. It was everything to me and I went into the library and gathered myself into his big chair and cried.

The tears were half happy tears of relief. Leonard did think about me those very same terrible minutes when I was thinking awful, unjust things of him. All the anger my crazed mind had conjured up toward Leonard was now turned inward upon myself. Leonard, my own Leonard and to think I had doubted him for one minute!

Tomorrow—Summer Plans.

Voice Of The People

This column is reserved for brief letters, the Editor having the right to condense or make excerpts from those too long for insertion. All letters must be accompanied by the name as well as the address of the writer for publication. They should be written on one side of the paper and addressed to "The Voice of the People." The Examiner is not responsible for opinions expressed by the writers, and does not guarantee the return of unused manuscripts.

Voice of the people
April 25th, 1921.

Edtior of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In reply to Mr. M. J. O'Brien's letter of the 19th inst., I would like to assure him that it is not the editor of the Catholic Record who writes these letters. It is likely that the reverend father has neither the time nor the desire to even notice Mr. O'Brien's speech, much less make a reply to it.

Regarding the knowledge of the English language in Quebec, I can only repeat what I said in my former letter, and will hold to the contention, knowing it to be true, whatever Mr. O'Brien's opinion on the subject may be.

I am accused of using the "No Popery" cry in "the approved R.C. manner." What this manner might be is unknown to me, but let me assure Mr. O'Brien that the "approved Orange manner" of using it is very well known to me and every other person in the land. As to how the Catholic church can be fairly accused of being "political first and religious next," I cannot understand, especially when comparing her attitude during the last general election, with that of the other churches. Let Mr. O'Brien review the unenviable part played by the Orange Order and other similar organizations during the 1917 election and probably he will be able to find there the source of such "no Popery" cries as "A vote for Laurier is a vote for the Pope," and others of the same calibre.

Regarding the text book referred to by Mr. O'Brien I have nothing to say as he has not deemed it necessary (or convenient?) to give the name of the book.

I do not agree with Mr. O'Brien in being just as proud of being a member of the British Empire as being a Canadian. Though I do not wish to parade my feelings I will state that I am a Canadian first, last and always and am proud of the fact. It is not consistent with the spirit of a true patriot to love any other contry or empire, however good and glorious that country or empire may be, in the same proportion as he loves his own native land. If he does this his allegiance is divided and he is no longer a patriot, but a hyphenate.

The only reason Mr. O'Brien puts forth for favoring the continuance of the Privy Council appears to be the decision regarding church annulments. In his speech and in his letter he seems to gloat over this one incident, and he regards it as "the wisdom of having such a court." If Mr. O'Brien regards the decision as one entailing great wisdom does he imply that Canadians are not sufficiently endowed with intelligence to make the same decision? By his statement one would infer that he thinks a Canadian court would have given a different judgment. If, therefore, he regards the judgment of the Supreme court as a just one, he doubts the justice of the Canadian courts when he thinks their judgment would be different.

Mr. O'Brien "does not admit that the R. C. church has a monopoly of the morality of the Dominion," but at least he must admit that we had a monopoly of the fight against the evil that threatened that morality. If the Catholics had shelved this important problem till a "future time," as Mr. O'Brien has done, I feel safe in saying that our statute books would not be as free from stain as they are to-day.

And last of all we come to the Self Determination for Ireland League. Mr. O'Brien tries to make this organization appear as a religious one by stating that it "is loyal to the Catholic church and its aims." Let me tell my good friend that he is wrong once more, for many of the Catholic clergy are extremely hostile to the League and its aims, while a great many prominent Protestants, lay and clerical, are not only in sympathy with the League but are also members and leaders of it. And I may state here that they are not of the narrow-minded, syncophantic class who think that criticism of, and opposition to, a tyrannous government which does not represent the true mind of the people, is dislovalty. No, they are the true friends of Britain who would save her from dishonor and destruction by opposing a policy which must inevintably lead to disaster.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain.

Yours truly,
J. F. FOLEY.

This letter concludes what threatens to develop into a controversy effecting religious denominations. The Examiner has no desire to open its columns to controversies effecting religious or secular institutions.—Editor.

BRING HOME THE BRIDE

(By H. I. Phillips.)

"Dearie" called Ignatius Innbad, as he pushed open the front parlour door of his home rather cautiously and inserted his head just far enough to make a speedy withdrawal an easy matter. "Dearie!" he repeated. "I've a little surprise for you."

"What is it?" demanded Mrs. Innbad, who, it struck Ignatius, looked more dreadnoughtian than ever she had seemed in the past, as she advanced from the living-room.

"May we come in?" asked Ignatius, his voice choking a bit.

"Whaddye mean 'we'?" asked Mrs. Innbad. "You talk like an editorial. Come in the way you always have, and don't be bothering me."

"This lady—er—this young woman—er—er," stammered Igniattus, pointing to a bobbed-haired brunette with collapsible ears, and getting behind her as Mrs. Innbad gave her the stern O. O.

"What does she want?" demanded Mrs. Innbad.

"Why—er, er, the fact is, my dear, this lady and I have, in a manner of speaking . . . but I'm the least bit afraid you'll not understand it," stammered Ignatius.

"Oh, Ignatius, tell her all about it," urged the brunette, who was chewing on her index finger.

"Well, the fact is, my dear," Ignatius managed to say, addressing Mrs. Innbad, "I have just married this young woman. We have loved each other for some time, and, well, here we are. Of course, I want to be considerate, and all that sort of thing, but if it wouldn't be asking too much, I'd like to have you move into the coal bin and leave the rest of the house to us."

* * * *

Mrs. Innbad looked at Ignatius, and then at the young woman.

"I knew you'd be surprised," said Innbad, who felt his knees sagging. "We can have the coal taken out of the bin and a few chairs and pictures put in to make it more comfortable for you. Don't let us hurry you. We want to be perfectly fair."

* * * *

"Ignatius is so considerate and tender-hearted," signed the brunette. "I had a hard time to get him to put you out at all."

* * * *

"After all, it isn't a bad coal bin, you know," pleaded Ignatius.

"I suppose to make a bit more comfortable for me, you'll put in nothing but soft coal," remarked Wife No. 1.

"Anything to oblige. You were a good wife for the first 42 years," returned Innbad, his voice quivering. His instinct began to tell him he had made a very serious mistake not doing his talking on a long-distance telephone.

* * * *

"Ignatz!" bellowed Mrs. Innbad. "Protect yourself and remember, . . . no holding!"

Ignatius put up his arms in defence, but the wife shot a right and left to the jaw, doubled him up with a solar plexus punch, and then, grabbing his prostrate form by the neck, hurled him through the living-room and bedroom into the kitchenette.

* * * *

It was a fine shot, and what might be called in golf a 'hole in one."

* * * *

"And as for you," roared Ignatius' nine-tenths as she wheeled to face the brunette.

But that lady had already disappeared.

* * * *

That night Mrs. Innbad leaned over the bed which held the crumpled form of Ignatius, and put another bandage over his chin.

"Is that you, dearie?" he whispered.

"Which dearie?" asked the Mrs.

"The one and Original," returned Ignatius. "Can't you take a joke?"

"No, but you came near taking one, I should say, from what I saw of her," replied Mrs. Innbad. "By the way, what was it you were saying about that coal bin?"

"Was I saying something about a coal bin?"

"You was," snapped Mrs. Innbad. "Oh, well, I don't know what it was, but you'd better 'phone the coal man and have him put in five tons so e'll be comfortable next winter," concluded Ignatius.

SECOND STADIUM FOR FRANCE

PARIS, April 2. — (Associated Press, by Mail).—A second stadium is to be given to France by America when the American Committee for Devastated France presents to the city of Soissons a similar sports ground to the Pershing Stadium presented to Paris by the American army.

During the war the American Red Cross acquired a large plot of ground in which to carry on its work, and soon after the armistice this property, much damages due to trenches having been dug across it several times and also to a large number of shell holes, was presented to the Municipality of Soissons by the Red Cross. The American Committee for Devastated France now has come to the rescue and will pay the cost of levelling the ground and erecting a stadium.

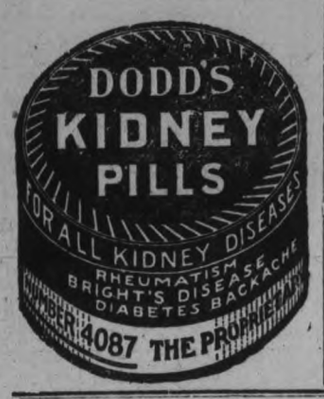
DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, April 27.—Mr. William O'Brien, who has been away for some time, is home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wynn, of Toronto, attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Crowley.

Mr. George O'Donnell spent a few days in Orillia during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perdue, of Lindsay, passed through the village on Sunday.



LINDSAY BOY, AGED 14, SHOT BY COMPANION

FIRED POINT BLANK AT LAD, IT IS ALLEGED.

LINDSAY, April 27.—Albert Brasier, aged 14, is suffering from a bullet wound in his neck, received at the hands of another fourteen-year-old boy named Gerster. It appears that Brasier, with other boys, was playing in a tunnel near the Distillery Creek, north of the town, and not leaving the tunnel when ordered to do so by Gerster, the latter, it is alleged, fired a .22 rifle point blank at the lad. The bullet gazed the back of the victim's neck, inflicting a flesh wound, not likely, however, to prove serious. County Constable Connuergood is investigating.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

The Port Hope Guide says something will have to be done to get dancing back to a safe and sound basis. For instance, it wants to know what is to be done about the girl who hangs her chin over her partner's shoulder and allows her face to register the expression of a dying tuna fish wig-wagging signals of distress to its mate?

Bell Telephone Shares

Were $145
Now $104

This is the time to buy them

These are the reasons why

For a period of ten years prior to 1918, the average market price of Bell Telephone Company of Canada shares was about $145 a share.

You can buy them from us to-day at the market price of about $104 a share plus 25c for Brokerage.

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has paid 8% dividends for 35 years.

They should continue to pay 8% dividends.

Because, in a recent judgment, the Board of Railway Commissioners (which regulates telephone rates) held that The Bell Telephone Company should be permitted to earn sufficient to pay 8% dividends, plus a surplus.

Since 1880, the record of The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has been one of continuous progress. What was then an experiment is now a necessity. To-day, The Bell Telephone Company of Canada is probably the best managed Public Utility Enterprise on this continent.

For this reason The Bell Telephone shares are a sound and safe investment ranking as high as many Corporation and Municipal Bonds.

Moreover, it is reasonable to expect that they will advance in value — if not to $145 per share — to a much higher figure than they are at now.

We recommend you to buy as many of these shares as you possibly can and to buy them immediately. Send your order on the form below or write for further particulars.

REPORT ON YOUR INCOME AT ONCE

THIS IS IMPERATIVE

According to information to hand, quite a number of citizens do not realize the imperative requirements of the Income Tax law, nor the punishment which will follow in the case of all who neglect to get the questionaire forms, fill in and return them by the end of this week.

"There are not gaols enough in Canada to hold us, if the Income Tax people try to do what they threaten when our returns don't suit them; so they won't try."

Thus the happy-go-lucky optimist relieves what he is pleased to call his mind.

There may not be gaols enough for all the people who would like to cheat the Government; but the number bold and foolish enough actually to try the experiment will not put any severe strain on the stone walls and iron bars provided by the Government for the accommodation of such.

But the involuntary transgressors, the people who will make inaccurate statements because they are careless or because they are not clever at figures, or because they don't understand exactly what is required of them,—these are likely to form a large class, and for their poor innocent backs there is a heavy rod in pickle.

Get out of that class while the getting's good! And that means, before the fatal 30th of April.

Maybe you haven't even secured the form that has to be filled up. Then get one from your Postmaster immediately. If you are a farmer, ask or Form T. 1a; otherwise ask for Form T 1. And at the same time ask for a copy of the "Information and Instructions."

Now sharpen up your thinking apparatus, take a pencil and a wad of scribbling pape:, shut yourself away in some quiet place where nobody is likely to interrupt, and devote yourself to the study of the documents in your hand.

If yours is a very simple case, you will probably be able to fill up your form without assistance. For instance, if your income last year was less than $1,000, you have no tax to pay, and therefore no calculations to make. If you are married, you have no tax to pay unless your income was over $2,000; and if you have children to support you may claim an additional exemption of $200 for each of them.

Personal Exemptions.

For example, take a married man living with his wife and three children on a salary of $200 a month. His income is clearly over the $2,000 mark; yet he pays no income tax, because his exemptions ($2,000 for his wife and $200 for each child) exceed his income.

The personal deductions of this kind which you are allowed to make from your income, when calculating your normal tax, are:

1.—$1,000 if you are unmarried or widow or widower and without dependents.

2.—$2,000 if married.

3.—$2,000 if unmarried or widow or widower with dependent child or brother or sister under 18, or with a dependent parent or grandparent.

4.—$2,000 if a widow or widower with dependent child under 21, or with incapacitated child of any age.

You calculate the normal tax, and then deduct therefrom the normal tax on any dividends received from Canadian companies.

If your case is not perfectly simple, and especially if you have had other sources of income besides a regular wage or salary, you can go to the Inspector of Taxation for your district and he will clear up any points you are doubtful about. If you live too far from his office, and you find it hard to express your difficulty in a letter, probably the manager of your bank will give the advice you need. And even in a small town there is generally some one, more or less expert in law and arithmetic, who will help you for a small fee.

For the assistance of those who have the courage and think they have the ability to fill up their own forms, I give a few of the most pertiment facts showing what the law demands and what it allows.

Exemptions and Deductions.

1.—Interest on any Dominion of Canada War Bonds issued free from income tax, that is on all except those issued in 1919 and which fall due in 1924 and in 1934.

2.—Pensions granted to any member of His Majesty's forces or their dependents on account of disabilities suffered in the Great War.

3.—Casual profits outside the ordinary course of your business.

4.—Legacies, gifts, and proceeds of Life Insurance Policies, but not money earned by the investment of these.

To arrive at your net income deduct also:

1.—Ordinary expenditure for the purpose of your business or profession.

2.—Interest on money borrowed, excluding mortgage on your own residence and borrowings for personal and living expenses.

3.—Taxes, insurance, repairs and depreciation on land or buildings, except your own residence.

4.—Amounts paid by employees under Superannuation Funds or plans.

5.—Carrying charges on securities, not exceeding income therefrom. No deduction is allowed for subscriptions to hospitals, or other gifts for charity. Nor may you deduct, from the profits on your chief business, your loss on a "side line."

The Finance Minister has to judge what is reasonable depreciation. In practice, he allows a yearly depreciation of 2 per cent. on stone or concrete buildings, 2½ per cent. on brick and 5 per cent. on wood buildings; from 5 per cent. to 10 per cent. on machinery, and 10 per cent. on office furniture and fixtures.

Depreciation is allowed on an automobile in proportion to its use in the owner's business.

Partners and Married Women.

No income tax is levied on a partnership collectively, but each partner individually must pay the tax on his proportion of the firm's profits.

A married woman having a private income not derived in any way from her husband may claim personal exemption up to 2,000, for normal tax, just as he does. Beyond this figure she is liable to the same taxes as anyone else and must apply for a form and send it in with the necessary remittance.

In such a case, the $200 exemption for each dependent child may be claimed by either husband or wife, but not by both.

No partnership between husband and wife is recognized by the Income Tax law. A man and wife carrying on a business together cannot make separate returns and claim two exemptions on the ground that they draw separate incomes from the business. The law treats such a pair of incomes as one.

Farm Income and Expenditure.

A farmer or rancher has to supply, on a special form, a large number of details.

He has to include among other items of gross revenue the value of his products consumed on the farm itself, and of products bartered as well as sold.

He may deduct among other items of expenditure:

1.—Wages and board of hired help employed in preparing land for crops; in cultivating, harvesting and marketing same; and in caring for livestock.

2.—Cost of seed, feed and fertilizers.

3.—Cost of small implements and sundry materials, such as pitch forks, spades, binder twine, etc.

4.—Cost of repairs to machinery, fences and buildings other than his dwelling.

5.—Interest on mortgage or unpaid purchase price of farm, of livestock and of equipment.

6.—Depreciation: 5 per cent. on fences and wooden buildings other than farmer's own dwelling; 10 per cent. on machinery and work horses.

Calculating and Paying Your Tax.

You pay a "normal tax" of 4 per cent. on income up to $6,000, and 8 per cent. on income beyond that figure. There is also a "surtax" on everything over $5,000, rising from 1 per cent. on the first $1,000 over the $5,000 mark to 65 per cent. on anything over $1,000,000. And, finally, an addition of 5 per cent. of the combined normal tax and surtax is payable on any net taxable income of $5,000 or more.

The form, when filled up, in duplicate, must be sent or handed to the local Inspector of Taxation by April 30 at latest. Allow plenty of time for possible delay in the mails.

Along with the form, you must send at least one-quarter of the tax itself. You can pay the rest in not more than three instalments—two, four and six months after April 30—with 6 per cent. interest from that date to the date of payment.

It is strongly advised that the first remittance, being based only on your own estimate, should be well over the one-fourth minimum. If possible, send a half. At any rate, add a good margin in case of error, and so obviate the risk of penalties. The more you pay, the more interest you save.

Every payment should be made by money order or certified cheque if not delivered in cash.

Pains and Penalties.

If you put your income figure too low, you become liable to heavy penalties, even if your error is unintentional. The Government officials have no power to let you off. The law, passed by your representatives in Parliament, decrees the precise sum which you must be fined.

For instance,

If you understate your income by a trifling amount, up to one-tenth, you will have to pay income tax on the deficiency with 10 per cent. interest.

If you understate your income by more than ten but less than 20 per cent., the fine is half the amount of income omitted—not merely half the tax. If the deficiency is 20 per cent. or more, the whole of the unreported income is taken. Thus, if you state your income as $4,500 when it is really $5,650, you are fined $1,150, besides, of course, the unpaid tax.

If you are late in sending in your return, 25 per cent. is at once added to your tax.

If you pay less, to begin with, than a fourth of the tax as estimated by yourself, or less than the proper amount in the case of any later instalment, then 25 per cent. of the deficiency (and in no case less than $5) is added to your tax. The same penalty is prescribed for not paying within 30 days any sum demanded in addition to the tax as estimated by yourself.

If you are asked for further information and are late in sending it, or if you fail to keep such adequate records and accounts as the Finance Minister may prescribe, you may be fined $100 a day for this default; and a false statement may be punished with a $10,000 fine and six months in gaol.

Government's Sources of Information.

The Government does not rely on you alone for information as to your income. It may call on any person who has had dealings with you to produce books or other documents showing the facts; and these must be produced, or heavy penalties incurred.

Employers have to send in every year (by March 31) returns of all employees paid at a rate of $1,000 a year or more. Fees and other remuneration of company officials and directors, ministerial and other salaries paid by churches, all must be reported.

All companies must in addition file statements of dividends and bonuses paid to shareholders.

It is plain from all this that delays and mistakes are dangerous in the extreme. The happy-go-lucky optimist may lull himself to sleep, but he will suddenly awake to find himself gripped by the neck. Don't be like him. Remember the 30th of April, and take no chances.

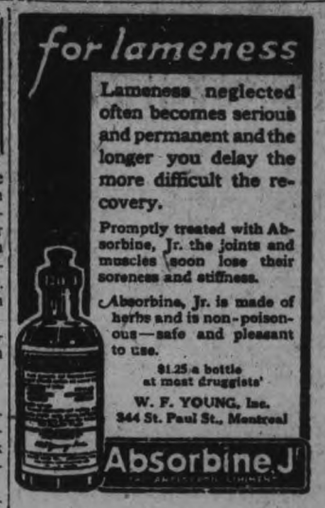
"BRAND NEW MAN," STATES CRICHTON

"TANLAC MADE ME FEEL JUST LIKE I WANTED TO," SAYS TORONTO MAN.

"Tanlac got me to feeling just like I wanted to," said John Crichton, a well-known decorator and paperhanger, living at 158 Oak street, Toronto, Ont.

"For over a year," said Mr. Crichton, "I had been looking for a medicine that would build me up and put some life and strength into me, and I certainly found it when I got Tanlac. I suffered from nervous indigestion and was in a mighty bad fix. I couldn't eat anything scarcely and when I did manage to eat a hearty meal I always paid the penalty. I had a constant hurting in the back of my head and neck, was terribly nervous and had a dull, heavy, sluggish feeling all the time. I fell off in weight and strength and frequently had to lay off from work, sometimes for as much as two weeks at a time.

"Well, if Tanlac had been made especially for me, it couldn't have fitted my case any better. I now have a fine appetite, my nervousness is all gone, I never lose a day from work on account of sickness and feel like a brand new man. Tanlac is simply O.K. It certainly does the work."



DUST NUISANCE ON NEW BRIDGE

MOTOR DRIVEN SPRINKLER SENT BACK TO FACTORY.

East City is still enduring the dust nuisance that is associated with the Hunter street bridge. Residents of the East Ward cannot understand why the Board of Works department do not chase the watering cart over the structure at least a couple of times a day and make the Council's half million dollar bridge more acceptable to those who have to pay the shot. Perhaps the city is waiting for the return of the new motor driven sprinkler, which was sent back to Hamitlon for repairs and alterations.

The piping of a fife terrifies lions and tigers.

FARM CROPS LOOKING FINE IN THE COUNTY

PETERBORO COUNTY FARMERS SATISFIED WITH OUTLOOK.

Farmers in different parts of the county state that 70 or 75 per cent. of the spring wheat is in the ground and the seeding of the other crops is advancing rapidly, although the farmers were held up by the rains of last week. The ground is drying out nicely, however, and a few more days of warm weather will finish the process in the low lands. Principally all the spring wheat is in in North Monaghan, farmers declare, and those who got theirs in two or three weeks ago are now having the satisfaction of inspecting the tiny blades. They say that the wheat has sprouted well, no doubt the abundant moisture helping it along even if it retarded getting in more of the crop. Another farmer stated that his peas were up and looking very well. "Summing up everything it has been a very good spring and the growth is splendid now," said Harold Baptie of Springville.

Low Lands.

Of course the farmers with low land are more backward with their work than farmers more fortunately situated, but most of them have their ploughing started and if allowed a week of uninterrupted dry weather will get away with a good start.

The fall wheat is described by farmers as "patchy." There are some good fields and some poor ones. Many of the poor ones are being ploughed in, the Examiner has been informed and replanted. The good fields are showing rapid growth and the majority of farmers are philosophically regarding the good growth of what there is, as some compensation for the extensive winter killing. The clover is about the same as the fall wheat and according to Bruce Johnston of Nort Monaghan, the strawberries were hit the same way. "Those that were protected are all right," he said, "but the exposed plants, just like the wheat and clover, were killed out." As this condition seems to be fairly general it is not anticipated that there will be a large crop of strawberries. On the other hand the berry bushes survived the winter better than in years, said Mr. Johnston and there was every indication of a fruitful raspberry year.

Cherry Trees.

The plum and cherry trees will be in bloom in a few days, in fact it is said that some of the wild plums are already in bloom. The poet's and song bird's paradise is at hand. The bloom is unstinted it is stated, and old-timers claim that a plenteous blossom assures a fruitful year. It is too early to judge the apple crop, but the chances are all in favour of a plentitude of plums and cherries.

Not a great deal of work has been done by the market gardeners yet and few of the farmers have any of their gardens in. Most of the gardens have been busy preparing the soil and this week should find many of them starting seeding. This year for the first time in five, there seems no great reason why everyone should busy themselves producing potatoes. Potatoes have gone down in price and prestige and the days when city folk cultivated immense tracts of arable lots in the south part of the city, propogating the humble potato family, will henceforth be a paris green memory. "I cultivated sixty bags last year, but I'm only going to grow enough for our own use this year," said one well known business man to the Examiner, and hundreds of other men in the city have spoken similarly.

Garden Lots.

It does not seem as if garden lots will be at a premium as in other years. Householders, except in a few instances, will not enter into competition with the farmers, and while some argue that this concerted retirement from potato growing will force up the prices again, farmers are confident that the price of potatoes will never again soar to the war and post bellum level.

THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Happily Stopped When He Began To Take "Fruit-a-tives"

3 OTTAWA ST., HULL, P. Q.

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again.

One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-tives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

HEARTBURN LIVER TROUBLE

When the liver becomes torpid and inflamed, it cannot furnish sufficient bile to the bowels, thus causing them to become constipated.

The stomach is also affected. In the case of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach, attended by disturbed appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment, and become extremely sour, vomiting often occurs; and what is thrown up, is sour and sometimes bitter.

Other liver troubles symptoms are pain under the right shoulder, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, foul breath, water brash, jaundice, constipation, etc.

Keep your liver active by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles. Being purely vegetable they do not gripe, weaken or sicken like the old-fashioned purgatives generally do.

Mrs. Mary Strome, Glasnevin, Sask., writes: —"I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of heartburn and liver trouble. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine and I can highly recommend them."

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CONVENTION MEETINGS ARE WELL ATTENDED

PRESIDENTIAL REPORT PRESENTED AT THE EVENING SESSION.

The meeting yesterday afternoon opened with the Old Hundred sung in unison, an invocation of blessing on the meeting and the workers by Rev. Robert Pogue, a Scripture selection by Miss Craw, of Peterboro, a prayer to the Holy Spirit by Mrs. W. Roger, also of Peterboro; and a beautiful vocal solo, "Peace, Perfect Peace," by Mrs. F. E. Ellis, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Logan. A prayer for all who lead in the councils of the Empire was offered by Miss E. Garland, of Ottawa, and a very inspiring address was then given by Mrs. John MacGillivray, of Toronto, who is the president of the Generals Council's Executive Board, dealing in a splendid manner with the problems of the Women's Missionary Society, and the influence to be exerted by women the world over in every branch of the work. As woman has blessed the race with the mother touch in the past, so in the Women's Missionary Society, she can transfer the loving motherkindness to the whole human race, in the school and the home, in hospital units, on the prairies, to the nurse, to the newcomers to our country. To the women who are not in the service, she can show forth the possibilities of the work to be done and especially to the young women. With regard to the financial problems which confront the society at this time, the speaker quoted Lloyd George, when he said "Give me a cause, and I can always get the money" and ended her very fine address with "God is calling us to a better and larger fulfilment of our task."

Address of Welcome.

The minutes of the previous annual meeting, held in Stratford in March of last year, were then read by Mrs. Charles Begg of Toronto, followed by a very warm speech of welcome from Mrs. R. Pogue eulogizing the Women's Missionary Society, and expressing the hearty good wishes and desires for co-operation in the work of the women of Peterboro with their visitors.

The appointment of a resolution and nominating committee then took place, with the provincial reports from the recording secretary, Mrs. Charles Begg, of Toronto; of the Literature secretary, Mrs. D. Inglis Grant, of Toronto; of the Press Secretary, Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith of Alliston; of the Strangers' Secretary, Miss E. L. Mowat, of Kingston; the Home Helpers' Secretary, Mrs. J. M. McEvoy of London; the Exchange Secretary, Miss Hopkirk, of Toronto; the Mission Band Secretary, Miss Rennie, of New Hamburg; the Library Secretary, Mrs. J. J. Bell, of Ottawa; the Young Women's Auxiliary Secretary, Miss Malcolmson, of Hamilton; the Supply Secretary, Mrs. McMillan, of Toronto, (read by Mrs. Begg, in the absence of Mrs. McMillan); the Costumes Secretary, Mrs. R. J. McLean of Toronto; the Banner Secretary, Mrs. J. Cranston, of Toronto, and the Life Membership Secretary, Miss H. Little, of Guelph, all of whom spoke to their printed reports, and answered enquiries in regard to them.

These reports were adopted unanimously, and, with a final hymn the meeting adjourned.

Ladies' Entertained.

The ladies were entertained at tea by the Ladies' Aid Societies of the three Presbyterian churches in the city, St. Andrew's, St. Paul's and Knox church, combining to furnish a very attractive tea served in the Great War Veterans' Hall, with cool looking tables charmingly decorated with roses and carnations, and the ladies in charge all in spotless white.

The evening session, which began at 7:30, was presided over by Mrs. McQueston of Hamilton, honorary president of the society, and had a very large attendance of delegates, and townspeople.

A hymn and Scripture reading by Miss M. E. Bell of Hamilton was followed by a fine paper on "Prayer," delivered by Mrs. A. W. Thompson, St. Catharines, and general prayer preceded the address of the president, Mrs. Charles Robertson, of Toronto.

This dealt principally with the reconstruction work of the year to come, especially in consideration of three important departments: The Young People, Estimates and Literature. This year has been named and made a young people's year, because all organizations of the church are making an effort to gain that which was apparently lost — the youth of all classes. The care of child life and youth has come to be considered the most important factor in the new making of things since the great World War, and the Women's Missionary Society must awaken to their responsibility with other organizations of the church. One way of doing this work is by increasing our membership by natural process, and the other way is to go out in the highways and hedges and compel them to come in, which means co-operation.

The Estimates.

With regard to the estimates, the housekeeping accounts of the Society, we are all interested in the maintenance of our household of the church. The goal, which is the Estimates, as a whole, should be carried down in the thought of the smallest auxiliary and mission band in the Presbyterial, "and we must be very direct in our givings. To pledge ourselves each year to the estimates is a serious thing, and must be so considered.

With regard to Literature, "if we are going to keep our Society up to date, we must make use of all literature. A lack of missionary knowledge hinders the matter of leadership to a great extent, and information about our Society should be always forthcoming, and from every possible source. It is not only leaders who require to keep close to the literature department, but every member, that she may be helpful to the new member coming into the Auxiliary."

Mrs. Robertson bespoke the loyalty and support of the Society for the new Captain, Mrs. John McGillivray, of Toronto, and their untiring efforts for the coming year for the success of what may be termed a Young People's year.

Membership Increase.

The corresponding secretary's report of Mrs. F. H. Ross, Toronto, was a very full and comprehensive review of the reports of the different secretaries as submitted in the printed statement, and dealt fully with the work of the Society, as gathered from these records. An increase for 1920 over 1915, five years previous, was noted in membership and givings, the first having increased 30 per cent., and the second 100 per cent., but membership to 'The Messenger' was very disappointing, the increase in this case being only 7 per cent.

Mention was made of the Dominion wide Interdenominational Prayer Meeting held in January, at which in one meeting representatives from the Roman Catholic Church, the Salvation Army, also the A.M.E. church as well as the evangelical churches, all took part, and the secretary told of a native African missionary taking part in the programme, a striking instance of the manifestation of true Christian fellowship.

Mrs. Ross' address altogether was an illuminating an concise resume of the entire work of the year as covered by the different branches and was heard with much attention by her audience.

AGREEMENT HAS BEEN REACHED

TORONTO, April 27. (Canadian Press.) — As a result of a discussion between Premier Drury and the two opposition leaders an agreement had been reached which it was confidently stated last night would enable the house to clear up the balance of the unfinished business this week and pave the way for prorogation probably on Tuesday next.

The three leaders discussed the whole remaining programme and by give and take succeeded in agreeing upon a plan of action. On the part of the opposition the agreement involves the dropping of plans to strenuously debate certain matters still before the House, including motions in connection with the timber inquiry, put forward by the Conservatives. Mr. Dewart will agree to the winding up of the debate upon the taxation of nickel companies. The most important legislation to stand over deals with the proposed changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Health

Comes to you and the children if you have Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house. For "little-ones" and "grown-ups" this old fashioned vegetable tonic and blood-maker is still used by the million bottles every year. It was first used by everybody 50 years ago and is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. It is made up of Blood root, Oregon Grape root, Queen's root, Stone root, Cherry Bark, without alcohol. Make your blood redder and your health better by going to your nearest druggist and obtaining Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form.

CENTRAL BUTTE, SASK.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for a number of years, and am pleased to recommend it as a blood purifier. I know it has no equal, as I used it for my boy. My neighbors and friends were surprised with the results: in fact, I do not think he would be alive to-day had it not been for the 'Medical Discovery.' I also keep it on hand for coughs, as it differs so from other cough medicines; instead of upsetting the stomach, as most cough syrups do, it is good for the stomach. I only wish I had known about Dr. Pierce's medicines sooner."

FOR LUMBAGO

LEAPS HEAD FIRST FROM TRAIN AND ESCAPES OFFICER

JACK VINCENT, CHARGED WITH GEM THEFT, STILL AT LARGE.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 27 (Canadian Press).—Jack Vincent, whose home is said to be in Grimsby, Ont., dived head first from car window of a Michigan Central train travelling at 25 miles an hour, while the train was running through this city last evening, and escaped from Detective James Keenan, of the Falls Police Department, who was bringing him back here to answer a charge of grand larceny, second degree, in connection with the theft of diamonds, valued at several hundred dollars, from Mrs. F. J. Besaw of this city.

Vincent lay for a minute on the track where he had landed, but jumped to his feet when the train was brought to a stop, and ran across the tracks to two men standing by an automobile. They had not seen him jump from the train. Vincent was bleeding from cuts on his head. He told the men that he had fallen from a freight train, and asked them to get him to a hospital at once.

The motor drove away as the detective arrived. The men, located later, said they drove Vincent to a doctor on Pine Avenue, where he received treatment, and was able to walk away.

Up to a late hour last night, Vincent had not been recaptured.

$500,000,000 SHACK BATTLE

FAMILY IN SHACK FIGHT FOR HOME ON ESTATE THEY CLAIMED AND LOST.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Wilfred Molenaor, ex-cow puncher, stood yesterday afternoon in front of the 15 by 20 shack east of Broadway at 104th street that he occupies with his father and sister, and looked at the cliffs of Washington Heights.

"Yes," he said, pointing at the C. K. G. Billings estate, now owned by John D. Rockfeller, Jr., and his finger swept south to the stone castle where Father Finn's Paulist choristers are trained, "yes, our property west of Broadway runs from there over to the Hudson."

Then he turned and waved his arm in the general direction from Broadway and Hillside avenue toward the scraggly heights of the end of Fort George avenue.

"And that was a part of the old Molenaor estate," he added.

Nor is this all of the property that was disposed of in the will of Martin Molenaor, who died in 1912. There was a "Z" shaped stretch of land, beginning on Morningside Heights, that takes in a bit of the campus of Columbia University and Morningside Park and zig-zags in a northeasterly direction to West 124th street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues. It would take months for appraisers to give an approximate valuation on these tracts, but a rough estimate would figure between 300,000,000 and $500,000,000. These claims have been in the courts for years and always the Molenaors have lost.

But to-day there promises to be another development in the case. Just a few feet to the north of the tar paper covered Molenaor shack is a shallow excavation, extending to 105th street, where William Norton, a contractor, proposes to erect a small building. Gradually the excavation has inched toward the shack. Norton has made the Molenaors offers if they will move, for he has title to the land. Yesterday Wilfred Molenaor said he would not move. To-day if laborers keep on digging the irresistible force meets the immovable body, and it looks as if something might happen to the shack.

A SEDUCTIVE SPRING SONG

Samson et Dalila (Delilahs Song of Spring) is very appropo of the Spring season now opening. Sung by Mme. Louise Homer as Victrola record 88627 it is on large call. It begins with an odd echo of a weird priestess's dance, a swift flexible phrase which gives way, in a moment or two, to the first measures of the Spring-song. The price is $2.00, obtainable at Heintzman & Co., Victrola Parlors, George and Hunter streets.

TO SETTLE CASES ARISING FROM SHIP COLLISIONS.

Joint Arbitration Boards to Adjudicate British-U.S. Claims.

LONDON, April 9.—(Associated Press, by Mail). — Within a few weeks the last of the cases resulting from wartime collisions between United States naval vessels and those of the Britsh Ministry of Shipping will have been definitely settled, responsibility fixed and damages awarded.

In October, 1918, the British and American governments agreed to the establishment of joint arbitration boards to adjudicate these cases, one to sit in Washington, the other in London. Cases relating to collisions occurring west of the 33rd meridian were to be heard in Washington; those east of this boundary, in London. From their decisions there was no appeal.

The object of their establishment was the speedy, equitable settlement of disputes without resort to the usual time-consuming and expensive legal battles before Admiralty courts.

So satisfactory to both governments have been the decisions of the London board that the Washington tribunal has been disbanded and the cases awaiting its attention transferred to the London board for disposition. This was due partly to the belief that the London board possessed better facilities for the handling of such problems.

The President of the London board, Butler Aspinall, a distinguished British authority on admiralty matters, was chosen by the American government and approved by the British authorities. W. Norman Raeburn, a barrister, and Captain Francis C. L. Andrews, of the British navy, and two Americans, Commander Harry L. Fence, acting Naval Attache of the American Embassy, and Commander Robert K. Wright, a member of the New York and Pennsylvania bars, are the other members of the Board.

Mrs. Williams Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health

Overpeck, O. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me both before and after my baby was born. I suffered with backache, headache, was generally run down and weak. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and decided to try it. Now I feel fine, take care of my two boys and do my own work. I recommend your medicine to anyone who is ailing. You may publish my testimonial if you think it will help others."—Mrs. CARRIE WILLIAMS, Overpeck, Ohio.

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring women to health who suffered from irregularities, displacements, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or "the blues." Today there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been made well by it. That is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for such ailments.

WAR GAVE TO SCIENCE TRUTH ABOUT SHOCK.

Work in France Cleared Away Long-Standing Doubts.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 27.—Discoveries made by Dr. Walter B. Cannon of the Harvard Medical School and other American, British and French medical officers toward the close of the World War have brought forth new evidence regarding the cause and nature of the strange condition known as "shock," a condition that led to innumerable deaths in war time and frequently has a similar result after accidents in time of peace.

"Shock, or wound shock, as it is often called, has long baffled the medical profession," Dr. Cannon said to The Associated Press on being asked to describe the results of his important work in France.

"This condition, which, by the way, should not be confused with shell shock, an entirely different phenomenon, usually develops some hours after a serious wound or accident. It frequently followed grave shell wounds in the war, and often comes on after a person has been seriously hurt in an accident in times of peace after, for example, he has had a limb crushed in a railroad accident.

"A man in a state of shock usually lies perfectly quiet, his skin cold and moist with sweat, his pulse is rapid and thready, his arterial pressure is much reduced, he breathes rapidly and superficially, and, although not paralyzed, he has little energy and his mind is dulled. He often complains of being cold and thirsty. This condition may be followed by death or by gradual recovery.

"There have been numerous theories of the nature of shock. Some doctors held that shock resulted from a nervous collapse, others that it came from a ulogging of blood vessels by fat from wounds, some that it was due to paralysis of the nerves controlling the arteries, others that the adrenal gland was somehow affected so as to do the mischief, and so on.

"Our work in France gave us opportunities to study shock in the utmost detail. One by one we threw out the theories advanced in former years.

"We finally tested and established the fact that the condition results from the tearing or crushing of muscles or other tissues by missiles moving with terrific velocity. The damaged or dead tissues soon becomes toxic, or in other words acts like a sort of poison. This toxin causes an increased permeability of the smallest blood vessels, the capillaries, and thus there is lost through their wall quantities of the fluid portion of the blood which should be in circulation. The result is somewhat similar to that of great loss of blood from the body."

American, British and French medical and surgical officers co-operated in the investigations, some of which were made at Bethune in 1917, some in London and others at Dijon in 1918 in a laboratory of the American Expeditionary Force under Dr. Cannon's direction.

"Toward the end of the war we had learned much about methods of treating such cases, finding that it was helpful to keep the patient amply warm, to give him quantities of water, and, if necessary, to transfuse blood into his system from somebody else's," he said.

"The mass of information about shock which was collected during the war and will ultimately be published is going to prove useful in times of peace, for the condition often develops after accidents of various kinds in which there is extensive tearing or crushing of tissues and physicians will now be able handle such cases more effectively than ever before."

$3,000 DEFICIT; REFERENDUM COM. OF HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, April 27.—The finance Committee of the Referendum Committee met in the "Y" to discuss plans for raising money to meet the $3,000 defict in cannection with the recent fight. It was decided to send out letters of appeal to many who subscribed largely in past temperance fights, but who did not help out finicially in the battle with John Barleycorn this time. A sub-committeee was appointd to make personal appeals in special cases.

The invalid realises that he is on the high road to recovery when he sees the doctor's bill.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

All conferences will be held in Murray street Baptist Church.

The very efficient Press Secretary, Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith, of Alliston, has already received much commendation in several of the reports for her very good press work.

Some of the maxims of the W.M.S.:—

"The world for Christ."

"The higher we lift others the nearer we get to God."

"If you were one of the women of the heathen world: unwanted at birth, untaught in childhood, unloved in wifehood uncherished in widowhood unmourned when dead what would you ask of the Christian women of Canada?"

The editor of the Presbyterian Witness, who neglects the contributions of the W. M. S. to his paper would not be a popular visitor at this convention, for women, as one lady remarked, "are doing by far the greater part of the church work."

A very interested spectator of the Convention yesterday was a small boy with a large white collar.

That Ukrainian lad who spent his first Christmas in Canada companioned by a dictionary and Chase's almanac mightn't feel very cheerful but still he could go ahead and improve his vocabulary and grasp a little general knowledge from the latter volume.

The lady who wasn't "as tall north or south as I am east or west" made a nice little speech.

The G.W.V.A. in a small town recently presented a soldier's bereft mother with a life membership in th W.M.S.

"We cannot be interested in something we know nothing about" might be said of many things besides the W.M.S.

The course for Canadian Girls in Training "which has come to stay" has received much mention already from different speakers.

"Dusty" stuff in bales is one of the hazards of life of a Toronto unpacker.

In their enthusiasm to obtain the coveted banner, and with a record of 100 per cent attendance behind them, the members of Unionville society recently carried one of their reluctant members into a meeting.

The literature tables contain some very interesting reading for grown-ups and juniors. The latter may have attractive little stories of the strange little dwellers in lands beyond the sea, kinky-haired little nigger boys and the smiling Chinese with illustrated travelogues.

The adults' section contains many attractive books and pamphlets.

'Chinese Diamonds for the King"; "The story of Our Missions"; "Canada's share in World Tasks"; "The Life of a Mormon Girl"; and a dainty little purple-backed volume, "Marion Oliver, M.D. A Memoir," giving an account of an heroic soul who labored for 25 years in the mission fileds of India. Dr. Oliver's sister, Mrs. Hamilton of Goderich, is one of the most enthusiastic workers in the Convention.

Then there is a table of free literature, with numbers of concise little leaflets on all departments of missionary work.

The lost ring belonging to one of the delegates was quickly recovered but a misplaced grip still waits for its rightful owner.

Contending that business education ought to be conducted on a business basis, the Harvard Graduate School of Business has announced that the annual tuition of the school is to be raised next year from $250.00 to $400.00.

THE CHEAPEST IS THE DEAREST A MOTTO FOR THE ROSE GROWER

Rose bushes bundled under the arms of home-bound citizens, with visions of improving their flower plots this year recently, recalled an experience that began in the same way. And if any of those potential rosarians expect that they are going to have vases full of lovely bloom from those bushes they have let themselves in for disapointment. The axiom that it pays to buy the best applies to rose bushes as appositely as to any other article. Cheap fifteen cent bushes take up just as much room in the garden and require as much attention if not as much care as the bushes that sell at seventy-five cents or that cost "ten and six" when imported from the old country. But the beginner holds the delusion that a rose bush is a rose bush, that one is as good as another, and when disappointment inevitably comes, his opinion may have swung round to the opposite view that one is as worthless as the other. He will be doubly mistaken. If those who have bought fifteen cent bushes will understand that they have bought a cheap variety they will not be entertaining hopes of heavy and glorious bloom when the rest of their garden is flowering. A little wisdom accounts for many a bush being solicitiously watched and tended year after year with never a rewarding bud, and yet the prolific strains, to use a dairy term, respond so generously to the gardener's attentions that it is folly to waste effort on those varieties that run to foliage with but occasional blooms.

The enlightening experience referred to was the purchase of six bushes at the total cost of ninety cents. They weren't all "duds." Two of them were Ulrich Brunners that grew with the vigour of Manitoba maples and that have come through six winters without loss of stock. The first year they failed to bloom, but in the following June they were heavy with blooms; a handsome cherry red with lovely fragrance. Resort to a catalogue found them listed as perpetuals, an ascription that encouraged the hope that they would bud and flower the whole summer long. The perpetual quality applies rather to their life and ability to stand up under the severest weather. One of the six bushes was tagged "La France," which should have placed it in the hybrid tea class. Under special nurturing treatment it flourished like a bay tree but not one silvery pink rose did it bear. After four patient years of watchful waiting it was summarily dragged up by the roots and "cast into the fire." There must have been an abundance of "La France" tags in the shipping house from which that bush came, and they were probably tied on indiscriminately. The "Ulrich Brunners" were retained and usually they have had both autumn and spring bearing, with an occasional bloom in between to fill up the steady cropping of the teas and hybrid teas.

So to those citizens who have already planted their fifteen cent bushes the advice is gratuitiously given that if they expect a profusion of bloom they might as well prepare themselves for disillusionment. They will expend the trouble and care that would develop a free blooming bush, and they will receive just about fifteen cents worth of flowers. Perhaps the "Crimson Ramblers" will yield their little clusters of pink and white medallions, but they, too, have only a brief season of production. Why not buy rose bushes that will flower continuously from the middle of June until the frost comes. Without extra effort you can have blooms as bright and fragrant and well formed as greenhouse stock which sells as high as one dollar a bud. If the people of Peterborough, those particularly who go in for flowers, would investigate the merits of the best pedigreed roses, there would be less sale for the doubtful, fifteen cent varieties. And once begun you will never shake off the the pleasant thrall of your rose plot.

DO WORKINGMEN NEED A PARLOR?

LONDON, April 27.—(Associated Press).—The question whether a parlor is a necessary part of a workingman's house has caused heated argument among several of the local councils organized to promote building of such homes in the industrial centres of England.

Many women members of these councils argue that the workingman's daughters need parlors to receive their callers during the courting period.

Those opposed declare that the workingman's "best room" is little more than a "cemetery for waxed flowers."

"Dominion Royal Cord for me every time"

"IF it were only for the feeling of CONFIDENCE in these tires that are practically proof against blow-outs and punctures, I would still prefer 'Dominion Royal Cord.'

"But when I also get easier riding, greater speed, and a mileage that makes them the most economical tires I can buy, then I feel I am justified in saying: 'Dominion Royal Cord for me every time.'"

Put "Dominion Royal Cord" Tires on your car and you will be just as enthusiastic about them.

A May Day Proposal

To the Editor, of the Examiner.

Sir,—A citizen in his May Day proposal, says, practically speaking that he has no axe to grind. Then why confine to the building business alone. There is also about 100 per cent. of inconsistency in his proposition.

He asks Labor to directly come down in wages 25 per cent. and indirectly by increase production, perhaps another 25 per cent, yet Citizen only asks for 10 per cent. reduction from the lumber merchant, 5 per cent. from the landlord and a small discount from the merchant which might be 2 1-2 per cent. as the landlord and the merchants prices are the greatest drain on the wage earners money. Why should they not submit to a 25 per cent. reduction as well as labor.

The writer would advise Labor to do its share towards restoring conditions to normal, but why not capital. Dorse on an equal per cent. The drive is all headed toward Labor we do not hear of high salaries officials being asked to submit to a reduction but in many cases the contrary. As the ten hour day, organized labor will die a martyr, before it will submit to such.

Consistency thou are a jewel, but sadly lacking in "A May Day Proposal".

J. A. DODDS.

Before the above letter was received this morning the point it touches upon was anticipated as a probable objection from the labourers, and was referred to the writer of "The May Day Proposal". In a supplementary comment he said, "Had I gone minutely into the plan the explanation of it would have required so much space in the Examiner that it might not have been generally read. By sketching some of the features of a proposal which may have a beneficial effect the subject is opened for discussion. If other citizens will seriously consider the process of readjustment through which we are passing we may as a community work out a solution and an equitable one of the difficulties that are conironting the whole country. It was no intention of mine to suggest that the labourers or any other group should assume or should be called upon to bear a disproportionate share of the lowered prices and wages which the present period is slowly bringing about An open discussion of the situation should produce recommendations that would require a revision of "The May Day Proposal". That was really my purpose in asking the Examiner to publish it and to give it prominence. The feeling is general that we are working toward a lower level of prices. Can we not in Peterboro get together for a friendly discussion of the aspects of the movement and of some of the conditions and problems that might be ironed out smoothly and without loss of labour and time? I believe that working men, merchants and other sections of the community and even the community itself as represented by the City Council, all of whom are affected by this period of change and transition would cooperate for a considerate and peaceful readjustment providing a mutually satisfactory working basis can be evolved."

LIVE STOCK DOWN; MEAT STILL HIGH

NO BENEFIT TO CONSUMERS FROM RECENT SLUMP IN CATTLE AND HOG PRICES.

CHICAGO, April 27.—According to leaders in close touch with market conditions, there seems little prospect of consumers benefiting to any great extent from the big slump in prices of cattle and hogs to pre-war levels.

Whileprices of choice beef steers dropped to the lowest point in the last decade, there has been an advance of from 1 to 2 cents in the last two weeks for the best grade of beef.

Advance in beef quotations was explained by butchers, who said there has been a strengthening of the demand due to the scarcity.

Packers had been killing no more than necessary and had little in storage, it was learned, so that as soon as the demand was felt, it had an immediate effect on retail and wholesale prices of meat, but not on live stock.

Pre-War Levels.

Market quotations show that live stock is selling below pre-war levels, so that the responsibility for keeping up retail prices cannot be placed on the producer.

Three and a quarter pounds of pork roast was sold for $1.18 at a leading retail butcher shop. The same piece of meat could be obtained from any packer employees' organisation shop for about 65 cents. This is above the wholesale price, as the employees' shop must also pay its overhead charges from the selling price the same as other retail shops.

Butchers' Excuse.

Butchers say the reason prices remain up is because there is no demand for the "low grades" of meat and they must make enough profit on the high grades to make up for the loss in the low grades. They must buy both classes from the packer.

Inquiry at a half-dozen Chicago butcher shops for soup bones and other cuts usually regarded as "low grade," brough the response that they had nothing of the sort on hand.

Even the once lowly liver manages to retain the high caste to which it was elevated during the war. Although the price of the live animal is just the same as it was ten years ago when enough liver could be obtained for a nickel to feed a family of six, Chicago butchers were charging 15 cents a pound.

TRADE UNION PAID SLUGGERS IN STRIKE

DYNAMITERS RECEIVED $100 FOR EACH OUTRAGE IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 27.— Sluggers weer paid $10 for each victim, while dynamiters and those who did more dangerous work with weapons were paid $100 for each outrage during the Upholsterers' Union strike in 1920, according to witnesses at the trial of 15 members of the union on a charge of conspiracy. Otto Ludtke, secretary of the Chicago local, No. 24, of the Upholsterers' Union, yesterday testified that six bombs, to be paid for at $100 each, had been arranged for by officers of the union, Ludtke, one of the defendants, turned state witness.

DEAD AND CREMATED BUT VERY MUCH ALIVE

OBJECTS PAYING FOR FUNERAL OF IMPERSONATOR.

HOBOKEN, N. J., April 27. — Anton Henry Madler declined to make his funeral official.

Not even a view of his ashes in a neat metal urn convinced him that he had passed away.

"It's none of my funeral," he said stoutly.

Likewise, he waved away other proofs, including the statement of friends who had carried flowers to decorate his casket, and newspaper clippings which described the funeral and told what a fine man he had been.

Madler admitted the praise might be justified, but the alleged death—never.

To make it worse, Madler's modest savings were wiped out by the funeral. On entering an alms-house here he left his wallet with an undertaker to ensure a proper funeral service and cremation.

The undertaker said he was called to the alms-house to get Madler's body. He got the body and cremated it. Likewise, he used Madler's funds to do it.

Then Madler broke up a pinochle game at Henry Ritter's saloon by walking in on a crowd of his old cronies.

The corpse visited the undertaker to tell him he will not pay for a funeral at which he was not the principal character, or which he had not even had the pleasure of being a witness.

Hoboken authorities are trying to learn who impersonated Madler at such a critical moment in his career.

WILL MARRY A BUFFALO GIRL.

BUFFALO, N.Y., April 27.—Roy Traviss, of Gooderham, Ontario, and Norma Shepard, of 235 Schuele Street, Buffalo, secured a marriage license late on Tuesday here in the City Clerk's office.

BWEARE OF BRONCHITIS

Bronchitis is generally caused by neglecting a cold, or exposure to wet and inclement weather. It begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty in breathing, and a wheezing sound comes from the lungs. There is a raising of phlegm especially the first thing in the morning. This is at first white, but later becomes of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup thereby prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps developing into some more serious lung trouble.

Mrs. Brice Culham, Sheffield, Ont., writes:—"In December, 1919, I was very sick with bronchitis, and had to stay in the house all winter. One day I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so I got a small bottle which helped me very much; I then got a 60c. size, and it completely relieved me. I cannot praise "Dr. Wood's" enough for what it did. Two of my neighbours are now using it for colds."

Don't accept a substitute for Dr Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and 60c., manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache, no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air pasage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

SPORT COMMENT

When the late Jack Caffery competed at Boston for the first time in 1900, he startled the bean-eaters by chopping fifteen minutes off the record. It was thought at the time that he had set a mark which would stand for all time, but the next year he lowered his own mark by ten minutes. His mark of 1901 stood until Tom Longboat got on the job in 1907 and since that time the record has been gradually lowered until now it is down to 2.18.57. It will take a marvel to cut it any lower.

This is merely a brief treatise on the value of underpinning as applied to sport.

For the entry with weak, unstable or brittle legs is up against it in football, baseball, track and field, tennis, boxing and nearly every other form of competitive sport.

Last season Ty Cobb dropped from a normal batting average around .385 to well below .350.

Why? Not so much advancing age. Rather because Cobb wrenched a knee cap and thereby lost a big part of his old speed.

It would be hard to say who has or who had the greatest pair of legs ever known to sport.

Joe Stecher undoubtedly would be a leading candidate. The power and leverage of his mighty underpinning made him the world's wrestling champion.

The test of Jim Thorpe's legs is that at the age of thirty-five he is still able to play professional football and stand the wear and tear of this industry, where any leg weakness would have stopped his career many years ago.

Thorpe, in spite of all his offensive and defensive activities, was never called upon to take out a second's time in his entire Carlisle span, where he was always the main target.

Rickety or brittle underpinning has driven more than a few stars out of baseball before their time was due.

Two pairs of legs worth remembering belonged to Hans Wagner and Nap Lajoie. These two were around 200 pounds in displacement, heavy loads for any legs to carry, yet both lasted over twenty years in big league play.

Wagner at forty-three was still able to cavort briskly around on his two supports and Wagner has made extensive use of his legs for over two decades.

Bob Fitzsimmons is the only heavyweight champion on record with slender pro supports. Fitz had the body of a heavyweight planted on the legs of a lightweight. Strong and enduring legs have been big aids to Benny Leonard and Jack Dempsey, who are blessed in this respect.

The power and stamina in Bernie Wefers' legs have not descended to his son, who gives promise of being a champion Young Wefers has as fine a pair of legs as any one would wish to see and all he requires is the benefit of more campaigning. Wefers' record of 21 1-5 seconds for the 220-yard dash, made twenty-fiv years ago, has never been beaten. England has developed the leg power of her long-distance men through cross-country running over ploughed fields, a plan now advocated by Jack Moakley, a Cornell University coach.

Proper development, treatment and general care of the leg is an important part of sport's competive circle, for if the old prop weakens the rest of it might as well be junk.

New York looks to be out to corner the home-run market of the major leagues.

With Babe Ruth, Bob Meusel, Frank Baker and George Kelly in Manhattan clothing, the big town has the heaviest artillery of the big show.

Elmer Smith of the champion Indians, Walker of the Athletics and the great Sisler are the only ones who seem to have a chance to get the spotlight off Gotham's prides.

Babe Ruth, of course, is the game's "greatest of all times." He has five already to his credit and is running several weeks ahead of his 1920 record. He may pass the high mark of 54.

In Bobby Meusel, long California boy, the Yankees have the next "Babe Ruth," Manager Huggins believes.

Meusel hits harder and drives farther than Ruth. His two homers this season have been terrific clouts over the fence. Last season he made eleven four-base clouts and he played irregularly. Eleven isn't an impressive number up against 54, but in any day other than Ruth's it would have made him famous.

It would be interesting to see Meusel and Ruth fight it out for a record.

Frank Baker used to be the home-run king of the majors. He's back in the game now, but it is doubtful if he will be able to keep up his old clip as a pinch hitter since he laid off a season.

George Kelly, the skyscraper first baseman of the Giants, is another established clouter. He has a terrific drive, meets the ball square, and is about the most dangerous batter in the National League. He stands very awkwardly at the bat, but he gets everything into his swing.

Wally Pipp, first baseman of the Yanks, is also a home runner of ability. He got eleven last year, and looks to be in for a much better season this year.

George Sisler, in winning the American League batting championship last season, drew attention to his consistency, most of the fans losing sight of the fact that he drove out 19 homers.

THIN WATER WINE WILL DO, BUT WINE

For French Runners When in Training.

The jazzy inspiration, says The New York Morning Telegraph, that comes of intimacy with good, red wine has worn off since the French track team, representing France in the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival on April 29th and 30th, arrived Saturday.

Unless the French runners can obtain wine with their meals in training they stand an excellent chance of running the wrong way or sobbing up to the finish lines, winded and weary and in the rear of their American competitors, according to Rene de Leliva, manager of the team.

Therefore, Leliva is going to Washington to see if Ambassador Jusserand can't obtain permission for the runners to buy just enough of the grape to top off their training.

"This water!" he exclaimed, with disgust. "My men do not drink water with their meals. They drink wine—it is milk to them. We do not want spirits or even strong wine. Thin water wine will do, but wine."

BRITISH LAWN TENNIS IS RUN CLIQUEISM MAD.

Young Players Must Be Recognized on Their Merit

LONDON, April 4.—(Associated Press, by Mail).—F. M. B. Fisher, a well-known English tennis player, has refused nomination for the British Isles Davis Cup team on the ground that the whole management of lawn tennis in Great Britain is "Cliquexism run man," and that there could be no real recovery in the International position of Great Britain until young players are recognized and selection goes by merit.

This staement has called forth a retort from a lawn tennis expert who, writing in the Evening Standard, says that no one could fail to realize that where choice had to be made from players who were amateurs and not professionals, ability or inability to represent their country may be controlled by other circumstances than standard of excellence in exposition of the game. Business calls prevented at least one fine player of the younger school from figuring last year in international engagements.

GEORGE DUNCAN COMING TO THE U.S.

British Golf Champion Will Sail July 2.

LONDON, April 27. — (By Mail.) George Duncan, the British open golf champion, and Abe Mitchell, also a leading professional in England, will sail on July 2 for an extended tour in the United States. It is said that their itinerary is being arranged in New York and includes play in the United States open championship at the Chevy Chase course, Maryland, on July 18.

Besides winning the open championship last year with a score of 303, Duncan won the Daily Mail £580 tournament at 291. Mitchell took second in the latter competition with 298 and was runner up in the open championship. Both competed in the 1920 French Open Championship, which was won by Walter Hagen, the United States champion.

GORDON CUP TIE THURSDAY EVENING AT 5.45

CANADIAN WOOLLENS VS. CANADIAN GENERAL IN FIRST ROUND AT NICHOLLS OVAL.

Under the auspices of the Local Football Association the First Round of the Gordon Challenge Cup will be played to-morrow (Thursday) evening at Nicholls Ovan between the Canadian Woollens and Canadian General, kick-off at 5.45 p.m. prompt.

The official referee for the game is Mr. Alex. McKinley who has a very creditable record in the previous encounters of last season. To obviate the difficulty of team linesmen, the Executive appointed Jack Clark and J. L. Howarth as official neutral linesmen.

A large crowd of enthusiasts will turn out for this Cup Tie Game which is emblematical of the football Peterborough Championship when the final game is played on May 24th between two teams that go through the series. The winner will be declared Peterborough's representatives for the Ontario Cup Finals.

In the first League Game of the present Football season the fast-going C.G.E. team received a great surprise when the Canadian Woollens whacked them four goals to nothing. But Captain Henry Turner has great confidence in his rearranged C.G.E. team and expects to give a good account of themselves with Maunder at outside right and the young player Parkins in the critical position as centre-forward, also may have the services of their reliable full-backs Mason and McDonald. On the other team the players have been practising faithfully with their regular line-up and may include a new outside-left. J. W. Worth anticipates a clean, fast-going and sportsmanlike game.

After the practice game last evening at the Exhibition Grounds, the C.G.E. executive selected the following players for the Cup Tie:

C. Griffine, goal; J. McDonald and B. Mason, full backs; J. Williams, H. Turner, and J. Mann, half-backs; A. Maunders, "Wag" Hotston, Alf. Parkins, Joe Williamson, and Ted Bartley, forwards. All other players are requested to put in an appearance.

The Canadian Woollens Executive have changed their extreme wing men by placing Charlie Thorpe on the right and F. Rappee on the left in place of Swan and Monkman, but have placed the strongest team available for to-morrow evening. The team: C. Feuner, goal; J. Cridland and J. Chambers, backs; H. Frost, S. McMillan and A. Roberts, half-backs; C. Thorpe, H. Jones, James Shaw, M. Shaw (capt.), and F. Rappee. Reserves, J. Swan and G. Monkman.

BASEBALL

Carl Mays probably would not dare to try to pitch against Cleveland on the Indians' home lot. Mays refused to make a trip to Cleveland when the Yankees played a series there last summer after the death of Ray Chapman. But if Mays does go to the mound in Cleveland this summer the Cleveland team will refuse to bat against him. Cleveland would rather forfeit the game than face Mays.

Pitchers with control are the pitchers that will win games in these early spring days or the early days of the season, rather. At this time the batter's eyes are not quite trained to the pitched ball and the batting is not up to form. Also, the heavy atmosphere interferes with hitting as the progress of the ball is retarded. The pitcher who can get them over in these days is the boy who will finish on the long end of the score. You have here the reasons why so many pitchers that win games early in the season fade later on. Control gets them before the batter "gets his eye," but after the season is under way for a while it takes more than control to win and some of these recruits have little more than control.

There will not be as much batting in the American League as there was last season.

There will not be as many .300 hitters in 1921 as in 1920.

This will be caused by the change in attitude toward the condition of the ball in play.

Last season a new ball was tossed in on the least provocation. As soon as a ball was the least soiled a new one went into play. This year less new balls will be used.

The new ball rule last year was a godsend for the batters that are fast ball hitters and that are not so good on curve balls. It is almost impossible to curve a new ball because the surface is oily and prevents the pitcher from getting a firm grip. By the time the cover was worn enough to enable the pitcher to grip it, the ball was discarded under the system in vogue in 1920. The result was that the American League saw comparatively little curve ball pitching.

The quality of the baseballs this year seems to be a little better than last year, but the balls could be a great deal better still.

Why would it not be a good idea for the major leagues to manufacture their own baseballs. The cost of balls at present is enormous, especially on major league clubs. Thousands of them are used.

There must be considerable profit in baseballs. It is a thing not difficult to manufacture and the cost of securing the necessary machinery would not be great. The majors could manufacture enough baseballs for their use and sell whatever they put out over the needed number to minor league clubs or to the amateurs.

Major league club owners might secure some valuable information from John Kelsey, one of the country's most successful manufacturers and now also a magnate.

WILL HIS REVERENCE PLEASE JAKE SOLOMON?

Port Hope Guide: Belleville has nominated Rev. D. C. Ramsay of that city as one of the umpires for the Central League. Wonder if his reverence could please Jake Solomon? The chances are the parson will find conditions on the ball field different to a Sunday School meeting.

GANANOQUE MAN DIES IN CHURCH.

Passes Away in Pew Before Service.

GANANOQUE, April 27.—Seated in the family pew in St. Andrew's Church, Sunday morning, John R. Thomson, an esteemed resident of this town, suddenly passed away just before service began.

He was noticed to throw his head back and act as if gasping for breath. Assistance was promptly at hand, and Dr. J. P. Sinclair was quickly in attendance, but to no avail. Deceased was a native of the Orkney Island and came to this country early in life and lived in this section for many years.

WOMAN GOLF CHAMPION SAYS SHE IS BRITISH.

LIVERPOOL, April 27.—Miss Alexia Sterling, the woman golf champion of America, who has won the championship of the United States three times and is now on a visit here, declared that although she comes from Atlanta, Georgia, she is British.

Miss Sterling was born in America, but she says that her father came from within a few miles of St. Andrews, the golfers' holy city in the "kingdom" of Fife, and her mother was a Yorkshire woman. On these grounds, then, Miss Sterling claims to be as British as anybody.

The passengers in the Carmania on which she arrived here, gave a dinner in her honor on board, the table being camouflaged as a golf course.

Miss Sterling is said to owe her golf success to her good judgment, her absolute coolness in time of trial, and her will to win. In 1914 she won her first game in a tournament. Two years later she won the national championship for women, and, when this was resumed after the war, carried off the prize twice again.

She intends competing for the British golf championship for women, which will begin at Turnberry, Ayrshire, at the end of May.

Several other women golfers are likely to come over from America and play for the championship.

YOUNG PETERBORO WILL OPEN BALL SEASON NEXT SATURDAY

TWO GAMES IN JUVENILE SERIES WILL BE PLAYED AT RIVERSIDE PARK.

The baseball season will be opened at Riverside Park next Saturday afternoon with two games in a juvenile series. This series is being developed and encouraged by the City Baseball League.

Four teams, Lakeviews, Bankers, St. Peter's school and Generals, will be seen in action on Saturday. The schedule of games will be announced to-morrow.

The winner of this division will play with the winner of another division, now in process of formation, for local honors in the Juvenile series of the O.B.A.A. The successful team will then be ready for further games as directed by the Ontario Association.

President Convery and his City League executive deserve a lot of credit for their efforts to give the youngsetrs an opportunity to play the game, under the best possible conditions.

On the following Saturday, Hillcrests of Toronto, will play here with Manager Solomon's Central Leaguers, and one week later the City Baseball League and the Mercantile Baseball League will open thir schedule at Riverside Park, each League providing a game.

THREE OUT OF FOUR FROM READING ACES

WINTERS HURLS LEAFS TO VICTORY IN FIRST HALF DOUBLE BILL.

READING, Pa., April 27. — After dropping three straight games to Toronto ,the Reading Aces came through with a ten-inning victory for the Leafs in the second contest of a double-header here yesterday, by a score of 6 to 5, the visitors taking the first engagement by 4 to 1. Southpaw Joe Boehling of Washington formerly, forced the winning run across the plate for Reading in the tenth innings of the second contest, by hitting Flinn who batted for ackerman, with a pitched ball. Goebel, the first man to oppose Boehling in this round, smashed out a two bagger, his fourth hit of the game. The southpaw then hit Obero with a pitched ball and the Toronto club put up a vigorous argument claiming that the batt did not touch the latter. Manager Larry Doyle made such vehement protestations that Umpire Kelly ordered him out of the grounds, and he was finally escorted outside by the police. Thomas then bunted, and Goebel beat Boehling's throw to third, filling the bases. Flynn was struck by the first ball pitched and Goebel ambled home.

Boehling Pitched well.

Reading overcame a three-run lead in snatching this victory from the Canadians. The visitors batted Dean Barnhardt off the hill in the fourth innings, after negotiating three runs. Brown, who relieved him, showed great form and held Doyle's outfit to one run in the fifth and another in the eighth. Boehling blanked the Aces in the first three innings but a single and a triple gave the locals a pair of tallies in the fourth. They bumped him for five safeties and three runs in the fifth, taking the lead by 5 to 4. Boehling was exceptionally effective in all but these two innings and in the tenth, having retired eight Reading batsmen by the strike out route.

Winters in Form.

Jess Winters hurled his second victory of the season for Toronto, in the first tilt of the afternoon, and gave a wonderful exhibition, allowing the locals but two scattered hits. Both these were made by Goebel, one of which scored Reading's only counter in the fourth innings. The other hit of his delivery was rapped out in the ninth inning. Both singles went through the infield. Winters was given loose support but maintained complete mastery over his opponents at all times. Francis Karpp held Toronto to a tie until the sixth inning when sacrifice flies by Gonzales gave the Leafs their first run in the second inning. Matthews stole the last run, going from second base to the plate on an infield out in the ninth roun.

THE COMRADES FOOTBALL TEAM FOR SATURDAY.

The Comrades Executive has selected the following players for Saturday's game against the Canadian Woollens: G. F. Poste, goal; H. Cowie and F. Mallison, full backs; A. Jackson, R. Jolliffe and J. Mulvihill, half backs; C. Hopkins, M. Dunkley, E. G. Hardie, Wm. McDougall and E. Lee, forwards. Reserves: W. Warman, T. Bolam and J. P. Roberts.

SOLDIERS' FOOTBALL TEAM IN LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, April 27. — Officials and a sports committee of B Company, Victoria and Haliburton Regiment, have decided to organize a football team, in which all members must be members of the company. Prospects for a good football lineup are encouraging.

AMATEUR UNION SUSPENDS CARROLL

TORONO, April 27. — The status of several boxer, baseball players and athletes was dealt with at a meetin gof the executive of the Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of C. held last night.

T. H. Henning, of the Broadway A. C., was exonerated, and his explanation regarding his defaulting a match in the 158 class of the Ontario boxing championships held recently accepted.

The suspension of P. G. Murray of the Riverside A. C., was confirmed. Murray refused to enter the ring to meet Segilman of New York in the final of the 158 class at the Canadian championships. It was the second time Murray was reported for running out of a bout.

Ont the recommendation of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association Hunter Finlayson of Hamilton, a ball player, has had his amateur card revoked.

Austin Carroll of Guelph and the McGill football star, was suspended indefinitely on the recommendation of the O.B.A.A. Carroll was mixed up in the North Wellington League, a semi-pro. organization.

John J. Rowe, Oscar Tree, W. R. Davis and Amby Small, of Woo stock ,on the recommendation ofthe O. B. A. A., were placed in good standing. Their offence for which they were suspended, was the playing against semi-pro. ball players in 1918.

John R. Bilingsly of Hamilton was also apporved. He also played against semi-pros.

The application of Ernie Tuckwood of Owen Sound, for reinstatement, was left in abeyance. He boxed against Farmer Platt.

WORK-OUTS FOR RACE AT AUTEUIL.

Eighteen - Year - Old Nag Beat Young Horse.

PARIS, April 2. — (Associated Press—By Mail).—There was the usual morning crowd around the Enghien Race Track, a few mornings ago, watching the early workouts, when M. J. Hennessy's trainer, Batchelor, drove up to see some of his charges over the sticks. It had been raining steadily for two days and the track was soft and sloppy.

One of the best performers of the Batchelor string was being pointed for a race at Auteuil the next Sunday, and Batchelor was little impressed by his work-out, and so informed Jockey Mitchell when he returned after sending the star two kilometers in the sloppy going.

"Why, I've got an 18-year-old nag here in these shafts, that can trim yours," he told Mitchell. The jockey thought the boss was joking and said so.

"I'll bet you a good luncheon at Larue's that this old horse comes home ahead of you in three kilometers this morning," went on Batchelor. "Easy money," replied Mitchell. "You're on."

Batchelor asked a colored apprentice to ride the hack horse, and Mitchell said to the colored boy as they were sent off, "I'll meet you coming back."

The old horse never let the saddle of the youngster get past his nose. Mitchell let out a notch or two but the old horse hung on, the youngster winning by a half a length "all out." Mitchell was puzzled when he reached the paddock and asked, "Is that the devil?" pointing to the old horse.

"No," replied Batchelor, "that's Lutteur III., you've probably heard of him, he won the Grand National ten years ago. I've had him in training lately."

OUTFIELDER MAKES AN UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 27.—George Smiley, centre fielder of the Pioneers, Knoxville's team in the Appalachian League, earned a place in baseball's hall of fame yesterday, when he made an unassisted triple pla yagainst Jellico. With a man on firs tand second, a drive that had the earmarks of a sure hit was laced over second. Smiley came in fast, caught the drive, stepped on the just-vacated second bag and touched out the runner coming from first. This is believed here to be the first unassisted triple play which an outfielder ever made.

NO MORE PASSES.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 27 (Canadian Press).—The Toledo Boxing Commission, through its secretary, has served notice on promoters that complimentaryticket evil would have to be eliminated "before another permit is issued." More than 500 free tickets were issued for the Joe Burman-Roy Moore bout, the Commission said. The Commission loses a large sum through the distribution of passes, as it receives seven per cent. of gross receipts for charity purposes.

BASEBALL.

The W.H.A.A. ball team will hold a practice at Riverside Park Thursday night, 6.00 p.m.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Apri 27.—(Canadian Press)—Interest in the Stock market at the outset of to-day's session centered in steel issues. U. S. Steel was under decided pressure as a result of the showing made in the quarterly report issued after the close of yesterday's dealings. On the initial offering this stock sold down from 84 1-2 to 84, followed by a sale at 85. In the next few transactions the price fell to 83 3-4, a maxium decline of 1 1-4 points. Beth lehem, Crucible reactions occurred in the leading oils. Harvester, Cental Leather and several of the prominent specialties. Rails were dull at nominal changes.

Leading shares, excepting United States Steel, recovered the greater part of their early losses within the first hour. The rally followed the report that the Inter-State Commerce Commission had declared the Western freight rates fair and equitable. St. Paul, Common and Preferred, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Missouri Pacific Preferred rose one to two points. Several of the popular oils and independent steels, notably Gulf States and Colorado Fuel, developed marked strength. Specialties of the types represented by Famous Players, Montgomery Ward, American Can and Associated Dry Goods, also gained 1 to 2 points. Before noon, however, the market suffered another set-back, Bethlehem and Republic Steels displaying especial heaviness with Sugars and Leathers. Call money opened at 6½ per cent.

Among the noteworthy incidents of the noon hour was the strength of Pennsylvania, whose directors are scheduled to act on dividend later in the day. High-grade Tobacco and Chemical specialties were heavy and Bethlehem and Republic Steels extended their re-actions of the morning.

The market sold off quite generally later on the announcement of a cut in the Pennsylvania dividend, that stock abruptly declining two points. The closing was heavy.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, April 27. (Canadian Press.) Cattle receipts were medium, and trade draggy. Heavy beef steers $9.50 to $10; butcher steers, choice $9 to $9.75; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $12 to $14; lambs, $13 to $14; hogs, selects, $11.75 to $12.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—Paper stocks again featured the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, their weakness resulting in the partial loss of the advances established in yesterday's afternoon rally. Outside of the active paper issues, trading was extremely dull. Abitibi dropped 1½ points to 31, Spanish River 1 3-8 to 67 7-8, and Riordon ½ to 32. A further decline was registered by Nipissing, which dropped 75 cents a share to $5.50 during the morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—Anticipations of a gradual improved demand for all grain helped to promote higher prices to-day in the wheat market. Bulls were especially hopeful of continued export demand for wheat. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 of a cent higher, was followed by a moderate set-back and then by upturns all around to well above yesterday's gnish.

Corn rose with wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8 higher, the market sagged a little but then scored material gains. Oats were firmer like other cereals, starting unchanged to 3-8 up, and later making a general advance. Scattered selling had a bearish effect on provisions.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 27. — (Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange easy, demand 3.94. Canadian dollars 10 7-8 per cent. discount.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—The local market today was uninteresting, and very few changes took place during this morning's session. Abitibi fell three-quarters of a point and closed at 32. Atlantic Sugar remained unchanged at 30. Brompton was weaker by 3-4 of a point at 32¼. National Breweries did not change, but Riordon advanced and closed at 32¼. Spanish River weakened a point, while Wayagamack remained unchanged.

WHAT DOES YOUR CAR MEAN TO YOU?

TELL THE STORY IN A LETTER AND GET PAID FOR THE TELLING.

Here is an opportunity to record your appreciation of the value of your car to you, and by so doing stand a chance of getting all the way from $25.00 to 1,000.00 for the telling. This is no catch-penny scheme for imposing on the public, but a bona-fide competition for $5,000.00 in cash prizes for the best letters on the subject, 'What My Car Means to Me," offered by Willys-Overland Limited, Toronto, Canada, with the object of gathering such data from satisfied owners of motor cars, as will fully endorse this company's contention that the future of Canada hinges on the further achievements of motor-driven vehicles. There is no doubt but that the context of the letters forwarded in response to this liberal offer will show quite indisputably that the motor car to-day is a genuine utility with the Canadian public. To "put Canada on Wheels" should be your slogan, as it is that of this competition, for it means a public Canadian movement to utilise motor power to increase man's efficiency, especially in trade and business energy. Undoubtedly the motor car is, like electricity, the telegraph, and the 'phone, one of the recognised factors in the onward march of civilisation, and the Willys-Overland people have $5,000.00 to prove that such is public opinion to-day through the responses in their letter-writing competition. This company ranks as one of Canada's leading industries, and will do their part to "put Canada on Wheels," and they invite motor car owners to co-operate by bidding for one of their cash prizes.

Open to All.

This competition is open to any Canadian owner of a passenger motor car, except dealers, auto salesmen, or other employees. You enter the competition by getting an entry blank from an Overland dealer—C. R. Banks in Peterborough—or by writing "Contest Department, Willys-Overland Limited, Toronto, Canada." (Don't forget this is a Canadian concern and a Canadian proposition.) Enter now. It does not obligate you in any way—you can send your letter when you please between now and 1st June. Remember, however, that should two letters be of equal merit, the first one received gets the preference.

Seventy-five awards are to be made as follows:

$1,000 for the best letter written by any Canadian automobile owner.

$250.00 for the best letter from a farmer.

$250.00 for the best letter from a doctor.

$250.00 for the best letter from a woman motorist.

$100.00 each to ten others.

$50.00 each to twenty others.

$25.00 each to forty others.

(Winning letters to be published throughout Canada.)

Rules to Remember.

1—Remember, the subject of your letter is to be: "Why MY Car Means to Me."

2—Your letter may be written in English or French—no preference will be shown either language.

3—It must not exceed 300 words in length.

4—Do not mention the make of your car in your letter.

5—Do not mention your name or name of your town or district in your letter.

6—Write your name and address on a separate slip of paper and enclose with your letter. Send in sealed envelope.

7—In case a farmer wins the $1,000 prize, the special award of $250.00 will go to the farmer writing the second best letter in this class; similarly with other special classes.

What to Write.

A letter on What My Car Means to Me," in which you candidly detail what benefits you derive from owning a car, and give your own ideas of the general all-round utility of an automobile. The best 75 letters will win prizes. No letter is to exceed 300 words—certainly not much effort these days of general education to win even the lowest award of $25.00.

Watch th papers for further announcements.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

Three of the most distinguished exponents of the dramatic are of this generation are Barrymores—Lionel, John, and Ethel. Each has attained an enviable position at the top of the ladder on the stage, and then each has gone to the screen and contributed tremendously towards making it the high-class, dignified medium of legitimate diversion that it is today. Lionel Barrymore's latest cinema effort is the Associated First National production, "The Master Mind," which is scheduled for presentation at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday.

AT THE EMPIRE.

Jicquel Lanoe, the eminent French comedian, who appears this week at the Empire Theatre in the Dial Film Company's latest production, "The Tiger's Coat," sometimes finds it difficult to cope with the English language.

When Director Roy S. Clements decided that Lanoe was the type he wanted for an important role in this picture he called the actor on the 'phone.

"I have a great part for you in 'The Tiger's Coat'," said Clements. "Do you want it?"

"I am not sure," replied Lanoe. "Jus' wait wan minute."

After a short delay he returned to the 'phone.

"Je suis tres fache, M'sieu Clements, but I cannot play the part."

"Why not?" asked the director.

"Eet ees impossible."

"But—why?"

"My wardrobe — she prevent," Jaquel told him regretfully. "I have the coat of bearskin, the coat of mink, the coat of beaver — but the tigair's coat, m'sieu, I have not heem!"

AT THE REGENT.

PEARL WHITE COMING IN ALASKAN PICTURE.

Pearl White, in the William Fox production "Tiger's Cub," a powerful drama of the Alaskan snows adapted from George Goodchild's great story, is announced as the feature attraction at the Regent Theatre beginning Thursday.

"Tiger's Cub" is described as the most perfect Alaskan drama ever screened. It carries a powerfully dramatic theme and contains heart appeal, thrilling moments and entertainment value far in excess of the average picture.

Briefly, the narrative untolds the attempt of two scoundrels, Bill Slark and "Tiger" Bloss, to rob Colonel Summers of his gold mine. In a dispute over a poker game in which Slark unfairly wins the mine, the "Tiger" mortally wounds the Colonel. Before he dies Summers writes an accusation of the "Tiger" and gives it to Lone Wolf, his Indian servant.

When David Summers arrives to run down the murderers of his father, he meets and falls in love with the Cub, the "Tiger's" beautiful daughter. Slark, however, who has secretly married Hilda, a dance hall girl, conceives a desire for the Cub, and offers her father a half interest in the mine he has stolen in consideration of his consent to their marriage. The Cub is forced to wed the scoundrel.

David learns of the marriage, and also that Slark is the despoiler of his father. He pursues Slark, there is a hand-to-hand fight, David is dangerously wounded, and Slark is about to finish him when Hilda, who has hidden in the cabin, kills Slark.

The picture has a happy ending. In the fine supporting cast Thomas Carrigan is leading man.

LINDSAY CAR STOLEN.

LINDSAY, April 27. — Dr. S. J. Shannon left his Chevrolet car in front of Tilcock's garage on Monday evening, and on returning for it later he found the car had vanished in his absence. There is no clue to the thief or thieves.

A QUEER BUNCH.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 27 (Canadian Press).—Chicago's fire-producing cow, and Washington's dynamite eating bovine, and the mythical moon jumper have a rival in a Pennsylvania cow that specialises in kicking out automobile lights. Fred Holman, of Ingomar, arrested on a charge of driving without rear light burning, told the Magistrate that after purchasing a cow he roped it to the back of the truck and started home. Soon afterwards the animal kicked out the lights, according to the buyer.

Ten dollars was added to the cost of the cow when the magistrate imposed a fine.

BIRDS START FIRE.

HAMILTON, Ont., April 27. — Careless birds in building a nest at 61 Balmoral avenue, this city, built it in a chimney connecting with a gas grate and used a match as part of the material for the next . The result was a fire that did considerable damage to the house. At least this is the theory of the firemen who extinguished the flames.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.

The subject last night was "The Incarnation and Propitiation," based on Heb. chapter 2:1-10.

The first fact to be noticed is Salvation. The last verse of chapter 1 closes with the word Salvation, "heirs of Salvation." We have another reference to Salvation in chapter 2, verse 3. "How shall we escape if we neglected so great Salvation" Then follows a series of statements showing historically how Salvation had been brought to the reader. I. It was spoken by the Lord. That is the Lord Jesus when on earth preached Salvation. II. Salvation was confirmed to them by those who had heard the Lord. III. God also bore witness to this Salvation by signs and wonders.

Why is Salvation given such prominence in Hebrews, chapter 2? Because man needs Salvation; it is in fact the one great necessity. The need of Salvation is then proved (verses 6-9) by a reference to man. Man at the beginning was given the place of honour and headship; but these and other things he has lost. If man is to be saved—seeing he cannot save himself—then he needs some one to save him. He who saves is the Son of God, and He saves by becoming man and dying on the cross.

Verses 9 and 10 present to us Christ made a little lower than the angels and that with a view to death, the death of the cross. He who died is now crowned with glory and honour; for He is alive, and at God's right hand. The purpose for which He died; "He by the grace of God tasted death for every man." Provision has thus been made for all. Salvation has been purchased by Christ and is now offered to all. All that remains to be done is to accept it. The audience was large and appreciative.

The subject of Dr. A. B. Miller's address to-night at 8 p.m., is "Christ our High Priest."

BURGLARS ENTER C. P. R. FREIGHT SHEDS

PORT HOPE, April 27. — By means of a jimmy, burglars effected an entrance to the C. P. R. freight sheds at night and got away with two cases of soap and a case of chocolates consigned to local merchants here. A C. P. R. detective is working on the case.

LAST PURCHASE OF PELTS

Purchases of pelts by Wm. Lech and Sons have been made recently in the Midland district where Mr. Cyril Lech has been in touch with trappers. He bought several thousand musk rat skins and an assortment of others some of which arrived here this morning. The price for most of the northern rats was slightly under the two dollar mark. The season closes with the end of April.

THE PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR.

On 3rd May next this organisation expect to proceed to Port Hope to fulfill an engagement in the Methodist Church. This was the outcome of a number of Port Hopers having attended the concert of the Male Voice Choir in the Opera House early this month; and on returning home, the visitors set about preparing for the concert to be given next Tuesday.

Prior to this trip, the Choir have had to keep in touch with their programme—a repeat of the local performance—and last night, in the J. M. Greene Music Room the members met, about thirty-five strong, and had a fine "try-out." The work has not suffered since the concert, and may even be an improvement on past form.

The concluding practice will be held on Monday evening next in Greene's Music Room, and it is imperative that all who assisted in the recent concert here be on hand, and that a full representation may proceed to Port Hope. Every man is asked to be at this rehearsal, and hear the details anent the transportation and the time of starting on the trip.

At this stage it might be stated that a large audience is promised, and a royal time for the choir members.

Society

Mrs. John Taylor and Miss Elsie Taylor, 730 Bethune Street, left this morning for Toronto to attend the Taylor-Anthes nuptials, which takes place to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Horton, Gravel Road have returned from Hamilton, where they had been attending the funeral of Mrs. Horton's brother, Mr. A. Light, whose death took place on Saturday April the 23rd after a lingering illness.

Miss M. Crowley, who has accepted a position with Anglo Canadian Financial Co., Toronto spent the week end in the city

Rev. Mrs. McEachern, Mrs. D. Armstrong and Mrs. J. J. Moore of Keene, are attending the Ontario Woman's Missionary Society convention of the Presbyterian church, held this week at Peterborough.

COMMUNITY SWEPT OUT OF EXISTENCE

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 27. — The little lumber and farming community of Braxton was virtually swept out of existence by yesterday's tornado, a heap of smoking ruins and hardly a standing structure marking the town site to-day. Estimates place the dead at eighteen with more than a score injured.

DEATH.

Return Pitchers.

The Woman's Institute would be very glad if those who have borrowed any or all of the large pitchers would be good enough to return them.

Sunday Services.

Rev. G. Graham preached on "Christ Joy and Its Enemies" on Sunday morning. In connection with the sermon, the choir sang, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." His evening subject was "Lead Us Not Into Temptation, but Deliver Us from Evil," as announced.

A habit that is a trial to the people and must be to the preacher, is that during the service people who have parked their cars sometimes, on the church premises, start them up, and seem to make an extra noise doing so.

Rev. Graham and Rev. Jull, of Lakefield, will exchange pulpits next Sunday.

There was no service in the Anglican Church.

In the Baptist Church, Mr. Vose's subject was "Christ's Body."

Ice Storm.

Because of the extra warm weather a few farmers took their cattle to pasture before the ice storm, and were sorry. This week many are taking them back to the ranches.

Road Improved.

The Dummer Road has been very much improved by the use of the grader. With the exception of about three springy spots, it is now a comfortable road to ride over.

Quite An Egg This.

Mr. Rufus Payne has a Barred Rock hen that laid an egg 8½ by 6½ inches.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Ruth, of Peterborough, was in the vicinity buying cattle on Tuesday.

Mr. John Mervin of Peterborough was buying cattle in the neighbourhood on Thursday.

Mr. William Hawthorne has all his spring sowing done.

On Thursday Messrs. Verne and Clifford Selkirk and Ralph Selby went to Toronto and motored back.

Mrs. Norman Bell returned to Ottawa on Thursday.

Mr. Franklin Jory, road commissioner for Dummer, is already at his duties.

Mrs. J. A. Crowe is spending a few days in Peterborough.

MR. HUDSON HARD DIES IN AUSTRALIA

WAS NEPHEW OF MR. JOHN GREEN, THIS CITY, AND EDUCATIONIST.

A nephew of Mr. John Green, barrister of this city passed away at Bendigo, Victoria, Australia, in the person of the late Wm. Hudson Hard, who collapsed at a private hospital in Glenferrie during an operation following short illness caused through internal complications. Deceased was a well known educationist, having been for 40 years in the service of the Victorian Education Department. He had served as head teacher in several schools, was for a number of years inspector of schools in the Bendigo district, and also assistant master at the High School and later principal of the Balarat High School. He is survived by a grown-up family of sons and daughters. His father the late Mr. Charles Hard left Canada, with many others from this district during the Australian gold lure in 1853.

The late Mr. Hudson Hard, in addition to his other achievements, in open competition wrote a first prize essay on "A white Australia", when Asiatic immigration became a menace, which essay was published in The Examiner.

SEVEN JUDGES WILL CONSTITUTE COURT AT LEIPSIC NEXT MONTH TO HEAR CASES.

GERMANS TO PROSECUTE

BERLIN, April 28. — Nine hundred Germans, whose punishment has been demanded by the entente for war crimes, will face trial at Leipsic, beginning May 23. Seven judges will sit as a court and will first hear witnesses against the minor offenders on the supplemental list.

The Minister of Justice declared yesterday, "Only the men charged with the commission of specific crimes will be tried at first We have made every effort to insure impartial hearings but are greatly handicapped by the fact that the crimes were committed some years ago. The witnesses are scattered, and some of the accused have left Germany, several being dead. The entente governments will have representatives at the trials but the Germans will conduct the prose u tion and the defence. I am able to declare positively that political o r other undesirable interests will not be allowed to influence the proceedings."

The Value of Advertising

No matter what particular merit a preparation may possess, if you wish to bring it before the public, it is necessary to advertise it.

For instance, Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills were just as good a year ago as they are to-day; and while they had a steady sale due to one friend telling another of the benefits derived from them the proprietors recognized this was a rather slow way of introducing them, and for the year 1921 they have placed a contract with this paper for 10,000 lines of advertising.

On another page of this paper you will find their large advertisement, and with merit and advertising we feel confident they will meet with success.

France Stands Firm; Attempt to Clarify Proposals Confuses

FRANCE NOTIFIES UNITED STATES OF HER DISAPPROVAL OF HUN REPARATIONS ADVANCES—BRITAIN ASKS BERLIN FOR MORE EXPLANATIONS OF TERMS OF NOTE.

U.S. AWAITS ALLIED APPROVAL BEFORE ACTING

LONDON, April 28 (Canadian Press). — Premier Lloyd-George, speaking in the House of Commons to-day on Germany's reparations proposal, said:

"I very much regret that they are thoroughly unsatisfactory, and wish it had been possible for me to say that they alter the situation."

Lloyd-George added that he doubted whether a decision by the Supreme Council would be taken before early next week.

Lloyd-George declared that the British Government was committed to action as far as the Westphalian coal fields were concerned, if the German proposals were unsatisfactory. He added: "It is not for me to say whether another opportunity will be given Germany or not."

LONDON, April 28. (Canadian Press.) It was announced by Reuters Limited to-day that it had learned that France had instructed Ambassador Jusserand in Washington to thank the United States Government for its assurance that the United States would not deliver the German reparations note without the approval of the allies. France added, says the news agency, that it could not approve the proposals or see in them a basis for a possible settlement.

Germany's attempt to clarify certain of her proposals in compliance with the request of the British Foreign Office yesterday, was said in oficial circles to-day to have resulted in even greater confusion.

Great Britain has asked for further explanations.

PROPOSALS VERY SKETCHY

The interchanges are continuing, although they are said to be entirely informal. The present position of Great Britain is understood to be that the proposals are still very sketchy and very unsatisfactory. As an outgrowth of the British query, Germany it is now stated, now suggests that the annuities extend over a period of from 50 to 75 years or even longer, instead of 42 years, as originally mentioned. This is declared to be a sample of the evasive methods of Germany, which cannot be allowed to continue.

The Belgian representatives, who to-day conferred with Britsh and French ministers, were quoted by Reuters as saying that the conferees had been unanimous in the decision that the latest German proposals were not even worthy of discussion.

ONE GERMAN CONCESSION.

Great Britain has requested information in regard to the proposed international loan which, it is declared, could not be floated at four per cent. according to the German terms. One concession Germany makes is that if the payment of fifty billion gold marks is accepted, she will not ask a deduction for payments already made,except as to the money expended to rehabilitate Northern France.

FORWARD MOVEMENT SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION AT SESSION OF THE W.M.S. THIS MORNING

PROGRESS THUS FAR AND FUTURE AMONG VARIOUS ANGLES OF THE MOVEMENT CONSIDERED IN ADDRESSES AND DISCUSSION AT W.M.S. CONVENTION.

"IN OUR ATTITUDE TO GOD, WE ARE PAGAN"

This morning's session of the convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church opened with a beautiful prayer service, offered for "Retired Workers" by Mrs. MacLennan, of Lindsay, for "Present Workers" by Mr. R. Barbour, of Meaford, and for "Future Workers" by Mrs. W. A. Dobson, of Carleton Place. The minutes of the previous meeting being taken as read, an excellent address on the "Forward Movement" was given by Mrs. W. J. Haddow, Brantford.

It was based on reports received from eighteen Presbyterials only, and was regarded from several different angles: 1, Information; 2, Prayer and Home Religion; 3, Mission Study; 4, Membership and Organization; 5, Training for Leadership and Oversight; 6, Our Finances; 7, Encouragements, with special emphasis on the spiritual side of the Forward Movement.

This paper was supplemented by talks on the various phases of the Forward Movement, "Prayer" being taken by Mrs. Cameron, Georgetown, who said "men and women often turn to prayer only when at their wits' end. We have progressed from ox-carts to express trains, from tom-toms to orchestras, but in our attitude toward God, we are pagan. We should be dated B.C. instead of A.D." The example of General Ferdinand Foch in prayer, as quoted in the familiar tale of the young soldier, was quoted in this connection.

Home Religion.

The phase of the movement, as exemplified by "Home Religion," was taken by Mrs. J. Locheed, of Hamilton, who said: "The hearthstone is not only the foundation of the Church. It is the foundation of the Empire." "It is in the home that those influences are released that have most to do with the making or marring of future life." Mrs. W. H. Cramm, of Westboro, spoke on "The Value of Our Youth," from the standpoint of the Church and the community, saying: "You must supplement the ranks of our Church workers from the youth of the community. Are we directing the youth of our land in the proper channels?" Proper methods of training and the true personal touch were recommended as the vital needs in the life-building of the youth of the present day, with information of the conditions of life in unchristian lands, and the unchristian conditions of life in our own lands. The responsibility for this training lies with the women of the Church, for "The value of your youth depends upon us. The value of our Church depends upon our youth. The value of our community depends upon our Church."

Mrs. J. McGillivray, of Toronto, president of the General Council Executive, spoke a few words here in connection with the Forward Movement, in encouragement of the great work done, and the value of giving toward it in a common-sense way.

Next Convention in Ottawa.

Some new business came up for consideration here, and an invitation from Ottawa Presbyterial to hold the next annual convention in that city was accepted by standing vote, while a further invitation from St. Andrew's Church in Windsor to meet there was responded to by a hearty vote of thanks. The invitation from Ottawa called forth some merriment from the assemblage, as this is the third time such an invitation has been accepted by the Provincial Secretary, the first postponement being made because of expenses being less when the meeting was held in Toronto, and the second invitation, which was accepted for this year's meeting, proving undesirable on account of an epidemic of smallpox in that city.

A strong resolution was unanimously voted for, to be made to the publishing committee, that Miss M. Fraser's excellent paper on "The Messenger," read at the Tuesday evening session, be printed in full.

Gift to Former President.

At last night's session, it was decided to send a letter of love, accompanied by a box of roses, to the former president of the General Executive Council Mrs. J. J. Steele, of Toronto, who was succeeded last

A BIG DOLLAR'S WORTH

One dollar is the price of a season ticket for the local group games in the Intermediate series of the O.A.L.A. Instead of appealing to the public for donations, the Lacrosse Club decided to offer this bargain ticket not only for the money that may be forthcoming but also as an inducement to the public to attend the lacrosse games. The teams in the local group are Havelock, Campbellford, Peterborough, and either Hastings or Warkworth. This means at least three games will be covered by the season's ticket. The president of the club is C. S. Cummer, of the Merchants' Bank, and the secretary is Harry Tudhope, of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Buy your ticket from either of them or from James Skinner, Jack Sutherland, George Mein, or one of the other members of the Executive. Just one dollar.

M'CREA'S BILL IS THROWN OUT BY COMMITTEE

MEASURE GIVING ONTARIO RAILWAY BOARD UNCONDITIONAL FARE CONTROL KILLED.

WAS HOTLY ATTACKED

TORONTO, April 28. Canadian Press.) By a non-party vote of 20 votes to 16 the Railway Committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day threw out the bill of Charles McCrea of Sudbury, making an amendment to the Ontario Railway Act so that the Ontario Railway Board might revise the fares having regard to increased wages and other changed conditions and irespective of the franchise and agreements.

The bill was warmly opposed by many municipalities and this morning before the committee it was described by Sir Adam Beck as "iniquitus and drastic and an absolute violation of the rights of the people."

AN EXPERIENCED PROFESSIONAL NOW AT THE GOLF CLUB

MR. HUGH MASON, FROM THE TORONTO HUNT CLUB HAS BEEN ENGAGED.

In line with the present movement in this city to encourage all good, clean amateur sport the Golf Club is to be congratulated on securing the services of Mr. Hugh Mason as professional.

Mr. Mason comes here from the Toronto Hunt Club and was formerly of the Beaconsfield Golf Club in Montreal.

He has had wide experience both as teacher and club maker. Mr. Mason is bringing in a complete line of golf balls and a wide assortment of golf clubs for the convenience of the members.

Appointments for lessons can be made by calling up the Golf Club.

The action on the part of the Golf Club in bringing Mr. Mason here will be appreciated by the present members and should undoubtedly result in giving new impetus to the game of golf in Peterborough.

R. J. SODEN ELECTED PROVINCIAL OFFICER

AT MEETING OF ONTARIO HUNTERS' GAME AND FISH PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION,

R. J. McDonnell, Midland, and the folliwing Board of Directors, H. W. Hunsberry of Jordan Station, C. H. Munday of Oshawa, W. J. Moody of Kitchener, Aubrey Davis and Dr. W. R. Walters of East Toronto.

STATEMENT FROM THE EMPLOYING PRINTERS OF PETERBOROUGH

MEN IN LOCAL OFFICES DEMANDING A DECREASE IN HOURS OF FROM 48 TO 44 HOURS PER WEEK AND AN INCREASE IN WAGES OF $8.00 PER WEEK, EQUAL TO AN INCREASE OF OVER 40 PER CENT. OVER LAST YEAR'S EARMINGS.

On Monday, 1st May next, the working agreement between the employing printers of Peterborough and the members of the Typographical Union, No. 248, will expire. Under this agreement the scale of wages and hours of work were as follow:

Foremen, $32.00 per week.
Hand Compositors, Stone Hands, Binders, etc., $30.00 per week.
Machine Operators, $30.00 per week.
Linotype Machinists and Machinist Operators, $31.00 per week.
48 Hours to constitute a week of day work.
44 Hours to constitute a week of night work.

On 31st March the employing printers were served with a demand to replace the expiring agreement with a scale of wages and hours of work as follows:

Foremen, Linotype Machinists, and Machinist Operators, $40.00 per week.

Hand Compositors, Stone Hands, Binders, Machine Operators, $38.00 per week, with a work week of 44 hours per week for day work and 42 hours per week for night work, to which the employing printers replied on 14th April in part as follows:

"On going into the matter, it will be found that the actual increase in the new agreement, as compared with the one expiring on 30th April, means an increase of $13.25 in case of floormen and 15.40 per week in the case of operators. (The correct figures are $13.19 in each case.)

Demands Cannot Be Met.

"In view of the present existing conditions the employing printers feel that your Union cannot expect their demands to be met when wages in every other line of industrial and commercial activity are being reduced and unemployment is becoming more and more acute throughout the whole Dominion. Is not, therefore, a demand such as you make, unreasonable?"

To which the secretary, Mr. Charles E. Smalley, replies for the men as follows:

April 21st, 1921.

R. M. Glover, Mgr., Examiner.
A. H. Stratton, Mgr. Review.
Dear Sirs,

On receipt of your letter, dated April 14th, a special meeting of I. T. U., No. 248, was called to enlighten the membership of the feeling of the Review and Examiner managements in regard to the agreement submitted by this Local March 31st, to replace the agreement expiring April 30th.

The members unanimously decided to adhere to the agreement as submitted.

The committee appointed for the purpose of discussing the scale of prices and agreement in general will be pleased to meet with the employing printers by arrangement with the secretary.

Yours truly, (Sgd.) C. E. Smalley.
Sec. I. T. U., No. 248, Peterborough, Ont.

Conditions in Local Plants.

As the employing printers of Peterborough believe that the workmen in their plants have no legitimate grievance either as to wages paid or hours worked per week, in view of conditions that exist at present, a comparson is made of the expiring scale and the demand that is now proposed. Under the present agreement hand compositors, stone hands, machine operators, binders, etc., were paid on a basis of $30.00 for 48 hours, with time and a half for overtime. The new scale calls for $38.00 for 44 hours, or for 48 hours, the same hours of work as under the present agreement, they would receive $43.19, an increase per week of $13.19.

Under the old scale foremen received $32.00 per week of 48 hours, the demand now is for $40.00 per week of 44 hours, or for a 48-hour week they would receive $45.45, an increase of $13.45 per week.

Linotype machinists and machinist operators received $31.00 for 48 hours, the proposed scale is $40.00 for 44 hours, or if working a week of 48 hours would receive $45.45, an increase of $14.45 per week. To pay this increase The Examiner would be compelled to find approximately $20,000.00 extra revenue for these departments alone.

A Period of Falling Prices.

This is a period of falling prices. All over the continent the tendency is downward. The call is for lowered costs in every branch of industry. The employing printers of Peterborough know from experience that instead of increasing output, the shortening of hours will decrease it. Instead of lowering costs it will advance them.

Printers have enjoyed a 48-hour week for many years. It is in no way injurious to the health of the employee. The work is not burdensome, and the Saturday half-holiday is provided for under the existing plan of working a fraction of an hour each day beyond the 8-hour day. An employee starting at 7 o'clock is through with his day's work at 4 o'clock, those starting at 8 o'clock are through at 5, excepting the fraction of an hour worked that gives them the Saturday half-holiday. The employees have had steady work, only losing what time they took themselves, and the statutory holidays, and the following table of earnings of those who are members of the Typographical Union in the employ of The Examiner from 1st March, 1920, to 28th February, 1921, one year, for a 48-hour week, will go to show that the printers of Peterborough are earning good money the year round (the days off are days that the employees took themselves):

Conference With the Union.

Following the suggestion from the Typographical Union for a conference with the committee, the employing printers met them on Tuesday evening, and as a result the following formal letter as to what the employing printers would offer was handed to the secretary:

"Following the conference the employing printers had with your committee last evening, we beg to submit the following for the consideration of your members:

"First—The members of your Union to work, under the contract now existing, and which expires on 30th April, for a period of, say, one month, until some of the apparent differences of opinion in connection with 44 hours a week for newspaper offices have been cleaned up more definitely. Or, we will renew the present contract, expiring 30th April, without any reduction in wages or increase in hours, for a further period of one year.

"We wish to draw the attention of your Union to the fact that newspaper offices are not called upon to give a 44-hour week, although you have included the newspaper in Peterborough in your demands.

"We submit the above for your careful consideration, and would be

COAL DIGGERS REJECT OFFER OF THE GOV'T

INCREASING OF TEMPORARY SUBSIDY BY TWO AND A HALF MILLION POUNDS REFUSED.

A LARGE MAJORITY

LONDON, April 28. (Canadian Press.) The miners' federation to-day rejected the government's new offer, looking to the settlement of the coal strike, increasing the temporary subsidy to the industry from seven and a half millions to ten million pounds. The rejection was by an overwhelming majority.

SERIOUS RIOTING OCCURS IN INDIA

COMMUNICATIONS CUT—TROOPS RUSHED TO SCENE.

BOMBAY, India, April 28.—(Canadian Press.)—The Times of India says to-day that a serious riot is reported to have occurred at Malegaon, north-east of Nasik. Telegraph wires in that district have been cut and no details of the riot have been received, although a number of constables are reported to have been killed and a sub-inspector and magistrate injured. Troops and police have been sent to the scene.

WOMEN GOOD JUDGES.

The advertisement of the Groceteria appearing in the Examiner on Tuesday and Wednesday looked like a big problem for the average woman to figure out and out of curiosity we made inquiry from the Groceteria stores and found that it was no puzzle for the women of Peterborough, as they possessed the keen business ability and they figured it out very easy, knowing as they do the true values of all foods, and are buying very freely of these groups.

GASOLINE AND COAL OIL DROP TWO CENTS

Forty-one cent gasoline is on sale in Peterborough to-day. A further cut of two cents has become effective according to the local office of the Imperial Oil Company. Gasoline is now six cents cheaper in Peterborough than it was at the beginning of the year.

Coal oil was reduced two cents to the retailers, but the price of other oils are unchanged.

Young People's Work Discussed Yesterday at W.M.S. Convention

CONSIDERED FITTING THAT THIS YEAR, WHEN YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK IS PARTICULARLY STRESSED, IT SHOULD BE STUDIED IN PETERBORO, HOME OF MRS. HUGH WADDELL, WHO ADVANCED IT SO MUCH.

MISSION WORK DESCRIBED IN THE EVENING

The afternoon session of the convention of the Women's Missionary Society opened with a hymn and an address on "Young People's Work," by Mrs. D. Strachan of Toronto, opening as follows: "It seems particularly fitting that this year, when young women's work is being specially stressed, the meeting should be held in Peterborough, the home of one who made possible so much work for young women. I refer to the late Mrs. Hugh Waddell, whose gifts made possible the Hugh Waddell Memorial Hospital and the Waddell Girls' Home in Canora."

Young women of the church, said Mrs. Strachan, have in their power not only the extension of the work of the W. M. S., but its actual continuance in the future. They can make possible by study, prayer, service and gifts of money the going forth of others to labor in the foreign mission fields. "Is the interest of young women in missions as vital as it should be? And, then, in Canada there are the various school houses, six of which are exclusively for girls, and contain newcomers from the old land of all races. Here is a glorious opportunity for service! Canada, no more than any other country, can rise higher than its womanhood. Surely you young women are vitally interested in service."

The Young Women's Auxiliary.

Miss Malcolmson of Hamilton spoke on "Young Women's Auxiliary—Christian Opportunity and Responsibility," an inspiring and beautifully-worded talk which covered these two aspects of young women's work. "Opportunity is a constant visitor. In this lies our hope. But the same opportunity rarely gives a second call. In this lies our risk. These two subjects—opportunity and responsibility—are subjects occupying the mind of many, a subject for editorials, platforms and pulpits. Opportunity is now knocking at the doors of the Anglo-Saxon people in the different calls to service extended to the workers in schools and churches, and particularly to the young women of the present generation. In the W. M. S. there is a place for all, from the humblest to the most gifted, from the one who will go to thread the needle on work day in a Mission Band, to the most able teacher, the most skilful surgeon. Are you a member? Are you preparing yourself to take an active part? Do not let it be said of us: 'Eyes they have, but they see not.' Why is the church, why is the cause of Christ not stronger? Because the members of that church are dallying on the hillsides. They have neglected the power of prayer. The world will never be won in that way. The greatest sinners are those who call themselves Christians, for theirs is the greatest opportunity and the greatest responsibility."

C. G. I. T. Affiliation.

An exceptionally fine address was given by Miss Lillian Oliver of Toronto on "C. G. I. T. Method of Affiliating with W. M. S." Miss Oliver held the attention of her audience and evident insight into and love of her subject. The creed of the Canadian Girls in Training course is as follows:

"I believe in girls, in the women of a great to-morrow, and that whatsoever the girl soweth, the woman shall reap.

"I believe in the curse of ignorance, in the dignity of learning and the joy of serving others.

"I believe in wisdom as revealed in human lives, as well as in the pages of printed books, in lessons taught not so much by precept as by example, in ability to work with the hands as well as to think with the head, in everything that makes life large and lovely.

"I believe in the present and its opportunities, in the future and its obligations, and in the divine joy of living here and hereafter, and I know of no place better to work out this creed than the home of the Canadian Girls in Training courses.

"The course, which embraces the physical, intellectual, spiritual and social side of life for girls in the 'teen ages from twelve to seventeen, has for its four-fold slogan: 'Cherish health, seek truth, know God, serve others,' and has behind it the united men and women of the evangelical churches in Canada, the Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist communions endorsing the work. Two additional lay representatives are appointed by each unit, which is composed of representatives of Protestant churches desires to co-operate. Its aim is to bring into closer co-operation the home, the school and the girl in her 'teens and to meet the changing needs and develop the latent talent of these women of to-morrow.

Narrow Horizon a Curse.

"We must admit that a narrow horizon is the curse of most women. A very narrow little clique and our home composes the horizon of most of us. We need, as women, the breadth of intellectual values, not necessarily a technical education, but a seeking of a knowledge of life To supply the growing girl with a definite knowledge and history of life and to bring to her knowledge these things which will make for greater joy and happiness in her future life is in the aim of this training. Sunday School classes of girls in these ages were considered the best basis for this course, those who will be in the future an active and intelligent force in the Women's Missionary Society."

Hearty endorsement of this movement was made by Mrs. McGillivray of Toronto, President of the General Executive Council, who recommended that time be given for the movement to develoup before demanding instant affiliation with the W. M. S., a suggestion supported by Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith of Alliston, who considered that the C. G. I. T. members should not be expected to come seeking admittance to the Women's Missionary Society at this stage of their development.

A display of costumes for pageant, under the direction of Mrs. R. J. McLean of Toronto, with Miss Hall and little Misses Marguerite Mason and Jean Fraser as models for the Chinese costumes, was productive of much interest amongst the ladies, who asked for a second repetition of the parade.

Mission Band Hour in Afternoon.

"Mission Band Hour" was an interesting session conducted by Miss Rennie, Stratford, in which some animated discussions took place and interesting suggestions were made on the questions asked by Miss Rennie on this subject, which were submitted to the meeting for consideration and advice:

1.—How do you account for the lack of co-operation between the Auxiliary and the Band?

2.—What method of teaching do you find the best as an educational factor?

3.—Does a study or work meeting make the largest appeal to the children?

4.—What is the best combination of study and work meeting?

5.—Why is the matter of securing Band leaders so difficult?

6.—As an Auxiliary member, would you be willing that your Auxiliary donate yearly a junior membership to the most nearly perfect attendance to the band?

7.—Can you suggest anything to aid in making the work of special interest to boys?

8.—Should speakers to Mission Bands be given every freedom to make a direct appeal to the church for funds for special objects?

9.—Why should it be found so difficult to secure a report from an active Band?

Treasurer's Report.

The Treasurer's report was read at this meeting, submitted and read by Mrs. J. G. Gauld of Hamilton, Treasurer. The total sum received in 1920 was $209,932.40, an increase of $21,112.52 over the givings of 1919, a trifle over 11 per cent., to which amount Peterborough contributed $6,718.08. For the Provincial Board Expense Fund, the receipts amounted to $3,476.10, and the expenditures to $2,787.50, leaving a balance of $688.60 refund to W. M. S. General Fund. The receipts for the Helen MacDonald Fund were $733.26.

EVENING SESSION.

A crowded church greeted the evening session, which was opened by the hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," Scripture reading and prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Rollins, pastor of St. Andrew's Church. Part of the choir attended this service, and during the evening a very fine vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. Maurice Park, accompanied by Mr. Frank Tattersall.

Miss Florence Clearihue, a missionary for 15 years in Central India, now stationed in Kharua, gave a splendid talk on missionary work in this far-away land, as undertaken by the Presbyterian Church. India, that land of charm and beauty, with its 315 millions of people, its 147 distinct languages and dialects without number, with ninety per cent. of its population dwellers in mud-walled villages of from 50 to 1,000 people, was described in detail. The life of the average girl living in this country consists of hard work. She is the drawer of water, the hewer of wood, the grinder of the meal, and the constant caretaker of the ever-present family baby. It is for her that the Women's Missionary Society labors, and although it is forty-four years since the missions were first established in Central India, two of the pioneer workers still remain in the field.

Indian Political Changes.

Great political changes have taken place in that vast country in the last year. The granting of a certain measure of home rule to a people who have lived for centuries under

REDUCE MILK PRICE ONE CENT.

Retails in Ottawa at 12c Quart.

OTTAWA, April 28.—At a meeting of the producers and distributors, it was decided to reduce the price of milk one cent to 12 cents a quart in the month of May. This, a local dealer points out, will mean that Ottawa will be buying milk two cents a quart cheaper than residents in Toronto, who are now selling at 16 cents a quart, but will reduce to 14 cents May 1. Montreal is selling at 14 cents, and in Hamilton the price is 13 cents. It is expected there will be a substantial reduction in the price of butter about May 15 or 20, when the cattle are put on grass. There is just a possibility that there may be another reduction in the price of milk for June 1.

NEW WOOL AND TEXTILE CONCERNS

MELBOURNE, April 28 (Canadian Press.)—Sir Joseph Cook, treasurer for the Commonwealth of Australia, in a recent statement announced that since March, 1920, applications for registration from companies capitalised at an aggregate of 10,000,000 pounds sterling had been received. Already companies capitalised at 3,500,000 pounds sterling have been formed and wool and textile corporations with a capitalisation of 1,500,000 pounds sterling, were in the process of flotation. He also declared that the stability of the country was undoubted and depended only on the Governmental ideas of taxation and the path labour intends to take in the future.

FLOW OF IMMIGRANTS TO CANADA STARTED

The summer flow of immigration from the British Isles to Canada begins this week. The first big trans-Atlantic liner, with some 5,000 people aboard, is expected to dock at Quebec to-morrow, and she will be followed by four others in rapid succession. Practically all of the homeseekers who are shortly to arrive are farm or domestic workers, and people coming to Canada to engage in farming.

The Greek reservists in Canada have been called to the colors. Here is hoping that they take their banana and peanut carts with them.

GOV'T FORCED WITHDRAW ITS CONTROL BILL

MEASURE PROVIDING FOR CONTROL BOARD FOR LAKE OF THE WOODS FINDS GOING ROUGH.

MAY PRESS IT LATER

TORONTO, April 28. (Canadian Press.) At the close of a two hour debate in the Legislature last night and early this morning, Hon. E. C. Drury withdrew the Government's bill providing for the constitution of a joint control board for controlling the flow of water from the Lake of the Woods.

The Premier put up a vigorous fight for the bill but in xiew of the uncomprising hostility of Peter Heenan, Labor member for Kenora, and both of the Opposition leaders, backed up as it apparently was, by a considerable portion of the members of the House, he stated that he would not ress the bill.

He made it clear that if he thought he could get the bill through he would press it, but since it would probably be taken up again next session if now deferred he would not risk its defeat.

King Asks No Change In Empire Relations at Present; Defeated

OPPOSITION LEADER OPPOSES TAKING OF STEPS AT PREMIERS' CONFERENCE WHICH WOULD INVOLVE MILITARY OBLIGATIONS.

VOTE WAS 96 TO 64

OTTAWA, April 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Hon. Arthur Meighen made it clear in his address upon the approaching conference of the British Prime Ministers in the Commons yesterday that in the operation of the Canadian Government, time should be allowed, in the selection of a date for the proposed special conference on future constitutional relations within the British Empire for the formation of definite public opinion in Great Britain and in the self-governing Dominions upon that important question.

Further more the Prime Minister expressed the view that the subject of military, naval and air defence of the empire was not one which ought to be considered by the Premiers' conference in June.

He did not regard the question as urgent and he did not feel that it should be discussed at the Imperial conference instead of at a meeting of the character of that to be held in June.

While the Prime Minister was substantially in agreement with Hon. Mackenzie King on subjects of constitutional relations and military, naval and air defence, he was not prepared to accept the motion which was offered by the leader of the Opposition and which sought to place manacles upon the hands of the representaives of the country who are going to the conference.

The motion of Mr. King, which was offered as an amendment to a motion that the House go into committee of supply, read:

"The House, while recognizing the propriety of Canaad being represented at any Imperial conference or conference of Prime Ministers of the Empire, that may be called, desires to record its opinion that at the coming conference no steps should be taken in any way involving a change in re lations of Canada to ther parts of the Empire and that in view of the present financial position of Canada no action should be taken implying any obligation on the part of Canada to undertake new expenditures for naval or military defence."

Mr. King's amendment was finally defeated by 96 votes to 64, a Government majority of 32.

The feature of the debate was the declaration by Sir Robert Borden that in his mind the meeting of Prime Minisers would be an "inopportune time for discussion of the problems of Imperial defence." This view seemed to be unanimous in the House. The Liberal amendment contained the same contention although in different words. "Surely we have not undergone untold sacrifices merely to learn that there is to be no respite from the intolerable burden of armaments," said Sir Robert. Hon. N. W. Rowell also delivered a powerful address.

PROBABILITIES.

IMMIGRATION TIDE FLOWS FROM ERIN

New York, April 28.—Irish immigrants are again coming to the United States in numbers suggestive of the days before the Great War, according to figures for the third class list on White Star liner Celtic, which arrived here from Liverpool yesterday. Out of a total of 1315 in the Celtic's steerage, 881 were Irish, 152 English, 93 Scotch and 4 Welsh, a total of 1120 from the British Isles.

PROPAGANDA A DANGER TO US

CANADIAN AGENT IN U.S. WARNS OF ENEMY CAMPAIGN AGAINST BRITISH EMPIRE.

WINNIPEG, April 27.—"I tell you," remarked W. E. Black, Canadian Immigration Agent for North Dakotaand Northwestern Minnesota, who is staying at the Fort Garry hotel, "That the British Empire is in danger. The English speaking people are asleep at the switch, and may awake too late.

"They have no idea of the amount of propaganda being developed against them; of the efforts being made to set them one against the other; of the alarming number of of agents who are traversing this country and the Unjted States boding no good to our amity and the continuance of our governmental, educational, religious and other cherished national institutions.

"I cannot refrain from saying that closer scrutiny, should be paid these foreigners who are plying their nefarious schemes throughout the country, crossing the boundary almost at will, for they have ready means of obtaining passports. They even come over in flying machines. I am informed that not only a German made flying machine has flown a maximum flight in Canada, but that it was actually manned by Germans who had actually fought against us in the war.

"The Germans everywhere are implementing and supporting every form of activity designed to belittle the English people; to stir up friction among the English-speaking nations, and in brief to throw the Allied races into the Bolshevistic state which ruined Russia. Continually passing amongst us are those agents who are Germans, Russians, and sometimes Austrians. Sometimes they pose as Poles, and under that cloak hide their real national bias and internecine designs. They are behind the tragic and the widespread Sinn Fein movement sweeping through the United States far more obviously than it could through an overseas Dominion like Canada. It is collecting immense funds of money, which are being utilized to wage war on the British Empire, to bring about its disruption."

As to immigration that the Dominion may expect to come from the country in which Mr. Black functions, he says that after seeding is completed a large influx may be looked for.

THE NAVAL PROGRAMME.

Ottawa despatches announce that Premier Meighen, when he goes to London to attend the conference of the Prime Ministers of the Empire, will fight any proposal to have Canada embark upon a naval programme at the present time. If he takes that course the Premier will undoubtedy have the support of all groups in the House. The financial condition of Canada prohibits the entrance of this country into a naval construction drive, especially as naval authorities do not seem to be able to decide as to the best type of sea fighting units to be built. It would be a very serious matter for Canada with her treasury in its present condition to undertake to spend fifty or sixty million dollars in providing warships. Perhaps to see the fleet scrapped in a few years as of no value.

THE LAST MINUTE RUSH.

The usual last minute rush attendant upon the closing of the Legislature is at hand and, as prophesied, important business is being rushed through in the closing moments. Even worse than ever is the climax of the present session, for it has been necessary for the government and the Opposition groups to come to a saw off agreement in order that the session may be terminated. The Government has agreed to drop some legislation of a contentious nature, while the Opposition is to limit the debates. What a farce! The Legislature has been in session since January. In the early stages, days, even weeks were wasted in unprofitable, unimportant debate, while the chief business of the Legislature had to wait for a lull in the storm of words. And now in the dying moments we have the spectacle of the various groups ready to make any arrangement that will permit of a speedy termination of the session. The Government is perhaps no more to blame than the Opposition, but the whole system needs a revision, and the proceedings of the House placed on a business basis that will reduce the oratory and substitute action for eloquence.

DANGEROUS AGITATORS.

One of the branches of the G.W.V.A. in Toronto has passed a strong resolution protesting against the activities of Red agitators and disturbers who have been taking advantage of the unemployment crisis to spread their mischievous doctrine. The resolution is timely. For the thousands of honest workmen who are without employment there will be every sympathy and no effort that seems likely to relieve the situation should be neglected. The agitators, however, should be given a short shift. They are glib-tongued, those Red orators, and their arguments might apepal to workless men now, when under ordinary conditions their words would fall on deaf ears. Too much leeway has been given these disturbers who tell their hearers to go and take what they want, who attack the principles upon which the Emprie is founded, and who find in Russian Sovietism the ideal system of government. It is to their influence that the preposterous idea that the city of Toronto should provide $20 per week for every married man and $15 for every single man out of work, is to be attributed. In ordinary times the mouthings of this coterie of Reds would merely be amusing; just now they are inflammable and dangerous and should be suppressed.

THE WRONG PLACE.

The Legislature of Manitoba has rejected, on its second reading, a bill giving legislative recognition to the eight hour day and the forty-eight hour week. The defeat of the measure is not be wondered at, for not only is there strong opposition on the part of the farmers, but in Mantioba, as in Ontario, it is recognized that legislation of this type is not a matter for any one province to decide. Attorney-General Johnston has announced that he will endeavour to arrange a conference between the various provinces so that the question may be discussed. That is the only logical way in which regulation of working hours can be brought about, and it seems so evident that unless there is uniformity in this matter it would be folly for any one province to take action that the tactics of labour leaders in throwing the matter into the provincial arena instead of directing their pressure upon, Ottawa occasion much surprise. The Provincial Legislature is not the place for such measures and everybody seems to recognize the fact, except those who should be most directly concerned in the proposed legislation. There is not a provincial government in Canada that would not "pass the buck" on that issue. And nobody can blame them. It would be madness to take any other course.

BACK TO THE HOME.

Attention has been called time and again to the ever-increasing number of juvenile criminals in Canada, and in this connection the statistics afforded by our punitive institutions are illuminative.

Take the Provincial Reformatory at Burwash as a start, and the figures for 1919-20 are as follows:

18 years and under	208
19 to 20	184
21 to 30	274
31 to 40	197
41 to 50	78
51 to 60	46
61 to 70	17
71 to 80	2
80 to 90	3
	1004

These show that two-thirds of the prisoners at Burwash last year were under 30 years of age. For the various penitentiaries of the Dominion, to which the more hardened, and, therefore, older, prisoners, are supposed to be sent, a similar showing is made:

Under 20 years	335
20 to 30	775
30 to 40	434
40 to 50	251
50 to 60	100
Over 60 years	36
	1931

Over1,100 out of 1,931 prisoners during the year ended 31st March, 1920, were under 30 years of age. Commenting on these latter lgures, Mr. W. P. Archibald, the Dominion parole officer, says:

"The most alarming thing in our midst to-day is not Bolshevism, nor the question of the high cost of living, nor the 'social unrest,' nor what people term 'the economic crisis,' but it is found in the frightful, increasing and world-wide drift of youth, especially when they leave their homes or the higher grades of education, or when they throw their lot into the big commercial world around us. The enormous proportion that are soon ready to cast off their religious teaching and home influence, the very fundamentals of true and pure character, as a worn-out garment, on their first contact with real life, is appalling. What has happened to our homes?

"If tangible results are to be obtained and our hopes for the future generations realised, we must have better organisation, more intelligent and sympathetic efforts to transfuse the living principles of 'obedience and self-control,' only upon which we may safely build the superstructure of true manhood and human endurance into the life and character of our youth in order that Canada may be safe and sane in the coming years.

"I hope to live to see the day when the parents, the pastor or spiritual adviser, the Sunday School teacher, the public school teacher, the scoutmaster, the Y.M.C.A. boys' secretary, the big brother and big sister workers, the probation officers, the Juvenile Court judges, the playground associations, the Rotarians, the Kiwanians, the medical profession, and all others who are vitally interested in child welfare, and are ready to sacrifice for it, will be organised and banded together in one community group with the 'child in midst,' there to determine how we shall mutually, sympathetically and carefully, each bear his or her own part in the symmetrical training and development of that which is best in every youth. Such an organisation would be especially helpful in dealing with the problems in connection with the delinquent child."

Thus we have it clearly put up to us, both by statistics and otherwise, that the child problem is the most important now before the Canadian people, and it is also made certain that lack of proper home training has much to do with it. With this training the number of lapses on the part of our young people would be greatly lessened. The home life is not what it used to be, and, having sown to the wind, we are reaping the whirlwind. Back to the home.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

That nine year old Toronto chess prodigy who played seventeen games simultaneously the other night, could not complain of unemployment for that evening anyway.

Too bad the groups in the Legislature had not come to an understanding at the beginning of the session to eliminate useless talking. The Farmer members of the Government would be back on the land by this time.

A seventy year old Montreal man has been assessed $100 in a breach of promise case, showing that after all the adage about there being no fool like an old fool has some foundation in fact.

At last the end of the present session of the Legislature appears to be coming. The Hydro Radial inquiry, however, is still going strong.

Somebody with a fondness for delving into figures, has arrived at the conclusion that men 50 years old have had 17 years' sleep. This does not include newspaper men.

Some people will expect the guardian of the Heavenly Gate to show them a private entrance.

Sometimes when a politician has the same interests at stake as the common people and fights to protect them we term him a champion of the people's rights.

The best test of will power is to make a good resolution just before you doze off at night and see how many minutes it will last in the cold light of morning.

Solomon is reputed to have had seven hundred wives. And at that his extant works indicate that he didn't learn any more about women than the average man who has but one.

Light, with its record of 187,000 miles in a second, shows a fast pair of heels, but we are inclined to think that if we are going to wager on the event we would back Dame Rumour for first money.

The government seems to think that it can run its railway system without Lard Shaughnessy's advice. It is quite evident that it can run it in the direction already taken, without anybody's advice.

"The Golden Age" that unconsciously humorous little magazine of the International Bible Students, has temporarily stopped twisting the British Lion's tail to attack the "capitalistic" newspapers which lured the U.S. into the war. It claims that the J. P. Morgan interests bought control of the 25 most influential U.S. papers for this purpose. All we have to say is that J. P. Morgan and Company must be on the verge of insolvency or insanity if it has been operating twenty-five newspapers since 1917.

Many a time and oft, as Shakespeare was once known to remark, have we been presented with useless gifts, but the prize one came Saturday, when a certain inconsequential friend of ours dropped in and made us a present of a little card bearing the following:

PERMIT

This is to certify that I..... the legally wedded wife of..... do hereby permit my husband to go where he pleases, drink what he pleases and when he pleases; and I furthermore permit him to keep and enjoy the company of any lady or ladies he sees fit, as I know that he is a good judge. I want him to enjoy life, as he will be a long time dead. Signed.....

"Well, said we, "what good is it?" "Whymygoshman," replied the dear friend, "think what it means to you if you only can get it signed." That's why it's a useless gift.

FAMOUS WAR CHARGER DEAD.

Took Part in Every Battle Fought By Canucks.

OTTAWA, April 28.—The charger ridden by Major-General Sir Edward Morrison throughout the late war died at the farm of Mr. Bower Henry, near Bell's Corners. It left Canada with the First Contingent in September, 1914, and was in every battle in which the Canadian troops took part up to the Armistice. It also proceeded with the Canadian troops into Germany, and was ridden across the Rhine by its owner, with the vanguard of the British forces. "King" was a well-known horse in Ottawa before the war, and took first prize in the military charger class at the Ottawa Horse Show for three successive years prior to the war.

CARPENTERS ASK CONCILIATION BOARD

Ottawa Builders Say They Have Nothing to Arbitrate.

OTTAWA, April 28.—The carpenters here have applied to the Minister of Labor for the appointment of a Board of Conciliation to enquire into the dispute between them and the Ottawa Branch of the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries. The application is made by Mr. J. B. Landry, President of the Council, who has named Captain J. A. P. Haydon, M.C., as the Labor member of the board.

The builders say they have nothing to arbitrate. The carpenters at present are receiving 85 cents per hour. They have asked for 95 cents and have been offered 75 cents by the contractors.

As the building trades are not considered as a public utility the Department of Labor cannot force the contractors to agree to the board.

SUMMER PLANS.

Chapter 39.

A week rushed by in happiness and perfect harmony between Leonard and me. All doubts and suspicions were easily cast aside. His presence seemed to spread a hypnotic influence over my mind.

Each evening was happier than the preceding one, if that were possible. They were just cozy times of talking and reading, and dreaming too. Leonard was home a great deal.

"I'm not sure I can get away for any extended vacation this summer," he told me one night as we sat reading in the living room. He closed his book and placed it on the table between us.

I was disappointed, but I refrained from saying anything.

"I've been thinking," he went on, "that I might buy a car—just a runabout, not an expensive one. Then we could take short trips—say, run down to the shore for over the weekend. Saturdays are more or less dead in New York in the summer, but I would not feel like getting out of touch with things for long. How would you like that?" he asked with keen anticipation written on his features.

"That would be splendid," I enthused honestly I liked the idea. It appealed to me. I wondered if Leonard would let me learn to run the car.

"You could learn to run it yourself, Noreen," he said. My thoughts had touched the positive in his mental electric current. "You could run me down to my train in the mornings and meet the 5:19 at night. You know, that dutiful wife stunt," he said laughingly. "You ought to see the devoted wife chauffeurs lined up along the curb at night when I come home. Then you would get out more during the day. I don't want to be selfish," he added. "If you would rather go away for a few weeks, I would want you to go, of course, but I won't be able to go with you."

I had had quite enough of going away and leaving Leonard. I believed most of the matrimonial estrangements ripened that way. Besides, the car idea suited me perfectly. After all, Leonard was the person I most desired to be with. I had no hankering for hotel porches, fried foods, and an over abundance of uninteresting females.

"Do you really think I could learn to run an automobile?" I asked, doubting for the minute, the steadiness of my nerves.

"You bet your life, you could!" he enthused with admiration which stirred my woman's vanity. "It'll take a lesson to familiarize myself with every detail of the car and then I'll teach you. You can do it in four or five days, I'm sure."

"I would like that so much better than going away without you," I said musingly. My mind took in the consequences of such a separation. I made a mental picture of my own loneliness and then of Leonard perhaps seeking diversion and amusement in dangerous channels.

A few months ago I had been a staunch believer in trust and loyalty—now suspicion had reduced me to the harboring of ugly doubts and fears.

I welcomed the chance to stay at home and be near him. I also felt significance in the fact that Leonard had suggested staying home. It did not look as if he was scheming to get rid of me for any purpose. There was just as much proof for my husband's loyalty as there was against it, I told myself.

"I'll buy the car early," he said, breaking in on my meditation. "Say, about the middle of May—then we can have the good of it for the entire summer. I think I need some diversion like that—they say running a car is a good nerve tonic."

"You have seemed rather nervous lately," I ventured.

"I hope to finish up with the Darwood hearings by the end of the summer." It was the first time in ages that he had alluded to the case. "It's nerve-racking. I'll be glad to get it settled."

I could not trust myself to speak, so I just sat quietly and thanked God that it soon would be over.

Tomorrow—I Clean Leonard's Desk.

School Girls' Nerves

"I give my children Nerve Food during examinations, and am sure it helps them," writes a Vancouver lady.

AFTER the long school term the children's nerves are keyed up to the highest pitch. The fear and worry of examinations are often the last straw which brings the nervous breakdown.

It is usually the naturally nervous child who has the greatest ambition, and by denying his or herself the requisite amount of outdoor exercise comes up to the examinations with too little energy and vitality left.

Fortunately the child's system quickly responds to such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The blood is enriched, the nerve cells are replenished and health and vigor is soon restored.

Mr. S. F. Flarity, Wiarton, Ont., writes:

"My daughter, eleven years of age, was in a run-down condition and suffered from a nervousness which showed a tendency toward St. Vitus' dance. I got a few boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for her, and by the time she had taken three boxes there was a big change in her. She is much stronger, and her system in general is built up. She has recovered from her nervous weakness, and you could not detect a trace of it now."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is in a class by itself as the most popular of nerve restoratives. 50c a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

HAS OPENED UP THE LAKEFIELD HOUSE

MR. J. A. LAWLESS HAS HAD HOSTELRY THOROUGHLY OVERHAULED.

The citizens of Lakefield and the public generally in this vicinity will be pleased to learn that Mr. J. A. Lawless has opened up the Lakefield House, and after a thorough overhauling is operating the hotel on modern lines. It is expected there will be a great deal of navigation over the Trent Canal this year by tourists from across the line and by our own Canadian citizens, and it is important that the accommodation along the waters be opened up for the reception of these visitors. Their coming to this district this season should help to offset some of the loss to business due to unemployment in the section.

Mr. Lawless, in addition to excellent meals and accommodation during the week is putting on a special Sunday menu, a copy of which will be published in next Friday and Saturday's issues of The Examiner, and there are, no doubt, many who will avail themselves, if the day is bright, of motoring and enjoying an excellent dinner at the Lakefield House.

Another innovation, as soon as it is legal to obtain our own fish, will be a regular fish dinner, gotten up in proper style, which, no doubt, will also be appreciated.

Anyone wishing to join the Lakefield Rifle Club can do so by calling at W. W. Leonard's hardware store, before May 4th. 5d309

YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK DISCUSSED

foreign domination is an experiment which will be watched carefully. Some of the work of the W. M. S. was described in detail by the speaker, the hospital at Indore, where there are 903 "in" patients and 9,000 "out" patients, with only one Canadian doctor, one Canadian nurse, and a small number of native helpers. 'The crying need of the villages to-day," said the speaker, "is more helpers and teachers to shepherd the people and to teach them to be strong enough to 'come out.'" That phrase seemed to come most naturally to the speaker's lips when speaking of the conversion of the native peoples. A hospital building of six rooms and one where hot water may be had without difficulty are luxuries in India, and one of the hopes of the medical workers here is for a leper hospital some time in the future, where these suffering people may be segregated and treated.

Examples of true Christian zeal and vigor in the native converts were given, one being that of a Brahmin widow who received the faith 21 years ago and is stronger than ever in her belief to-day.

South Chinese Missions.

Miss Agnes Dickson, a missionary of the Society, also home on furlough, from South China, gave a talk on the work in that country. She spoke first on the good work to be done here in Canada amongst the Chinese, and instanced the Chinaman, a convert, who, on returning to his own land, said: "It is the greatest satisfaction to me to have Christ in my heart. It makes it safe for me to go anywhere in the world."

With regard to the Chinese side of the work, there is great unrest in China at present. There are no boats, no schools open, all business seems to be at a standstill. Some time ago, a monster parade took place in Canton, in which about 10,000 took part, to induce the Governor to pass some law to close the gambling houses, which caused such suffering. Legislation has recently been enacted to this end, and hopes are entertained for a brighter future or China in consequence. What is most hopeful in China at present, according to the speaker, is the awakening of a National consciousness among the Christian Chinese. Men and women are longing for the salvation of their country, and feel that while Christianity is the only hope for their country, that the salvation of their race as a whole will have to be the work of individual Chinamen. One of the signs of this feeling is the study by educated Chinese scholars of God's work among men, in the hope of arriving at some solution of the problem of their country.

Personal Experiences.

Miss Dickson, who has been engaged in missionary work in China for 16 years, gave some experiences of her sojourn in girls' schools in that country and the effect of Christian teaching and example amongst these young women of a heathen race, giving an interesting insight into the work of the W. M. S. in these alien lands.

Pacific Coast Missions.

Mrs. Chas. Robertson of Toronto, President of the Society, then gave a short but very bright talk on some experiences encountered in the course of a trip made by her to the far western missionary fields in Canada, 3,000 miles away, yet still in the borders of our own land. The visiting of Chinese missions in Vancouver, with the observations made of the far-reaching influence of the Women's Missionary Society work, their good work in schools and hospitals, the living conditions amongst the Indians on the reserves in the far west, the finding of "The Messenger" in a cannery near far-away Prince Rupert, all were described in a most graphic and enlightening manner, showing the unrealized reach of the Society to the far corners of our own land. Mrs. Robertson's address was much enjoyed by her audience.

The evening session then closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Pogue.

AMERICAN COUPLE MOBBED IN POTSDAM BY GERMAN CROWD

Chicagoan and Wife Attacked After Kaiserin's Funeral — Chased to Police Station.

BERLIN, April 28.—(Associated Press).—James E. Tobinson and his wife, residents of Chicago, were attacked by a crowd of German men, women and children recently as they sat on the terrace of Sans Souci Park, following the funeral of former Empress Augusta Victoria.

The Americans were rescued by a security policeman and two German civilians, who locked arms and surrounded them, accepting a pelting of sticks, stones and umbrellas in defense of the couple until they were able to escort them to the police sation in Posdam Here a patrol of extra policemen was summoned and dispersed the crowd.

During the attack the policemen and the two German civilians were unable to quiet the crowd, members of which were shouing 'Foreigners' 'French people." Nor could they entirely shield the Americans. Mr. Tobinson was beaten about the head and shoulders and his wife received a bruised nose. Also her hat was torn from her head, her hair was pulled and she was struck on her arms and body by umbrellas.

Potsdam Police Headquaters in its report concerning the case said. "The Americans were not to blame, and they desire that there be no further mention of the affair."

"The mob", said Mr. Tobinson to-day, "was incited by an old woman who thought we were French. The crowd attacked us and chased us from San Souc. Park to Potsuam. It is my opinion that we would have been killed except for one policeman and two German civilians The police, however, did all that was possible. I cannot complain of their conduct and desire to make no representations to the German Government."

Mrs. Tobinson, who is a graduate of a college in Valparaiso, Ind., which her husband, a civil engineer, also attended, said:

"We were sitting on the terrace in Sans Souci Park speaking English. There were three women sitting in the same seat. The one nearest us turned to her companions and declared we had spoken in French words derogatory to the former Empress Neither of us understands French. One of the old woman's companions ried to explain that we had not spoken at all about the dead former Empress but that we were discussing the beauty of the park and regretting that we had no films for our camera.

"The crowd, however, drew nearer, shouting that we were French and the children began to throw stones. I was so frightened I thought I was choking. The crowd struck my husband with canes and umbrellas. He tried to protect me as we ran, and then two civilians and the policeman came to our aid. There were several hundred persons following us before we reached the police station."

Mr. Tobinson, who said he resided at 2,748 West Washburn Avenue, Chicago, when questioned at the police station, declared he and his wife were born in Russia.

Mrs. Tobinson, he asserted is the daughter of American parents, but that he is a naturalized citizen. He said he could speak neither Russian nor French. He has been in China for Thomas W Simmons Co., but now was in business for himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Tobinson have been married for five months They have visited China, Japan and Italy, and Mr. Tobinson also has made a trip to Siberia.

Marshall Mattresses at Special Prices

We have never listened to any proposal to reduce prices on Marshall Mattresses before. We do so now in harmony with the general business tendency towards a season of lower price levels, and to make a special demonstration in co-operation with the dealers who handle our goods.

Four Styles—One Week More—Order Now

1 and 2. The Marshall Ventilated Mattress

In two styles—Hair Top and Cotton Top

The most resilient, yielding and responsive mattress made. Conforms to every pressure of the body, giving the absolutely uniform support of a water mattress with greater comfort, because softer. Two inches of curled hair or fine cotton felt overlays a bed of about 1,000 fine steel wire coil springs, each sewn into an individual cotton pocket. Valves at the ends allow free circulation of air through hair or felt and springs, keeping the mattress constantly aired. Tied with tape to avoid collecting dust under tuft buttons. Fitted with convenient handles at each side.

3. The "Marshaldown"

Layer after layer of pure white cotton down, compressed into a soft, resilient felt. Row of Marshall wire coil springs sewn into cotton pockets and embedded in the felt all around the sides, forming firm, square, outer walls to prevent mattress spreading and to give increased resiliency. Enclosed in fine quality ticking. Finished with a firm, strong roll edge all round to keep mattress taut.

4. The "Marshalfelt"

Same construction as "Marshaldown," with a grey quality of cotton felt and lighter quality of ticking. Coiled spring walls same as in "Marshaldown" and same style of strong roll edge all round, to help keep mattress in taut shape. Sit on the edge of the "Marshalfelt" or any Marshall mattress and it springs back into original shape the instant your weight is removed. The springs prevent spreading or sagging while increasing resiliency. Tufted by hand. Guaranteed pure felt and free from dust and dirt. Sold at a price less than the best known, so-called high grade felt mattresses.

SIDELIGHTS ON REBELLION OF '37

(By Idell Rogers, Cobourg.)

When the infantry from Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough and other counties set out in 1837 upon that famous march to Toronto to help quell the Mackenzie Rebellion, which report said had reached alarming proportions, it proved to be a record event in the early history of the country. With few newspapers and without telegraphic or telephone communication with the outside world, the stories of the attack of the "rebels" as passed from mouth to mouth gained so much in magnitude until they were in very truth quite alarming.

A well-known settler of Peterborough County and his wife, upon returning from a perilious trip by boat with a grist to be ground, on the 4th day of December, the momentous date of the outbreak, were met by their family at the landing-place with the startling news that some strange gentleman had called while they were out and left a paper. Also, that Canada was at war with the Yankees, that Toronto had been burned, the Governor-General killed and other happenings that were equally startling. The strange paper that had excited the wonder of the children of the family was found to be the Queen's proclamation, calling all loyal male subjects of the Crown to arms. This man, although suffering from an injury that compelled him to use crutches, borrowed a horse and joined a company of 200 volunteers that left Peterborough for Toronto on the following day.

Exciting Stories.

So exciting were the stories that were current and so difficult to get reliable in formation, many a town and hamlet kept a sharp lookout lest the "enemy" fall upon them in the night and ruthlessly destroy their homes. They were exciting and momentous days for Ontario, and for all Canada, but happily the suspense did not last long.

A Good Story.

At that time there was situated a short distance back from the water front in Cobourg an old wind-mill and store-house, the former being 12 stories high and commending a fine view of the lake and surrounding country. During the exciting days of the rebellion it was used by the troops, and a good story is told by some soldiers of that day. The building was used as a lookout and two men were stationed in the top to watch.

Some of the young men of the town, in order to stimulate the prevailing excitement and reward the soldiers' vigil, built a raft at the Factory Creek in the western limits of the town, towed it out well into the water and set it on fire. When the lookouts saw it they got so worked up over what they thought was the work of the "rebels" that one of them fell down the stairs, while the other was too excited to give the alarm coherently.

Graphic Description.

A picture of our men as they rode forth to defend their country and their homes would be of much interest to-day, and, also, a full description of their uniform.

An old resident some few years ago furnished a very graphic description of how they were fitted out for the anticipated encounter with the enemy. The musket supplied them was an old-fashioned flint-lock, discharged by a spark dropping into the powder-pan. When the trigger was pulled, he states, the flint struck the iron covering of the pan, was thrown back and ignited the powder by the spark thus generated, and the powder in turn ignited the charge. It will easily be seen that reloading was rather a tedious affair as compared with the methods of the present day. Accompanying the musket was a shoulder belt with a cartridge box, and also a pouch for bullets.

Origin of "A Flash in the Pan."

The title old saying, "A flash in the pan," arose from the necessity of great care in loading and discharging these cumbersome old weapons. After the soldier had examined the musket carefully to see that there was no "flash" remaining from a previous discharge and had taken from his cartridge box just the right quantity of powder and poured it into the barrel of the musket, using a piece of paper as a wad, and rammed it all down tight, had selected a round leaden bullet, about the size of a small marble, and rammed that in on top of the powder and returned the rod to its place, he had first to assure himself that the powder had ran out of the vent-hole into the pan, else "a flash in the pan" would be the only result of his effort to discharge the weapon. With our modern weapons of warfare an army would be annihilated while the slow process of reloading was taking place.

But it is stated that along with the men who were equipped with these old-time muskets, there went also, at the start, many others carrying scythes, axes and even good stout hickery clubs.

"Cavan Blazers" Were There.

Such a company would not be complete without the "Cavan Blazers," and report says that they were there. The British soldier of Wellington's day was skilful in the use of the bayonet, and some of our men had made for themselves a unique weapon, to be used in something the same way. This was a long and slender hardwood pole, sharpened to a point, and then hardened in the fire. In the hands of a skilled user, it was indeed a formidable weapon.

There were many peculiar incidents on that famous march, but of actual fighting for most of the volunteers rom this district, there was none, or no enemy was found, although the entire company kept a sharp lookout all along their long and tiresome march for the "rebels." Once they thought they saw a small company of men rise suddenly from the ground on the brow of a hill in the distance. And they rushed forward, only to find upon reaching the summit no person in sight anywhere.

As before mentioned, the 'Cavan Blazers" were not slow upon this occasion in offering their services to their country.

Origin of the "Blazers."

Eighty years ago the "Cavan Blazers" were a band to be reckoned with in East Durham. Their pranks and larks of all kinds should furnish Ontario in days to come with a folk-love such as Sir Walter Scott has made forever famous in his border stories of old Scotland. It is told that a band of young men, mostly the sons of farmers who were becoming prosperous in this new land, organized themselves into a union, which afterwards bore the name of the "Cavan Blazers." The name "Blazer" may possibly have been adopted from the settlers' custom of blazing a way through the forest, as the "Cavan Blazers" allowed no obstacles to obstruct their purposes, but hewed out for themselves the way which seemed most expedient. The "Blazers," notwithstanding their many follies and depredations, did many acts of kindness. For instance, more than one poor widow found on her doorstep in the morning a bag of flour or a quarter of beef. By moonlight they cut and bound and put in stook a sick neighbor's field of ripened grain.

Carried Off the Toll Gate.

But when the people of Durham County resented the levying of toll on an unfinished road, a sleigh load of the 'Blazers" are said to have driven to the toll gate and demanded to be allowed to pass without paying toll. Upon being refused, they broke down the gate, lifted the little toll-gate house keeper and all, upon the sleigh and deposited it and him in the edge of a swamp. As perchance some of their ancestors had done during border and other feudal encounters in the old land when travelling along the moon-lit roads at night, they sang of their exploits until hill and valley rang with their songs.

Those were great days in East Durham, and, in fact, the entire Midland district is rich in stories of the historic past, which might be collected and recorded.

Borrowed the Church Stove.

It is told that one cold January day a chosen number of "Blazers" might have been found snugly as can be in a rude shack in the woods, where a bright fire crackled in a huge stove, feasting upon fowl (taken without the farmer's permission), pies, cakes, etc., indiscriminately collected, and enjoying a jolly good time. That one Sunday morning a good clergyman went to his little church to find near two of his members, who had gone early to "fire up," shivering in the zero weather and ruefully contemplating a vacant spot where a large stove, capable of accommodating a hardwood stick, had occupied, but which then was missing.

Threats Increased Their Pranks.

For a farmer to threaten the "Blazers" would probably result in some of his pigs being treated to a coat of green paint in order to make them more marketable, or a cow or horse treated to a coat of whitewash, barn doors to be missing, his wagon found adoring the ridge board of his barn and many other topsy-turvey conditions. It can never be said that Canada has no folk-love as long as the stories of the "Cavan Blazers" remain to be handed down from father to son.

Study Your Long Distance Needs

LONG DISTANCE telephone rates are graded according to the cost of furnishing the service. Station-to-Station service costs less than person-to-person service because it is not necessary for us to locate a particular person.

By using Station-to-Station service, when it will answer your needs, you save 20% on the cost of person-to-person calls.

Station-to-Station calls between 8.30 p.m. and midnight cost approximately one-half the day Station-to-Station rates.

Station-to-Station calls between midnight and 4.30 a.m. cost approximately one-quarter the day Station-to-Station rates.

No reduction is made on evening and night charges where the day rate is 25 cents or less. The minimum charge for evening and night calls, where the day rate is 30 cents or more, is 25 cents.

To place a Station-to-Station call, reach the Long Distance operator in the usual way and say, "I wish to talk to anyone at No. 456 Springville"; or, if you do not know the telephone number, say, "I wish to speak to anyone at James King's residence, B. Street, Springville."

Make your money and your time go farther. Use "Long Distance."

MUMMIFIED BODY FOUND — SHE DIED 3,000 YEARS AGO.

GLASGOW, April 27.—(Associated Press.)—Rumors of gold discoveries in Scotland are renewed, but so far there have been no rushes to spots where finds are reported.

That the precious metal is to be found in that country has from time to time been shown by discoveries in Kildonan, Sutherlandshire and Lanarkshire, but the quantity seldom has been equal in value to the cost of extracting it.

Gold thus far has been found in alluvial deposits but the miners believe that a gold-bearing reef exists somewhere in the country as pieces of quartz containing gold have been picked up at different times.

In past centuries, notably the Fourteenth and Fifteenth, gold was found in Lanarkshire sufficient to make crowns for monarchs, and bowls, sometimes empty, sometimes filled with coins minted from the same source, were presented to foreign and friendly sovereigns.

There was a rush to Kildonan in the sixties of the last century and some hundreds of prospectors flooded the district.

The present gold rumors come chiefly from the Lowther Hills in Lanarkshire where for centuries lead mining has been the occupation of the villages of Wanlockhead and Leadhills. In ancient times the district was known as "God's Treasure House" because considerable quantities of gold were discovered there.

For some months a wage dispute has made the miners idle and they have spent their time in the burns and hollows searching for gold, washing the soil in wooden troughs and occasionally finding gold in small quantities.

PERFECTLY SATISFIED.

"I understand," remarked Callahan to his friend Casey, "that the judge fined ye $10 for assaultin' Coughlin the other day." "He did that," answered Mr. Casey, "an' it was a proud moment, I'll tell ye, whin I heard the sintince." "How's that?" "I'm thinkin'," continued Mr. Casey, "that it showed which one of us had the best of the fight."

MUCH WANTED CHEQUE ARTIST CAUGHT AT LAST

HAMILTON, April 27. — The local authorities are advised that Fred Jones, alias G. B. Clarke, had been arrested in Brantford on Saturday. Jones is the check artist that the police of several cities have been after for over three months. About two weeks ago he bought a coat at Cam Bale's store on King street and paid a check payable to one G. B. Clarke and signed by the Merchants Casualty Company. He endorsed the check and tendered it in payment of a $40 coat. The check was for $65.74 and he received $15.74 in change. The check when presented to the bank proved to be bogus.

Clark is wanted in Toronto, Kitchener and Guelph on charges of passing worthless checks and fraud. When arrested the man was trying to pass a check in a branch of the Bank of Hamilton. This check was for $90 and also drawn on the Merchants' Casualty Co.

BELLEVILLE YOUNGSTER IN LIMELIGHT AGAIN

BELLEVILLE, April 27.— An eight-year-old Belleville boy broke out of the hospital at Orillia, yesterday, where he had been placed by Inspector Ruston, the day before. When found on the street by Orillia's police the boy said his home was in Belleville, and asserted that he had reached Orillia on a freight train, making no mention of having been an inmate of the hospital. Telephone communication with Belleville police brought the truth about the youngster, who has figured in half a dozen episodes in Belleville the past three months, one of them a serious one. He was handed over to the hospital authorities.

POLICE AMBUSHED.

BELFAST, April 27.—(Canadian Press).—Seven members of a police party were wounded in an ambush at Newry, County Down, last night, in which the attackers employed bombs and revolvers. The town was thrown into a state of panic as a result of the bomb explosions. Shortly afterward another police patrol intercepted and captured three members of the ambush party, upon whom loaded revolvers and bombs were found. The prisoners were taken to the military barracks.

SUMMARY BRITISH COLUMBIA LIQUOR ACT IN EFFECT SOON

USE OF STRONG DRINK RESTRICTED TO THOSE WHO WILL NOT ABUSE IT—GOVERNMENT STORES FOR SALE OF LIQUOR—DRUNKENNESS NOT PERMITTED IN ANY PLACE WHATSOEVER.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 27. —(Canadian Press).—With the coming into force of the British Columbia Liquor Act, the Province emerges from a three and a half year "dry" period. The present Act is the result of the referendum taken on October 20 last throughout the Province, when the people emphatically voted for the sale of liquor in sealed packages by the Government. The majority in favor of repealing the Prohibition Act was about 40,000.

Bars Closed.

The Prohibition Act, which closed the bars and all public drinking places throughout the Province, came into force on the first day of October, 1917, during the war, when the people, by a small majority, voted to prohibit the sale of liquor except by Government dispensaries. In order to purchase liquor under the Prohibition Act, it was necessary to first obtain a prescription from a medical doctor, for which a fee of $2.00 was charged. The maximum quantity purchaseable from a Government dispensary was two gallons of liquor. So great was the rush on the dispensaries and so many prescriptions were being issued, that the Government at the session of the legislature in 1920 amended the Prohibition Act prohibiting the sale by Government dispensaries of more than eight ounces on a doctor's prescription.

In 1919 a move was made to have the Prohibition Act repealed, and this effort continued until the Government agreed to submit the question of future liquor legislation to the people. A Moderation League was organized to work for the repeal of the Act, the object of the organization being to secure the sale of liquor under Government control. No one desired the return of the open bar or of liquor legislation existing before the bringing into force of the Prohibition Act. It was claimed that bootlegging was rampant throughout the Province, and that a measure which would permit of the sale of liquor under proper control, would be preferable to the Prohibition Act. The prohibitionists fought for the retention of the Prohibition Act, but the moderationists won.

Board of Three.

At the last session of the Legislature, which closed but a few weeks ago, the new liquor act was passed, following weeks of discussion. It will be administered by a board of three appointed by the Government. Its chairman is A. M. Johnson, who prior to his appointment, was deputy attorney-general for British Columbia; J. H. Falconer, Vancouver, a prominent business man of the Province, and president of the British Columbia Manufacturers' Association, and Lieut.-Col. W. N. Winsby, Victoria, public school inspector.

The headquarters of the board is in Victoria, and the distributing centre for the Province is in Vancouver. It is expected that the sale of liquor during the first year under Government control will amount to $20,000,000. The Government has promised that half the profits will be handed over to the municipalities.

Under the British Columbia Liquor Act, Government stores are established throughout the Province for the sale of liquor. These stores are administered by the Liquor Control Board, and each vendor is an employee of the Board. Sales must only be made to those persons holding a Government permit for the purchase of liquor, and this permit, along with a written order for liquor, must be presented at the time of purchase. Delivery of liquor can only be made in sealed packages, and consumption of liquor on store premises is not allowed. Liquor stores will not remain open for more than eight hours a day.

Persons applying for a liquor permit must be of the full age of 21 years, and have resided in the Province for at least one month. The fee for a permit limited to a single purchase of liquor is 50 cents. This entitles the purchaser to buy a maximum quantity of two quarts of liquor other than malt liquor, or 12 quarts of malt liquor. The fee for a permit to purchase of malt liquor containing not more than three per cent. of alcohol by weight, is $2.00, and the fee for any other permit is $5.00. No person is allowed to obtain more than ten single-purchase permits in any one year. A fee of $5.00 is charged for permits to persons temporarily resident in the Province. These are good for two weeks only. A permit must not be transferred. All permits expire on the 31st of December of the year in which they are issued. The Liquor Control Board has power to cancel permits, as has also a Justice of those convicted of a violation of the Liquor Act.

Provision is made in the Act for the use of liquor by physicians, dentists, druggists, veterinaries and hospitals.

Drunkenness Prohibited.

Drunkenness under the Act will not be permitted, and no person shall permit drunkenness to take place in any house or on any premises of which he is the owner, tenant or occupant. Liquor must not be given to any person under the influence of liquor, nor must an intoxicated person be allowed to consume liquor on any premises. No person shall keep or consume liquor in any part of an inn other than a private guest-room, and no person who is not a bona fide guest of the inn shall be permitted to have or consume liquor in an inn.

No display of liquor signs is allowed except by Government stores. No person other than a Government vendor shall sell or deal in any liquor known as beer or near-beer.

Rigorous Restrictions.

Any person resident or sojourning within the province, by excessive drinking of liquor, who misspends, wastes, or lessens his estate, or injures his health, or endangers or interrupts the peace and happiness of his family, shall be liable to interdiction, and the sale of liquor to him will be prohibited and his permit cancelled.

Every unauthorized person selling liquor shall be liable for a first offence to imprisonment with hard labor for not less than six months and not more than twelve months, and for a second or subsequent offence, imprisonment with hard labor for not less than one year nor more than 21 months. If the offender is a corporation a $1,000 fine is imposed for the first offence, and from $2,000 to $6,000 for the second and subsequent offences. Penalties for other infractions of the Act are also provided.

Upon information by oath by any inspector of the Liquor Board, or any constable, a warrant may be issued for the search of premises where it is suspected liquor is being held for unlawful purposes. The right to search conveyances is also given.

Any constable has the right to arrest an interdicted person whom he finds in a state of intoxication or with liquor in his possession; also any person whom he finds in a public place in a state of drunkenness.

To Speed Operations.

The Liquor Board, at its first session, decided to speed everything possible in connection with operations of the Board, because it was reported that the bootlegger is running practically unchecked at present in this province. Not only is the health of the people being endangered, it was reported, but the Province is losing an immense revenue every day the operations of the liquor board is delayed, and bootleggers have control of the liquor field.

In connection with the announcement that operations would begin at the earliest possible moment, the Board warned the people not to be rushed by illegal vendors into stocking up on doubtful liquor, but to wait for the Government-guaranteed article at Government prices.

The Board has ordered complete freight and express rate lists of all railways. Distribution of liquor will be made from the most economical points, so that consumers may not be overburdened.

It is said that one of the commissioners will have to live in Vancouver to keep in touch with all the liquor trade which centres there and radiates to all parts of British Columbia. There also will be important questions coming up daily because of the propinquity of the American border and the temptations due to the aridity south of that line.

HEADACHES

Make Life Miserable

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom if ever free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part and sometimes in another, and then again over the whole head.

There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keeps the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mrs. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes "My system was out of order. I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health. I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good, I have recommended it to my friends who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy.

LIKE THE OLD DAYS.

Jack—Your headache must be due to all that homebrew you drank at Jones' party last night.

Mac—No, no, not at all—I attribute it to the fact that I went to sleep this morning without removing Jones' Gold-fish bowl I was wearing for a helmet.

STOP PRESCRIPTIONS IN KINGSTON SOON.

KINGSTON, April 27.—A local doctor promises to bring before the next meeting here of the Kingston and Frontenac Medical Association a motion, that thereafter doctors cease issuing liquor prescriptions.

This move is considered a most important one, and from the sentiment expressed by several physicians in Kingston City, it would be carried by the local medical association.

URIC ACID IN MEAT BRINGS RHEUMATISM

Says a Little Salts in Water May Save You From Dread Attack.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to double work, they becoming weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is expensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

The Womens' Missionary Society Constitute Efficient Gathering

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church, meeting here in session for the last three days, is as business-like and efficient a body of women as could be found anywhere. Everything moves in an orderly, regulated manner. Every detail is loked ater with a clockwork precision that keeps the machinery moving in a well-oiled way. The ladies sing well in unison, they pray well, they speak well, routine business is transacted without fuss or flurry, and little bits of stray humour serve to lighten the tedium of the heaviest report.

A Presentation to Babies Clinic

The Well Babies' Clinic has been presented with three handsome pictures, which have been mounted and framed, by the Business Girls' Club. These pictures, on view at McDermid & Jury's drug store, were enlarged from snaps of three groups at the Clinic, one representing a baby being examined by the doctor, one of a baby being weighed, and the third a group of women with their infants.

The Well Babies' Clinic is doing good work. A few instances of what it accomplishes are contained in the following extracts from records:

Baby A—Examined. Lump found under arm. Removed by physician. Complete recovery.

Baby, of foreign parentage, whose parents were unaware of illness, discovered to be sickening with pneumonia. Case followed up by nurse. Improving.

Baby refused all food. Could not sleep. Severe indigestion. Treatment administered. Improvement. Now sleeps and eats a little.

Baby C—Anaemic and underweight. Under directions of nurse, now gaining and doing well.

In the last few months since a system of follow-up nursing was instituted, much improvement has been noted.

Towering Christ of the Andes

"The White Christ of the Andes" is an immense statue of the Saviour which was placed on the boundary line between Chile and Argentina long ago when they signed their peace agreement after many years of fighting. On the pedestal two figures stand, back to back, one pointing to Argentina, one to Chile. On the base is sculptured the words:

"Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than shall the people of Argentina and Chile break the peace which they have sworn at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

Spring Festival

Don't forget the Spring Festival in the Opera House to-morrow evening. Remember how you used to feel when you had a 'piece" to say or something to do in connection with a concert while you were in school? These children, large and small, and their teachers, have been working steadily for months to make this occasion a success, and if you consider the study of music in the schools a good thing for the rising generation, show your appreciation by attending the Spring Festival to-morrow evening. The performance starts at eight o'clock sharp, so you will not be late in getting away.

Rules of Etiquette

When you are introduced to a gentleman, never offer your hand. Sufficient to bow.

Introductions at evening parties are now almost wholly dispensed with.

An introduction given at a ball for the mere purpose of conducting a lady through a dance does not give the gentleman any right to bow to her on a future occasion.

Those to whom letters of introduction have been given should send them to the person to whom they are addressed, and enclose a card. Avoid delivering a letter of introduction in person. It places you in the most undignified position imaginable, and compels you to wait while it is being read. If the receiver of the letter be a really well-bred person, she will call upon you or leave her card the next day, and you should return her attention within the week.

On returning visits of ceremony, you may without impoliteness leave your card at the door without going in. Do not fail, however, to inquire if the family be well.

Should there be daughters or sisters residing with the lady upon whom you call, you may turn down a corner of your card to signify that the visit is paid to all. It is, however, in better taste to leave cards for all.

Leave-taking cards have P. P. C. written on the corner.

Visits of condolence are paid within the week after the event which occasions them. Personal visits of this kind are made by relations and very intimate friends only.

Wholesome Philosophy

"To make the most of dull hours, to make the best of dull people, to wear the threadbare coat like a gentleman, to hitch your waggon to the old horse if no star is handy—that is a wholesome philosophy."

—Bliss Perry.

Spring Verse

"In the spring a fuller crimson comes upon the robin's breast;
In the spring the wanton lapwing gets himself another crest;
In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

—Locksley Hall.....

Law of Macadam

"For this is the law of macadam, and this is the law of mud.
If ever thy trail's too slow or too dry, besprinkle it with blood.
Let thy car, with its lever open, be the car of Juggernaut,
And remember ye, that the only crime is the crime of getting caught.
For this is the rule that is golden,
The cry of those keen to the hunt:
Full speed was made for the man behind—
Who cares for the man in front?"

—From the Seven Sacred Rules in Rhyme, of the Murderous Marsden Hill Auto Club.

On Kindness

"The beauty our senses can take note of may captivate the soul, but the emotion it arouses is ,strictly speaking, admiration, not love. To move the heart, beauty must have kindliness for its finishing touch. If they be not kindly, neither strength, nor knowledge, nor beauty, avail at all to gain lasting victories in the world of souls."

—Guibert.

Blind Men

(BY JEANNETTE.)

Busy fingers that twist and weave,
The moistened, pliant reed.
Bright little baskets bespeak the urge
Of a sightless worker's need.

The stick that taps on the pavement,
Helping the homeward road,
Brooms and tea for those who can see—
Are part of the blind man's load.

A tiny cup and a little flute,
A burst of melody sweet,
In the springtime noon, a gay little tune,
On the sun-splashed, city street.

Though they dwell in darkness eternal,
From the race of men apart,
They bear through the blight of their lasting night,
A cheerful and patient heart.

Recipies

Frumenty, Frumety or Furmety, which is highly recommended for a growing family, both to improve their healths and reduce bread bills, was eaten in Great Britain in the old days when the fields were gleaned by the poor after the grain had been cut, and the following recipes are offered for its production:

Put one half pint of whole wheat into a quart stone jar, fill up with cold water, nothing else, put a lid on and cook in the oven till it burst. The following day this will be a jelly. Thin down with milk in a saucepan, cook gently for another half hour, add brown sugar and nutmeg to taste.

Another formual runs like this: To one quart of ready boiled wheat put two quarts of new milk and 1-4 lb. of currants or raisins. Boil and stir till done. Beat the yolks of 3 eggs and a little nutmeg, with 4 spoonfuls of milk. Add this to the wheat. Stir over the fire a little, then sweeten.

An omelet, when well made, is very delicate, and the following is recommended to tempt the most capricious of appetites: 1 egg, 1-8 teaspoonful salt, pepper, 2 teaspoonfuls milk, 1-2 teaspoonful butter for pan. Separate the yolk from the white, beating each until light, add the seasoning and milk to the yolk, then fold in the white, which should be beaten until stiff but not dry. Turn the omelet into the buttered pan and cook very slowly over reduced heat. Fold it in two, garnish withone or two tiny sprays of parsley, which should be ready, and serve immediately, because it falls in a very few minutes.

WEAK AND MISERABLE

Describes the Condition of People With Thin, Watery Blood.

Thin-blooded people experience a form of fatigue which robs them of strength to get about and deprives them of restful sleep. This fatigue is not to be confused with the healthy reaction which follows a day of work and is relieved by sound slumber.

The fatigue which accompanies an anemic or thin-blooded condition robs women of beauty, for it causes their color to fade and leaves the face haggard and drawn. In addition to feeling of exhaustion there is generally nervousness, headache, a loss of appetite and dizziness. These symptoms indicate the need of a tonic, and the best tonic for enriching the blood is the one taken by Mrs. C. R. Taylor, Bass River, N.S., who says: "I was so run down and miserable that I was completely discouraged. I was so short of breath that at the least exertion I would have to sit down and rest. I often had headaches, and my appetite was poor and sleep disturbed. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be grateful that I followed the advice. I continued using the pills until I had taken ten or twelve boxes, and I can truthfully say they have made me feel like a woman and I know in my case they have done all that is claimed for them

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TEACHERS WILL TOUR CANADA.

Under Conduction Major F. J. Ney.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 28.—(Canadian Press).— Arrangements have been completed for the Canadian teachers' tour, which will be conducted by Major F. J. Ney, of Winnipeg, secretary of the National Council of Education, and honorary organizer of the Overseas Educational league.

The party will sail from Montreal June 30 for Glasgow. The programmes are being arranged for this period. The party will leave England about August 22, returning in time for the fall school term About 200 teachers from all parts of the Dominion have decided to make the tour, Not more than 250 will be accepted.

In 1910 the Hands Across-the-Sea league was organized by Major Ney Tours were made each summer until 1914 and exchange of Canadian and New Zealand teachers were arranged. At the Quebec conference of Canadian ducational representatives the name of the league was changed to the Overseas Educational league.

"Educationalists in all parts of the empire are thoroughly in accord with the work," Major Ney stated "It should be but a question of time before the movement is empire wide."

Three New Zealand teachers will sail for Canada April 12, and will probaby exchange with British Columbia teachers. Twelve applications for New Zealand exchanges have been received from Canadian teachers, and it is expected that before the end of the year, thirty exchanges to all parts of the empire will have been arranged.

PLENTY COAL IN THE NOVA SCOTIA SEAMS.

Hundreds of Millions Tons Waiting to Be Dug Out.

OTTAWA, April 28.—Before the Fuel committee here, Donald McLennan stated that there were many seams of coal in the Nova Scotia and Cape Breton fields which had not yet been developed. An old estimate placed the amount of coal available at 242,800,000 tons, but the development of this field had not yet begun. Lack of transportation had held up development.

Mackenzie and Mann had built a short line to one mine they owned but this was not sufficient. The harbor at Port Hood needed dredging and the railway should be extended from Inverness to Ste. Rose. The Chimney Corner field was untouched.

Dr. W. Chisholm, Inverness, declared there were hundreds of millions of tons of good domestic coal in this field which needed development.

Mr. McLennan said these areas were held by many parties, some of whom were holding for speculation. Under Nova Scotia laws, as long as nobody else came forward to operate the lease, the holder was undisturbed.

With an expenditure of $1,500,000 a mine would produce 1,000 tons daily. Some of the mines now operating could be brought to an output of 1,500 to 2,000 tons daily, if capital was available.

PETERBORO PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW THIS

Nearly all stomach trouble is caused by retained poisonous waste matter in the system. This is also often the cause of appendicitis. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing foul decaying matter which may have been poisoning the stomach for months. It brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Adler-i-ka is EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach, and chronic constipation as it removes the CAUSE. SLEEP UNDER CANVAS.

NEW YORK, April 27 Canadian Press).—Park Commissioner Hennessey has reported that excessive rentals in this city, coupled with unemployment, probably will cause many New Yorkers to sleep under canvas this summer. He said that whereas last year 325 families camped all summer on Orchard Beach at City Island, this season he already had 250 applications for tent space. He predicted that before long all the 'lots" on the beach, which is mapped out to accommodate 2,50 persons, would be taken. "Waterfront" sites rent for $25.00 a season, and sites more removed from the sad sea waves rent for $20.00.

THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE

(By James Whitcomb Riley.)

Oh! the old swimmin'-hole! Whare the crick so still and deep
Looked like a baby-river that was laying half asleep,
And the gurgle of the worter round the drift jest below
Sounded like the laugh of something we onc't ust to know
Before we could remember anything but the eyes
Of the angels lookin' out as we left Paradise;
But the merry days of Youth is beyond our control,
And it's hard to part forever with the old swimmin'-hole.

Oh! the old swimmin'-hole! In the happy days of yore,
When I ust to lean above it on the old sickamore,
Oh! It showed me a face in its warm sunny tide
That gazed back at me so gay and glorified,
It made me love myself, as I leaped to caress
My shadder smilin' up at me with sick tenderness.
But them days is past and gone, and old Time's tuck his toll
From the old man come back to the old swimmin'-hole.

Oh! the old swimmin'-hole! In the long, lazy days
When the hum-drum of school made so many run-a-ways,
How pleasant was the jurney down the old dusty lane,
Whare the tracks of our bare feet was all printed so plane
You could tell by the dent of the heel and the sole
They was lots o' fun on hands at the old swimmin'-hole.
But the lost joys is past! Let your tears in sorrow roll
Like the rain that ust to dapple up the old swimmin'-hole.

Thare the bullrushes growed, and the cattails so tall,
And the sunshine, and shadder fell over it all;
And it mottled the worter with amber and gold
Tel the glad lilies rocked in the ripples that rolled;
And the snake-feeder's four gauzy wings fluttered by
Like the ghost of a daisy dropped out of the sky
Or a wounded apple-blossom in the breeze's control,
As it cut acrost some orchurd to'rds the old swimmin'-hole.

Oh! theold swimmin'-hole! When I last saw the place,
The scenes was all changed, like the change in my face;
The bridge of the railroad now crosses the spot
Whare the old divin'-log lays sunk and fergot.
And I stray down the banks whare the trees ust to be—
But never again will theyr shade shelter me!
And I wish in my sorrow I could strip to the soul,
And dive off in my grave like the old swimmin'-hole.

WHO BENEFITS.

WASHINGTON, April 27 (Canadian Press).—Approximately nine million women workers including school teachers and widows and orphans, according to returns of the Census Bureau, are chief beneficiaries of the increased value of the dollar in the United States. The dollar now is worth 18 cents more than last May, as far as food is concerned. The food dollar is worth 64 cents in comparison with its pre-war counterpart, the official figures show. Last May the dollar was worth 46 cents. The effect of this inflection is to give what amounts to an increase in income to those whose resources remained stationary during the time of the increase in cost of living.

"GOOD ENOUGH" NOT KNOWN HERE

A trade journal, writing of an hour spent in the large paino factory of Heintzman & oC., Limited, at West Toronto, says: "A stroll through the piano factory of Heintzman & Co., Limited, would lead one to believe that the motto of their whole organization is: 'Nothing is good enough, it must be perfect.' Attention to detail, no matter how small, marks every production of their line of Upright and Grand pianos." This doubtless, is explanation of the large success that has come to Ye Olde Firme, whose handsome warerooms are at George and Hunter streets, Peterborough, and where a full range of the firm's beautiful instruments are to be seen

THE HIGH COST OF LAWING

FROST, SIDEWALK AND A BROKEN LIMB COST THE TOWN ABOUT $7,000.00—WHAT MUNICIPAL RESPONSIBILITY ENTAILS IN CITY MANAGEMENT.

The doctrine of municipal responsibility carried out and maintained contributes to a serous percentage of costs to places having municipal government. For the town or city has assumed to itself a peculiar position that will not apply to the individual. Consider the matter of sidewalks, and indeed other walks.

If a householder build for himself a slat walk from the street line to the door of his dwelling and another citizen treads on the construction, breaking a slat in so doing, his foot dropping through the break and a fall resulting in a broken ankle, he must put up with the accident. He has assumed all personal risks in making use of said slat walk.

Should the city for its uses lay down a similar walk to provide access to any public building or place, and an accident ensue, before the injured man has even taken an inventory of himself and found out if he really be hurt, he has visions of damages and moneys to be paid to him to heal his feelings and hurts, if any. Why should a penalty apply in one case and not in another?

Because the city or the uses of its people constructs certain things, invites use of the same, and, in short, gives an implied guarantee that all is in order, safe and usable. The aim is to provide for public use. And if there should be lax construction, indifferent precaution and consequently hazard, then things should have been made right in the first place or not opened to public use.

A Few Casual Examples.

In like manner, in a way of speaking, public carelessness—lax attention on the part of city employees—leaves the door open that accidents may occur. Such as when the city grader was left on the side of the street or in an open lot and boys came to play about and on it one lost a finger. It cost about 150.00 to recompense for the injury. Again a strip of sidewalk upturned against a tree, in the dark, and a projecting scantling in a way inviting a fall, resulted n a broken leg and a poultice of $450.00 to assuage the hurt. One of the German guns at Central Park was left in some way unhitched, with a broken ankle to follow. The boy had his experience and adventure, and the city paid for it $300.00. It is also on record that a cover plate to a water service, said to be a trifle exposed above the cement of the sidewalk, caught the heel of a woman's shoe, and the exposure of the plate cost the city a cool $2,000.00, with $600.00 in addition to the husband.

When our citizens grew insistent that public bathing facilities should be provided open to use for all who cared to wet themselves, there must have been several of the committee of Scotch proclivites, that is cautious. The committee did not intend to personally establish bathing places. Not any. Only to procure a grant of money. It would be delighted to raise the funds, but as for responsibility, why never! It was intimated that your father could not be had on any such deal. That committee appreciated the doctrine of public responsibility too well. The City Council did, on request, set the thing in order, and at the end of Lake Street. Then what had been expected happened. Bound to happen. In fact, had to.

It is well recognised by any who know the banks of the river that the easiest places to establish bathing places are also places where it has from time immemorial the easiest to deposit rubbish. This follows the now known German maxim to "sink and leave no trace." So the end of Lake Street, in the water, had for a bottom a choice assortment of old debris—hoopskirts and corsets, barrel hoops, sardine and oyster cans—cast there by an exuberant population in the days before garbage collection at two-sevenths of a mill on the dollar. A boy plunged in to find bottom. Found it surprisingly near, and brought up a well scarified and deeply cut knee. About $300.00 paid the bill. And a trifle of costs.

But growing out of all this is one ray of comfort. If anyone gets knocked down by the Fire Chie's new car, when it comes, the person so prostrated can serenely rely on collecting damages from the city, for the Chief is only the humble instrument in carrying out city purposes.

Perfidious Nature at Work.

Having expounded thus far on the essentials of municipal responsibility, it may be of interest to recall the most serious instance we have had in Peterborough and where the town paid the shot. Perusal of the heartrending facts, that is the financial cost, may induce people who love their own home town and who may feel inclined to lose a balance on a said-to-be icy sidewalk to retain that balance and save their devoted city. For it all grew out of a sidewalk fall. At a time and in a day when the wooden sidewalk extended far and wide over the town and in spots presented some fearful examples of how not to do it. For new work and repair the plank bill ran, easily, to $9,000.00 a year. And the Wards watched each other pretty closely. If two spikes were driven in the South Ward, then the West Ward had to get its share. Unfortunately, Nature never discriminates: so every winter the frost worked ructions with the walks, heaving and twisting and curving the planks. Accepted as a matter of course, and people grew up with the climate and dodged the worst places. But to get on with our story.

The Case of Mason v. Peterborough.

It was on the afternoon of 23rd February, 1892, that a Peterborough citizen fell at or on the sidewalk, at the corner of Murray Street and College street, he coming down the hill. One leg was broken.

On recovery, after a ten weeks' illness and confinement to his home, he brought an action against the town for $1,000.00 damages. His claim was based on the theory of municipal responsibility for the defective state o the walk, and also that he had called the attention of the street inspector, Mr. Pope, to the very defect in the walk that resulted in his fall. William Walsh, Dr. Davies, and others testified that each had fallen at or about the spot referred to, though without injury.

For the defence employees of the town gave evidence that the defective sidewalk had been repaired some time before the date of the accident, doing so on the direction of the street inspector. Witnesses for the defence gave evidence that the unevenness of the boards was not serious, and in fact, trifling. These statements from men using the walk every day and who lived in the vicinity.

Vagaries of Court Trials.

The case was tried before Mr. Justice Falconbridge, E. B. Edwards, town solicitor for the defence and D. W. Dumble, for the complainant. A feature of the evidence was in exhibits submitted in court. Under the direction of the street inspector a duplicate of the sidewalk, at the point of fall, was made by "scribing" the planks, making templates, and from the resulting outlines arranging the exhibit. This was brought into the Court Room and set up at the angle corresponding to the inclination of the walk. It will be understood that as the spot was at the east side and uphill of a street crossing, the planks had been laid lengthways across the street. This fact, accounted for the raising of the boards, as stated, by the action of frost.

The trial was long, and at times acrimonious, especially on the part of counsel for the town. In the end the jury disagreed.

Before dismissing the jury, the learned Judge suggested to counsel that a motion to the Divisional Court should be made to enter judgment for the town, so that questions of law which had been raised could be decided, and this was done.

It may be added that counsel for the town had advance reason why the plaintiff shoul be non-suited. That the town had no control—as was very evident—of the weather. That frost defied the efforts of man to control. That the accident had taken place not on a sidewalk but at a crossing, which was a much more unstable affair than any board walk. That the plaintiff knew of the state of the crossing and could have avoided. That reasonable repairs had been made, and that many others, using the crossing had, by exercising caution, not fallen. Much of which was true, but had not impressed the jury.

Who Was to Determine.

Let us see what were the points of law involved, for these matters may come up again following some accident on pavement or cement walk. Who knows, for citizens often walk in slippery places.

1st—Was accident of plaintiff caused by negligence or defendant?

2nd—If so, where did such negligence lie?

(a)—In original construction of walk?

(b)—In being allowed to get out of repair?

(c)—Or in both?

3rd—If found that walk was out of repair did defendants have notice of defect in time to remedy defect?

4th—Could the plaintiff by the exercise of reasonable care have avoided the accident?

5th—If plaintiff entitled to receive damages what amount should the jury assess?

The above points of law were argued before the Court, with the result that the decision went against the town. Solicitor for the town at once recommended to Council that the matter should be carried to the Court of Appeal, stating reasons for such action should Council assent, which Council did.

Mr. Edwards was a fighter. Well grounded in law, a keen debater, and able tactician and confident that his arguments would prevail. He had won the case for the town of the Grand Junction Bonus matter, taking it to the Privy Council. But it was arranged that the Mason case should be tried over again, and at Peterborough. In the meantime all kinds of evidence, good, poor, and indifferent was dug up and offered at Court. The second trial came off in the spring of 1893. Again the jury disagreed, in fact making it a close squeak for the town, standing eleven for the plaintiff and one for the town. Mighty near being unanimous for plaintiff.

Further Hostilities Impending.

By this time both sides were on their mettle. The thing had to come to a conclusion, and it was tried out at the following Assizes, before a judge and without a jury. Defendant counsel was confident of his case and willing to take the chances. The town had no other alternative, the presiding judge being Mr. Justice Ferguson. He found for the plaintiff with damages of $750.00.

Again another trial. The town apealed to the Court of Appeal, and the appeal was dismissed.

Further and finally the matter was taken to the Supreme Court at Ottawa, argued out at length, depth, and height, and in the end dismissed, carrying all costs.

The case had been before the Courts for four years. It was said that about everything that could be said about the use of streets, sidewalks, horizontal or perpendicular, broadways or crossways, planks on scantlings and sleepers, planks laid on the ground, the reprehensible indifference of the weather to man's wishes, the callous effect of rain, hail, sleet, snow, and wind, had all been thoroughly ventilated. And in the end the town had to take its medicine. It had gained one impression, that it would, so help it Jeff Davis, keep as far as possible out of law for the future. There was more grief at the excessive cost of lawing in this community at that time than there now is over the cost of the Hunter Street Bridge—and that is some.

The damages sum was fixed at $750.00, and the costs a trifle over 6,000.00. And in the end the popular inquiry was, were our Courts Courts of law or of justice? As the plaintiff won out, we may assume that justice triumphed.

THE EGYPT OF 4,000 YEARS AGO

The beams of an electric torch, first ray of light to penetrate the blackness of an Egyptian tomb, sealed up four thousand years ago, lately revealed a marvellous sight—one of the most important discoveries ever made in Egypt. There just as they had been placed forty centuries ago, against the sides of the rock chamber, lay wooden models of boats, of houses, gardens, cattle, and of scores of human beings, depicting the life of ancient Egypt. And there, towering above the hordes of miniature men and beasts, stood the large wooden figure of an Egyptian woman staring out at the astonished explorers with grave, wide-open eyes. Four thousand years she had stood thus, silent.

The tomb in which this extraordinary find was made was a part of the burial place of an ancient Egyptian noble, Mehenkwetre, whose last resting-place some American archaeologists had received permission from the Egyptian Government to explore. Gone was every vestige of mummy and sarcophagus from the tomb itself, which was cut out of the solid rock, but in the rear the searchers discovered a brick doorway. Removing this they unearthed the wonderful spoils.

Models in Painted Wood.

The largest model is some six feet long and depicts the departed Mehenkwetre sitting with his scribes on a dais under a canopy, while his slaves drive a herd of white and of spotted cattle past him to be counted. The other models are much smaller. One shows a bake-shop with a dozen people at work, kneading bread, making pastry, etc. Another shows a granary in which almost black figures, scantily clad, are measuring and storing the grain which labourers carry in. Another gives a wonderfully life-like portrayal of women spinning flax and others weaving on ground looms. Another shows a slaughterhouse with carcasses on the floor and butchers about to cut them up. A butcher shop in which wooden figures chop and slice the meat and in which the roasts and joints hang from the beams is very realistically done. Fat cattle in a stable, with men feeding them is another subject. Another is a brewery in which ancient makers of beer are filling round-bellied bottles from big jars. The portico of a house opening on a garden, which is furnished with shaded seats, copper tanks for holding water, and with fig and olive trees in which every leaf carved in wood is pegged into place forms another of these marvels.

Nile Boats of Ancient Days.

The collection of funny-looking little cockle-shells of Nile boats—boats crowded with dusky men—is intensely interesting. On one sits Mehenkwetre, on a chair before a tiny cabin of matting, while a woman talks to him and a musician plays on a queer-looking harp. Some of the boats have a small, square sail with array of ropes and backstays. Others are propelled with spear-shaped paddles and guided by enormous paddle rudders. The boats seem to have no holds—only narrow, flat decks on which the half-naked crews crowd between the absurd bows and sterns which twist up into the air like tails of reptiles. On one boat, under a canopy, the noble sits while his men spear fish. Two cockle-shells made of papyrus are shown dragging a seine net between them filled with a marvellous draft of painted wooden catfish and perch.

All these figures, painted and life-like, together with a larger one of Mehenkwetre and two peasant women, were put into his tomb in accordance with the idea that his future life would be like that on earth and that models of his slaves and possessions must go with him.

Finger-prints 1,000 Years Before Abraham.

"Four thousand years is an eternity. Just saying it over and over again gives no conception of the ages that have gone by since that funeral. Stop and think of how far off William the Conqueror seems. That takes you only one-quarter the way back. Julius Caesar takes you halfway back. With Samuel and David you are three-quarters of the way back, but there remains another one thousand years to bridge with your imagination. Yet in this dry, still, dark chamber, those boats and statues have stood, indifferent to all that went on in the outer world, as ancient in the days of Caesar as Caesar is to us, but so little changed that even the finger-prints of the men who put them there were still fresh upon them. Not only fingerprints, but even the fly-specks, cobwebs, and dead spiders. The very threads on the distaffs and spindles—frail as cobwebs when they rested in the noble's house in ancient Thebes before the funeral, for some of them are broken in a way that is difficult to explain. Possibly this is a wild guess, but at any rate there is no doubt of what happened to them in the little chamber in the tomb on the day of the funeral. After all the models had been stored away and the masons had come to brick up the doorway they found one of the boats in their way. So one of them picked it up and laid it on one side on top of the model granary and under bow and stern he left a great smear of the mud he had just been mixing for mortar. There those little smears still remain."

The little models had to be parted after all their ages together. Half of them went to the Egyptian Government, under the terms of the American concession, and are now on view in the museum at Cairo. The others are to be seen in the Metropolitan Museum, New York.

A May Day Proposal

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—I have read with interest the letter of Mr. J. A. Dodds. I have little doubt that every interest involved will be inclined at first to oppose my proposal where it affects that particular interest, and there may be inconsistencies in it. They are not there purposely ,and no one will be better pleased than myself to have them pointed out and eliminated. The proposal is made to meet an emergency. The 10 hour day is putforward not in order to get a 10 hour day back again for keeps. My thought is that the man could better afford to take a reduction in the form of doing more work for the daily wage of last year than to do the same amount of work for less actual money. It must be one or the other in the face of present conditions; or only one other alternative—an increasing number of men unemployed, in all probability for a whole year, at the end of which the reductions spoken of may be in actual effect.

The reduction in rent is probably too low. Perhaps it should be increased to 10 or 15 p.c. To the landlord who refuses to co-operate by a reduction of rent to men who pitch in and do their best in the face of an admittedly grave industrial situation, I would point out that he may easily lose more than 10 or 15 p.c. in inability to collect rent from men who are willing to work at a reduced wage and cannot get work to do. Public opinion would not stand for these men being turned out on the streets because they cannot pay the present rentals—and public opinion is a mighty bad thing to run up against. I am no worshipper of the percentages put forward in my proposal. They can be adjusted. No one man has the necessary knowledge to lay down percentages which will be fair and just all round.. I certainly do not flatter myself that I have that knowledge, but the idea of every one doing his bit NOW in order to ward off the spectre of increasing unemployment right through the summer and on into next winter is sound and that is the heart of my "May Day proposal." I did not think that the production per hour had decreased 25 p.c. since 1914 as Mr. Dodds suggests. If it has that alone surely creates a grave situation. All that I suggested, however, was that the workers would do their best. Why I applied my idea to the building problem was because it is a local and pressing problem.

The building trades will, I am sure, recognize the fact that the extra 2 hours work a day would not be entirely without financial returns. They would get financial compensation for at least one-half hour per day from the start in concessions from the landlords and merchants if they have the insight to play the game. They would probably get compensation for 3-4 of an hour per day—leaving them to make a contribution of only 1 1-4 hours per day, and the effect if one hundred houses were built this year would go into the years ahead—to say nothing of what it would mean in health and happiness to have the present congestion removed even to the extent of one hundred additional houses.

Think through the scheme before you condemn it. Working men especially should do this, because if something is not done the working men will suffer out of all proportion to the rest of the population. Criticize the proposal constructively, because the more constructive criticism it gets the better for all of us.

A Citizen of Peterborough.

One of the clauses in the "May Day Proposal," as suggested by a citizen in a letter to the Examiner, was as follows:

"The general merchants to come forward with a declaration that they will give a small discount on sales to the men, and the families of men, who will meet the requirements of items one and two in this proposal (to readust wages and hours by working men and to stimulate building by price concessions from lumbermen) and to the men and their families who commence the erection of a house and undertake to complete it before May 1, 1922."

Speaking as one of the leading grocers of Peterborough, Mr. E. F. Mason stated that the grocery trade in this city was trying to meet the wishes of the people by taking considerable losses in many lines.

Like an Auction Market.

"This proposal suggests a small discount to men who accept the first clauses and in other sections it speaks of a ten per cent. reduction in prices of other materials. I may say that grocers have already gone well beyond a ten per cent. cut in prices," Mr. Mason remarked. "I saw a letter from Vancouver the other day from a man who evidently received a Peterboro paper. He wrote that according to the grocery advertisements in the Peterboro Examiner the grocers here were running off their goods as if they were in an auction market, and that they were trying to cut below each other's prices to get business. I may further say that grocers in the towns and villages around Peterborough are complaining about the prices the local grocers are quoting to the consumers."

More than 10 Per Cent.

These are facts the people in this city may not fully realize, but this May Day proposal gives an opportunity of assuring them that the grocers are materially reducing prices. In the cash and carry stores (and I speak particularly of the Grocerteria) we are going beyond the ten per cent. reduction suggested in the May Day proposal. We anticipated from the employment situation that many persons would be out of work, and that others were facing lower wages, and we are doing all we can, even taking considerable losses, which we have not been saying anything about, in order that we might give the public the lowest possible prices."

Mr. Mason confidentially showed the Examiner the costs of some of the special grocery bargains offered this week as proof of the foregoing statements, and concluded with the opinion that the grocers (some of them at least) had not waited for A May Day Proposal but on their own initiative were taking losses and reductions just as other tradesmen and workers were doing.

Epidemic of Fires

raging throughout the country. Every hour of the day and night THE TORCH OF CARELESSNESS brings destruction to somebody's property in Ontario.

Fire is a good servant but a bad master. It ruthlessly kills, maims and destroys thousands of lives and many millions of dollars' worth of our substance annually.

This destruction can be largely prevented by correcting hazardous conditions; such as disorder, accumulation of rubbish and litter, carelessness, defective equipment, faulty construction, and insufficient protection. The boys and girls of the Province are going to inspect our homes.

Help them to PREVENT FIRES BY REMOVING THE CAUSE. It will make you healthier, happier and more prosperous, and aid the housing situation.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 28.— (Canadian Press.) — Selling of railroad shares was resumed at the opening of to-day's stock market as a result of yesterday's cut in the Pennsylvania dividend. Atchison, Pennsylvania, St. Paul, Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific were lower by fractions to a point. Motors and affiliated specialties were heavy, Willis Overland preferred losing 1 1-2 points and Bosch Magneto three poitns. Oils, shippings and some of the independent Steels featured the firmer issues. Preliminary foreign exchange rates on London were not materially altered, despite the unexpected reduction of the discount rate announced by the Bank of England.

Pressure against rails relaxed after early dealings and the market steadied on further buying of Oils and Motors. Royal Dutch, Shell Trading, General Asphalt, Studebaker, Pierce Arrow and Chandler showed extreme gains of 1 to 1-2 points and Bethlehem and Republic Steels one to 1 1-2. Baldwin Locomotive, American Woollen, United Fruit and Sears Roebuck made similar additions to the advance. Before noon, however, Mexican Petroleum became the centre of a concerted drive, reacting 3 1-2 points to an actual overnight loss of 2 1-2 and causing sharp reversals elsewhere. The local money market held firm with call loans at 6 1-2 per cent.

Bull pools became aggressively active in Studebaker and International Paper at mid-day. Studebaker rose almost six points to 92 1-4, the highest price of the year, and International Paper rose almost four points. Rails threw off their early apathy. Pacifics and Coalers rising one to 1 3-4 points.

Oils, Chemicals and Equipments, at gains of one to three points, were prominent features of the final hour, but prices eased before the end on call money's rise to 7 per cent. The closing was irregular.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, April 28.— (Canadian Press.)—The feature of the local market this morning was Riordan, which established a new low by dropping a further six and a half points to 25 at which figure it closed. Abitibi was strong and advanced to 32, while Brompton regained its half point drop. National Breweries closed fractionally weaker at 42. Spanish River remained quiet at 68. Wayagamack strengthened half a point and closed firm.

OTTAWA, April 28.— (Canadian Press.)— According to advices received here from the Canadian Trade Commissioners in Great Britain, the initial shipments of live fat cattle to England and Scotland have proved very successful. Glowing reports have been received regarding the shipment of Canadian and United States steers from Toronto to Glasgow, while shipments to Liverpool have been equally fortunate, according to reports.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Riordan established a new low record in trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, falling two points from its close last night to 29. The stock was weak all morning with the noon quotation today at its lowest mark. Abitibi continued its seige again, moving up 1 1-2 points to 31 3-4, while Spanish River showed a fractional gain at 68. Brazilian was the most prominent stock in point of activity, over five hundred shares changing hands, the issue at the noon close showing a loss of 7-8 at 29 7-8. Ford Motor appeared selling at 327.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 28.— (Canadian Press.) — Sterling exchange firm, Demand 3.94 3-4. Canadian Dollars 10 7-8 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 28.—(Canadian Press.)—Wheat prices had a downward slant to-day, influenced somewhat by the fact that the weather and crop reports were considered favorable on the whole. Unsettled conditions between Germany and the Allies tended also to depress values. Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 3-4 lower were followed by down turns all around and minor transient rallies.

Corn reflected the weakness of wheat. After opening 1-8 to 5-8 lower the market underwent a general setback. Oats were easier with other cereals, starting unchanged to 1-2 off and later descending a little more. Provisions were lower as well as grain despite an upturn in the hog market.

BANK OF ENGLAND LOWERS RATE.

LONDON, April 28. — Canadian Press.) The announcement was made at the Bank of England this morning that the Bank rate had been reduced to 6 1-2 per cent from 7 per cent. The reduction was a concession to the traders and the advocates of cheaper money and came somewhat unexpectedly at this time.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

Take Notice That:

1. The Corporation of the Council of the City of Peterborough intends to pave as local improvements, the following streets between the points herein described and to assess part of the cost on the lands abutting directly upon the said works respectively.

MOTHERS, BE CAREFUL

Much of the trouble in weaning the baby is developed by the use of a cheap and unsanitary nipple. The NOBILITY nipple is sterilized and is sanitary, transparent and non-collapsible. It is put up in a separate box with a red band on each nipple. You will meet with the doctor's approval if baby uses NOBILITY nipple. t t s.

GOSPEL HALL NOTES.

The passage read last night was Hebrews 2:11-18. The subject was "Christ our High Priest."

1. The necessity of the Incarnation is set forth in these words, "It behooved Him to be made like unto His brethren." Any person can grasp the self-evident fact that the Lord Jesus must take human form if Salvation was to be accomplished.

2. As High Priest the Lord Jesus is designated "merciful" and "faithful." He was merciful to the sinner by becoming man and dying for us the Lord Jesus manifested mercy. He was "faithful" also; that is, true or faithful to God.

3. He made propiation. The phrase "to make reconciliation for the sins of the people" is better rendered "to make propiation." Most of us are too careless in our use of biblical phrases. Take for instance, "atonement," "propitiation" and "reconciliation." Probably the majority of persons mix them up, as if they all meant one and the same thing. But let us notice the exact meaning and application of these words which set forth fundamental truths. "Atonement" is really an Old Testament word, setting forth an Old Testament doctrine. True enough "atonement' is found in Romans 5:11: "We have received the atonement." The margin, however, gives the proper rendering "reconciliation." That which the believing sinner receives is not atonement but reconciliation; and reconciliation means admittance to God's favor. Atonement in the Old Testament means to cover ,and the word is "caphar." Sins in the Old Testament were atoned, that is, they were covered, but not put away. In fact Hebrews 10:4 affirms the impossibility of sins being taken away by the sacrifices of the Old Testament. It remained therefore for the Lord Jesus to become man, go to the cross, offer Himself as a sacrifice for sin ,and thus take away sin. John the Baptist said, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." This is exactly what Jesus Christ has done. He has taken away sin in the sense of bearing the judgment due to sin.

The classical passage which sets forth propitiation is Romans 3:25-26. There we find the following facts:

1. God has set forth (fore-ordained) Christ as a propitiation, i.e., as mercy seat or meeting place.

2. Therein God declares His righteousness in passing over the sins that are past. God when He passed over the sins of the Old Testament saints did it with a view to these sins being dealt with at the Cross.

3. God is now Just and the Justifier of all who believe in Jesus.

To-night Dr. A. B. Miller's subject will be "Can a Believer in Jesus Christ fall away and Perish Eternally?" Service begins at 8 p.m.

SPORT COMMENT

Men, like race horses, are pretty apt to be guided by form. Consider the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. Those whose sympathies sway towards the lithe Frenchman would do well to consider the chart of preceding fights. Dempsey is bigger, stronger, and as fast as Carpentier. He is younger and a heavier hitter. Carpentier has beaten a few second-rates like Levinsky and Beckett. There is one thing stands out in the Frenchman's favor. H has a rapier-like attack with his left hand. There are many keen judges who think that Tommy Gibbons, Bill Brennan and some of the lesser lights of the fistic world would pummel the French flash all over the canvas. Sympathies are with the Frenchie, but there won't be many bags of "easy money" striding on his chances.

The report that Ontario is going to discard the beaver off its coat-of-arms in favor of the camel is said to be Liberty League propaganda.

Now that the "drys" have won, some of the far-seeing citizenry are going to stock up what is left of their cellars with cigarettes and tobacco,.

They seem to show more class and go than former Bruin clans,
And their leader says they'll triumph if they carry out his plans.

The Dodgers are contenders, all the fans of Brooklyn swear.
They're ready for the contests and will win more than their share.
They'll win the flag this summer, all their followers declare.

For them to win the Series tin is merely A, B, C.
The Giants are contenders, as the Giants ought to be.

The Phillies are contenders, Philadelphia bugs aver.
They're on their toes, as the saying goes, and bound to make a stir.
They swear, by heck, they'll be on deck, whatever may occur!

Yes, all are now contenders, the strong teams and the weak.
But many a pennant prospect when the autumn winds are bleak
Will curl up 'neath the buffets it receives upon the beak.

Tryster, undefeated as a two-year-old last season, went to the post for the first time this year in a mile handicap at Havre De Grace on Saturday, and was beaten by Paul Jones on a sloppy track. Tryster was ridden by Clarence Kummer, the lad who piloted Man o' War in the majority of that horse's famous races last year, and showed a great exhibition of gameness. He was on the outside all the way and made a great effort to catch the leader, but tired in the race to the wire. Tryster was a heavy favorite, with the winner second choice. Tryster had been favorite for the Kentucky Derby in the winter betting, and Saturday's defeat may affect his odds somewhat.
